Sarah Lehner is pursuing an MAT in the School of Theology, with a focus on Christian Ethics and Church History. She has a B.A. in Political Science from Bethel College in St. Paul, Minnesota, and has worked on political campaigns in Minnesota state elections.

Chad Pecknold is a former Aide to the Chaplain of the United States Senate. After completing his MAT in June, he will begin doctorate work in doctrinal theology at Oxford University.

Lewis Smedes is Professor Emeritus of Theology and Ethics, and the distinguished author of many books about "everyday ethics," including Forgive and Forget and Love Within Limits. He taught at Fuller for 25 years, as professor of theology and ethics in the School of Theology, and as professor of theology and integrative studies in the School of Psychology.

Robert Johnston has served as Professor of Theology and Culture since 1993. He is an ordained minister in the Evangelical Covenant Church, and is the author of several books on evangelical theology, and the interface between theology and American culture. He is forthcoming book on theology and film, Reel Spirituality, will be published by Baker Books.
We would like to express our thanks to the following groups for their interest and support: The African-American Studies Program, the Multi-Cultural Concerns Committee, the Peace and Justice Concerns Committee, the Office of Development, the Office of Church and Alumni Relations, and the Office of the President.
