WE NEED YOUR OPINION!

The Seminary has set aside Wednesdays during the chapel hour to give the Fuller Community an opportunity to worship, grow, and be united in our Lord together. The All-Seminary Council of Fuller Theological Seminary wishes to express commitment to this community effort on behalf of the student body. On October 6, 1981, the A.S.C. approved a motion to support the Seminary-wide attempts to respect community chapel services by suspending all A.S.C. related activities and positions of employment. Because the Catalyst is an A.S.C. sponsored service, it has not been serving food during this one hour period on Wednesdays, although the building itself has remained open for student use.

It has come to the attention of the A.S.C. that some students are in disagreement with this decision. Thus, it has been decided to poll student opinion in an attempt to determine the majority feeling on this matter. YOUR OPINION is very much needed.

Please respond to the following, and return to Box #92.

NEW ARRIVALS AT THE BOOKSTORE include:

C. Peter Wagner, Church Growth and the Whole Gospel (Harper & Row)--in his latest contribution to the church growth movement, Dr. Wagner summarizes its 25-year history, responds to current criticisms, and presents a "position paper" on the relation of contemporary social ministries to church growth teaching.

Biblical Studies

Andrew T. Lincoln, Paradise Now and Not Yet: Studies in the Role of the Heavenly Dimension in Paul's Thought with Special Reference to His Eschatology, SNTSMS 43 (Cambridge)--a neglected aspect of Paul's thought is explored in this monograph, which delves into Paul's Jewish background, his encounter with the heavenly Christ and his attempts to mold the thoughts of his converts.

Church History

James Hennessy, American Catholics: A History of the Roman Catholic Community in the United States (Oxford)--while not neglecting structures and institutions, this well-known Catholic historian concerns himself especially with the ordinary people of the Roman Catholic Church, where they came from and how their environment in America affected their beliefs.

Philosophy

Thomas McCarthy, The Critical Theory of Jurgen Habermas (MIT)--a paperback edition of this coherent synopsis of Habermas's sprawling theoretical edifice.

James R. Moore, The Post-Darwinian Controversies: A Study of the Protestant Struggle to Come to Terms with Darwin in Great Britain and America, 1870-1900 (Cambridge)--in a thorough study of the interaction between science and theology resulting from Darwin's theories, the author discovers that paradoxically Darwin's views were accepted in substance only by those whose theology was distinctly orthodox.

Augustine Brannigan, The Social Basis of Scientific Discoveries (Cambridge)--after analyzing the approaches of scholars such as Kuhn, Hanson, Polanyi and Koestler, the author proposes an alternative sociological approach which draws attention to the processes whereby certain achievements are recognized and labelled as discoveries.

Missions and Comparative Religion

Martin Lange and Reinhold Iblacker, Witnesses of Hope: The Persecution of Christians in Latin America (Orbis)--an eye-opening account of the suffering, struggle and martyrdom of Christians in the third world.

Henri Maspero, Taoism and Chinese Religion (University of Massachusetts)--rejecting the idea that Confucianism was the philosophy of the majority of ancient Chinese, the great French sinologist offers a classic treatment of the practice and form of Taoism.
Ministry

Lawrence O. Richards and Gib Martin, A Theology of Personal Ministry: Spiritual Giftedness in the Local Church (Zondervan) -- a contemporary theology of the laity which tries to show how the church's identity as the people of God leads its members to personal ministries.

John R. McMurphy, Daycare and Preschool Handbook for Churches (Christian Herald) -- everything you need to know to establish and operate a nursery school or daycare program as a ministry of your local church.

Marriage and Family

Murray M. Kappelman and Paul R. Ackerman, Parents After Thirty (Wideview) -- the first complete guide for those couples who have waited until they are in their thirties to have their first child.

Karen Lindsey, Friends as Family (Beacon) -- the author shows how making emotional commitments outside the traditional family can be deeply satisfying.

Robert May, Sex and Fantasy: Patterns of Male and Female Development (Wideview) -- through the study of fantasy the author argues that the significant psychological differences between the sexes profoundly influence growth and development, our view of the world, our character traits and our inner life.

Mary Ann Spencer Pulaski, Your Baby's Mind and How It Grows: Piaget's Theory for Parents (Harper & Row) -- this influential theory of childhood development from birth to three years is made available to the average parent.

Mark W. Lee, Time Bombs in Marriage: How to Detect and Defuse Them (Christian Herald) -- problems dealt with include unmet expectations and wistfulness, the interference of children, the clash of individual temperaments, the lazy partner, and husband/wife exploitation.

Darlene McRoberts, Family Fare: Christian Activities for Every Season of the Year (Augsburg) -- ideas for celebrating holidays, planning family vacation activities and keeping your children busy in the summer.
