Statement

The provisions of this publication are not to be regarded as the irrevocable terms of the contract between the student and Fuller Theological Seminary. Changes are effected from time to time in the general regulations and in the academic requirements. There are established procedures for making changes, procedures which protect the Seminary's integrity and the individual student's interest and welfare. A curriculum or graduation requirement, when altered, is not made retroactive unless the alteration is to the student's advantage and can be accommodated within the span of years normally required for graduation. When the actions of a student are judged by competent authority, using established procedure, to be detrimental to the interest of the Seminary community, that person may be required to withdraw from the Seminary.

Fuller Theological Seminary actively subscribes to a policy of equal education and employment opportunity for all people regardless of race, age, color, national origin, or political affiliation.

Fuller Theological Seminary, in compliance with Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, does not discriminate on the basis of sex in admission, treatment of students, or employment.

Fuller Theological Seminary, in line with Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, does not discriminate on the basis of handicap in admission or access to, or treatment or employment in, its programs and activities.

THE MINISTRY OF FULLER

The Purpose

Fuller Theological Seminary, embracing the Schools of Theology, Psychology and World Mission, is an evangelical, multidenominational, international and multiethnic community dedicated to the preparation of men and women for the manifold ministries of Christ and his Church. Under the authority of Scripture it seeks to fulfill its commitment to ministry through graduate education, professional development and spiritual formation. In all of its activities, including instruction, nurture, worship, service, research and publication, Fuller Theological Seminary strives for excellence in the service of Jesus Christ, under the guidance and power of the Holy Spirit, to the glory of the Father.

The Mission Beyond The Mission

Beyond the immediate purpose of the nurture and training of students for the ministries of Christ, the faculty and Board of Trustees of Fuller Theological Seminary see a further mission. In 1983, they adopted a statement entitled “The Mission Beyond The Mission,” which sets forth the vision that will give further direction to the Seminary’s planning and priorities. The statement is organized around five imperatives:

Imperative One: Go and make disciples
Imperative Two: Call the church of Christ to renewal
Imperative Three: Work for the moral health of society
Imperative Four: Seek peace and justice in the world Imperative Five: Uphold the truth of God’s revelation

Committees composed of faculty, trustees, and student representatives have prepared recommendations on some of the ways in which Fuller’s responses to these imperatives can be implemented in the life and ministry of the Seminary. These recommendations form an important part of the Seminary’s long-range planning process.

The Characteristics

Fuller Theological Seminary’s unique contribution to the church is reflected in the union of its three faculties. In this union, psychology and world mission join with theology to effect the biblical mandate of bringing persons throughout the world to maturity in Christ through every language and culture. As an educational arm of the church, Fuller’s three graduate schools seek to serve the body of Christ in its worldwide ministry, combining these emphases in the type of training they provide.

Evangelical Commitment

The Fuller Theological Seminary community—trustees, faculty, staff and students—believe that Jesus Christ, as revealed in the Holy Scripture and proclaimed in the power of the Holy Spirit, is the only ground for a person’s reconciliation to God. The Statement of Faith on page 9 elaborates this commitment. The Seminary assumes, then, a commitment to:

1. An evangelical fervor which flows out of an emphasis on the character of God himself;
2. The practice of evangelism in every culture of the world;
3. A constant engagement with Scripture, testing all things by it;
4. Engagement in responsible Christian community through corporate worship and mutual supporting love in the bonds of the grace of Christ;
5. Godly living; Christlikeness in word and deed;
6. Confidence in the unity of God’s truth in its application to the spiritual, psychological and cultural development of men and women.

Academic Excellence

The trustees and faculty of Fuller are committed to achieving and maintaining the highest academic standards in teaching, research and writing. In the quest for academic quality, we assume that there will exist:

1. A commitment to increase and strengthen the quality of teaching in the classroom—through funding and supporting innovative programs—through varied teaching models—through careful evaluation and feedback;
2. A rigorous program of research and writing to provide literary leadership for the church;
3. Interaction with non-evangelical viewpoints;
4. A commitment to maintain the highest possible standards of responsible academic freedom;
5. A commitment to flexibility in curriculum design—to allow room for innovation and growth—to recognize individual needs and specialized ministries;
6. A commitment to the best of theological traditions;
7. An academic program which will encourage and foster the spiritual formation of the individual;
8. Recognition by regional and professional accrediting agencies
   —Western Association of Schools and Colleges —Association of Theological Schools
   —American Psychological Association
   —Commission on Marriage and Family Therapy Education.

Professional Competence
The Seminary is committed to an academically and professionally qualified faculty whose appointments and advancements are dependent upon potential and acknowledged competence in teaching, writing and professional practice. These standards assume:
1. A willingness to invest in the growth of persons both within the context of the Seminary and outside its walls —personally
   —professionally
   —spiritually;
2. A commitment to relate productively with local congregations —in support of local pastors by offering workshops and other services to enhance their ministry —in a continued and expanded use of local churches for fieldwork experience —in keeping local churches informed of Fuller’s ministries —in listening to the local churches’ articulation of their ministry and needs;
3. An ability to serve the church in the area of research —by keeping abreast of the times
   —by initiating new programs in order to meet present and future needs
   —by coordinating efforts within the three schools to optimize the application of their unique resources;
4. A commitment to provide professional training of the highest quality for the varied ministries within the church —incorporating practical ‘in-ministry’ experience —stressing the importance of preaching and other means of communication —recognizing the effect of culture on the ministry of the church;
5. A concern for the highest standards of professional competence for men and women engaged in ministry outside of the organized church —in the healing ministry of clinical psychology —in the caring ministry of social agencies —in the teaching ministry of educational institutions.

Multidenominational Breadth
The trustees and faculty of Fuller Theological Seminary are pledged to serve the entire church of Jesus Christ in its various expressions whether congregational, denominational or multidenominational. While maintaining a multidenominational structure, Fuller encourages its students to work within existing church organizations. In reflecting this approach, the Seminary assumes the following:
1. Strong denominational participation by individual trustees and faculty members;
2. Encouragement for students to serve the church organization that nurtured them;
3. The preparation of men and women for ministry in their own church organizations, recognizing the distinctives of each denomination or organization;
4. A commitment to be ecumenical in church relationships;
5. An emphasis on preaching, evangelism, Christian nurture and church discipline through which unity is expressed.

Vocational Diversity
In order to meet the demands of the church today, the trustees and faculty of Fuller Theological Seminary take seriously the apostolic description of the church’s nature—one body, many members. For this reason, the programs of the three schools and the continuing education programs are designed to provide training for a wide range of Christian service. This attitude toward diversity assumes the following:
1. A diversity of gifts and ministries to be exercised with awareness of the unity of the body and dependence upon the head, Jesus Christ
2. A variety of programs designed to prepare men and women for the general and specialized ministries identified by the church —pastors
   —staff ministries
   —missionaries
   —clinical psychologists
   —youth ministers
   —administrators
   —research psychologists
   —professors
   —chaplains
   —campus ministers
   —Christian educators
   —counselors
   —evangelists
   —marriage and family therapists
   —social workers;
3. A correspondence between the enrollment in each program and placement opportunities —responding to the church’s request for ministers with specifically defined training (e.g., preaching, Christian education, family ministries, administration) —observing the growing need for mission training, particularly at the professional level
—addressing the continued need for clinical psychologists and marriage and family therapists;
4. The offering of extension courses in theological education to allow laypersons, many of whom are already involved in vocational service, to strengthen skills in Christian ministry;
5. The opportunity for in-service training which provides both academic stimulus and spiritual growth.

Personal Maturity
The trustees and faculty of Fuller Theological Seminary believe that the church of Christ must minister to the whole person. Emotional healing in Christian perspective is the particular goal of the Graduate School of Psychology, but the aim is shared by the two other faculties as well. The ultimate objective is that every Fuller graduate be equipped to model as well as foster in others a personal maturity which is demonstrated by loving service to others and responsible Christian discipleship. In developing and nurturing spiritual and emotional maturity, we assume there will exist:
1. An investment by the Seminary in the personal, the professional and the spiritual development of each of its members —in time and availability
   —in resources
   —in services provided
   —in participatory governance;
2. The opportunity for all students to participate in supportive community —for social development
   —for spiritual formation;
3. Easy accessibility to the counseling services offered on campus;
4. A commitment to strengthen marriage and family life while affiriming the value of singleness.

Social Concern
The trustees and faculty of Fuller Theological Seminary have a deep-seated concern to demonstrate and to evoke a quality of discipleship which applies the biblical norms of love and justice in all human relationships. This regard for social justice assumes that the following will be evident:
1. A biblically shaped perspective in the question of the relationship between evangelism, social concern and the Christian's mission in the world;
2. Course offerings which encompass cross-cultural studies, problems of church and state, and aspects of social ethics, as well as social work, family guidance and mental health services;
3. Opportunities in internships and field education that confront students with the massive problems thrust upon them by our urban society;
4. A reflection in all areas of Seminary organization of a significant minority involvement —in the Black, Hispanic and Asian Ministries programs within the School of Theology; —supported through a central office organized specifically for women's concerns.

Local and International Perspective
The Seminary community is dedicated to the task of proclaiming the gospel both in its local setting in Pasadena and throughout the world. This commitment assumes that there exists:
1. A need for an evangelical, multidisciplinary seminary on the West Coast —with a continued location in Pasadena —ministering in the changing multicultural population of Southern California;
2. A concern not only to share the gospel with those outside the Seminary but also to implant a missionary vision within the life of every Fuller student;
3. A dedication to the growth of the church in every culture of the world confronted with rapid change and unrest.

Interdisciplinary Endeavor
The faculty of Fuller is committed to an integration of ideas, research and programming in the areas of theology, missiology and psychology. The faculty assumes that there will be:
1. A need to strengthen the theological foundations of such an integration to give it an enduring viability;
2. A need to strengthen the social science foundation upon which integration rests to give it greater scientific credibility;
3. A growing recognition that the resources of psychology and theology may, if combined, provide new and more effective remedies for many human problems that exist;
4. A commitment to the integration of theological and social science insights in the development of missiology;
5. A need for academic, professional and personal preparation for training in these new disciplines;
6. A requirement for an academic community in which scholars from all three disciplines can generate, through research and theorizing, a new body of literature to promote integration.

Responsible Stewardship
The Seminary community is committed to a responsible stewardship of its intraorganizational processes, facilities and financial resources. This assumes that there will be:
1. An endeavor toward development into an organization that accomplishes its mission while it fulfills the lives of its members;
2. Continued leadership training by the Seminary to meet the needs of the church;
3. A periodic reconsideration and refining of the Seminary's intraorganizational processes to ensure greater efficiency and fulfillment of its goals;
4. A recognition that all planning for facilities should take into consideration that —our needs will change
—the scale of our operations will change
—the situation in which we work and live will change
—we will change
—there will be an intermingling of user functions on campus.

The Distinctives Of Each School

In addition to sharing in and contributing to these characteristics, each school has its own distinctive which describe the specific nature of its ministry:

School of Theology
1. Preparing men and women academically, vocationally and spiritually for the ministries of the church;
2. Engaging in the research and publication essential to the increase of theological insight.

School of Psychology
1. Training Christian men and women to serve in the areas of teaching, research, clinical practice, and family therapy;
2. Exploring the interrelationship between theology and psychology;
3. Pursuing and publishing research in the areas of clinical, general and experimental psychology, the psychology of religion, and family therapy.

School of World Mission
Engaging in research and publication concerning mission with special emphasis on:
1. Communication of the gospel;
2. Planting and developing churches throughout the world;
3. Teaching missionaries and other leaders of the church what can be learned from research;
4. Stressing the biblical basis, authority and norm of mission and church growth.

Statement Of Faith

Doctrinally the institution stands for the fundamentals of the faith as taught in Holy Scripture and handed down by the Church. Consistent with this purpose, the faculty and trustees of the Seminary acknowledge the creeds of the early church and the confessions of the Protestant communions to which they severally belong, and, among recent evangelical statements, the Lausanne Covenant (1974). Under God, and subject to biblical authority, they also bear concerted witness to the following articles, to which they subscribe, and which they hold to be essential to their ministry.

I. God has revealed himself to be the living and true God, perfect in love and righteous in all his ways; one in essence, existing eternally in the three persons of the Trinity: Father, Son and Holy Spirit.

II. God, who discloses himself through his creation, has savingly spoken in the words and events of redemptive history. This history is fulfilled in Jesus Christ, the incarnate Word, who is made known to us by the Holy Spirit in sacred Scripture.

III. Scripture is an essential part and trustworthy record of this divine self-disclosure. All the books of the Old and New Testaments, given by divine inspiration, are the written word of God, the only infallible rule of faith and practice. They are to be interpreted according to their context and purpose and in reverent obedience to the Lord who speaks through them in living power.

IV. God, by his Word and for his glory, freely created the world of nothing. He made man and woman in his own image, as the crown of creation, that they might have fellowship with him. Tempted by Satan, they rebelled against God. Being estranged from their Maker, yet responsible to him, they became subject to divine wrath, inwardly depraved, and, apart from grace, incapable of returning to God.

V. The only Mediator between God and humankind is Christ Jesus our Lord, God's eternal Son, who, being conceived by the Holy Spirit and born of the Virgin Mary, fully shared and fulfilled our humanity in a life of perfect obedience. By his death in our stead, he revealed the divine love and upheld divine justice, removing our guilt and reconciling us to God. Having redeemed us from sin, the third day he rose bodily from the grave, victorious over death and the powers of darkness. He ascended into heaven where, at God's right hand, he intercedes for his people and rules as Lord over all.

VI. The Holy Spirit, through the proclamation of the gospel, renews our hearts, persuading us to repent of our sins and confess Jesus as Lord. By the same Spirit we are led to trust in divine mercy, whereby we are forgiven all our sins, justified by faith alone through the merit of Christ our Savior and granted the free gift of eternal life.

VII. God graciously adopts us into his family and enables us to call him Father. As we are led by the Spirit, we grow in the knowledge of the Lord, freely keeping his commandments and endeavoring so to live in the world that all may see our good works and glorify our Father who is in heaven.
VIII. God, by his Word and Spirit, creates the one holy catholic and apostolic church, calling sinners out of the whole human race into the fellowship of Christ's body. By the same Word and Spirit, he guides and preserves for eternity that new, redeemed humanity, which, being formed in every culture, is spiritually one with the people of God in all ages.

IX. The church is summoned by Christ to offer acceptable worship to God and to serve him by preaching the gospel and making disciples of all nations, by tending the flock through the ministry of the word and sacraments and through daily pastoral care, by striving for social justice and by relieving human distress and need.

X. God's redemptive purpose will be consummated by the return of Christ to raise the dead, to judge all people according to the deeds done in the body and to establish his glorious kingdom. The wicked shall be separated from God's presence, but the righteous, in glorious bodies, shall live and reign with him forever. Then shall the eager expectation of creation be fulfilled and the whole earth shall proclaim the glory of God who makes all things new.

The History

The Founding. The founding of Fuller Theological Seminary resulted from the combination of the dreams of two well-known evangelical leaders, Charles E. Fuller, famous radio evangelist, and Arnold Grunigen of San Francisco, Dr. R. Wilbur M. Smith. Trustees Herbert J. Taylor of Harrison, Carl F. H. Henry, Harold John Ockenga, pastor of the Park Street Church, Boston. In Dr. Ockenga, Dr. Fuller found one who not only shared his zeal for evangelism and mission, but one whose academic achievements suited him well for a role in founding a theological seminary.

In May, 1947, the two men and four other evangelical scholars met in downtown Chicago for a time of seeking God's will concerning the feasibility of launching a new theological seminary. So strong was the spirit of prayer that the participants were convinced that God was indeed leading them into this venture of faith, and Fuller Theological Seminary was launched. As the result of announcements made on the "Old Fashioned Revival Hour" that summer, 39 students enrolled in the first entering class in the fall of 1947. Charter members of the faculty were Drs. Everett F. Harrison, Carl F. H. Henry, Harold Lindsell and Wilbur M. Smith. Trustees Herbert J. Taylor of Chicago, Arnold Grunigen of San Francisco, Dr. R. C. Logefeil of Minneapolis, together with Drs. Ockenga and Fuller (chairman), formed the founding Board of Trustees.

The Seminary was named after Henry Fuller, a devout Christian layman who actively supported many Christian causes in this country and overseas.

The Early Years. For the next six years, the Seminary was housed in the buildings of the Lake Avenue Congregational Church of Pasadena. During this time, it grew to a student body of 250 and a faculty of 15, with 152 graduates. In the fall of 1953, the Seminary moved to its present location and a suitable building which had been constructed specifically for its use.

The Presidents. By making frequent flights from Boston to Pasadena, Dr. Ockenga served as President until 1954, when Edward John Carnell was appointed the first resident presiding officer. Dr. Ockenga became the chairman of the Board of Trustees, and Dr. Fuller, honorary chairman. A number of notable advances were made during Dr. Carnell's five years as president, among which were receiving full accreditation by the American Association of Theological Schools in December 1957, the addition of several key faculty and board members, and an increase in student enrollment to over 300, with 524 graduates.

President Carnell resigned his position in 1959 to give himself fully to teaching and writing, and Dr. Ockenga again became president. During his second term (1959-1963) the McAlister Library was completed.

In 1963 the Board of Trustees appointed David Allan Hubbard to the office of president. A Fuller graduate (B.D., Th.M.), Dr. Hubbard had proved his potential for Christian leadership through doctoral studies at St. Andrews University in Scotland, a professorship at Westmont College, Santa Barbara, and a widespread college conference ministry. Major advancements under President Hubbard's guidance included the introduction of the core curriculum, the inauguration of the Doctor of Ministry (D.Min.) and the Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D.) in the School of Theology, and the founding of the Schools of Psychology and World Mission. Accreditation for the three schools by the Western Association of Theological Schools was received in 1969.

The School of Psychology. In May 1961, Dr. John G. Finch, consulting psychologist from Tacoma, Washington, delivered a series of lectures at the Seminary on the theological and psychological dimensions of man. Dr. Finch's vision sparked the idea for a School of Psychology parallel in theory and training to the School of Theology.

Through the interest and generosity of a trustee of Fuller Theological Seminary, Mr. C. Davis Weyerhaeuser, and Mrs. Weyerhaeuser, further study and planning for the school was made possible. A steering committee, consisting of distinguished psychiatrists, psychologists and theologians, was formed in 1962 to work with nationally-known authorities in psychology. In November, 1964, the opening of the Pasadena Community Counseling Center, under the direction of Dr. Donald F. Tweedie, Jr., initiated the first phase of the new program. A strategic three-year grant totaling $125,000 from Lilly Endowment, Inc., in...
Charles E. Fuller, Founder

1964 enabled Fuller to plan on accepting students for the 1965-66 school year.

Dr. Lee Edward Travis was appointed dean of the School of Psychology in the fall of 1964 and assumed his duties in January 1965. That September, 25 full-time and four part-time students, a faculty of six, a visiting faculty of five and one post-doctoral fellow initiated the program of the new school. In December of 1972, the American Psychological Association granted approval to the doctoral program in clinical psychology (Ph.D.) of the Graduate School of Psychology.

The School of Psychology expanded its community service/training/research programs by opening the Child Development Clinic in 1968, the Church Consultation Service in 1969, the Victim Assistance Program in 1976, Covenant House (a residential treatment facility for children) in 1979, the Inter-Community Alternatives Network (I-CAN) in 1980, the CAPS Day Treatment Program for Seniors in 1983, Gero-Net in 1985, the Sponsors Project and The Junction in 1986, and the Relationship Counseling Clinic in 1987. Beginning in 1976 all training components in the School of Psychology were organized under The Psychological Center.

In 1987, the academic program of the School of Psychology was expanded with the addition of a second doctoral degree, the Doctor of Psychology (Psy.D.) degree, and the move of the Marriage and Family program from the School of Theology to the School of Psychology. In addition to the Master of Arts in Marriage and Family Therapy and Ph.D.s in Marriage and Family Studies and Marriage and Family Therapy, a professional doctorate in marriage and family therapy (D.M.F.T.) is now offered.

The School of World Mission. In 1961, Dr. Donald McGavran founded at Eugene, Oregon, a graduate research and teaching center based on the belief that the growth of the church is the chief and irreplaceable function of Christian mission. The Institute of Church Growth flourished, supported by Northwest Christian College.

In 1964, under the leadership of President Hubbard, a faculty committee was appointed to explore the founding of a school of world evangelism. It thoroughly canvassed the field and reviewed programs of seminaries and missionary training schools across the nation. A steering committee of 24 noted missionary leaders was appointed to guide the formation of the school and the choice of the faculty.

In the spring of 1965, the Seminary’s plan having matured, Dr. McGavran was invited to become dean of its School of World Mission and to bring to it his colleague, Dr. Alan R. Tippett. Northwest Christian College cordially agreed to the proposal, and on September 1, 1965, the School of World Mission and Institute of Church Growth became the third in the Fuller complex of schools, offering master’s degrees in missiology. In 1970, the professional doctorate (D.Miss.) was launched, and in 1976, the Ph.D. program in missiology. In 1975, an in-service mission research program was started to provide graduate/research courses on the field. Men and women could now shorten the time they must be away from their mission field for formal study by completing a portion of the work in the field.

Facing the need for a quality training program for candidates preparing for service in the mission field, the School of World Mission in 1975 began the Cross-Cultural Studies Program. Men and women preparing for service in all kinds of cross-cultural situations may pursue a specially designed program leading to the Master of Arts degree in the School of World Mission or the Master of Divinity degree in the School of Theology. This emphasis was expanded with the inauguration of the Ph.D. program in intercultural studies in 1981.

The School of World Mission expanded its outreach in 1980, when Fuller Theological Seminary joined with the Fuller Evangelistic Association in the establishment of the Charles E. Fuller Institute of Evangelism and Church Growth. This partnership provides churches with training, research and service in evangelism and church growth.

The School of Theology. During the 1970s several innovative programs were developed by the School of Theology. In 1970, the Seminary introduced a new emphasis on the ministry of lay persons, inaugurating a Master of Arts program to help them assume a larger role in the leadership of the church. The theological studies program for minority ministers began in 1973. Mature Black and Hispanic pastors who had not had the opportunity to complete a standard baccalaureate degree were invited to enroll in an M.A. program designed to strengthen their performance as community and church leaders. By fall, 1979, approximately 112 Black and Hispanic pastors were studying in this program, both at the Pasadena campus and in the extension centers. At this time a program for Asian pastors was inaugurated, with 11 students enrolled in the M.A. program and 34 students in the D.Min. program within six months. In October, 1977, ninety Young Life staff trainees entered the Institute of Youth Ministries, a cooperative program between the School of Theology and Young Life. The Institute combined the theological resources of the Seminary with the training expertise of Young Life to offer the theological resources of the Seminary with the theological resources of the Seminary with the theological resources of the Seminary.

During this same period, a number of concentrations were developed within the M.A. and M.Div. programs of the School of Theology, giving students the opportunity for special preparation in the areas of Christian formation and discipleship, family pastoral care and counseling, marriage and family ministries and youth ministries. The Graduate Studies Program expanded to offer both Th.M. and Ph.D. degrees with majors in Old Testament, New Testament, Biblical Studies, Hermeneutics, Historical Theology, Systematic Theology, and Philosophical Theology. In 1988, the Graduate Studies Program was reorganized as the Center for Advanced Theological Studies.

Continuing and Extended Education. In 1973, Fuller Seminary opened extension centers in other cities for the training of lay persons in the context of the local church. By the fall of 1979, extension programs were operating in six cities in the western United States, with the M.A. in theology available through the Seattle, San Francisco Bay and Southern California Extensions. The School of Theology began a continuing education program for professional ministers in the fall of 1974. A specially planned model of the Doctor of Ministry offered the resources of the three schools of the Seminary in intensive instructional modules designed to develop the minister’s professional skills in the context of his or her ministry. In 1978, a new phase of Fuller’s ongoing concern for the continuing education of pastors and lay leaders was inaugurated with the National Convocation of Christian Leaders at Stanford University. In 1985, the Doctor of Ministry program, Extended Education, The Lowell W. Berry Institute for Continuing Education in Ministry, and the Institute for Christian Organizational Development were organized to form a fourth administrative unit in the Seminary, Continuing and Extended Education.

Continued Growth. The Seminary continues to grow in programs, facilities, faculty and students. In 1988-89, over 2,600 students were instructed by over 150 resident and adjunct faculty members in six Western cities. In Pasadena alone, over 1,600 students studied in classrooms on the Seminary campus.

A CHRISTIAN COMMUNITY

Spiritual Guidance and Formation

The Seminary has committed itself to the principle that the spiritual development of every student is a matter of prime importance in theological education. To foster and implement this awareness the Spiritual Life Committee has formed an office and a program of spiritual formation. Under the leadership of the director of the Office of Christian Community, student interns from the three schools provide resources, encouragement and programs for all types of activity designed to enrich the spiritual life and faith of all members of the diversity of students, faculty, staff and visitors associated with Fuller Theological Seminary.
members of the Seminary community. Retreats, special services, small groups, informal contacts and personal counseling situations are used to foster spiritual growth. A program of spiritual direction for individuals has also been instituted, and new ways of encouraging serious approaches to spiritual growth are being explored.

Spiritual Formation Program. This is a carefully designed two-or three-year program to help students grow spiritually through small groups, classes, seminars, retreats, and individual spiritual direction with faculty members, pastors, and laypersons. This program is open to students in any Seminary degree program. Spouses are also encouraged to participate.

Pre-Sem Program. This is a unique ten-day pre-orientation wilderness experience in the High Sierras, sponsored by the Office of Christian Community and designed especially for incoming students (open to currently enrolled students as well). It offers a spectacular setting amidst God's creation for a special time of building relationships with other students.

Retreat Program. This program seeks to provide students, faculty and staff with the opportunity to go away from campus to a setting conducive to community, silence and prayer, in order to participate in a focused experience of Christian community and growth.

Small-Group Program. This program seeks to make available to the students and their spouses in each of the three schools the opportunity to participate in a meaningful experience of Christian community in small groups of four to twelve persons.

Chapel Services. The Seminary family—faculty, staff and student body—meets at mid-morning three days a week for a one-hour chapel service. Since worship is, in a real sense, the life-giving center of the Seminary community, the service each day is carefully planned to embrace the essential elements of a meaningful worship experience, which includes an exposition of Scripture. Speakers are chosen from faculty, alumni/ae, students and visiting guests. Both traditional and informal forms of Christian worship are explored.

Prayer and Fellowship Groups. Groups representing various affiliations and areas of concern meet on Monday mornings for prayer and fellowship. Groups which meet regularly in recent years have included:

- Anabaptist Denominations
- American Baptists
- Assemblies of God
- Baptist General Conference
- Christian and Missionary Alliance
- Christian Reformed Church
- Conservative Baptist
- Church of God (Anderson, Indiana)
- Church of Christ (Restoration)
- Congregational
- Conservative Congregational Christian Conference

Multidenominational Representation

Fuller Theological Seminary trains and counsels its students to return to the denominations that nurtured them. Education for ministry at Fuller Theological Seminary is accepted by every major denomination. Denominational distinctives, such as church government, are taught by persons who represent the various denominations. Furthermore, the Seminary faculty comprises such a cross-section of church affiliation that most of the greater traditions of the church are represented. The student body at Fuller is composed of men and women from more than 80 denominations and church bodies. This opportunity for contact with a wide variety of ecclesiastical backgrounds is a broadening and enriching experience.

Office of Church Relations

To serve its multidenominational constituency, the Seminary has established an Office of Church Relations. This office seeks to facilitate and focus communication and interaction between students, the Seminary and the various denominations. It also coordinates Seminary relationships with individual congregations. In addition, the Seminary has an Office of Presbyterian Ministries, and has on its campus the office of the Theological Education Agency of the Reformed Church in America and the American Baptist Theological Center.

Office of Presbyterian Ministries

The Office of Presbyterian Ministries, now in existence for ten years, serves the more than 300 Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.) students at Fuller. The office provides an intentional program of instruction and experience to prepare men and women for ministry in the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.).

Academic courses in Presbyterian Creeds, Presbyterian Polity and Worship, and American Presbyterian History and Programs are offered each year. Each Monday morning during the academic year there is a meeting for Presbyterian students at which they get to know their future colleagues in ministry. The speakers at these meetings are denominational leaders who, over a three-year cycle, represent the various boards, agencies and program emphases of the denomination. The Office of Presbyterian Ministries provides counsel for students regarding the preparation for ministry process, assists them as they prepare for the national standard ordination exams, serves them as a liaison with the governing bodies of the denomination, and seeks to provide community for the Presbyterian students at Fuller.

Theological Education Agency of the Reformed Church in America

This program was established in 1985 by the General Synod of the Reformed Church in America. Located on Fuller’s Pasadena campus, its purpose is to serve all ministerial candidates of the Reformed Church in America who are not attending one of the two denominational seminaries. The director supervises students in preparation for ordination, assists in locating internships, and offers instruction in RCA polity, history, confessional statements and worship. Fuller is pleased to welcome this promising model of ecumenical cooperation to its campus.
American Baptist Theological Center

In the spring of 1988, the American Baptist churches formally related to the Los Angeles Baptist City Mission Society and those related to the American Baptist Churches/Pacific Southwest, in cooperation with the Board of Educational Ministries of the American Baptist Churches/USA, voted to form a new American Baptist Theological Center on Fuller’s Pasadena campus. This center is intended to serve the needs of American Baptist churches locally and nationally by cooperating with the Seminary in the theological education of American Baptist students preparing for a wide variety of ministries. The Center is intended to prepare students for ministry in the older churches and churches now being formed in a context rich in ethnic and cultural diversity.

Opportunities for Worship and Service

In the Los Angeles and Orange County areas, there are thousands of congregations representing nearly every denomination or affiliation, providing everyone at Fuller with the opportunity to be involved in the life of the church. Every student is encouraged to unite with one of these communities of Christians.

In addition, there are many specialized church and parachurch ministries in the area which offer students varied opportunities for training, witness and service.

AN ACADEMIC COMMUNITY

Faculty

The resident faculty of Fuller Theological Seminary is composed of nearly 70 men and women who are committed to the highest standards of teaching, research and writing in the various fields of theological, psychological and missiological study. In recent years, members of the Seminary faculty have published more than 100 books, as well as numerous chapters or articles in books, periodicals and professional journals. Fuller professors serve as officers of professional societies and organizations and as editors of theological and professional journals and series. In addition to their teaching ministries at the Seminary, they are actively involved in various kinds of ministry with area churches.

Fuller’s full-time faculty is supplemented each year by a number of highly-qualified visiting and adjunct faculty members, who enrich the curriculum of the three schools.

Academic Programs

Fuller Theological Seminary has programs of study leading to a variety of professional and academic degrees. The School of Theology grants the M.A., M.Div., Th.M., D.Min. and Ph.D. degrees. A variety of concentrations are offered within the M.A. and M.Div. programs, enabling students to focus their studies in particular areas of individual need and interest. The School of World Mission offers the M.A. in missiology, the M.A. in cross-cultural studies, Th.M. in missiology and in Chinese ministry and mission, D.Miss., Ph.D. in missiology and Ph.D. in intercultural studies degrees. The Ph.D. in clinical psychology and the Psy.D. are granted by the School of Psychology, as well as the M.A. and Ph.D. in marriage and family therapy, the Ph.D. in marriage and family studies, and the Doctor of Marriage and Family Therapy (D.M.F.T.).

In support of its degree programs, over 350 courses are offered each year on the Pasadena campus, with nearly 100 more classes taught each year in Fuller’s Extended Education Program. In addition to its daytime schedule and normal ten-week quarters, the Seminary regularly offers evening courses and intensive ten-day courses, making possible a very flexible program of study.

In order to gather educational resources to focus on specific needs and specialized ministries, and to make the resources of theological and missiological education available to those engaged in work and ministry, the Seminary has established a number of special institutes, programs and cooperative relationships. These include:

Extended Education Program
Theological Studies Program for Black and Hispanic Pastors
Institute of Youth Ministries (in cooperation with Young Life)
Lowell W. Berry Institute for Continuing Education in Ministry
In-Service Program (School of World Mission)
Charles E. Fuller Institute of Evangelism and Church Growth
Institute for Christian Organizational Development
The Psychological Center
Continuing and Extended Education Programs

Through its continuing and extended education programs Fuller Theological Seminary seeks to bring theological and missiological education to laypersons, pastors and field missionaries in the context of their own ministries.

The Doctor of Ministry program of the School of Theology is designed to provide continuing education for ministers while they remain active in their local ministries. An emphasis in areas such as pastoral care, church growth, worship/preaching, renewal/evangelism, and marriage and family ministries may be pursued. The program of study combines intensive two-week classroom sessions on the Pasadena campus with pre-session preparation and post-session projects completed off-campus. Some of the two-week classroom sessions are also available in a number of off-campus settings.

The In-Service Program of the School of World Mission enables missionaries, national church and mission leaders, mission executives and others to begin graduate studies in missiology before coming to the Pasadena campus and/or to continue their studies after they leave campus. Course syllabi, textbooks, class lecture tapes or notes and other materials are sent to the student, and completed assignments are returned for evaluation by a member of the School of World Mission faculty.

The Extended Education Program of the School of Theology was developed as a response to the need for training laypersons in the context of the local church. Currently the Extended Education Program offers courses in six areas: Seattle, Washington; Phoenix, Arizona; Honolulu, Hawaii; and the San Francisco Bay Area, Orange County, and San Diego County, California. Extended Education seeks to provide educational resources and experiences which will enable students to discover and develop their gifts for service and ministry. By offering fully accredited graduate courses off-campus on weekends and evenings, Extended Education makes theological education possible for many church leaders, church staff members, Bible study leaders, business people, homemakers, professionals and others whose careers or circumstances preclude full-time study. Courses are taught by resident Fuller Theological Seminary faculty members as well as visiting and adjunct faculty in local churches and colleges. The Master of Arts in theology may be earned through extension programs in Seattle, San Francisco, Orange County, and Phoenix. A special program enables a student to complete a major portion of the Master of Divinity degree program in the Seattle extension. In all locations, courses completed in extension may be applied to the M.A. or M.Div. degrees upon admission to that program on the Fuller campus.

Interdisciplinary Studies

Fuller Theological Seminary is committed to integration in the areas of theology, missiology and psychology in the curriculum and programs of its three schools.

The Graduate School of Psychology is distinctive in its attempt to integrate psychology and theology in theory, research and practice. Students in the Ph.D. program in clinical psychology also earn the M.A. or M.Div. degree from the School of Theology. The Doctor of Psychology degree (Psy.D.) includes a 64-unit theology component, and comparable theological studies are required for the degrees in the marriage and family division of the School of Psychology.

The Master of Divinity degree in Marriage and Family Ministries of the School of Theology draws on the resources of the marriage and family therapy faculty of the School of Psychology.

Degree programs of the School of World Mission utilize the resources of the School of Theology in providing a foundation for missiological theory and practice that combines biblical, historical and theological studies with the social and behavioral sciences. The same combination is available in a form of cross-cultural studies concentration in the M.Div. program of the School of Theology. In addition, most School of World Mission courses are available as electives to students in the School of Theology.

Library Facilities

The library contains the bibliographic resources which support the degree programs of Fuller Theological Seminary and independent faculty research. Through the generosity of the McAlister Fund, many loyal alumni, trustees and friends of the Seminary, the McAlister Library was completed in 1963. Extensive remodeling was done in 1978, including the addition of two more floors. The five floors of the library now house a collection of over 183,000 cataloged volumes, including the libraries of Professors Everett Harrison, Robert Bower, George Eldon Ladd, and Dr. Wilbur Smith, which were donated to the Seminary.

The library subscribes to over 900 national and international journals and more than 700 monographic serials in the fields of religion, theology, philosophy, psychology and missiology. An unusually fine collection of theological bibliography and reference material is also available.

Students have open stack privileges. The reference collection of the library is located in the main reading room, where there is immediate access to the books desired. Additional study space is located throughout the library, and students may reserve individual study carrels. The Media Services Department, located in the library, provides a variety of resources for student use, including language study tapes, tapes of various classes, chapel services and lectureships, records, filmstrips and audiovisual equipment. The David du Plessis Center houses the papers of David J. du Plessis and will also hold historical records and memorabilia of the Seminary. Special resources in Women's Studies are also available. Photocopiers and microform readers and printers are available. The rare-book room contains leather-bound books from the sixteenth through the nineteenth centuries, which are available for scholarly research. The theological holdings of other libraries in the greater Los Angeles area total over a quarter of a million volumes. Students at Fuller have borrowing privileges at the library of the School of Theology at Claremont. In addition, McAlister Library has the printed and/or microform catalogs of the Graduate Theological Union at Berkeley, the Missionary Research Library and the library of Union Theological Seminary, New York. These resources and the OCLC bibliographic network aid in the search for interlibrary loan materials for students and faculty. A computer-assisted literature searching service is also available.

Lectureships

Fuller Theological Seminary is fortunate to be able to bring to its campus from time to time as special lecturers men and women who have distinguished themselves by their scholarship and their service to the church.

Payton Lectures. In 1949 Fuller Theological Seminary instituted the Payton Lectures in memory of Dr. and Mrs. John E. Payton, parents of the late Mrs. Charles Fuller. The theme of the lectures falls within one of these areas: the uniqueness or confirmation of the historic Christian faith, the confrontation of non-Christian or sub-Christian views, or the formulation of biblical doctrines.

John G. Finch Symposium on Psychology and Religion. Sponsored by the psychology faculty, this series was established to deepen the understanding of religious behavior as seen in the light of the social and behavioral sciences. Prominent leaders in the field of religious behavior conduct lectures and seminars in the general area of the correlation between theology and psychology. The symposium is named for John G. Finch, Ph.D., a psychologist from Tacoma, Washington, whose inspiration and efforts led to the establishment of the School of Psychology at Fuller Theological Seminary, and who is making an ongoing contribution to our understanding of the relationships between psychology and the Christian faith.

Faculty Leadership Series. While the Seminary is dedicated to the defense and propagation of classical orthodoxy, it does not carry out this task in isolation from other contemporary theologies but in dialogue with them. To this end, scholars of other theological traditions, as well as our own, are invited to the campus from time to time as visiting lecturers. Fuller students may then have the opportunity to gain a firsthand acquaintance with some of the chief spokespersons in the contemporary debate of the church at large, and thus acquire a better understanding of the distinctiveness of their own theological stance. These lectures are sometimes followed by lively discussion as students interact with the lecturer. This experience moves the study of modern theological trends out of the realm of abstract theoretical discussion into the sphere of living theology and provides a more intelligent understanding and appreciation of the theological world of which we are a part.

Lecturers in years past have included Helmut Thielicke, Bo Reicke, Raymond Brown, G. D. Kilpatrick, and James Barr.

Faculty-Student Forum. This forum is arranged by the students, with faculty individuals or panels participating, and is directed toward the discussion of the thought-provoking and sometimes controversial themes and tasks of our time.

Scholarships and Awards
A number of awards and scholarships are given to Fuller students in recognition of achievement in various areas.

David Allan Hubbard Achievement Awards. These awards come from an initial endowment fund created by Homer and Margaret Surbeck who, as laypersons, are active in Christian organizations. Their gift was given to signify their appreciation for the work of the Seminary and for the outstanding leadership provided by Dr. David Allan Hubbard. The award is given to one student in each of the three schools, and is intended to recognize students whose accomplishments clearly reflect the academic, spiritual and professional goals of their respective schools and who show promise for their future ministries.

Faculty and Administration Wives' Memorial Award. This award is presented in memory of Virginia Archer, Margaret Barker, Jerel Bush, Grace Fuller, Winifred Ladd, Mary Jane Smith and Frances Southard. The award is given annually to a woman student entering her third year of study in one of the three schools, who exemplifies the Christian commitment and qualities of the women in whose memory the award is given, and who also shows promise of making a significant contribution to the ministries of Jesus Christ.

Parish Pulpit Fellowship. This fellowship for overseas study, given by the Church of the Pioneers Foundation, is awarded annually to a student who is committed to the parish pulpit ministry and whose potential is demonstrated by homiletic talents, academic performance and strength of character. This fellowship offers a unique opportunity, under the stimulus and context of another culture, for further reflection and creation of the spirit in preparation for service with a congregation.

F. Carlton Booth Evangelism Award. This award is given in recognition of outstanding involvement in some form of ministry in evangelism through field experience and for the purpose of making a contribution in the literature on evangelism from a theological perspective.

Everett F. Harrison, Jr., Award in New Testament. In memory of Everett F. Harrison, Jr., son of Professor Emeritus and Mrs. Everett F. Harrison, an annual award is offered to a graduating student of Fuller Theological Seminary who is accepted for a doctoral program in New Testament.

William Sanford LaSor Award in Old Testament. A fund was established in 1967 by Professor Emeritus and Mrs. William S. LaSor, a portion of which may be granted each year to a member of the graduating class, or a graduate student, who is considered by the faculty of Old Testament to be the outstanding student in Old Testament and Semitic studies.

New Testament Department Award. This scholarship fund was established in 1977 by the faculty of the New Testament department. This award is given annually to the student considered by the faculty of the New Testament department to be the most promising applicant in the New Testament Ph.D. program.

Clarence S. Roddy Preaching Prize. Each year a senior is selected by the faculty of the Ministry Division as the outstanding preacher of the graduating class. This award is made possible by an alumnus, and recognizes the great contribution Dr. Roddy made to the Seminary as professor of homiletics and practical theology from 1951 to 1967.

John P. Davis, Jr., Memorial Scholarship Award. This award is given in memory of John Paschall Davis, Jr., a graduate of the School of Psychology in 1974. This scholarship is given annually to a student in the School of Psychology who is deeply committed to the idea that it is one's person which is primary in being a psychologist. The scholarship honors an individual who has been deeply involved in personal growth either through therapy, marriage encounter workshops or other such efforts and who is also committed to the deepening of one's spiritual life.

Delano M. Goehner Memorial Award. This award is given annually to that graduating student who, in the judgment of the faculty of the School of Psychology, has made the greatest contribution to the integration of psychology and theology through theory, research and practice. This award was established in 1969 by the faculty of the School of Psychology in memory of Delano M. Goehner, a beloved student who died while in his last year of the program.

Clare M. Headington Memorial Scholarship. The Clare M. Headington Memorial Scholarship award has been designated by his family and friends to honor his deep commitment to the training of Christian men and women in the Graduate School of Psychology as they prepare to serve as clinical psychologists. The award is presented annually to a second or third year student for demonstrating competence in relating Christian faith and psychology principles to the emotional problems of individuals and families.

Gene Wesley Pfrimmer Memorial Award. This award is given annually to a pre-internship student in the School of Psychology who actively promotes a sense of cooperation and unity among the members of the student body and who pursues these goals with a strong sense of justice and fairness.

John Stauffer Memorial Merit Fellowship. This award is given annually to a student who, in the judgment of the faculty of the Graduate School of Psychology, shows exceptional promise of becoming a leader in the field of clinical psychology. This fellowship was made possible through a generous grant from the John Stauffer Charitable Trust.

Travis Awards of Predissertation Study of Issues Relating to the Integration of Psychology and Religion. This award was established in 1974 by the Psychology Graduate Union and named after the founding dean of the School of Psychology. Awards are given annually to students considered by a faculty, alumni and student committee to have submitted the best integrative papers in theoretical and experimental categories.

Graduate School of Psychology Dean's Award. This award is given annually to a first-year student who demonstrates academic competence, strong Christian faith and a commitment to the integration of theology and psychology.

Donald Anderson McGavran Award in Church Growth. This annual award is granted to the missionary associate who, in the judgment of the School of World Mission faculty, has made the most significant contribution to research in church growth overseas. This award was made possible by the 1972-73 class.

School of World Mission Dean’s Award.
This award is given annually to the School of World Mission student who produces the best thesis or dissertation on a missiological subject in a language other than English.

School of World Mission Contextualization, Folk Religion, History, Leadership, Bible Translation and Missiology Awards. These awards are given annually to the graduates whose theses or dissertations best deal with contextualization, the relationship of Christianity to folk religion, the historical development of the Christian movement, leadership theory, Bible translation, or a missiological topic.

STUDENT SERVICES

Office of Student Concerns
The Office of Student Concerns is responsible for special services and programs designed to supplement the formal educational environment for students. Services provided by this office include health care referral and health insurance, orientation, international student services, liaison with the student government, and the Community Life Program. The office maintains the calendar of student activities, and edits and distributes three on-campus publications: the weekly newsletter (The SEMI), the weekly Prayer Letter, and the Student Handbook.

Academic Advising
Fuller Theological Seminary offers a unique program of academic advising to master’s level students in the School of Theology and School of World Mission. Advisers are current students specially trained to assist students with the structuring of a program of study and the quarterly selection of classes. Advisers work throughout the year to serve students in such areas as evaluation of transfer credit, clarification of academic policies, assistance with petitions and other special needs and exploration of vocational and academic goals. These advisers are also available to help prospective students with information regarding degree programs, transfer credit, and other questions.

Students in the School of Psychology are advised by faculty members with regard to the psychology portion of their curriculum, and are also advised by a specially trained student adviser with regard to the theology portion of their curriculum.

Financial Aid
Fuller Theological Seminary is committed to doing everything possible to help eligible students meet their financial needs. The Office of Financial Aid, part of the Student Services Division, provides year-round counseling and assistance in obtaining financial aid of various kinds. The Seminary offers limited direct financial assistance in several forms. Grant-in-aid funds are available each year to qualified students in the three schools. Special funds are available to assist ethnic Americans and minority pastors with their tuition. A team ministry grant is available to married couples with demonstrated financial need when both are students with regular acceptance and good standing in master’s-level programs in the Schools of Theology or World Mission. The Office of Financial Aid also provides assistance to students in obtaining loan and grant funds from a variety of outside sources.

Housing
Fuller Theological Seminary is committed to provide Fuller-owned or Fuller-managed housing for as many students as possible. Approximately 400 apartments in several complexes convenient to campus and owned or managed by the Seminary provide single, married and family housing. The Student Housing Office also assists in locating appropriate housing in the area. The Housing Office maintains contact with many property owners who prefer to rent houses or apartments to Fuller students, and coordinates information regarding students seeking roommates, houses shared in “Christian community” living, housing employment offers, and rooms in private homes.

Community Life Program
The Community Life Program, a service of the Office of Student Concerns, is designed to enhance the quality of residential life for residents living in Seminary-owned housing near the campus. These housing units are served by Community Coordinators and a Recreation Program Coordinator who foster relationships and develop activities that would not otherwise exist. They work in cooperation with the Housing Office and other campus departments which serve residents, and actively represent the needs and concerns of building residents.
Health Services

Health services are among the services offered by the Office of Student Concerns. These services include helping students make the best use of their Fuller health insurance, and assistance in finding quality care at affordable prices. Entrance into the community's health care system is facilitated by referrals to local physicians and medical services.

Fuller offers two student insurance plans for students and their families through outside insurance carriers (one a health maintenance organization). Insurance can be purchased quarterly or annually with payment made at registration.

Career Services and Placement

Fuller seeks to provide special assistance to students as they face career decisions. Career planning which recognizes differing gifts and calls is an important focus on campus. The Seminary provides vocational counseling and assistance in career planning through the Office of Career Services. Services for students and immediate family members include career planning workshops, assistance in job search planning, vocational assessment and individual career counseling. Information on a variety of non-traditional ministries is available as well.

The placement of students and alumni/ae is an important part of Career Services. Anyone in the Fuller community may utilize the services of this office for finding part-or full-time employment during their seminary years, as well as for career placement at graduation and beyond. The Office of Career Services maintains up-to-date listings of a wide variety of job opportunities. Computer matching service is available, and an Alumni Placement Bulletin keeps graduates informed of current positions available as well. Students may also receive assistance in writing resumes, interview preparation, and opportunities to interview on campus for prospective job openings.

Counseling Resources

Fuller Theological Seminary seeks to concern itself with each student as an individual. Faculty members are available at stated times during the week for conferences. Academic advisers are also available for help and counsel.

Professional help is available to students with problems of an emotional, social or interpersonal nature. The Pasadena Community Counseling Clinic, sponsored by the faculty of the Graduate School of Psychology at Fuller, provides such services as psychological evaluation. The broadest possible approach is used in an effort to treat the whole person. Recognizing the financial needs of students and their families, the Clinic offers subsidized services for qualified Fuller students. Students may also be referred to Christian psychotherapists in private practice in the area.

Counseling services dealing with relationships, family, and lifestyle matters are also offered by the Marriage and Family program through the Relationship Counseling Clinic. Counseling is available to Fuller students and members of their families on a sliding scale of costs, with initial sessions free of charge.

Field Education

An internship in a church or related setting is an integral part of the Seminary curriculum. Its purpose is to provide an educational opportunity to apply what is learned in the classroom in a practical area of ministry under qualified supervision. The Office of Field Education helps students arrange approved internships and provides counsel relating to internships and other field experiences.

Women's Concerns

The Office of Women's Concerns exists to provide professional, personal, and academic support for women at Fuller, and to serve as an advocate for women on campus at all levels. The Office of Women's Concerns sponsors the annual Women's Lectureship. For students interested in pursuing research on women's issues, the Office of Women's Concerns maintains a research center in the library with catalogued copies of articles and research papers dealing with women. Personal and career counseling are available to all women at Fuller, and opportunities for support come through planned retreats and social events as well. Women students are encouraged to prepare for whatever form of ministry for which they are gifted and called. Graduates are now ministering as pastors, teachers, counselors, psychologists and missionaries, and in a wide variety of other ministries around the world.

Representatives from each school and each program serve on the Women Students' Committee, which works with the Office of Women's Concerns to plan programs and events to meet the needs of women students at Fuller. It is chaired by the Women's Representative, an All-Seminary Council position. This committee in turn meets with other groups of women on campus to provide a wide representation of needs and interests.
Ethnic Students

The Fuller community includes many students with ethnic-American backgrounds—Asian, Black, Hispanic and native-American. The Seminary seeks to provide assistance for the special needs of such students. The Office of Ethnic Concerns serves as a resource center and as an advocate for ethnic interests in the Seminary at large, and an ethnic-American representative serves as their advocate on the All-Seminary Council. An ethnic-American grant fund, supported by contributions by Seminary students, faculty and staff and administered by the All-Seminary Council, provides financial aid for ethnic-Americans in all three schools. A separate scholarship fund provides tuition assistance for Black students in the M.Div. program of the School of Theology. The School of Theology also sponsors the Theological Studies Program for Black and Hispanic Pastors, which makes theological education available to minority pastors while they continue in their ministries, and provides tuition assistance for their studies.

International Students

International Student Services, a branch of the Office of Student Concerns, provides a wide range of assistance to international students who come to Fuller on visas, as well as to resident aliens studying at the Seminary. Services include immigration assistance (visa papers and related processes), orientation to American culture, personal and financial counseling, help with furnishings, utensils, and other needed household items (for students from overseas), and social activities for international students and families. An international student orientation manual gives practical information on a variety of aspects of life at Fuller Seminary and in the community. Every effort is made to assist international students as they prepare to come to Fuller and as they adjust to American life.

Ethnic Concerns Committee

The Ethnic Concerns Committee seeks to integrate ethnic awareness and sensitivity within all three schools. A primary goal of the Ethnic Concerns Committee is to challenge and affect the Fuller community and the community at large through various forums which are specifically designed to stimulate growth and creative investigation into the areas of ethnicity. The Committee seeks to represent the broad range of ethnic and cultural identities represented on campus and in the community.

International Students Concerns Committee

The International Students Concerns Committee is a special-interest group sponsored by the All-Seminary Council. This committee seeks to include in its membership representatives from all identified international student groups at Fuller. The chairperson of this committee serves on the All-Seminary Council and provides advocacy for the needs and concerns of international students in All-Seminary Council discussions and projects. The International Students Committee seeks to promote a sense of identity among international students to assist them in their adjustment to life at Fuller. It also seeks ways of handling the creasing financial burden of the international student.

Mission Concerns Committee

The Mission Concerns Committee, sponsored by the All-Seminary Council and composed of students from all three schools, seeks to promote awareness of mission on the Fuller campus. The Mission Concerns Committee seeks to help each student identify his or her part in the cause of worldwide evangelization. The Committee sponsors mission prayer groups and organizes a number of events to stimulate the interest of the Fuller Community in cross-cultural ministries, including an annual campus-wide Mission Conference. The Mission Concerns Committee also sponsors short-term overseas mission internships, with the assistance of the Fuller Fund.

Peace and Justice Committee

The Peace and Justice Committee seeks to encourage the Fuller Community to become more sensitive to and aware of the social and ethical problems facing contemporary society. The Committee stimulates campus awareness by sponsoring and directing campus forums, convocations, study groups, outside speakers and information displays. It acts as a resource whereby every student may be better informed of areas of acute human need, be assisted in his or her own struggle to work through the implications of the gospel for contemporary social issues, and become actively engaged in meeting human needs and addressing social and ethical issues. The Peace and Justice Committee sponsors scholarships for students to engage in a variety of summer internships relating to social justice.

Women's Concerns Committee

The Women’s Concerns Committee serves as an advocacy group for the academic, professional and personal needs of women students at Fuller. The Committee seeks to build bridges of communication and support between women and men on campus through guest speakers, faculty/student panels, and facilitation of small groups. Education, social events, and spiritual nurture are major areas of focus for the Committee. Working in conjunction with the All-Seminary Council and the Office of Women’s Concerns, the Women’s Concerns Committee addresses the particular needs and concerns facing women preparing for ministry, and provides assistance to both men and women in understanding equality in the body of Christ.

Student Publications

Studia Biblica et Theologica is a semi-annual publication sponsored by the Associated Students of Fuller Theological Seminary. It is designed to exhibit excellence in writing and thinking by students of Fuller and other theological institutions in the areas of biblical, historical, systematic and practical theology. It is indexed in Elenchus Bibliographicus Biblicus, Internationale Zeitschriftenschau für Bibelwissenschaft und Grenzgebiete, and Old Testament Abstracts.

The Stimuli is a quarterly publication sponsored by the School of Psychology Graduate Union. It is both a newsletter and discussion forum for professional concerns relating to clinical psychology and the integration of psychology and theology. Both students and faculty contribute articles for information and discussion. The TGU Quarterly, sponsored by the Theology Graduate Union and written by Fuller students, addresses various issues of theological concern. The School of World Mission Graduate Union publishes Missions Tomorrow, which seeks to educate and inspire in areas of mission and evangelization.

Computer Lab

As a service to Fuller students, the All-Seminary Council has established a computer lab on the fourth floor of McAlister Library. For a low quarterly fee, students may make use of computer equipment and software (both Macintosh and IBM) and take advantage of opportunities for special training. In addition, computer equipment and software may be purchased through the Bookstore at substantially discounted prices.

Athletic Program

In an effort to aid in building and strengthening community as well as physical well-being, the All-Seminary Council sponsors an intramural sports program, offering a wide range of both team and individual sports for men and women. Team sports include volleyball, basketball and softball, and tournaments are arranged at various times throughout the year for such sports as golf, tennis, badminton, handball, racquetball and squash. The Council has negotiated low membership fees for students and their families at the nearby Pasadena YMCA and YWCA, which provide excellent recreational facilities. In addition, limited use of the Pasadena Athletic Club has been arranged on a quarterly basis at a substantially reduced membership cost.

The Catalyst

Established by the students in 1977, the Catalyst offers sandwiches, coffee and other foods in a pleasant, informal setting. Profits go to the All-Seminary Council for its various student-related projects.

Fuller Wives

Spouses of a number of Fuller students have formed a steering committee to link student wives to the Seminary community and to give support to one another. They seek to help student wives work toward a definition of their own ministry through Bible studies, courses and programs directed to their specific needs. Social events and other support programs are also planned.

The Fuller Fund

The Fuller Fund is supported by students to help other students. The contributions given during registration are used to provide scholarships for mission interns, peace and justice interns, and ethnic-American, women and international students in special financial need.

CAMPUS FACILITIES AND SERVICES

Fuller Theological Seminary is located in the heart of downtown Pasadena at Oakland Avenue and Ford Place. The campus is situated in the center of a large metropolitan area with outstanding schools, libraries, cultural interests, and recreational and employment opportunities.

Administrative and Classroom Facilities.

Payton Hall houses the administrative offices of the president and the provost, faculty offices for the School of Theology, a number of classrooms, the mailroom and refectory.

The administration and faculty of the School of Theology also occupy a building complex on the Arol Burns Mall and Ford Place, including Taylor Hall, which houses the Black and Hispanic Ministries programs.

The offices of the various programs of Continuing and Extended Education, including the Doctor of Ministry program, Extended Education, the Lowell Berry Foundation and the Institute for Christian Organizational Development are grouped together in a single building at the corner of Oakland and Walnut.

Kresge Hall, an addition completed in 1972, joins the McAlister Library with Payton Hall. It provides administrative and faculty offices for the School of World Mission. Other School of World Mission Offices are located in Glasser Hall on the Arol Burns Mall.

In the fall of 1986, the School of Psychology moved into the John Geoffrey Finch Hall. The new three-story structure houses offices for administration, faculty, and student interns, The Psychological Center (including a number of clinics), and a psychophysiological laboratory, as well as classrooms and an auditorium for the Seminary at large.

McAlister Library. The McAlister Library houses over 183,000 volumes—as well as an extensive collection of periodicals, journals and other resource materials—on five floors.

Student Services. The offices of a variety of student services are located in a collection of buildings facing Barker Commons and the central mall. These include the Office of Admissions and the Registrar’s Office; Theology Academic Advising and Financial Aid (Stephan Hall); Church Relations, Career Services and Placement, the Office of Presbyterian Ministries, the American Baptist Theological Center, and the Theological Education Agency of the Reformed Church in America (Carnell Hall); Student Concerns, Women’s Concerns, the All-Seminary Council and Graduate Union offices, and Student Housing (Kreyssler Hall); and the International Students Office.

Housing. Approximately 400 apartments in several complexes convenient to campus and owned or managed by the Seminary provide housing for single students, couples and families. Other housing facilities and services are described above under “Student Services.”

Refectory. The refectory, located in Payton Hall, provides breakfast and lunch Monday through Friday (except holidays) during the academic year.

Bookstore. The Seminary operates a well-stocked bookstore for the benefit of students, alumni/ae, faculty and the public. Quality theological publications of value for all aspects of ministry are available at a discount, and students have limited charge privileges. Apple Macintosh computer equipment and software is also available to students at substantially discounted prices.

Handicapped Students. The Seminary endeavors to respond to the special needs of handicapped students. Ramps and elevators provide access to most campus offices and classrooms. Special efforts are made to schedule classes in facilities which provide access for handicapped students, and parking places are reserved in all campus parking areas.

ADMISSION

Prospective Students

Admissions counselors are available to assist pro­spective students with information regarding ad­mission, degree programs, and other questions. With the exception of certain programs in the School of Psychology, formal interviews are not required for admission. The Seminary welcomes and encourages visits from prospective students and have several prospective student events scheduled each year (see page 172). Information regarding these events may be obtained from the Office of Admissions. Those wishing to visit the campus at other times should schedule a visit in advance with the Office of Admissions.

Standards

In general, applicants must have earned a regular baccalaureate degree or its equivalent from an ac­credited institution before they can be admitted to master's programs at Fuller Theological Seminary. Specific prerequisites for admission are described under each degree program in the various sections of this catalog.

Applicants who are not citizens of the United States or whose native language is not English must also meet admissions criteria for Internation­al Students and English Language Requirements as described later in this section.

It should be understood that admission to Fuller depends on factors beyond the applicant's academic record. These include theological develop­ment, Christian experience, spiritual growth, call to service and gifts for ministry. Men and women of God are qualified for Christian minis­try by faith, moral character, experience and aca­demic achievement. Such people are character­ized by compassion for individual persons, by sensitivity to the needs of the total community, by a burden that the whole of God's will be obeyed on earth, by a readiness to accept correction, by a desire for moral growth, by personal integrity, and, above all, by a mature trust in Jesus Christ as the foundation of life and ministry.

Fuller Theological Seminary admits students of any race, sex, color, and national or ethnic origin to all the rights, privileges, programs and ac­tivities generally accorded or made available to students at the Seminary. It does not discriminate on the basis of race, sex, color, and national or ethnic origin in administration of its educational policies, scholarships and loan programs, and ath­letic and other Seminary-administered programs.

Categories

In addition to full admission to regular degree programs, a limited number of students may also be admitted under one of the following classifications:

Limited Graduate Student: one who is qual­iﬁed for regular admission but wants to take no more than five courses (20 units);

Unclassified Student: one who is academ­i­cally qualiﬁed for admission, wants to take an un­limited number of courses, but does not want to pursue a degree program;

Special Student: one who does not meet the academic requirements for regular admission, un­classified or limited graduate student status;

Visiting Student: one who is currently en­rolled as a student in good standing in the post­bachelor's level at another graduate institution, but wants to have transcript evidence of coursework done at Fuller for transfer to the school of primary enrollment.

Application

A request for application is included with this cat­alog. Application forms may be obtained by re­tuning this request or by writing the Admissions Office. Applications are given for specific pro­grams only, and admission is granted to a specific program and not to the school at large.

All forms should be completed and returned to the Admissions Office as soon as possible, and no later than 30 days prior to the anticipated date of matriculation (see below for exceptions). The application fee is $25.00 ($50.00 for the Doctor of Ministry program) and is non-refundable. Trans­cripts should be sent directly from all colleges attended to the Admissions Office. Complete applic­ation instructions are included with the applic­ation packet.

The School of Psychology and all competitive programs in the School of Theology require scores from the aptitude portion of the Graduate Record Examin­ation (GRE). GRE information is available from most colleges or from GRE, Box 955, Princeton, NJ 08541. GRE scores over five years old are not acceptable.

Application Deadlines and Notification Of Acceptance

Certain programs have deadlines for receipt of ap­plications and admit students only in the fall quarter of each year.
School of Theology

Marriage and Family Ministries concentration in the M.Div.:
Application deadline February 15
Files to be completed by March 15
Notification of decision by April 15

Ph.D./Th.M.:
Application deadline January 15
Files to be completed by February 15
Notification of decision by April 15

School of Psychology

Ph.D. Clinical Psychology and Psy.D.:
Application deadline January 15
Files to be completed by February 15
Notification of decision by April 15

M.A. Marriage and Family Therapy:
Application deadline February 15
Files to be completed by March 15
Notification of decision by April 15

All Marriage and Family doctoral programs:
Application deadline March 15
Files to be completed by April 15
Notification of decision by May 15

For all other programs applications are expected at least 30 days prior to the beginning of the quarter for which admission is sought (applications received within one month of the first day of class are considered late applications and will be subject to special fees and restrictions). Decisions of the Admissions Committee will normally be announced within four weeks of the completion of an application file.

Within 30 days of notification of acceptance in most programs, a matriculation fee must be paid, which will be applied against tuition. Failure to pay this fee within the stated time may result in a cancellation of the student’s acceptance.

International Students

The term “international students” is used at Fuller to denote both internationals who come on visas to study at Fuller and those who are already legal permanent residents of the United States.

As a general rule, international students who expect to be accompanied by dependents will be considered for admission to Fuller Theological Seminary only if they can meet the requirements of a financial guarantee for their families as well as themselves. The financial guarantee must be from the source(s) that will actually provide the funds for study and living expenses. This can be done by (a) showing that they are sponsored by a responsible Christian organization which will commit itself to guarantee the necessary support and round-trip transportation for the student and his or her dependents (if they are to accompany the student to the Seminary), or (b) demonstrating by a letter from a bank or savings institution that the student has on deposit sufficient funds to cover tuition, other school fees, living expenses for the student and family, and round-trip airfare, or (c) providing the same proof from other individuals or organizations who wish to contribute to the student’s support that there are sufficient funds available to cover their financial commitment. If the dependents are to be left in the home country, the Seminary strongly recommends that appropriate financial arrangements be made to care for them during the entire time the student is away; in addition to the student’s expenses in the United States.

All international student applicants should submit their applications at least six months in advance of the quarter in which they intend to enroll, and should complete the application file (including transcripts, financial guarantees, etc.) at least 60 days in advance of the planned date of arrival in order to allow time for the student to receive the visa application papers. A catalog of the school from which the student received the baccalaureate degree (B.A. or B.S.) should be submitted with the application. The Th.B. is not considered adequate for admission to Fuller. International applicants may be required to submit official documentation of secondary as well as post-secondary education.

Once accepted, appropriate visa application forms will be sent to the student. Questions regarding visas should be addressed to the Immigration Counselor in the International Student Services Office.

English Language Requirements

In addition to the specified admission requirements for each degree program, each applicant who does not speak English as a first language is required to take the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) Examination to determine ability to use the English language. Most applicants can obtain the TOEFL Bulletin by writing to TOEFL, Box 899, Princeton, NJ, 08540 USA. Students in Europe, Hong Kong, India, the Middle East (except Israel), North Africa, Republic of China and Taiwan must obtain a Bulletin of Information locally. Since tests are given only a limited number of times each year, the student should allow sufficient time for the results to be included in the admission process. A score of 550 on the TOEFL Examination is required for acceptance for most programs; a score of 600 is required for the Th.M. program in the School of Theology and doctoral programs in the Schools of Theology and Psychology.

1Chargeable only when no formal application is submitted.
2Free and reduced-charge audits are also available. See page 36 for a complete statement of audit policy.
3Charged each quarter (Fall, Winter, Spring) in which a student does not register for a seminar, reading course, or language study, and also each quarter after course work is completed until degree is awarded.
4Charged each quarter beginning the quarter after course work is completed until degree is awarded.
5Payable quarterly or annually.
6Charged the first quarter the student is enrolled on the Pasadena campus.
7Not required if a student is registered for 8 units or less or has existing insurance with comparable coverage. Coverage for spouse and children optional. International students on F or J visas must have health insurance, and any family members with them in the U.S. must be covered as well. A health maintenance plan is also available at different rates. All rates subject to change annually.
Tuition Refund Policy

Schools of Theology and World Mission.
For ten-week classes dropped between registration and the end of the second day of the second week of classes, the refund is 100 percent. For those classes dropped by the end of the second week of classes, the refund is 75 percent; for those dropped the third week of classes the refund is 50 percent; for those dropped the fourth week of classes the refund is 25 percent. No refund is made for courses dropped after the fourth week of classes. Courses are added at the full rate. There is no refund of audit charges.

For courses offered in the 10-day or two-week intensive sessions, there is a 100 percent refund if the course is dropped by the end of the second day; a 75 percent refund on the third day; a 50 percent refund if dropped on the fourth day; and a 25 percent refund if the course is dropped on the fifth day of class. No refund will be made thereafter. Courses are added at the full rate. There is no refund of audit charges.

In all cases, any applicable refunds are based on the date that an official drop form, signed by an academic advisor, is received in the Registrar’s Office.

In case of complete withdrawal from the Seminary in any one quarter during the 100 percent refund period, a 10 percent service charge (to the maximum of $50.00) will be added to the student account.

School of Psychology. In instances where a psychology doctoral student withdraws, there is no refund of tuition for that particular quarter. Refund of tuition for students in the marriage and family division follows the same pattern as the Schools of Theology and World Mission (above).

Extended Education. A separate tuition refund policy applies to classes offered through Fuller’s Extended Education centers. See the Continuing and Extended Education section of this catalog for details.

Government Loans and Tuition Refund. Students who have received government loan monies (i.e., Perkins, GSL, SLS, and HEAL) for quarters in which they drop below half-time status may owe a refund this amount to their lender. Contact the Office of Financial Aid for details.

Tuition Payment Policy
A deferred payment plan is available for those students with a satisfactory payment history who are not able to pay the total charges at the time of registration. A $15 deferred payment service fee allows the student to pay a minimum of $200 (plus any optional fees) at registration. Student account balances must be paid in full prior to registration for the next quarter. Interest on deferred payment balances will accrue from the beginning of the month after registration at the current interest rate set by the Seminary. This plan is available only to those registered for academic credit (not auditors).

Overdue Accounts Policy
Students whose tuition, housing or bookstore accounts are not current will not be able to register for the next quarter, receive diplomas or have transcripts issued. Persons whose accounts are not current may be subject to legal collection procedures.

FINANCIAL AID

Fuller Theological Seminary is committed to doing everything possible to help eligible students meet their financial needs.

Through employment, loans and grants, the Seminary seeks to alleviate financial need. Before grants are considered, it is expected that a student will provide a reasonable part of the total amount required to meet expenses by seeking employment and/or loan funds.

The Seminary provides limited assistance in finding employment for students and spouses. There are generally a number of openings for on-campus employment (including college work-study positions for eligible students), and employers in the area frequently contact the Seminary to report employment opportunities for students and their spouses. There are also numerous church-related jobs available in the area, although many of these involve internships and are generally not recommended for first-year students. In accepting employment of any kind, however, it is understood that the student will not exceed the number of hours commensurate with the demands of his or her academic load, family responsibilities, etc.

In many instances, the parents of students cannot be expected to be of financial assistance. However, parental financial information may be required on applications for federal or state-funded programs unless certain independency criteria are met. It is anticipated that the student will seek and obtain help from the family when it is feasible. In some cases, assistance can be expected and should be sought from the home church, denominational headquarters and other interested groups.
Financial Aid Application

Any student desiring a loan or grant is required to complete the proper forms for student aid. The appropriate forms are sent to prospective students after they have applied to a degree program. Students entering the M.A. or M.Div. programs of the School of Theology, or the M.A. Cross-Cultural Studies program of the School of World Mission, should request grant applications through the Office of Financial Aid. Students in other programs in the School of World Mission and students in the School of Psychology should apply directly to those schools for grant assistance. Ph.D. and Th.M. students in the School of Theology may apply for graduate assistantships and limited grant funds through the Center for Advanced Theological Studies. Loan applications for students in all degree programs of all three schools are processed through the Office of Financial Aid.

Grants-In-Aid

In general, the Seminary does not offer scholarships in the usual sense of that term, i.e., grants made on the basis of outstanding academic achievement. The Seminary does have limited funds available for grants made primarily on the basis of need, with proper consideration of future promise and academic standing.

In addition, students desiring and receiving grants must be full-time in a regular degree program, and must make satisfactory progress in their educational pursuits.

In the School of Theology, grant-in-aid funds are generally not available to international students. Exceptions are made for a limited number of specially qualified overseas students, subject to certain conditions. Details are available from the Office of Financial Aid.

Gifts to the Endowment Fund from which grants-in-aid are made have been given in memory of or by the following:

Berachah Church, Houston, Texas
Lowell W. Berry
P. Hilding Carlson Memorial
Edward John Carnell Memorial
Eugene H. Dodds Memorial
Kathleen N. Earl Memorial Fuller Evangelistic Association
Florence H. Gibbins and John J. Gibbins

In addition, the following special funds have been established to provide financial aid to students at Fuller. Most of these funds are endowed by benefactors of the Seminary; the balance are usually funded on an annual basis.

Assemblies of God Scholarship for Hispanic Pastors. This award is provided for three pastors in the Hispanic Ministries program by the Missions Department of the Pacific Latin American District of the Assemblies of God.

Margaret and Glenn Barker Memorial Scholarship Fund. This fund was established by Glenn W. Barker, first Provost of the Seminary, in loving memory of his wife Margaret. After his death the fund was expanded and is provided as an investment in seminarians to assist in financing their education for future ministry.

The Barnabas Fund. This endowed fund has been established for School of Theology and School of World Mission students. It is the intent of the donors that the recipients not only benefit financially, but that the grants serve to illustrate the biblical model of Barnabas, who was a quiet enabler.

The Charles and Jean Beckmann Scholarship Fund. This fund was established by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Beckmann to assist School of World Mission students who intend to return to their country of origin to communicate the Gospel more effectively to those of their own culture.

The Bronson International Scholarship. Endowed by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bronson, this scholarship assistance is provided for foreign nationals in the School of Theology and School of World Mission who anticipate returning to their culture to share the claims of Christ.

The Burr/Roth Scholarship Award. This award, established by Mr. and Mrs. Albert L. Roth in honor of Larry Burr and in recognition of his faithful service to others and to the Seminary, is given annually to a worthy and needy student.

The Dunavant/Reeves Scholarship. This endowed fund was established to provide assistance for students of all three Schools for further study in ministry.

Ethnic American Grant Fund. Supported by contributions to the Fuller Fund by Seminary students, faculty and staff, and administered by the All-Seminary Council, this fund provides assistance for Black Americans, Native Americans, Hispanic Americans, and Asian Americans in all three schools.

Frank and Evelyn Freed Scholarship Award. This award, established by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Freed, is granted to students in the School of Psychology who have a deep motivation to integrate both their faith and practice as professionals glorifying God.
Faculty Scholarship Awards. Each year a number of scholarships are given in the name of faculty members who have served Fuller Theological Seminary for twenty years or more. Faculty who are honored in this way include Dr. Geoffrey Bromley, Dr. Daniel Fuller, Dr. Everett Harrison, Dr. David Allan Hubbard, Dr. William S. LaSor, Dr. George Ladd, and Dr. Paul K. Jewett.

Fuller Seminary Auxiliary Scholarships. The Seminary Auxiliary grants a limited number of scholarships to Seminary students in all three schools each year.

Ganfield Scholarship. Given by Mr. and Mrs. Boardman Ganfield, this grant is awarded to a student pursuing the ministry.

Homer and Isabelle Goddard Lay Ministry Scholarship Award. Given by Wallace and Margaret Larson, this scholarship fund was established in honor of Homer and Isabelle Goddard in recognition of and appreciation for their lifelong commitment to lay ministry.

Headington Scholarship for Black Ministerial Training. This fund, established by Mr. and Mrs. J. Edward Headington and Mr. Greg Headington, provides financial aid, based on need, for Black students in the M.Div. program of the School of Theology.

Headington Scholarship for Hispanic Students. Established by Mr. and Mrs. J. Edward Headington and Mr. Greg Headington, this fund provides financial aid, based on need, for Hispanic students in the School of Theology.

Reverend Olive and Reverend Hartland Hurd Memorial Scholarship. Established by Mr. and Mrs. C.C. Hurd, this fund assists students in preparing for the local Methodist pastorate.

International Student Scholarship. Given by Janet Holdcroft, out of concern about developing Christian leadership among nationals in Third World countries, this grant is awarded to a non-U.S. student who plans to return to his or her home country upon graduation.

Johnston/Yinger Scholarship Fund. Given by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Johnston and Mr. and Mrs. William Yinger in honor of their parents, this grant is awarded to School of Theology students who are interested in evangelism and social action expressed in church planting and cross-cultural and inner-city ministries.

The Ken Lorenz Memorial Scholarship Fund. This fund was established by Leonard and Muriel Lorenz in fond memory of their son, a former Fuller student. Recipients are selected from the School of Theology.

Mildred C. McCrossan Memorial Scholarship. Given by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McCrossan and Mr. David McCrossan in honor of their mother and wife in recognition of her concerns for the local church and its leaders, this grant is awarded to a student who plans to work with a frontier mission in evangelism and church planting.

Howard C. and Martha M. Miller Student Aid Fund. Established by Mr. and Mrs. Howard C. Miller to help students in the School of Theology who have great future promise, but who are struggling with financial burdens, these awards are made to worthy and needy students.

Joe Nunziato Scholarship. Established by Mr. and Mrs. R. Thomas Barber in honor of Joseph S. Nunziato and his ministry in the pastorate, this award is given to a senior in the School of Theology who intends to go into full-time ministry.

Jerry and Nancy Owsley Scholarship Award. Established in memory of Jerry and Nancy Owsley by their children, this award is given to third-world students in the School of World Mission who plan to return to their native countries to minister upon graduation.

Norman Vincent Peale Scholarship. This endowed fund in recognition of the outstanding ministry of Norman Vincent Peale is intended to assist with the financial needs of second or third year School of Theology students preparing for the local church ministry. Students must be recommended for this award by professors in the Department of Preaching.

The James Morton Reid Memorial Scholarship Fund. Established by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Samueelson, this grant is awarded to second or third year students in the School of World Mission and School of Theology who are preparing for local church ministry.

Anna M. Rosewall Scholarship Award. Established by Donald A. Rosewall in fond memory of his wife and co-servant. Recipients are selected from second year students committed to evangelical ministries.

John D. Snyder, Jr., Scholarship Award. Awarded primarily on the basis of financial need, this grant is funded by a Christian couple in the Philadelphia, Pennsylvania area who wish to establish and maintain personal and spiritual relationships by support of students throughout their educational programs at Fuller.

L. and C. Song Scholarship. Given by Mr. and Mrs. Leonard S. Song, this award is provided to worthy students preparing for the ministry.

Cary Weisgerber Award. Given by the congregation of Menlo Park Presbyterian Church as an expression of love in honor of Dr. Weisgerber for his twelve years of faithful service, this award is presented to deserving students preparing for the pastorate.

Team Ministry

A team ministry grant is available to married couples with demonstrated need if both are students with regular acceptance and good standing in the M.A. or M.Div. programs of the School of Theology or the M.A. or Th.M. programs of the School of World Mission. Under this program, eligible cou-
Supplemental Loans for Students. These loans may be obtained through a small number of financial institutions and are guaranteed privately or by the State of California. Interest begins accruing upon disbursement. Students may pay quarterly interest or defer interest, and repayment of principal and interest begins immediately after the student graduates or enrolls less than full-time.

Health Education Assistance Loans. These loans are available only to clinical students in the School of Psychology. Interest begins accruing upon disbursement. The student may make semiannual interest payments or defer interest payments, in which case the interest may be compounded. Repayment of principal and interest begins nine months after the student graduates or enrolls less than full-time.

Fuller Seminary Short-Term Loans. These loans are designed to meet emergency needs and are without interest if repaid within 60 days. They are not designed to pay tuition, bookstore or housing accounts, and depend upon funds available. Application may be made in the Office of Financial Aid.

Other Sources

California Graduate Fellowship. The California Graduate Fellowship offers full tuition and required fees up to $6,490. Application is made annually in early March. Awards are for one year only, but can often be renewed for up to three years. Applicants must be California residents who will not have completed more than the equivalent of one year of master’s level studies since earning the bachelor’s degree (Fuller Seminary determines this to be 48 quarter units, or 64 units for clinical psychology students). Qualification is based heavily on level of family income and education, as well on Graduate Record Exam scores, grade point average, and other factors.

Veterans Benefits. Students eligible for veteran’s benefits may receive those benefits for training at Fuller. Information is available from the veterans affairs adviser in the Registrar’s Office for students who will be studying at the Pasadena campus. This includes students in the Doctor of Ministry program. Students who will be enrolled in extension may request information from their area directors.

Scholarships and Awards. There are a limited number of scholarships and awards given to Fuller students in recognition of achievement in various areas. These are described more fully in the first section of this catalog.
REGISTRATION

Orientation

For students entering in the fall quarter, the course of study at Fuller begins with orientation, which is held the week before regular classes begin (see calendar). Entering students in all three schools are expected to attend. The orientation program introduces the student to seminary life and theological training and provides an experience of Christian community.

Winter, spring and summer orientation programs are normally scheduled on one day prior to the first day of classes. All students entering these quarters are expected to attend. Students who enter in the winter or spring quarters may attend the week-long orientation in the fall. Students who enter in the summer quarter are expected to attend the fall orientation.

Registration for Classes

Fall registration is held during the week immediately preceding the first day of classes (see calendar) for all students. For new students, this is a part of the orientation program.

Registration for new students for winter, spring or summer quarters takes place on the scheduled orientation day. For returning students, registration for these quarters is normally scheduled during the eighth week of the previous quarter.

Registration priority times are assigned each quarter on the basis of each student’s accumulated credits and other factors. Students may not register in advance of their assigned times. Students whose accounts are not current will not be permitted to register for classes unless special arrangements have been made with the coordinator of student accounts prior to the week of registration. Students are required to pay a minimum of $200 plus any optional fees at the time of registration; students with a satisfactory payment history may defer the remaining charges.

All students must meet with their academic adviser prior to their scheduled registration. An academic adviser will be assigned to each incoming student during orientation. A completed and approved class request card, provided by the academic adviser, is required for registration. Any course change must be approved in writing by the academic adviser before the change can be made in the Registrar’s Office.

Special Registration

Students who find it impossible to register during the regularly scheduled registration periods may register after those periods using Special Registration Packets, available from academic advising offices. Mail-in registration packets are also available to students who qualify. There is a $10 charge for the use of either of these packets. Registration is not permitted after the end of the first week of classes, except for courses that begin later in the quarter (see Course Changes, below).

Course Changes

After registration has been completed, courses are added or dropped through the Registrar’s Office with a service charge of $5.00 for each change or set of changes made at the same time. Course changes must be approved in writing by the student’s academic adviser before the change can be made in the Registrar’s Office. No course has been officially added or dropped until the change has been recorded on the student’s permanent record.

Students are permitted to add ten-week courses during the first five days of each quarter only. Courses added after the fifth day of classes must be approved by petition to the Academic Affairs Committee of the respective school. In a two-week intensive session, courses may be added through the end of the second day of classes.

Students are permitted to drop ten-week courses through the end of the fifth week of the quarter. Two-week intensive courses may be dropped through Friday of the first week. In no case is a student ever dropped automatically from any class. The student must initiate the drop process through his or her academic adviser and the Registrar’s Office. See above (page 32) for the refund policy for dropped courses.

Auditing

Students enrolled in any degree program of the Seminary, or their spouses, are permitted to audit master’s-level classes in all three Schools for a fee of $25 per course, as long as the student in enrolled for credit, or has been during the current academic year (Fall through Summer). Fuller graduates are invited to audit two master’s level courses per year without charge. Active pastors and missionaries are invited to audit any master’s level course in the School of Theology or School of World Mission without charge for the first course. Subsequent courses may be audited for one-fourth of the current credit tuition fee. Other persons will be charged one-half of the current credit tuition fee. Enrollment as an auditor is subject to all limitations of class size, the priority of students... enrolled for credit, any special requirements for auditing a particular class, and the exclusion of auditors from a particular class or a given type of class.

Any person who is not a current student must apply to audit. Forms are available in the Admissions Office. There is an audit application fee. Audits are not recorded for audit-only students, nor is any permanent record kept. Beginning with winter quarter 1987, audits are not recorded on the transcripts of students in degree programs. Persons not enrolled as students at the Seminary who wish to audit classes must normally hold a B.A. degree or its equivalent.

Continuing Education Units

Many courses at Fuller can be taken for Continuing Education Units (non-credit units). One Continuing Education Unit (CEU) is defined as ten contact hours of satisfactory participation in an approved course or seminar. The CEU system provides a uniform measurement and record of non-credit post-secondary-level study. Professionals in a variety of fields, such as pastors, Christian school teachers, nurses, denominational executives and leaders of parachurch organizations, can use the CEU records to verify an educational experience that has helped them maintain or improve their skills. Fuller’s Council on Continuing Education can grant CEU recognition to any Seminary-sponsored course or seminar which meets CEU guidelines. The Seminary is licensed as a Provider of Continuing Education to Registered Nurses by the California State Board of Nursing (Provider No. 04149).

Participants in an approved Seminary-sponsored event may apply for CEUs only if they are not taking the course or seminar in question for academic credit (that is, they must be course auditors or participants in a non-credit special event). A one-time fee will be charged to set up a Continuing Education Unit file. Under no circumstances will CEUs be transferred as academic credit.

ACADEMIC POLICIES

Current and detailed information concerning academic policies is provided by the student handbook. Further information is provided by special handbooks prepared for students in the School of Psychology, the School of World Mission, the Center for Advanced Theological Studies, and the Extended Education Program.

Changes are effected from time to time in the general regulations and academic policies. There are established procedures for making changes and for making such changes known to the students of the Seminary. A curriculum or graduation requirement, when altered, is not made retroactive unless the alteration is to the student’s advantage and can be accommodated within the span of years normally required for graduation.

Each student is responsible for knowing and understanding current academic policies. Ignorance of a policy which appears in a student handbook or in the catalog is not a valid reason for granting an exception to any policy.

Residence Requirements and Transfer Credit

Residence requirements vary by degree program and are described in the appropriate sections of this catalog and in the student handbooks of the three schools. Subject to these limitations, Fuller normally accepts appropriate transfer credit from graduate institutions accredited by the Association of Theological Schools or regional accrediting associations. The Academic Advising Office is responsible for all transfer credit granted in the School of Theology. Students in the School of World Mission and the School of Psychology should consult their academic adviser concerning transfer credit.

Satisfactory Academic Progress

Satisfactory academic progress is defined as “reasonable progress toward completion of an educational goal.” The guidelines which follow (especially Academic Standing and Academic Probation) have been established to define the minimum standards for satisfactory academic progress at Fuller Theological Seminary. Individual schools or programs may impose additional or more stringent standards. Details may be found in the various student or program handbooks.

Enrollment Status

Student enrollment status is defined on a quarterly basis in most of the programs of the Seminary. One unit of credit is defined as an academic designation denoting a minimum of 25-30 hours of classroom experience, academic preparation and research. In addition to the following definitions, there are special guidelines for enrollment certification that pertain to certain classes and programs. Contact the Registrar’s Office for details.
Full-time Study. For master's level programs, the minimum full-time study load is twelve (12) units per quarter. The maximum study load is twenty (20) units in any quarter.

In the Ph.D. programs in the Schools of Theology and World Mission, the D.Miss. program, and the Master of Theology program in the School of Theology, eight (8) units per quarter is considered a full-time study load.

For Doctor of Ministry students, twelve (12) units in any given quarter constitutes full-time enrollment for that quarter and the following quarter. The maximum study load is twenty-four (24) units in any academic year.

For doctoral students in the School of Psychology, the minimum full-time study load is twelve (12) units per quarter. The maximum academic load is sixteen (16) units in any given quarter (including the summer quarter). Courses in any of the three schools (including School of Theology Extended Education) are counted toward the maximum load.

Half-Time Study. Six to eleven (6-11) units per quarter constitutes half-time status at the master's level, and in the doctoral programs in the School of Psychology. Half-time status for other Ph.D. programs, the D.Miss. program, and the Theology Th.M. program is defined as four to seven (4-7) units per quarter. In the D.Min. program, four to eight (4-8) units in any given quarter constitute half-time enrollment for that quarter and the following quarter.

Absences and Withdrawal

In the event of absence, it is the student’s responsibility to make necessary arrangements with the instructor. Faculty members decide their own policies concerning class attendance.

Whenever possible, students are expected to report to their academic adviser any anticipated extended absences. Students who do not expect to register for a given quarter (except summer) should consult with their academic adviser. In some cases of extended absence, it may be necessary for the student to reapply for admission.

Students who expect to discontinue their work at the Seminary are expected to complete withdrawal forms, to be signed by the academic adviser, the registrar, and the coordinator of student accounts. Students who drop all courses during the quarter will be charged a severance fee.

Academic Standing

To remain in good academic standing, students must successfully complete 75% of the courses in which they enroll with a cumulative grade point average (GPA) of 2.5.

Grades which represent successful completion are A, A-, B+, B, B-, C+, C, C-, CR (Credit), or SA (Satisfactory). Grades which do not represent successful completion are I (Incomplete), H (Hold), NC (No Credit), and W (Withdrawal).

Review of Student Progress. Review of student records will occur quarterly (after the grading period) for all students with regular admission status who have enrolled in at least four (4) courses or sixteen (16) units subsequent to matriculation (for students admitted on probation and special students, see below).

Academic Probation

In the event that a student fails to meet the above standards for good academic standing, he or she will be notified in writing and counseled toward reestablishment of good standing. If, within twelve (12) units after receiving such notification, the student has been unable to reestablish good academic standing, he or she will be placed on academic probation and notified in writing of this status. Students placed on probation may be subject to dismissal if they are unable to establish good academic standing within twenty (20) units after being placed on probation. In either case, students may request an exception to this policy by presenting a written description of their extenuating circumstances to the Academic Affairs Committee of the school involved.

Students Admitted on Probation and Special Students. Students who are admitted with probationary status, including special students, must establish good academic standing. Their records will be reviewed quarterly. They may be subject to dismissal if they are unable to establish good academic standing, after twenty-four (24) units of work at Fuller. This decision may be appealed by presenting a written description of extenuating circumstances to the Academic Affairs Committee of the school involved.

Students admitted with Special or Probationary status may be eligible for regular admission following the successful completion of forty-eight (48) units of study at Fuller. During this period, they may register for courses on a Credit/No Credit (CR/NC) basis, but the course grade submitted by the professor will be used when evaluating their progress toward regular admission status.

Appeal Process

Students may request exceptions to this policy, as noted above, by presenting a written description of their extenuating circumstances and their plan for establishment of good academic standing to the Academic Affairs Committee of their school.
for consideration. The student will be advised in writing of the decision after review by the committee.

Satisfactory Academic Progress and Financial Aid

Students must meet the Seminary’s minimum standards for satisfactory academic progress in order to qualify for financial aid.

Student Status and Financial Aid. Special students are ineligible for Seminary financial aid as well as federal financial aid (except that students admitted through the Black or Hispanic Ministries special access programs are eligible for the Seminary grant). Students admitted on probation are ineligible for Seminary financial aid, but may apply for federal financial aid after they have successfully completed twelve (12) units and are making satisfactory academic progress. Students admitted as special students or on probation who are later granted regular acceptance into a degree program will then become eligible for all forms of financial aid.

Academic Standing and Financial Aid. Review of the records of all regular students will occur quarterly (after the grading period). In the event that a student fails to meet the Seminary standards for good academic standing (see above), the student will be notified and will be ineligible for Seminary or Federal financial aid. Students are required to reestablish good academic standing, they will again be eligible for all forms of financial aid. If such students are unable to reestablish good academic standing and are placed on academic probation, they are ineligible for both Seminary and federal financial aid.

Academic Progress and Financial Aid. In order to maintain eligibility for federal financial aid, students are required to be making progress toward the completion of their degrees. For purposes of federal financial aid, students will be considered to have advanced one grade level when the following numbers of units have been completed (Group A—Ph.D. SOT/SWM, Th.M. SWM, D.Min.; Group B—all other degree programs):

Students need not advance a grade level each year, but are eligible for a certain amount of federal financial aid in each grade level and cannot receive additional federal financial aid until they have made advancement. No financial aid will be awarded to students who are enrolled beyond the time limit established by the Seminary for the completion of degree work, or for students who are registered for dissertation work bearing no units of credit.

Time Limits for Completion of Degrees

The time limit for completing the M.A. or M.Div. degree in the School of Theology is set at seven years from the date of matriculation. The time limit for the Th.M. degree is five years, for the D.Min. degree six years, and for the Ph.D. degree eight years. There is a ten-year time limit for completion of degrees in the School of World Mission (master's or doctoral level). The limit for the M.A. degree in marriage and family therapy in the School of Psychology is seven years, and for all doctoral programs in that School the limit is ten years. In all instances, the time limit is based on the date of matriculation.

Examinations

Final examinations are scheduled at specific hours during the last week of each quarter. These times are announced as part of the course schedule published at the beginning of each quarter. Students are expected to take final exams at the scheduled hours. In the case of serious illness, emergency, or when a student has three exams scheduled on the same day, arrangements may be made to take an exam at another time. Changes in exam time for any reason must be approved by petition through the Registrar's Office. A service charge is assessed, except when the rescheduling is due to hospitalization or three exams on the same day.

Permanent Academic Record

All grades as recorded become a permanent part of the student’s academic history. If a student receives a grade of No Credit, that grade will remain on the record. If such a course is retaken, the new registration and grade will also be recorded on the student’s permanent record.

After a period of two years, it is presumed that both student and faculty member have had ample opportunity to be aware of the grade recorded and to see that any appropriate adjustment has been made. At this point any grade recorded becomes permanent and cannot be changed.
Grading

Grades have been assigned the following numerical values for the purpose of computing the grade point average:

Grades of CR (Credit), NC (No Credit) or W (Withdrawal) are not computed in the student's grade point average.

Incomplete. A student whose work in a master's-level course is not completed at the end of the quarter may request a grade of Incomplete by returning a Request for Incomplete, signed by the professor, to the Registrar's Office by the end of the last day of the tenth week. Each faculty member decides whether work not finished at the end of the quarter warrants an incomplete grade for the course, a reduction in grade, or a grade of NC (no credit). The policy for the course is to be stated clearly in the course syllabus. Incompletes are normally granted only when the student's work in the course has not been completed due to extenuating circumstances.

If the incomplete grade is granted, the completed course work is due to the professor by the end of the quarter. Grade penalties for work completed during this period may be assessed if such a policy has been clearly described in the syllabus for the course. If the work is not completed within this time, the faculty member determines whether a reduced grade or a grade of NC (no credit) is warranted, based on the policy published in the course syllabus. The Incomplete must be resolved to a regular grade (A through C−, or NC) at this time; the grade of Incomplete cannot remain on the record. Further extensions of time (which can only be granted by the Academic Affairs Committee of the School involved) are not normally granted. When the grade has been recorded, a footnote appears on the student's transcript to indicate that the grade has been changed from an Incomplete.

Hold. A student enrolled in the Th.M. or Ph.D. program of the School of Theology, the D.Min. program, doctoral programs of the School of Psychology, or the D.Miss. program of the School of World Mission, whose work in a course in his or her respective school is not completed at the end of the quarter of registration, may request a "hold" grade from the professor. This allows two additional quarters to complete the work (except for D.Min. courses, where the Hold allows 18 months, and certain clinical psychology courses, which allow one year). Unless an extension is granted (by the Academic Affairs Committee of the School or program), the completed work must be submitted to the professor no later than the last day of the tenth week of the second quarter, and a grade must be submitted; the Hold grade cannot remain. When the grade has been recorded, no indication of the Hold grade remains on the student's transcript.

Credit/No Credit Option

Master's-level students may choose to take up to one-fourth of the coursework done at Fuller on a credit/no credit basis. This normally is a maximum of nine courses for M.Div. students and six courses for M.A. students; no more than one-third of this total may be in any one division (Biblical, Theology or Ministry). Psychology doctoral students may exercise this option in their regular M.A. Theology courses. In the School of Psychology doctoral curriculum in clinical psychology, only certain courses (such as the internship and dissertation) may be taken CR/NC. Students not enrolled in a degree program may exercise the CR/NC option at a rate of one course in four.

The student's transcript is marked with either a CR (credit) or NC (no credit) for the course, and the grade is not computed in the student's grade point average.

The exercising of the credit/no credit option is normally indicated at registration time on the class request card issued by the student's academic advisor. Changes in status may be made through the end of the second day of the second week of classes for ten-week courses, and through the end of the second day of classes in two-week intensive sessions. Changes must be made through the Registrar's Office.

Formal Statements of Community Standards

Fuller Theological Seminary expects all members of its community to live in accord with standards of wholesome Christian character. In order to clarify their understanding of Christian standards in areas of special concern, the Seminary faculty and Board of Trustees may adopt formal statements of community standards. Three such statements which have been adopted are those on academic integrity; sexual standards, marriage and divorce; and respect for people and property. These statements may be found on pages 163-165 of this catalog. Procedures for dealing with violations of these standards may be found in the various student, faculty and staff handbooks.
Graduation

The prescribed course of study as outlined in the curriculum for each degree program must be satisfactorily completed.

There is a minimum grade point average set for graduation in the various degree programs. These are announced in the appropriate sections of this catalog and in the student handbooks for the three schools and the various degree programs.

Students are responsible for meeting the graduation requirements set forth in the catalog published at the time of their matriculation. Students who take extended leaves of absence of more than one year are subject to the graduation requirements set forth in the catalog published at the time of their reinstatement unless written permission was obtained prior to their extended leave.

In addition to academic requirements for graduation, students must receive the endorsement of the faculty responsible for the degree program in which they are enrolled that they have acted responsibly in attempting to live in accord with standards of wholesome Christian character and with the general standards of the institution, as well as those of the particular program in which they are involved.

It is also necessary for students to present a satisfactory clearance of accounts prior to graduation. Students who have not made satisfactory financial arrangements will not have access to any student services, including transcripts, degree checks, diploma, transfer, or enrollment for another degree.

Students anticipating graduation must make written application for graduation through their academic adviser at the time of registration for their final quarter of enrollment or no later than the last day of the first week of classes. A graduation fee is charged at this time. Students who for any reason do not complete their degree requirements within this quarter must reapply for graduation.

Degrees are recorded quarterly. The last day of the quarter as indicated by the academic calendar is considered to be the official date of graduation in summer, fall and winter quarters. The date of Commencement is the graduation date for the spring quarter. Baccalaureate and Commencement exercises are held only at the end of the spring quarter. Participation in Commencement exercises is not equivalent to the conferral of the degree, which is official only when faculty approval has been given, the Registrar’s Office has determined that all academic requirements have been met, and satisfactory financial arrangements have been made.

ADMISSION

Requirements

Admission to Fuller depends on factors beyond the applicant’s academic record. These include theological development, Christian experience, spiritual growth, call to service and gifts for ministry. Men and women of God are qualified for Christian ministry by faith, moral character, experience and academic achievement. Such people are characterized by compassion for individual persons, by sensitivity to the needs of the total community, by a burden that the whole of God’s will be obeyed on earth, by a readiness to accept correction, by a desire for moral growth, by personal integrity, and, above all, by a mature trust in Jesus Christ as the foundation of life and ministry.

General standards for admission to the Seminary may be found on page 28 of this catalog. Specific requirements for entering degree programs are given within each degree program section. In addition, applicants for whom English is a second language must take a written and oral language examination (TOEFL). A score of 550 is required for admission to master's-level programs, and a score of 600 is required for admission to the Th.M. and doctoral programs.

Unclassified Students

Those individuals who desire Christian training, but who do not wish to study in a regular degree program, are welcomed. Men and women who are not certain of a definite call to the ministry and desire a time of seminary study to help them in determining God’s will for their lives may want to study as unclassified students.

THE THEOLOGICAL CURRICULUM

The theological curriculum which aims at excellence must combine breadth, depth and balance. It must include the basic areas which contain materials everyone engaged in Christian ministry should know and yet provide courses of special interest and concern to the individual student. It must be grounded in the Scriptures, the sure and solid authority of our faith, and be concerned for efforts to express faith in a coherent system of truth. It must reflect understanding of the traditions of the past, and show awareness of the needs of the present and the future. It must preserve what is genuine within the historic experience of the church while being open to what may be new by Christ’s Spirit.

Fuller approaches its task of theological training by way of the great Protestant tradition of biblical studies in the languages in which God was pleased to reveal his word. Greek and Hebrew are prerequisites for many courses in Bible and are constantly used in instruction. Courses in the theology and history division give the student a close acquaintance with the classical thinking of the church in its effort through the ages to express this revelation and to apply it as a guide through the perplexities and ambiguities of life. This background sets the stage for the ministry courses in which the various approaches to teaching God’s word are shaped from the perspective of theology.

A curriculum cannot include everything a servant of God will need for the rapidly changing world of these last decades of the 20th century, but it should not omit that which is essential. Furthermore, it must supply the basic content and skills which will enable one to feed God’s flock and to maintain personal growth with increasing responsibilities.

Degree Programs

The School of Theology offers programs leading to the Master of Divinity degree, the Master of Arts degree, the Doctor of Ministry degree, the Master of Theology degree, and the Doctor of Philosophy degree. In each case, it is possible to develop an area of concentration within the overall curriculum for the degree.

Field Education

The Seminary recognizes that the preparation of men and women for ministry can only be accomplished when students are given the opportunity to contextualize academic and practical learning. The Office of Field Education connects the Seminary and the Christian community, acting to assist students in making a transition from one to the other. The Field Education program of the Seminary places student interns in churches or related organizations, where under supervision they can develop practical competency in ministry. In addition to the Field Education internship program, students may enroll in a variety of practicums in their field of concentration under the direction of a faculty adviser.
Multidenominational Representation

To serve its multidenominational constituency, the Seminary has established an Office of Church Relations. This office seeks to facilitate and focus communication and interaction between students, the Seminary and the various denominations. It also coordinates Seminary relationships with individual congregations. In addition, the Seminary has an Office of Presbyterian Ministries and an Office of United Methodist Concerns, and has on its campus the office of the Theological Education Agency of the Reformed Church in America, which serves all ministerial candidates of the Reformed Church in America who are not attending one of the two denominational seminaries, and the American Baptist Theological Center.

MASTER OF DIVINITY

The Master of Divinity degree program prepares the student for full-time service in the church of Jesus Christ. It allows the student to train either for the general pastorate of a local church or for a specialized ministry as a staff minister. It enables a student within a three-year period to meet the range of denominational requirements for ordination. The program is also open to the student who desires to meet the requirements for ordination but who wishes to develop simultaneously a concentration in such areas as educational ministries, marriage and family ministries, youth ministries or cross-cultural ministries.

The Master of Divinity degree is designed so that it can be completed within three years to four years. However, many students pursue the program on a part-time basis for all or part of their course of study, and thereby extend their study over a longer period of time. In addition to its daytime schedule and normal ten-week quarters, the Seminary regularly offers a full range of evening courses and intensive ten-day courses, making possible a very flexible program of study.

Purpose

The Master of Divinity program prepares men and women for ministry within the Church of Jesus Christ.

The curriculum is controlled by a vision of Christ's Church as the people of God—a living, worshipping, witnessing community, within which faith is nurtured and through which Christ is served in the world. Guided by this vision, the curriculum is designed to instruct students in the study of theology in its widest sense, so that they may grow in the knowledge of God, discover and develop their God-given gifts and become more effective members of the body of Christ. This involves a deepening understanding of God and God's world through rigorous academic discipline; but it also involves, in part as the fruit of such discipline, personal spiritual growth and maturity, and the acquiring of the relevant skills that will enable students to use their theological insights effectively in practical Christian ministry.

Accordingly, the characteristics of the Master of Divinity program are determined by the marks of true Christian ministry.

1. The Christian minister should be a person who knows and delights in the Word of God, one who is able responsibly and in detail to explicate and interpret the divinely inspired Scriptures, but who wishes to develop simultaneously a concentration in such areas as educational ministries, marriage and family ministries, youth ministries or cross-cultural ministries.

2. The Christian minister should understand the doctrines and traditions of the Church and be able to interpret them clearly and compellingly for our own time. The minister should also be one who possesses such skills and abilities that it is possible for one to be able to discern and clearly articulate God’s Word for our world. The Master of Divinity program is designed to foster ministry that is rooted in the authority of the Bible.

3. The Christian minister should possess special abilities, theologically informed, for leading and equipping God’s people. The tasks that demand these skills are many: preaching, public worship, teaching, evangelism, counseling, spiritual formation, and administration. The minister should be one who not only develops such skills but enables others to share them. The Master of Divinity program is designed to foster ministry that is theologically responsible.

4. The Christian minister should recognize that evangelism in its widest sense is the responsibility of every Christian and is central to the apostolic nature and mission of the Church. The minister should be prepared both spiritually and intellectually to “do the work of an evangelist” and to enable others to share in that task. The Master of Divinity program is designed to foster ministry that is professionally competent.

5. The Christian minister should be an advocate of truth, a person able convincingly to demonstrate the credibility of the faith and, while informed of the strongest arguments that have been made against it, one able to witness to the revelation of God in Christ in the confidence of the Spirit of Truth. The Master of Divinity program is designed to foster ministry that is intellectually articulate.
6. The Christian minister is a person of deep and honest faith, a faith that is rooted in an authentic experience of God’s grace and that is expressed in a growth toward wholesome maturity in Christ. He or she is ready always to seek the will of God in the complex moral problems of personal life, and is sensitive to the even more complex ethical issues of the public arena. The Master of Divinity program seeks to foster ministry that is spiritually mature and morally sensitive.

7. The Christian minister should be a servant of the compassionate Lord, a person deeply concerned for social justice with a burden for the oppressed and the weak, a peacemaker in a world torn by war, an advocate for the hungry and homeless, a defender of all victims of oppression, and a prophet calling for justice from the rich and mercy for the wretched of the earth. The Master of Divinity program is designed to foster ministry that is socially concerned.

8. The Christian minister should be personally committed to a specific church within the Church universal, one who is loyal to the community and tradition of which he or she is a part yet who honors a wider loyalty to the Church universal. The Master of Divinity program is designed to foster ministry that is ecumenically open yet denominationally responsible.

These are some of the marks of true Christian ministry which determine the characteristics of the Master of Divinity program. By this vision of ministry, the curriculum is tested and controlled, goals are defined and teaching is motivated.

Admission Requirements

General standards of admission to the Seminary may be found on page 28 of this catalog. Applicants must have earned a regular baccalaureate degree or its equivalent from an accredited institution before they can be admitted to the M.Div. program. Applicants who graduate from an unaccredited college will be considered on an individual basis. They must have a minimum grade average of 3.0 and a minimum of one year (45 quarter hours/30 semester hours) of liberal arts coursework from an accredited college. In addition, all applicants to the Marriage and Family Ministries M.Div. Program are expected to take the Graduate Record Examination and have their scores on file with the Office of Admissions. GRE scores more than five years old are not acceptable. For those applicants whose native language is not English, the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) is required and may be substituted for the GRE.

Residence Requirements and Transfer Credit

A minimum of 64 units (normally 16 courses) must be earned at Fuller Seminary, with at least 48 units (normally 12 courses) on the Pasadena campus. Requests for transfer of credit for approved graduate studies done elsewhere will be evaluated on an individual basis by the Academic Advising Office. This may include a maximum of 20 courses (80 quarter hours) of graduate theological and biblical studies or a maximum of six courses (24 quarter hours) in non-religious studies if they are appropriate to the field of concentration and are approved by the director of academic advising.

Curriculum

The faculty at Fuller has developed a unified curriculum for the Master of Divinity degree built upon a system of core areas. These areas are distributed among the biblical studies, theology and ministry divisions.

A variety of courses is provided within each core area to maintain maximum flexibility in designing the student’s curriculum. Normally courses will stress at least one of the following features:

1. A strong language approach;
2. An emphasis on biblical content;
3. A focus on the theological perspective; or
4. A focus on ministry.

The student is required to complete successfully 36 courses (144 units) for the M.Div. degree as follows:

7. Field Education. A minimum of two courses in supervised field education is required to earn the M.Div. degree. One course is met by a ministry experience in a church for three quarters as a student intern. Two units of core credit are granted for this course. The second course requirement is met by an intern experience in a church, hospital, special community program, or parachurch organization, or in significant, related experiences approved by the Field Education Office. Two units of credit will be granted for this requirement. Additional courses may be taken for elective credit.

II. Electives (24 units)

The remaining courses may be drawn from the core, language or elective offerings. A student may use any course offered to satisfy the elective component of the M.Div. curriculum.

FOOTNOTES

1. The abbreviations in this column are used to designate their corresponding M.Div. core area groups. Such abbreviations are employed in the catalog “Courses of Study” section, on quarterly schedules, and in Expanded Course Descriptions.

2. These courses have been designed for advanced students. Students may enroll in these courses only after successful completion of 48 quarter hours. Some courses also have specific course prerequisites.

3. A student who wishes to concentrate in any area may modify the above pattern of ministry courses in accordance with the policy of the ministry division.

4. School of World Mission course.

Course Descriptions. The description of courses offered in support of the Master of Divinity degree program may be found in the “Courses of Study” section.

Concentrations

A variety of specific concentrations are offered within the M.Div. curriculum, enabling students to focus their studies in particular areas in order to meet their individual interests and needs. These areas of concentration are briefly described below. Further information may be obtained from the Academic Advising Office.

Christian Formation and Discipleship. The Master of Divinity concentration in Christian formation and discipleship enables students to obtain a strong foundation in biblical, historical and theological studies, while focusing on the teaching/equipping ministries of the church. Designed to prepare men and women for a general pastorate in a local congregation, or a specialized ministry as, for example, director of Christian education or...
minister of discipleship, the program allows students to meet the standard educational requirements for ordination while obtaining specialized preparation for educational and discipleship ministries.

There is a basic required core curriculum in the program which may be fulfilled through a number of alternatives. This provides students with a selection of courses in a specific area of interest based on a solid theological foundation.

The curriculum integrates academic course work with practical experience. The program consists of 36 courses (144 quarter hours), including five courses in Greek and Hebrew, eight courses in the area of biblical studies, eight courses in theology and church history, one elective course, and fourteen courses in practical ministry, including two supervised ministry experiences and a minimum of six courses in Christian formation and discipleship as follows:

CF 500  Foundations for Christian Formation
CF 507  Building Christian Community Through Small Groups

CF 510  Ecology of Faith Development
CF 560  Adult Formation and Discipleship
CF 505  Teaching the Bible
CF 530  Christian Formation of Children
CF 501  Educational Ministry of the Church
CF 502  The Equipping Pastor
CF 540  Youth Ministry
CF 545  Campus Ministries
CF 504  Inductive Bible Study
CF 546  Campus Bible Study
CF 580  Formation Seminar

Persons with a strong background in Christian education in their undergraduate work and students with particular goals for ministry may design an individualized Christian formation and discipleship program in consultation with the director of the department. It is also possible to combine a concentration in cross-cultural studies with an emphasis in Christian formation and discipleship.

Cross-Cultural Studies. This area of concentration enables students to obtain a thorough knowledge of biblical, historical and theological studies as well as a foundation in the social and behavioral sciences which are basic to the task of mission. Combining the resources of the School of Theology and the School of World Mission, this degree program provides special preparation for future missionaries who will need an ordained status for overseas missionary work, as well as men and women who plan to accept short-term missionary assignments and then continue afterwards in church ministry. Persons who do not plan to go overseas but are highly committed to the missionary task and want the mission component as a part of their preparation for ministry, and those who anticipate ministries in the United States among ethnic groups different from their own will also receive specialized training.

The curriculum for the Master of Divinity, cross-cultural studies, consists of 27 courses (108 quarter hours) in biblical studies, theological studies and practical ministries, 8 courses (32 quarter hours) in missiology, and one elective course (4 units), which can be taken in either school. Normally a student will take eight courses in the School of Theology and four courses in the School of World Mission during each academic year. The director of the Cross-Cultural Studies Program and a theology adviser will assist the student in selecting courses which will balance a theology and mission component.

Multicultural Ministries. The Master of Divinity concentration in multicultural ministries is designed to enable all students, regardless of ethnic background, to prepare for ministry in an increasingly ethnically pluralistic church and society. The basic emphasis of the M.Div. program on a strong biblical, historical, theological and ministry core of coursework is strengthened by a component of six courses with a particular ethnic emphasis. A range of curricular offerings which specialize in issues uniquely relevant to the Black and/or Hispanic church and community is available as a resource for this concentration. Students who anticipate pastoral ministry in the Black church or Hispanic church, or ministry in Southern California or wherever the population is richly varied in its ethnic diversity, will benefit from selection of this concentration.

Normally, four of the six courses in the multicultural component of this concentration will be taken from the offerings of the Ministry Division, and two from the offerings of the Biblical and/or Theological Divisions. Selection of appropriate coursework compatible with the interests of this concentration may be made in consultation with the appropriate academic adviser. Courses available include:

- NT 504 Principios De Interpretación Bíblica
- NT 508 Método Exegético
- NT 527 Trasfondo Judio para Estudios del Nuevo Testamento
- TH 504 Orientación para Investigación Teológica
- TH 573 La Crisis Hispana de las America
- TH 578 Contemporary Black Theology
- TH 581 Teología and Culture
- CH 580 Black Church in America
- GM 555 Black Culture and World View
- GM 560 Historia y Cultura Hispánicas
- GM 564 Foro de Recursos Comunitarios
- GM 566 Ministerio Urbano
- GM 567 Iglecrecimiento Avanzado
- GM 568 La Iglesia y La Familia Hispana
- PR 501 Black Preaching
- PR 502 Predicacion entre Hispánicos
- EV 518 Evangelism in the Black Church
- EV 519 Evangelism entre Hispánicos
- EV 563 Misiología para Hispanos

- CN 543 Psicología Pastoral
- PM 517 Black Church Administration
- PM 527 Teología Pastoral

Family Pastoral Care and Counseling. The family pastoral care and counseling Master of Divinity concentration is designed primarily to equip men and women for pastoral ministry, emphasizing theological foundations for family life and the spiritual resources of prayer, Bible study and Christian character.

This program integrates academic course work with practical training. The program consists of 36 courses (144 quarter hours), including five courses in Greek and Hebrew, eight courses in the area of biblical studies, eight courses in theology and church history, four courses in practical ministry, three courses of supervised field work and a minimum of seven courses in family pastoral care and counseling from the following:

- CN 500 Marriage and Family Counseling
- CN 520 Pastoral Counseling
- CN 522 Basic Counseling Skills
- CN 570 Divine Healing and Counseling the Physically Ill
- CN 571 Demonology and Mental Illness
- CF 510 Ecology of Christian Formation
- PM 501 Theology of Pastoral Care
- PM 502 Ministry to the Dying and Bereaved
- PM 520 Church Management

Field work experiences will be concentrated in local churches or pastoral counseling centers where students will work under the supervision of a pastor and the director of the family pastoral care and counseling program. Practical experience during the first year will be designed to expose students to all facets of general pastoral ministry with the second and third years focused on family ministries and pastoral counseling. Students will also take a course in clinical pastoral education in an approved mental hospital, general hospital or other facility.

The Master of Divinity with concentration in family pastoral care and counseling is designed so that it may be completed within three to four years. However, the program may be pursued on a part-time basis and many students choose to extend course work over a greater period of time.

Youth Ministries. Fuller Seminary offers two programs combining theological education with a concentration in youth ministries.

The Institute of Youth Ministries is an off-campus program operated jointly with Young Life. This program, designed primarily for persons preparing for ministry with Young Life, integrates a foundation of biblical and theological studies with a prescribed concentration in evangelistic youth ministries, designed in cooperation with the Ministry Resources Department of Young Life. With the assistance of Institute personnel and theology advisers, this concentration may be incorporated into the Master of Divinity curriculum. The curriculum for the Master of Divinity degree with a concentration in youth ministries will normally include the basic youth ministries courses and field education courses of the Institute of Youth Ministries within the framework of the Master of Divinity core and elective courses.

A second program is offered on the Pasadena campus as a concentration in youth ministries under the direction of the Christian formation and discipleship department. This program helps prepare persons for youth ministry primarily in the context of the local church. The basic M.Div. core curriculum is followed in languages and biblical context of the local church. The basic M.Div. core curriculum is followed in languages and biblical

CF 588 Camping Ministries
CF 552 Crisis Intervention in Youth Ministry
CF 548 Discipling Urban Youth

Marriage and Family Ministries. The Master of Divinity degree concentration in marriage and family ministries prepares the student to meet the requirements for ordination and simultaneously provides a concentration in ministry to the family. Flexibility within the curriculum allows one to prepare for a general pastorate in a local congregation, or a specialized ministry as a staff minister in the area of marriage and the family. The program, offered by the School of Theology with the support of the Marriage and Family faculty of the School of Psychology, focuses on the preventive and corrective dimensions of this ministry, and the growth and development of skilled marriage and family counselors.

Admission to the Master of Divinity program in marriage and family ministries requires, in addition to the established admission requirements for the M.Div. degree, a 3.0 grade point average and at least one year of work (36 quarter hours or 24 semester hours) in the social and/or behavioral sciences. Previous background or experience in counseling-related fields is highly recommended. When appropriate, a personal interview is included in the requirements for admission. Scores from the Graduate Record Exam (GRE), taken within the last five years, are also required as a part of the application process. Applicants whose native language is not English may submit recent scores from the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) in place of the GRE.

Advancement to the second year of the MFM program is granted in the spring quarter of the first year or when the student has completed the first year clinical sequence. This advancement is granted by the MFM faculty and is based on the candidate's appropriate personal and relational characteristics, demonstrated clinical competency and readiness, and academic performance as measured by overall grade-point average in courses taken at Fuller.

The curriculum of 41 courses (160 quarter hours) must be completed successfully for this non-thesis degree. Eight of these courses are in the area of biblical studies, eight in theology and church history, one in theoretical integration course (designed to integrate the disciplines of theology and marriage and family studies), and 15 are specified courses in marriage and family ministries.

Of the 15 marriage and family courses, five are preventive, teaching the enhancement of positive family structure and function; five are corrective courses, providing instruction in the treatment of marriage and family dysfunctions; one research course trains students in research design and methodology; and four practicum courses are designed to provide opportunity for observation and supervised direct client contact in clinical and church settings.

Core courses in marriage and family are taught by the Marriage and Family faculty of the School of Psychology. See page 135 for course listings.

MASTER OF ARTS

The Master of Arts degree program of the School of Theology offers an opportunity to undertake two years of graduate theological study for a wide range of general and specialized purposes.

Purpose

The Master of Arts program in its various configurations seeks to accomplish the following purposes:

1. To cultivate competent skills in the study and interpretation of the Word of God;
2. To develop an understanding of theology and fashion a systematic theological framework, informing both the ethics of personal and social behavior and the practice of ministry;
3. To understand the origin and growth of the Christian tradition and to appreciate its richness and diversity;
4. To promote growth in Christian maturity and ministry in the church and in the world.

Students enter the Master of Arts program at Fuller with a variety of personal and career goals. A staff of academic advisers is available to aid in the selection of concentrations and courses. Career counseling is also provided to enable students to discover the variety of opportunities for both lay and professional ministry.
Admission Requirements

Admission and academic standards are generally the same as those established for the Master of Divinity degree. General standards for admission to the Seminary may be found on page 28 of this catalog.

Residence Requirements and Transfer Credit

A minimum of 12 courses (48 quarter units) must be earned at Fuller Seminary. By special request an applicant may be granted transfer credit for approved graduate studies done elsewhere. This may include a maximum of 12 courses (48 quarter hours) of graduate theological and biblical studies or a maximum of six courses (24 quarter hours) in non-religious studies if they are appropriate to the field of concentration and are approved by the director of academic advising.

Degree Requirements

Flexibility marks the Master of Arts program in the School of Theology at Fuller. The degree requirements can be completed in two years of full-time study, although many elect to earn the degree over an extended period of time through part-time study. The degree may be completed over a six-year period through evening courses alone. Work for the general Master of Arts program may be completed in several extension areas, including Seattle, the San Francisco Bay Area, Phoenix, and Orange County and San Diego County in Southern California.

In general, the Master of Arts degree requires:
1. A total of at least 24 courses (96 quarter units);
2. A minimum of 12 courses (48 quarter units) earned at Fuller Theological Seminary;
3. A minimum of 12 courses (48 quarter units) distributed over two divisions: (1) biblical studies (not including language) and (2) theology and church history;
4. A two-year plan of study approved by an academic adviser.

Field Education. While field experience is optional for this degree, it is highly recommended in order to complete one's preparation for service and future placement. For this degree, as many as six courses may be taken in a supervised practical service and study program to be planned with the field education department. Students applying for academic credit must fulfill all course requirements established by this department.

Biblical Languages. Biblical languages are not required for the M.A. degree (with the exception of one track for the M.A. for psychology students and the pre-Ph.D. M.A.). Every student, however, is strongly advised to learn at least one biblical language since all theological education should be grounded on the Scriptures, the careful understanding of which is aided by a knowledge of the original languages. Also, a majority of the courses in biblical studies require the knowledge of a biblical language.

General Program

The general theological M.A. requires a minimum of twelve courses taken in biblical studies, theology, church history, ethics and philosophy. The remaining twelve courses may be drawn from the same fields, or may be selected from courses in ministry. Certain courses offered by the School of World Mission and by the School of Psychology may also be elected. Students often construct a curriculum including six courses in biblical studies and six courses in theological or historical studies, with the remaining twelve courses selected in the light of their own background, interests, and vocational plans.

Specific and separate curricula for the general M.A. degree have been devised by the faculty for students preparing for Asian, Black or Hispanic ministries.

Concentrations

A concentration of studies may be planned in any area of the curriculum. For some areas a prescribed concentration has been designed by the faculty. In other areas, students may design personalized concentrations in consultation with their academic advisers.

In addition to the concentrations described below, a special concentration of courses designed for students pursuing the M.A. in theology as a part of the Ph.D. program in the School of Psychology is described on page 121.

Biblical Studies and Theology (pre-Ph.D.). The Center for Advanced Theological Studies of the School of Theology has developed a specific curriculum to satisfy the basic categories in biblical languages, biblical studies and theology recommended for admission into the School of Theology Ph.D. program (application and admission to the Ph.D. program is a separate process). One course is to be taken from each of the following:

Hermeneutics/Exegetical Method
New Testament I: Gospels
New Testament II: Epistles
Christian Formation and Discipleship. The Master of Arts degree, Christian formation and discipleship is designed to prepare men and women for the educational and discipleship ministries of the church. Persons who desire graduate work in theological education but who do not wish to undertake the extended program required by some denominations for ordination have the opportunity to obtain a general foundation in biblical and theological studies, while focusing on the teaching/equipping ministries of the church. The curriculum of 24 courses (96 quarter hours) must be completed successfully for this degree. Six of these courses are in the area of biblical studies, six in theology/church history, four in ministry fields and eight in Christian formation and discipleship.

Elective

Persons with a strong background in Christian education in their undergraduate work and students with particular goals for ministry may design an individualized program in consultation with the director of the department. Practical learning experiences have been built into this program to provide opportunities to apply academic information to ministry settings. It is also possible to combine a concentration in cross-cultural studies with an emphasis in Christian Formation and Discipleship.

Cross-Cultural Studies. This area of concentration is designed to prepare students for Christian ministry in cross-cultural situations. It provides a foundation for involvement in mission through biblical, historical and theological studies as well as through the social and behavioral sciences. Combining the resources of the School of Theology and the School of World Mission, this degree program provides special preparation for future missionaries; people in a variety of professions who hope to share their faith cross-culturally (e.g., educators, community development specialists, doctors, etc.); and those who anticipate ministries in the United States among ethnic groups different from their own.

The curriculum for the Master of Arts in cross-cultural studies consists of 24 courses divided evenly between the School of Theology and the School of World Mission as follows:

School of Theology (12 courses)
- Old Testament (2)
- New Testament (2)
- Church History (2)
- Theology and Ethics (2)
- Ministry (1)
- Electives (3)
School of World Mission (12 Courses)

MT 520  Biblical Theology of Mission
MB 500  Cultural Anthropology in Cultural Perspective
MC 500  Introduction to Church Growth and World Evangelization
MB 530  Language/Culture Learning and Mission
MR 520  Phenomenology and Institutions of Folk Religion
MH 520  The Historical Development of the Christian Movement
ML 500  Introduction to Leadership
Electives (5)

The student may elect to acquire a specialization within the Master of Arts in cross-cultural studies. This option requires nine theology courses, nine missiology courses and six courses in the area of specialization. The area of specialization may be from either theology or missiology. Current specializations include church planting, anthropology, Christian formation and discipleship, language and culture learning, Bible translation, Asian studies and Muslim studies, and urban studies and evangelism. Others may be arranged according to individual needs and interests.

Multicultural Ministries. The Master of Arts concentration in multicultural ministries is designed to enable all students, regardless of ethnic background, to prepare for ministry in an increasingly ethnically pluralistic church and society. The emphasis of the M.A. program on a strong biblical, historical, and theological core of coursework is strengthened by a component of six courses with a particular ethnic emphasis. A range of curricular offerings which specialize in issues uniquely relevant to the Black and/or Hispanic church and community is available as a resource for this concentration. Students who anticipate pastoral ministry in the Black church or Hispanic church, or ministry in Southern California or wherever the population is richly varied in its ethnic diversity, will benefit from selection of this concentration.

Normally, four of the six courses in the multicultural component of this concentration will be taken from the offerings of the Ministry Division, and two from the offerings of the Biblical and/or Theological Divisions. Selection of appropriate coursework compatible with the interests of this concentration may be made in consultation with the appropriate academic adviser. A list of some of the courses available may be found under the listing for this concentration in the Master of Divinity section.

Semitic Languages and Literature. The faculty of the Old Testament Department has designed a prescribed concentration in Semitics for students who wish to pursue a career of teaching or research. The purpose of the concentration is to provide a theological and linguistic foundation for study of the Old Testament. Training in biblical and theological disciplines is indispensable for the Semitics scholar to teach Old Testament in a university, college or seminary.

The general requirements for completion of the M.A. with this concentration include 24 courses as described below. At least eight courses in Semitic studies must be taken in residence. The balance may be transferred from another institution, subject to examination in the courses to be transferred when appropriate.

In addition to the basic admission requirements for the M.A. degree, a basic course in Hebrew (three quarters or two semesters) and reading knowledge of one modern language (preferably German or French) are prerequisites for admission to this program. The modern language prerequisite may be met during the first quarter of residency. Students with an M.Div. degree may receive the M.A. with this concentration by completing 12 additional courses. This combined work must meet the above prerequisites and must include the required courses in Semitic languages.

Youth Ministries. Fuller Theological Seminary offers two Master of Arts programs for persons preparing for ministry to youth. The first is offered through the Institute of Youth Ministries, in cooperation with Young Life, and is primarily designed for Young Life staff members. The second is offered on the Pasadena campus as a concentration in youth ministries under the direction of the Christian formation and discipleship faculty.

Institute of Youth Ministries. The Institute of Youth Ministries offers a program of theological education leading to the professional Master of Arts degree with a concentration in youth ministry. The program of study integrates a foundation of biblical and theological studies with a prescribed concentration in evangelistic youth ministries, designed in cooperation with the Ministry Resources Department of Young Life.

Although the Institute is designed primarily for persons preparing to serve on the staff of Young Life, other persons preparing for ministry with youth may pursue this concentration. Institute personnel and theology advisers will help design a curriculum to meet individual needs for preparation in this area of ministry.

The curriculum for the Master of Arts degree with a concentration in evangelistic youth ministries consists of 12 courses in biblical and theological studies, and 12 specialized courses in youth ministries, including four to five field education courses under qualified supervision.
Fourteen specialized courses relating to ministry with youth have been designed in cooperation with Young Life, including such courses as:

DOCTOR OF MINISTRY

The Doctor of Ministry is a professional degree. The program is designed to serve the need of ministers for an experience of continuing education which renews the personal life of faith, further develops professional competence and stimulates continued growth in biblical and theological foundations for ministry. Using the resources of the Seminary, a program of study has been developed which provides options including emphases in pastoral care, church growth, worship/preaching, renewal/evangelism, marriage and family ministries, and church management. Participants in the program are afforded the opportunity for continuing education while remaining active in their local ministries. The program of study combines a critical assessment of experience with a peer group learning situation under guidance of leaders who have expertise in developing and sustaining effective ministry.

The Doctor of Ministry program is administered by the Continuing and Extended Education division of the Seminary. Further information on this School of Theology degree program may be found beginning on page 147.

THE CENTER FOR ADVANCED THEOLOGICAL STUDIES

The Graduate Studies Program at Fuller Theological Seminary began in the 1950s. In 1988, the program was reconstituted as the Center for Advanced Theological Studies. Its purpose is to promote research, provide instruction in the field of theological knowledge, and to prepare future scholars and teachers. The Center is served by a Graduate Faculty of full and associate professors who have special designated responsibilities in theological research and graduate education. It is staffed administratively by its director, who has the rank of associate dean, assisted by the Center’s coordinator. The Graduate Faculty consists of scholars who have distinguished themselves in research, publication, and graduate level teaching and supervision. In addition to the full and associate members of the Graduate Faculty, the Center is also served by contributing members of the resident faculty in their capacity as mentors and course supervisors, and by auxiliary members from other institutions who contribute their expertise in specialized fields. The work of the Center is supervised by a faculty committee.

The Center offers programs leading to the degrees of Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D.) and Master of Theology (Th.M.). These programs are offered in the following concentrations of Christian studies: Old Testament, New Testament, Biblical Studies, History, Theology, and Ethics.

Admission Requirements

Graduate students who seek admission to the degree programs of the Center should possess demonstrated academic gifts, and should be committed to a Christian calling in a life of scholarly research and theological reflection, leading to teaching and publication. Admission to the Ph.D. or Th.M. programs is based on superior intellectual ability as demonstrated by the applicant’s 1) grade point average and Graduate Record Examination scores, and 2) a first theological degree (Master of Divinity) or its equivalent from an accredited institution.

An M.A. degree from an accredited institution is normally considered acceptable for admission if it includes the basic Fuller M.Div. core requirements in biblical languages, biblical studies, church history and theology (as outlined on pages 46-48 of this catalog).

If the student’s previous study has not included the study of Hebrew and Greek to the level required by the Fuller M.Div., the student must demonstrate competence by examination or coursework during the first year in order to remain in the program. Enrollment in a major concentration is contingent upon completion of coursework equivalent to the corresponding core requirements in the Fuller M.Div. curriculum.

A 3.0 grade point average in biblical and theological subjects is required for admission to the Th.M. program, and a 3.5 grade point average for admission to the Ph.D. program. Native speakers of English must have taken the Graduate Record Examination (GRE) within the last five years. A combined (verbal and quantitative) GRE score of 1050 is normally considered a minimum entrance requirement, with preference given to those with verbal scores in excess of 600.

Applicants whose native language is not English must have taken the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) with a minimum score of 600. Test scores must not be more than five years old.

Application for admission must be received by January 15. Application files, including transcripts, references, and GRE or TOEFL scores, must be completed by February 15. Notification of a decision is sent out by April 15. During the application process, applicants are encouraged to contact faculty members with whom they would like to work, to discuss their interests. Decisions concerning acceptance and appointment of mentors are made by the Center Committee.

Graduate Assistantships, Teaching Fellowships and Scholarships

Financial aid covering part of the tuition cost is available to graduate students in the form of graduate assistantships, where remuneration is given for academic assistance offered to faculty members, and teaching fellowships, where advanced students are allowed to offer courses in the Seminary curriculum. Teaching fellowships in the biblical language program are also available to qualified students.

A number of tuition scholarships are awarded annually. Major tuition scholarships cover tuition for a course taken within the school year for which the award is given. Minor tuition scholarships cover part of the tuition.
Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D.) Degree

The degree of Doctor of Philosophy is the highest academic degree awarded by the Seminary. The Ph.D. is a prerequisite for a vocation in teaching at the university, seminary and college level. The School of Theology Ph.D. is designed to prepare its graduates for a vocation in theological teaching and scholarship by equipping them with the essential tools for high level scholarship, by guiding them in a major research project in the area of their major concentration, and by supporting the development of skill in teaching. The Ph.D. is awarded upon successful completion of the language examinations, course work consisting of nine seminars or directed reading courses, Comprehensive Examinations, and a scholarly dissertation based on research in the area of the student's major concentration.

Concentrations and Fields. At the outset of study the student is assigned by the Center Committee to a primary mentor, who is a professor working in the major field of the student's research. Under the guidance of the mentor, and with the approval of the Center Committee, the student designs a program of nine eight-unit courses. These courses consist of seminars or directed studies. Major research papers area component in all seminars and directed studies.

The major field of study is chosen from one of the six concentrations offered by the Center: Old Testament, New Testament, Biblical Studies, History, Theology, and Ethics. In addition to the major field, the Ph.D. program may be taken with one or two minor fields. Students are required to take no fewer than five courses in their major field and at least three courses in one or two minor fields. The second minor field is available as an option for those students whose research would be enhanced or facilitated by such study, or for those who wish to engage in an area of study not immediately applicable to their dissertation research. The minor fields must be chosen from the concentrations offered by the Center.

Biblical Studies majors take all nine courses in Old Testament and New Testament, with at least three courses in each of these two fields, with Biblical Studies majors who wish to specialize in Hermeneutics take three courses in Hermeneutics and three courses in each of the two minor fields. All courses selected must contribute to the dissertation topic or the areas of the Comprehensive Examinations.

A second mentor, not necessarily chosen from the major field, is appointed by the Center Committee to provide further supervision and to serve as the second internal reader of the dissertation.

Language Requirements. In order to engage in high level research both in their degree program and in their future careers, students must be proficient in languages that relate to their field of study. In addition to New Testament Greek and biblical Hebrew, which are required for admission to the program, Ph.D. students must demonstrate knowledge of a second modern language (normally German or French) and Latin, by examination, within one calendar year of acceptance and prior to beginning course work (except that a methods seminar may be taken during language study). Aramaic or Syriac may be substituted for Latin by permission. Students must also demonstrate knowledge of a second modern language (French or German) before the fifth course is taken.

Students majoring in Biblical Studies or New Testament may substitute biblical Aramaic for Latin.

Students majoring in Old Testament must also demonstrate competence in biblical Aramaic (which may be substituted for Latin, if Latin is not needed for dissertation research), and in Akkadian and either Ugaritic or Arabic (which may be achieved through a Semitics minor course as part of the doctoral program).

Students who have already studied any of these languages for credit may petition to have the examination waived with respect to that language. In cases where another language is more relevant to the field of research, students may petition to be examined in that language instead of one of the above prescribed languages.

Course Work. This phase of the Ph.D. program is divided into two stages, with the Comprehensive Examinations placed between the stages. Stage One consists of five courses, equivalent to the number of courses required for the Th.M. degree. These courses include a mandatory introductory survey course, a mandatory methods seminar, and a course in one of the student's minor fields. Students may not take more than one course per quarter. When a seminar is offered in the field of a student's studies, the student is expected to attend the designated seminar. The topics of courses will be decided by the student in consultation with the mentor and the teacher of the seminar or reading course, and will be reviewed by the Center Committee. Upon satisfactory completion of five courses, the student will be subject to review by the Center Committee and will take the Comprehensive Examinations in four areas of study. Failure to pass the Comprehensive Examinations will lead to retaking the examinations not passed. If no satisfactory result is forthcoming, a terminal Th.M. degree will be granted upon completion of an approved thesis.

Passage of the Comprehensive Examinations leads to Stage Two of the program. Inasmuch as dissertations frequently need some adjustment of method, revision of topic, or narrowing of scope after a student has done preliminary research, the development of this second stage will involve reflection on the dissertation project between student and mentor. All four courses of this second stage will be directed research, designed to round out and bring closure to the student's research. Successful completion of the final research course leads to the final gathering of material, and the writing and editing of the dissertation.

Each course taken will receive a letter grade. No grade below B will count toward the Ph.D. (B− is considered below B). Students who receive three or more B grades in the first five courses of their program will be deemed not to have reached a sufficiently high standard to qualify for entrance to Stage Two of the program, and will be automatically transferred to the Th.M. program. Hold grades are given to students who do not complete their work in the quarter in which they are registered. Students with a Hold grade are allowed a maximum of two additional quarters to complete their work (the summer is considered one quarter as well).

Comprehensive Examinations. Comprehensive Examinations are taken in four areas of study determined during Stage One of the student’s program. Students are not given formal admission to Stage Two of their course work until they have successfully completed their Comprehensive Examinations. They may register for their sixth course while awaiting the outcome of their Examinations, but may not proceed further. The examinations are normally given twice a year, during the third and fourth weeks of October and the first two weeks of April.

Dissertation. A scholarly dissertation must be presented and approved as the final requirement for graduation. The following rules apply to Ph.D. dissertations:

1. The dissertation topic, in the area of the student’s major field, is normally selected at the outset of the program in consultation with the primary mentor and with the approval of the Center Committee. The topic is subject to revision as the student’s research proceeds. Changes of topic must be supported by the primary mentor and be given formal approval by the Center Committee.

2. Dissertations are expected to make use of the required languages, where appropriate, and incorporate the results of course work and general reading.

3. The primary and secondary mentors act as supervisors in the preparation of the dissertation.

4. The length of the dissertation is limited to 90,000 words, or roughly 350 pages, including text and notes. It is understood that some topics lend themselves to shorter length.

5. No research for which credit has already been given toward a degree either at Fuller or any other institution may qualify to be recognized for the School of Theology Ph.D.

6. There will be two internal examiners (normally the primary and secondary mentors) and an external examiner appointed by the School of Theology faculty upon the recommendation of the Center Committee.

7. Candidates must submit three copies of their dissertation to the office of the Center for Advanced Theological Studies no later than December 31 of the year preceding the Spring gradu-

6. There will be two internal examiners (normally the primary and secondary mentors) and an external examiner appointed by the School of Theology faculty upon the recommendation of the Center Committee.

7. Candidates must submit three copies of their dissertation to the office of the Center for Advanced Theological Studies no later than December 31 of the year preceding the Spring graduation. These copies will then be sent for formal evaluation by the two internal examiners (normally the first and second mentors) and the external examiner.

8. No dissertation will be sent to the external examiner until cleared by the primary mentor through the Center Committee.

9. All candidates must successfully complete an oral defense of the dissertation following the examiners’ reading of the dissertation. The oral defense, with its focus on the dissertation, provides the opportunity for examiners and faculty to review the dissertation with the candidate, and resolve questions of competence. The examination normally involves both mentors, the Graduate Faculty of the major field department, representatives of the Center Committee, plus a review of the written comments of the external examiner (if not present). In preparation for the oral examination, candidates will present by April 15 of the year of graduation five unbound copies of their dissertations. These copies should embody any corrections and necessary alterations noted by the examiners. All revisions should be made in consultation with the primary mentor. The oral examination will take place before the end of April in the year of graduation.

10. The program makes use of the following distinctions in the evaluation of dissertations: Pass (either Superior or Adequate), Resubmit, and Inadequate. In cases where any one of the three examiners assesses a dissertation as not showing “adequate knowledge of the field of study,” or as not showing “adequate evidence of independent research and originality in making a contribution to knowledge,” or as not being satisfactory in its format or literary presentation, the dissertation must be graded Resubmit or Inadequate. Dissertations which are graded Inadequate may not be resubmitted.

11. In all cases where a reader grades a dissertation Resubmit, the original recommendations of the readers will be reviewed in the oral defense following the resubmission of the dissertation. Only one resubmission is normally permitted.

12. After passage of the oral examination, three copies of the dissertation in its final form will be presented to the office of the Center for Advanced Theological Studies by May 15 of the year of graduation. Copies should be on 100 percent rag paper for binding. The third copy will be sent to University Microfilms International for microfilming. Graduation may not take place until the oral examination is passed, and the three copies of the dissertation in final form have been submitted.

Interschool Ph.D. Degree

The Interschool Ph.D. at Fuller provides an opportunity for students to pursue advanced studies... which draw on the strengths of more than one of the Seminary’s three schools. Students who seek to enter this program must satisfy the entrance requirements of the respective school insofar as they pertain to the proposed course of study. Aplication deadlines and requirements may vary according to the proposed course of study. The Director of Admissions can assist prospective students with the application process. Admission to the Interschool Ph.D. is granted by the Interschool Graduate Committee.

Students in this program may take courses in the areas of concentration offered by the Center for Advanced Theological Studies. All work done in these courses must meet the standards laid down by the Center Committee. Applicants to the Interschool Ph.D. program who wish to work primarily in theology must major in one of the concentrations offered by the Center.

Master of Theology (Th.M.) Degree

The degree of Master of Theology is a higher master’s degree which may be pursued by graduate students desiring a deeper and more specialized course of study than those offered by the M.A. and M.Div. It may be taken by graduate students who seek to bring to the pastoral and other forms of ministry an added depth of knowledge in biblical studies, history, theology or ethics. It may also be taken by Ph.D. candidates who wish to add an extra dimension to their field of specialization.
The Th.M. is offered in the same areas of concentration as the Ph.D.: Old Testament, New Testament, Biblical Studies, History, Theology, and Ethics. The Th.M. is awarded as a terminal degree to students whose course work and performance in the Comprehensive Examinations do not meet Ph.D. standards. In such cases the awarding of the Th.M. is subject to satisfactory completion of course work and the submission of a thesis which meets the standards of the Th.M.

Concentrations and Fields. At the outset of study the student is assigned by the Center Committee to a mentor, who is a professor working in the major field of the student’s research. Under the guidance of the mentor and with the approval of the Center Committee the student designs a program of five eight-unit courses. These courses consist of seminars or directed studies. Major redirected studies.

Three courses are to be selected from the major field, and two from one or two minor fields.
Biblical studies majors, however, must take all five courses in Old and New Testament, with at least two courses in each of these two fields. By permission of the Center Committee, one minor may be taken in Semitics, practical theology or missio-ology. All courses must contribute to the thesis topic.

Th.M. students are expected to attend a mandatory methods seminar in their major field and to carry out their course work in the context of such other graduate seminars which are offered by the Center for Advanced Theological Studies as part of its regular curriculum.

Language Requirements. In order to engage in research in the program and to work at an advanced level in subsequent study, students must be proficient in a modern language that relates to the field of their study. Students must demonstrate a knowledge of this language (normally German or French) by examination within one year of entering into the program and prior to beginning course work (except that a methods seminar may be taken during language study).
Competence in New Testament Greek and bibliical Hebrew is required for admission to the program.

Thesis. A scholarly thesis must be presented and approved as the final requirement for graduation. The following rules apply to Th.M. theses:

1. A thesis topic in the area of the student’s major field is normally selected at the outset of the program. The topic is chosen under the guidance of the mentor and with the approval of the Center Committee.

2. Theses are expected to make use of the required languages, where appropriate, and to incorporate the appropriate results of course work and general reading.

3. The mentor serves as the supervisor and also normally as the examiner of the thesis.

4. The length of the thesis is to be limited to 45,000 words, or roughly 175 pages including text and notes. It is understood that some topics lend themselves to shorter lengths.

5. No research for which credit has already been given toward a degree either at Fuller or any other institution may qualify to be recognized for the School of Theology Th.M.

6. The outline must be approved by the mentor by January 2 of the intended year of graduation.

7. A copy of the thesis for examination must be presented by March 1.

8. The program makes use of three grades in the evaluation of theses: Superior, Adequate, and Inadequate. These grades apply to content, format, and literary presentation. In cases where content, format or literary presentation is judged Inadequate, the thesis is graded Resubmit or Fail. Only one resubmission is normally permitted.

9. By May 15 one final copy of the approved thesis (on 100 percent rag paper) is to be presented to the office of the Center for Advanced Theological Studies for binding.

Transfer to the Ph.D. Program. Students who enter the Th.M. program may petition the Center Committee to transfer to the Ph.D. program. The petition must be supported by the recommendation of the course professors and the student's mentor. Students who transfer to the Ph.D. program must demonstrate in their course work that they have attained the level of Ph.D. work. Before proceeding in their course work such students must receive approval from the Center Committee for their revised program of course work and their dissertation topic. Students who transfer to the Ph.D. must satisfy the Ph.D. language requirements prior to taking their fifth course. Comprehensive Examinations are taken after the fifth course. Satisfactory performance in the Comprehensive Examinations is a prerequisite for entry to Stage Two of the Ph.D. program.

Time Limits For Completion of Degrees

The normal upper limit for completion of the Ph.D. is eight years and that for the Th.M. is five years, dated from the fall quarter following acceptance into the program.

Students are expected to register each fall, winter and spring quarter. Students who do not register for course work or language study are required to pay a continuation fee. Students who do not register for three successive quarters (not including summer quarter) will be automatically placed on the Inactive list. In order to reenter the program they must petition the Center Committee in writing. Reentry is subject to availability of places, full payment of fees, and the approval of the Center Committee.

Course Listings

Seminars and directed studies offered in support of the Ph.D. and Th.M. programs are designated by 800 numbers. A list of seminars and language classes may be found in the Courses of Study section on page 87 of this catalog. A list of research areas covered by the directed studies is available from the office of the Center for Advanced Theological Studies.

SPECIAL AND COOPERATIVE PROGRAMS

Fuller Theological Seminary is committed to meeting the needs of churches and of those who seek to serve them. In the School of Theology, a number of special institutes, programs and cooperative relationships have been developed which seek to make the resources of theological education available to those engaged in work and ministry, and to gather educational resources to focus on specific needs of churches and of those preparing for specialized ministries. To accomplish this, these various special and cooperative programs:

1. Employ alternate systems for the delivery of education, such as extension classes, convocations, seminars, symposiums and workshops; 2. Join theology with other disciplines to address specific areas of ministry, such as ministries to youth, cross-cultural ministries and marriage and family ministries; 3. Utilize the professional expertise of para-church ministries, such as Young Life; 4. Make non-degree study available to those involved in ministry.

The histories, philosophies, aims and general curricula of these programs are described below. Specific information on degrees or concentrations offered through these programs may be found under the respective degree program sections.

Marriage and Family Ministries Program

The Marriage and Family Ministries Program is an expression of the function of theological education to train persons for ministry to the family. The program affirms the importance of the institution of the family in the Kingdom of God and commits itself to a ministry of building the church through strengthening its families. Consonant with this concern, the primary focus of the program is upon the preventive dimension of ministry to families which is shaped by the authority of God's Word and the insights of the social and behavioral sciences.

The secondary focus is the counseling or corrective phase of ministry to the family. This aspect is devoted to the growth and development of skilled marriage and family counselors.

A marriage and family ministries concentration is available in the M.Div. program of the School of Theology. This program is designed to be an extension of Christian ministry at both the church and the para-church levels. Graduates receive training for a vocation which is intended to be exercised within a responsible community of Christian service.

For students interested in a program accredited by the American Association for Marriage and Family Therapy (AAMFT), the Master of Arts degree in marriage and family therapy is offered by the School of Psychology.

Cross-Cultural Studies Program

The Cross-Cultural Studies Program exists to prepare men and women for ministry in cross-cultural situations. This program provides a foundation... for involvement in mission through biblical, historical and theological studies as well as through the social and behavioral sciences. A curriculum in cross-cultural studies has been designed for both the Master of Arts and the Master of Divinity degree programs. Combining the resources of the School of Theology and the School of World Mission, this program provides preparation for:

1. Future missionaries;
2. Men and women who plan to accept short-term missionary assignments and continue afterward in church ministry;
3. Persons who do not plan to go overseas but are highly committed to the missionary task and want the mission component as a part of their preparation;
4. People in a variety of professions who wish to share their faith cross-culturally;
5. Those who anticipate ministries in the United States among ethnic groups different from their own.

Faculty, academic advisers and the director of the Cross-Cultural Studies Program will help tailor the program to individual goals for ministry and to the specific geographic area of service. To facilitate this, specializations may be developed within the Master of Arts curriculum in cross-cultural studies as needed. The area of specialization may be from either theology or missiology.

Christian Formation and Discipleship

The Christian Formation and Discipleship Program at Fuller Theological Seminary exists to help develop persons for the educational and discipleship ministries of the church. The program affirms the importance of enabling all members of the church—adults, youth and children—to become knowledgeable, equipped and loving disciples of Jesus Christ, serving him in all of life as responsible members of his church. The program seeks to prepare pastors and teachers "to equip the saints for the work of ministry" (Ephesians 4:11-12). Because of this focus on the teaching/equipping ministries of the church, the program is designed for:

1. The pastor who wishes to develop understanding and skill as a teacher in the congregation.
2. The person who wishes to specialize in the educational and discipling ministries of the church.
3. The para-church worker or layperson who wishes to develop competencies in the area of helping persons come to Christian maturity.

Admission into full participation in the Christian Formation and Discipleship Program is possible in both the M.A. and M.Div. degree programs. The M.A. in theology with a concentration in Christian formation and discipleship involves eight courses in CFD taken in a specified pattern, four additional ministry courses, and 12 courses in theology and Bible. The concentration within the M.Div. program involves at least six courses in CFD, in addition to a specified pattern of courses in ministry, languages, theology and Bible. A special program of faculty involvement, advising, internships and special activities is available to those in either the M.A. or the M.Div. Christian formation and discipleship concentration. After admission to Fuller, students apply for enrollment in the CFD Intention to Concentrate Form. Specific information on the admission requirements and curriculum for both the M.Div. and M.A. degrees in Christian formation and discipleship can be found under the sections of these degree programs.

In addition, a special concentration in youth ministries is offered in both the M.A. and M.Div. degree programs under the direction of the Christian formation and discipleship program.

Family Pastoral Care and Counseling Program

The Master of Divinity, family pastoral care and counseling, enables students to obtain a strong foundation in biblical, historical and theological studies while focusing on the nurture and guidance of individuals and families. Students are prepared to meet educational requirements for ordination while developing competence in the care of those who are alienated or abandoned by families, in the alleviation of distress in marital and family conflict, in the mobilization of resources in the church for family strength and in the utilization of community resources for referral purposes. This program, which is designed primarily to equip men and women for pastoral ministry, emphasizes theological foundations for family life and the spiritual resources of prayer, Bible study and Christian character.

Competency-based education and supervision in a clinical setting will guide the concentration of courses for each student. Through consultation with an academic adviser and the director of the Family Pastoral Care Program each student will determine the courses which best prepare him or her for ministry.

Information on the curriculum for this program can be found under the Master of Divinity degree program section.

Theological Studies Program for Black and Hispanic Ministers

In 1972 a new Theological Studies Program for Black Ministers was begun for those who had not had the opportunity to earn a baccalaureate degree. Entrance into this program requires significant involvement in the church's ministry for five or more years, and the applicant must be at least 35 years of age.

In 1974 a Hispanic Committee, founded and initially sponsored by the Association of Theological Schools, recommended the establishment of a similar program for Hispanic ministers.

Each of these programs has an ethnic admissions committee. Upon recommendation of this committee, the applicant is accepted as a special non-degree student, and upon satisfactory completion of 12 courses, he or she is eligible to receive a Certificate of Achievement. At this time the respective advisory committee determines whether the student is to be recommended for official admission into the M.A. program.

A special concentration in community leadership is an integral part of the M.A. program for ethnic pastors. Ministers studying in the program take 12 courses in biblical and theological areas and 12 courses related to their roles as community leaders. This community leadership concentration draws upon the skills of both resident faculty and leadership resources in urban settings.

Fuller After Five

A comprehensive evening and weekend program is offered on the Pasadena campus. Master’s-level courses in all core areas are scheduled after five p.m. on a two-year rotation plan. Occasionally, Saturday morning courses are also made available on campus.

By attending as few as two evening courses per quarter, the Master of Arts degree can be earned in 4-5 years, the Master of Divinity degree in 5-6 years, or a Certificate of Graduate Studies in two years (degree programs can be accelerated by including summer courses and/or two week intensives).

Further information may be obtained from the academic advising office.

Extended Education Program

Fuller Theological Seminary Extended Education seeks to serve local churches by providing opportunities for theological education for ministry within a local church context. Extended Education seeks to provide educational experiences in off-campus, non-traditional settings which will enable students to discover, develop and improve their gifts for service and ministry within the scope of the church’s overall mission. Extended Education:

1. Provides theological education for the development of lay persons for leadership in ministry in the local church and community.

2. Offers prospective theological students experience in church ministry and Christian community while beginning their studies and testing their callings, and

3. Extends resources to pastors for the development of local church educational programs and for personal and professional enrichment.

The process of theological education for ministry in extension is implemented by going to the student, being close to the location of ministry and being close to the life and task demands of the participants.

Fuller Theological Seminary has made these resources available in several extension areas in response to the church’s need for an equipped and mobilized laity. Laypersons, future pastors and pastors learn together in this graduate program.

Curriculum. Courses offered in extension on a quarterly basis are equivalent to those offered at the Pasadena campus. Full-time faculty and local adjunct professors provide instruction. Courses are taught on weeknights or weekends in local facilities, and library resources are arranged.

Degree Programs. A student may complete all requirements for the Master of Arts degree in several extension centers. In all locations, courses completed in extension may be applied toward the M.A. or M.Div. degree upon admission to that program.
program on the Fuller campus. The Master of Divinity degree program is available in the Seattle Extension through a special arrangement so that up to 24 courses may be taken toward the degree in Seattle. Various configurations are available for the remaining 12 courses to be taken on the Pasadena campus.

Further information regarding the Extended Education program may be found in the Continuing and Extended Education section of this catalog.

Institute of Youth Ministries

The Institute of Youth Ministries was established in 1977 to combine the theological resources of the School of Theology with the youth ministries and field training expertise of Young Life Campaign, a leading national evangelical Christian outreach to high school youth. The purpose of the Institute is:

1. To provide an educational program in evangelistic youth ministries that integrates classroom study with extensive field training;
2. To conduct ongoing training programs for those in evangelistic youth ministries, with particular attention to preparation for ministry on the staff of Young Life; and
3. To encourage research in the field of evangelistic youth ministries.

The Institute of Youth Ministries offers a program of theological education leading to the professional Master of Arts degree or the Master of Divinity degree with a concentration in youth ministries. The program of study integrates a foundation of biblical and theological studies with a prescribed concentration in evangelistic youth ministries, designed in cooperation with the Ministry Resources Department of Young Life.

Although the Institute is designed primarily for persons preparing to serve on the staff of Young Life, other persons preparing for ministry with youth may pursue this concentration. Institute personnel and advisers from the School of Theology will help design a curriculum to meet individual needs for preparation in this area of ministry.

Courses leading to a degree with a concentration in youth ministries may be taken at the extension sites of the Institute of Youth Ministries. Field education courses in the Los Angeles area are arranged by resident IYM staff. Biblical-theological courses and youth ministries courses are offered on the summer campus of the IYM in Holland, Michigan. These courses are open to all Fuller students as space is available. In addition, students on the staff of IYM may complete the field education courses in the immediate context of their staff assignments. A two-year concentration in ministry to troubled youth is offered in Colorado Springs.

A separate program for non-Young Life staff, offering a concentration in youth ministries focused on the local church, is offered on the Pasadena campus under the direction of the Christian formation and discipleship program.

David du Plessis Center for Christian Spirituality

Inaugurated in 1985, the Center has for its aim the study of Christian spirituality over the broad range of ecumenical diversity. Included in such investigation are the literature, practices, institutions and movements of spirituality. These may include, for example, the mystical tradition in Eastern Orthodoxy, the role of women in spirituality, charismatic renewal and ministry, and the origins of the Pentecostal movement.

The Center was named for the renowned “Mr. Pentecost,” whose ministry over a half-century bridged three significant Christian movements—ecumenical, charismatic and Pentecostal. Its first major project consists of the establishment of an archival collection of Pentecostal and charismatic resources based on the library and personal papers of David J. du Plessis, which have been permanently donated to the Seminary. Related materials from others are actively sought, and an archive now exists within the Seminary library.

The Du Plessis Center will sponsor selected courses and conferences designed to deepen the understanding of Christian spirituality as expressed in the various denominational families. Limited support for visiting research will be available to scholars seeking access to the archive.

Institute for Christian Organizational Development

The Institute for Christian Organizational Development was established in 1981 to address the need for management training designed specifically for the Christian leader. The Institute offers graduate-level training seminars and short-term workshop experiences in various management areas. The basic Institute curriculum is offered on two tracks, one for pastors, leading to a concentration in church management within the Doctor of Ministry program; and one for executives, leading to a concentration in Christian Organizational Development in the M.A. or D.Min. degrees.

Further information may be found in the Continuing and Extended Education section of this catalog.
Study in Israel

Recognizing the significance of the first-hand study of the history and geography of the Holy Land, Fuller sponsors from time to time a summer program of travel and study in Israel. A typical program includes four weeks of lectures and field study, with an optional additional three weeks that include work in an archaeological dig and travel in Egypt and Jordan. Elective credit (four or eight units) may be arranged.

Elective credit is also available for certain courses taken at the American Institute of Holy Land Studies in Jerusalem.

COURSES OF STUDY

This section contains descriptions of the courses which constitute the curriculum of the School of Theology. This curriculum is subject to change through normal academic channels. Changes in course offerings and course content are initiated by the appropriate departments, divisions or programs and approved by the academic dean. A schedule of courses and expanded course descriptions are published in advance of each quarter. The information in these publications supersedes the information in this catalog.

The following key designates the departmental prefixes, course numbering system and common abbreviations used in the School of Theology:

Prefix indicates:

3 CF Christian Formation and Discipleship
3 CH Church History and History of Doctrine
3 CN Counseling
3 CO Communication
3 DP Denominational Polity
3 EV Evangelism
3 FE Field Education
3 GM General Ministry
3 LG Language
3 NT New Testament
3 OT Old Testament
3 PM Pastoral Ministry and Theology

MASTER OF DIVINITY AND MASTER OF ARTS

The following courses are offered in support of the Master of Divinity and Master of Arts programs in the School of Theology.

Language Studies

The teaching of Hebrew and Greek is under the supervision of the Old Testament and New Testament Departments. The beginning courses are generally taught by Graduate Teaching Fellows—graduate students pursuing the Th.M. or Ph.D. degrees who are committed to the teaching and use of Greek and Hebrew.

Biblical Hebrew. A knowledge of biblical Hebrew that is sufficient to begin exegetical work in the Old Testament is a prerequisite for many of the Old Testament core courses for the M.Div. degree. LG502 Beginning Hebrew, an intensive course (8 units) designed to give a student this ability is offered most quarters including the summer. Students who have already acquired a knowledge of biblical Hebrew, either by course work or self-study, may meet this requirement by passing a reading evaluation examination in biblical Hebrew. This exam will be arranged upon request.

Reading knowledge means a knowledge of Greek vocabulary and grammar that is sufficient to begin exegetical work in the New Testament. LG512 Beginning Greek, an intensive course (12 units), designed to give a student this ability, is offered each quarter, including the summer. It is also offered in a less intensive format over three quarters, beginning in the fall.

Students who have already acquired a knowledge of New Testament Greek, either by course work or by self-study, may meet this requirement by passing the Greek Entrance Examination, which is given at an announced time at the beginning of fall quarter and in the middle of each quarter. The examination is designed to test the student's ability to read and translate the New Testament.
Testament in Greek, to recognize and identify common words and forms, and to explain the more common syntactical constructions. Students who pass this exam receive a waiver for the triple course (12 units) requirement in New Testament Greek in the M.Div. curriculum and may substitute electives of their choice. Passing of the exam also meets the Greek prerequisite for New Testament courses requiring Greek. In any case, no credit is granted for passing the exam.

In order to help students ascertain their level of competency and areas of weakness, a trial examination comparable in scope, difficulty and format to the entrance exam is made available to the applicant for self-administration. The exam may be requested from the Theology Academic Advising office. An answer key is provided with the exam so that the student may grade the exam and determine the areas where review or further study is needed.

The Divided Course Option. Normally, LG512 will also be offered as a divided course, spread over three quarters for four units per quarter. This option is provided for part-time students, students with low language aptitude, those whose schedules preclude taking the intensive course, those who wish to extend their study of Greek or Hebrew over a longer period of time, or those who wish to take other classes at the same time. Beginning Greek is also offered in Spanish over three quarters when there is sufficient need.

FIELD EDUCATION

Field Education experiences are offered in local churches, parachurch and mission agencies. Each student is encouraged to exercise his or her vocational learning needs and interests and then to select field education settings which will offer opportunities for growth. A great variety of field education experiences are available each year: working with youth, young adults, seniors; focusing on evangelism, worship, administration; working in churches, hospitals, correctional and senior institutions and foreign missions. Students desiring to receive credit for field education must complete a preparatory workshop, enroll with the Office of Field Education, which coordinates approved positions in churches or other organizations, and register for academic credit within regular quarterly registration deadlines. The completion of the part-time local church course, including its required seminar and the theological reflection group, yields two units of core credit. A second course, either nine months part-time or ten weeks full-time, in a setting approved by the Office of Field Education, is required for the M.Div. degree and also earns two units of core credit. Additional field education courses may be taken as electives.

Students and their respective pastors/supervisors must complete quarterly evaluation reports and submit them to the Office of Field Education. These are not only essential for credit, but they also provide a balanced picture of the student’s service and become a part of the student’s seminary file. At the request of the student, these reports will be forwarded to designated authorities to meet the requirements of certain denominations.

NOTE: Of the following Field Education courses, FE501-503 are graded only on a “Credit/No Credit” basis.

FE 501 Nine-Month Church Internship. A planned, supervised and evaluated practical experience for nine months (three consecutive quarters) in a church setting with pastoral supervision, leading to the development of competency in all areas of ministry. Prerequisite: Any three M.Div. core courses. M.Div. core: MIN 7.
FE 502 Full-Time Church Internship. An approved, planned, supervised and evaluated practical experience under the supervision of a pastor/supervisor in a church, institutional or missional setting, leading to the development of competencies in specialized areas of ministry. Elective.

FE 503 Part-Time Internship. A planned, supervised and evaluated practical experience for nine months (three consecutive quarters) in a church, institutional or missional setting, leading to the development of competency in a specialized ministry. This course is intended for any part-time, three-quarter elective other than FES01. Elective.

NOTE: All the above field education courses are also offered in the Extended Education Program.

FE 523 Church Leadership Development. A directed study connected with a student’s work in a congregation in development of leadership skills in lay ministry under supervision. Offered only in extension. Elective.

FE 525 Practicum I: Foundations for Incarnational Youth Ministries. Practicum in the basic methods of evangelistic youth outreach, emphasizing the development of personal relationships with young people through relevant forms of group ministry. A portion of the course focuses on the recruitment, training and ongoing enabling of volunteers for outreach ministries to youth. Offered by the Institute of Youth Ministries. Credit: 8 units. Elective.

FE 526 Practicum II: Building Resources for Incarnational Youth Ministries. This course is designed to build the skills of people in youth ministry as well as their ability to train others in the areas of discipleship, adult ministry, camping, and fundraising. Offered by the Institute of Youth Ministries. Credit: 8 units. Elective.

FE 527 Practicum III: Strategic Planning for Incarnational Youth Ministries. Practicum in the development and implementation of a strategy for Young Life ministry in an area including contact with relevant institutions and agencies, committee development and establishment of a support base. Elective.

FE 546 Hospital Internship Practicum. Orientation and experience in the hospital setting under the supervision of the hospital chaplain. Elective.

FE 556 Correctional Institution Internship Practicum. A practical experience in counseling, visitation, worship service and other programs in any one of a number of correctional institutes, both juvenile and adult, under the direct supervision of a chaplain. Elective.

FE 567 Older Adult Institution Internship Practicum. A specialized and practical experience in a local convalescent hospital or retirement center. Opportunities for counseling, visitation, Bible studies and worship services under the direct supervision of a chaplain or the Field Education Office. Elective.

FE 577 Urban Mission Internship Practicum. An opportunity for practical ministry involving counseling, Bible study and worship services in a local urban rescue mission under the direct supervision of the institution chaplain. Elective.

FE 589 Advanced Practicum and Study. This course is designed to meet the particular needs and interests of students who wish to continue their field education experiences beyond FES01 and FES02. It is designed to enable a student to gain experience in some area of ministry in which he or she is not presently engaged and for which no other field education course is appropriate. The goal of this course is to provide an opportunity for intensive experience in a particular area of ministry combined with significant reflection on its theological foundations. Elective. Ellington

FE 590 Directed Study in Field Education.

Nothing is more important in providing higher education for missionaries than a correct assessment of whether the enterprise of missions is beginning or ending. The School of World Mission and Institute of Church Growth at Fuller Theological Seminary believes that we stand at the beginning of the missionary task. Everything that has gone before in 175 years of modern missions is introduction. Apart from certain small ethnic groups in Oceania, Asia, Africa and Latin America, there has been little comprehensive "discipling of the peoples" (Matthew 28:19). The great populations of Earth—Marxists, Hindus, Buddhists, Muslims, secularists, animists and nominal "Christians" in the West—have yet to accept Jesus Christ as Lord and Savior and become responsible members of his body and church. Today God calls Christians of every continent and culture to the task of making Jesus Christ known, loved and believed in throughout the world. As evidence of his call, God grants remarkable responsiveness in many populations. The main task lies ahead. But a new factor has been introduced. Because of the rapidly growing non-Western Christian missionary movement, Christian mission is now the most international, interracial and intercultural movement in history. The goal of the School of World Mission is to be a resource to this growing movement.

Furthermore, Christian mission today is being carried on in the midst of tremendous revolutionary changes affecting every aspect of human life. The guidelines and assumptions under which our ancestors labored have been swept away. The School of World Mission today has radically new ground on which to operate: advances in knowledge, changing political alignments, greatly increased control of nature, rise of churches in Asia, Africa and Latin America, lessening of ecclesiastical competition and hatred, rising religious relativism, the battle for justice and a vastly accelerated secularization of life. Education for mission must prepare believers to propagate the Christian faith in this new world being born.

In the midst of such changes, Jesus Christ is the same yesterday, today and forever. The mission is his, not ours. He remains in charge. Since no person comes to the Father but by him, propagating his gospel to the ends of the earth by multiplication of believers and churches is the supreme and controlling purpose of the Christian mission to the world.

However, in each situation the Church is to be shaped in a way that affirms and utilizes the most positive aspects of the culture. New believers should not be torn out of their cultural matrix and torced to become "foreign" in order to become followers of Christ.

Thus the aim of the School of World Mission is to help prepare and provide leadership for the task of world mission in today's emerging world. It seeks to do this in several ways:

By providing advanced graduate-level education for mid-career missionaries and future international church and mission leaders, and by preparing missionary candidates for their ministry in a new language and culture.

In order to be effective, those called to communicate the gospel cross-culturally need insight into theology, history, anthropology, sociology, theory of mission, the biblical base of mission, andecies (knowledge of and approach to non-Christian religions), the world church (sometimes called ecumenics), church growth, evangelism, training of ministry and the indigenous church. These are all, therefore, to be studied as proper parts of education for mission.

Thus the School of World Mission aims to make its students competent in the field to which they have given their lives. Graduates will be qualified to serve effectively in many tasks to which missionaries and national church leaders are assigned. They will include evangelists and church planters, pastors, district superintendents, field directors, executive secretaries and faculty members in theological training schools at home and abroad.

The faculty seeks to accomplish its educational objectives by developing degree programs that combine academic integrity and professional training and by developing models of extension education which will integrate research and field ministries. The study of mission embraces a vast body of knowledge and the well-prepared missionary should see it en toto. In presenting this corpus of learning through lectures, reading and research two dangers are avoided: a frozen intellectual regimen removed from the fast-moving contemporary scene and a smorgasbord of "hot" transient emphases. Advanced education must be validated by advanced degrees in mission, yet the degree program must remain flexible enough to equip God's men and women to meet the rapidly changing conditions of the modern world.

By producing a body of literature that enables those in cross-cultural ministries to understand better the mission task.

The School of World Mission emphasizes research because mission faces a curious fact: knowledge of how churches grow is extremely limited. Though the discipling of nations is a chief and continuing goal of Christian mission, not much is known about how individuals and their societies are, in fact, discipled. In most lands, some churches have broken through to great growth, but these examples are shut away in linguistic, geographic and denominational compartments. This vacuum in knowledge and training facilities handicaps the entire missionary enterprise.

In most lands, some churches have broken through to great growth, but these examples are shut away in linguistic, geographic and denominational compartments. This vacuum in knowledge and training facilities handicaps the entire missionary enterprise.
To meet this need, therefore, the School of World Mission and Institute of Church Growth emphasizes research in church growth as an integral part of the education process. The approach to higher education for missionaries places much emphasis on discovering and teaching new insights concerning the spread of churches.

By giving continuing leadership to missions and the Church Growth Movement by calling attention to the unfinished task of bringing men and women to a knowledge of Jesus Christ as Lord and Savior.

A center concerned with training leaders must itself be willing, where it can, to provide leadership by challenging the church to undertake the mission to which God has called it, and by providing mission agencies with a theology and strategy of mission. The faculty of the School of World Mission seeks to do this by advocating and conducting research, writing books, speaking at conferences and encouraging the formation of mission structures that meet the demands of the missionary movement in the world.

ADMISION

General standards for admission to any of the three schools of Fuller Theological Seminary may be found on page 28 of this catalog.

The School of World Mission admits students to degree programs and to special courses designed for missionary candidates, missionaries and national church and mission leaders.

Those entering the Master of Arts program (both cross-cultural studies and missiology) must normally hold an undergraduate degree (B.A. or equivalent) from an accredited institution. Applicants who graduated from an unaccredited school will be considered on an individual basis if they have a minimum grade point average of 3.0 and a minimum of one year (30 semester hours/45 quarter hours) of liberal arts course work from an accredited institution. The Th.B. is not considered adequate for admission.

For the Master of Theology in missiology program, an additional degree in theology (B.D., M.Div. or equivalent degree) with a B standard of work is required. The Doctor of Missiology, the Doctor of Philosophy in intercultural studies and the Doctor of Philosophy in mission programs require the M.A. or Th.M. in missiology (or their equivalent). In addition, all candidates entering a missiology program must give evidence of experience in significant cross-cultural communication of the Christian faith, demonstrated normally by fluency in a second language. A special provision is made for experienced mission executives who lack cross-cultural experience (see Special and Cooperative Programs).

Applicants whose native language is not English are required to have taken the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL). A minimum score of 550 on the TOEFL is required for admission.

Those coming for only one quarter are advised to come in the fall. The summer, fall and winter quarters offer core courses which are foundational to all degree programs. If one does not qualify for a degree program or does not have time to complete one, a Certificate of Achievement may be awarded.

A limited number of students may be admitted under one of the following classifications:

Limited Graduate Student: one who is qualified for regular admission but wants to take no more than five courses (20 units).

Unclassified Student: one who is academically qualified for admission, wants to take an unlimited number of courses, but does not want to pursue a degree program.

Special Student: one who does not meet the academic requirements for regular admission, unclassified or limited graduate student status.

Visiting Student: one who is currently enrolled as a student in good standing in the post-bachelor's level at another school, but wants to have transcript evidence of course work done at Fuller for transfer to another institution.

FACILITIES AND COSTS

The offices of the School of World Mission are located at Fuller Theological Seminary, 135 North Oakland Avenue, in downtown Pasadena, California. In common with the Seminary's other two schools, it uses the classrooms, bookstore, refectory and the McAlister Library with its more than 183,000 volumes on theology, psychology, missiology and related disciplines.

Approximately 400 apartments owned or managed by the Seminary provide single, married and family housing. In some nearby communities such as Glendale and Altadena, apartments available to missionaries on furlough provide suitable living quarter at reasonable cost. Furnished apartments or houses in the Pasadena area are available at commercial rates.

The Seminary refectory provides meals at reasonable cost. For those not covered by health insurance by their own churches or mission boards, accident, sickness and hospital insurance is available through the Seminary.

Further information regarding costs is given on page 31 of this catalog. Any student needing financial assistance may apply to the dean of the School of World Mission, stating his or her situation.

Tuition Scholarships

It is expected that the board or church under which one serves will contribute to living expenses and tuition. However, a number of partial tuition scholarships are available for those who demonstrate need.

Applications for all scholarships should be made to the Office of the Dean by March 1, preceding matriculation.

DEGREE PROGRAMS

The School of World Mission offers degrees to pre-field missionaries in cross-cultural studies, and missiology degrees to missionaries and church and mission leaders who have had at least three years of field experience in a cross-cultural Christian ministry. National church leaders qualify through demonstrating their facility in English and evidencing significant ministry. Subject to faculty review, transfer credit is given for graduate work done in other institutions. To be acceptable, such work must conform to the standards of the Association of Theological Schools and be related to the study of missiology.

Master of Arts in Cross-Cultural Studies

This two-year program is designed to prepare students for ministry in cross-cultural situations. It provides a foundation for involvement in mission through biblical, historical and theological studies as well as through the social and behavioral sciences which are basic to the task of mission. Combining the resources of the School of World Mission and the School of Theology, this degree program provides special preparation for future missionaries, people in a variety of professions who hope to share their faith cross-culturally, and those who anticipate ministries in the United States among ethnic groups different from their own.

Applicants to this program must meet the general standards for admission to the Seminary (see page 28), including a baccalaureate degree or its equivalent from an accredited institution. The curriculum for the Master of Arts in cross-cultural studies consists of 24 courses (96 units), divided evenly between the School of World Mission and the School of Theology, as follows:

School of World Mission (12 courses):
- Theology of Mission
- Anthropology
- Evangelism and Church Growth
- Language and Communication
- Religions
- History of the Expansion of Christianity
- Leadership
- Electives (6)

School of Theology (12 courses):
- Old Testament (2)
- New Testament (2)
- Church History (2)
- Theology and Ethics (2)
- Ministry (1)
- Electives (3)

The student may elect to acquire a specialization within the Master of Arts in cross-cultural studies. This option requires nine theology courses, nine missiology courses and six courses in the area of specialization. Currently specializations in church planting, Asian studies, Bible translation, Islamic studies, anthropology, community development, Christian formation and discipleship, and family studies have been designed. Other specializations may be arranged according to individual needs and interests. Provision is made for field research and internships with credit.

Master of Arts in Missiology

The Master of Arts in missiology is designed to meet the need for mid-career training for Western missionaries and Third World church and mission leaders. Students seeking admission must meet the general standards for admission to the Seminary (see page 28), including:

1. A minimum of 12 courses (48 units) beyond the B.A., including:
   - A minimum of 12 courses (48 units) in missiology, which must include the five core courses in preparation for the general examinations; the remaining seven courses (28 units) are electives in missiology designed to meet the student's specific goals. These must be taken in the School of World Mission.
   - A minimum of five courses (20 units) of biblical studies, theology and church history.

3. A maximum of seven courses (28 units) of general electives, which may include graduate courses in fields related to either missiology or theology.

This program normally involves two years of study. A minimum of one year in residence is normally required. In addition, the candidate must pass the general examinations. Normally the M.A. in missiology is a non-thesis degree. However, a student may petition to do a thesis or project as a part of this program.

Master of Theology in Missiology

The Th.M. in missiology is designed to help field missionaries and international church leaders acquire fundamental competence in the field of missiology. Students seeking admission to this program must have the M.Div., B.D. or equivalent degree from an accredited institution, have completed three years of cross-cultural ministry and have mastered a field language.

This program requires 10 courses (40 units) of graduate studies in missiology, and a thesis (8 units), all of which must be completed in the School of World Mission. The coursework includes the five core courses in preparation for the general examinations; the balance is made up of electives that should be selected to meet the specific goals of the student.

Master of Theology in Chinese Ministry and Mission

The School of World Mission offers a four-year program specifically designed for those who aspire to minister to the North American Chinese church. This program consists of 48 courses (192 quarter units), including the M.Div. degree or M.Div. equivalency and a thesis. Combining the resources of the School of Theology and the School of World Mission, the curriculum emphasizes solid biblical and theological foundations, bi-cultural perspective, contextualized ministry, holistic discipleship training, and supervised internship.

Doctoral Programs

Three doctoral programs are offered by the School of World Mission: the Doctor of Missiology (D.Miss.), the Doctor of Philosophy in Intercultural Studies (Ph.D. ICS), and the Doctor of Philosophy in Missiology (Ph.D. Miss.).

The D.Miss. is the highest level of professional certification in missiology. The Ph.D. represents the highest level of academic certification, and is designed to contribute to the development of missiological scholarship and to prepare one to teach at the university and graduate level.

Applicants for a doctoral program must have completed or be enrolled in the Th.M. or M.A. program in the School of World Mission, with a grade point average of 3.3 for D.Miss. applicants and 3.5 for Ph.D. applicants. They must pass the general examinations with honors, have mastered a field language, and demonstrate research and writing competence.

Those admitted with an M.A. degree must complete M.Div. equivalency (defined as 64 units of graduate level theological course work which fulfills the Fuller M.Div. core requirements in biblical studies, theology and church history).

Doctor of Missiology

The Doctor of Missiology requires a minimum of 10 courses (40 units) in missiology beyond the master’s level and a dissertation (8 units) that makes a significant contribution to missiological practice. Candidates must complete advanced studies in three major and two minor fields of study with a minimum grade point average of 3.3, and pass comprehensive examinations. Students transferring credit from other institutions must complete a minimum of 64 units and the dissertation at the School of World Mission. Candidates for whom English is a second language may be permitted under certain conditions to write dissertations in their own language. In such cases summaries in English are required.

Doctor of Philosophy in Intercultural Studies

The Ph.D. in intercultural studies requires 56 units in missiology above the M.A. or Th.M. in missiology, and a dissertation (8 units) that makes a significant contribution to the field of missiology. Candidates must complete advanced studies in two major and two minor areas and pass comprehensive examinations. Students transferring credit from other institutions must complete 76 units and the dissertation at the School of World Mission. Candidates must demonstrate fluency in a field language, competence in one or more research languages and/or other research skills (such as statistics), and teaching ability.

Doctor of Philosophy in Missiology

The Ph.D. in missiology requires 40 units in missiology and 32 units in theology beyond the Th.M. or M.A. in missiology, with a 3.5 grade point average, and a dissertation (8 units) that makes a sig-significant contribution to the field of missiology. Candidates must complete a major in the School of World Mission (consisting of five 8-unit tutorials), two minors in the School of Theology (two 8-unit seminars each), and comprehensive examinations. They must demonstrate proficiency in Greek, Hebrew, a field language and a research language, and ability in teaching.

SPECIAL AND COOPERATIVE PROGRAMS

In the School of World Mission, a number of special institutes, programs and cooperative relationships have been developed which seek to make the resources of missiological education more available to field missionaries and national church or mission leaders, and to gather educational resources to focus on specific needs of churches, missions and those preparing to serve them.

Cross-Cultural Studies Program

The Cross-Cultural Studies Program is designed to prepare men and women for ministry in cross-cultural situations. This program combines the resources of the School of World Mission and the School of Theology to provide a foundation for involvement in mission through biblical, historical and theological studies as well as through the social and behavioral sciences. It provides special preparation for future missionaries, people in a variety of professions who hope to share their faith cross-culturally, and those who anticipate ministries in the United States among ethnic groups different from their own. A student may earn the Master of Arts in Cross-Cultural Studies from the School of World Mission, or the Master of Divinity degree, with a concentration in cross-cultural studies, from the School of Theology.

Concentration in Bible Translation

A special concentration in Bible translation is offered within the various programs. This program combines the resources of the School of World Mission, the School of Theology, and secular universities to equip students in biblical languages and exegesis, linguistics, translation theory, anthropology, missiology and communication theory.

A cooperative arrangement has been made with the University of Texas at Arlington (UTA) which allows for transfer of units between the two schools so long as they are applied to the translation emphasis and students abide by the catalog requirements of the institution which grants the degree. This arrangement may also be applied to a cooperative program between the University of Texas at Arlington and the Summer Institute of Linguistics, leading to an M.A. in linguistics from UTA.

Chinese Studies and Evangelization Program

The School of World Mission offers a core curriculum in Chinese studies as an option in all its degree programs. This is designed for those who will minister in North American Chinese churches as well as those called to serve among the Chinese of the Diaspora in Asia and elsewhere. Both resident and adjunct faculty will teach courses on the interaction of the Christian faith and Chinese history and culture. Open to both Chinese and non-Chinese, the program will train pastors and missiologists and thus seek to further the evangelization of this vigorous people who constitute one-fourth of humanity.

In-Service Program

The School of World Mission In-Service Program (ISP) enables missionaries, national church leaders, professors of mission, and staff persons in mission organizations responsible for supervising and training peoples for cross-cultural ministries to begin graduate studies in missiology before coming to the Pasadena campus and/or to continue their studies after they leave campus. Those wishing to start a program in missiology may take the five core courses (a total of 20 units) in extension study through this program. These core courses, as listed under Core Curriculum and General Examinations, are required in each degree program. Admission requirements for the In-Service Program are the same as for the regular degree programs.

Tuition payment must be submitted at the time of registration. A course syllabus (outline and assignments) and textbooks are sent to students upon receipt of the tuition payment. Class lectures (recorded on compact cassette tapes or in duplicated notes) are also provided. Completed assignments are returned to the director of the In-Service Program for evaluation by a professor. Upon the completion of the ISP course, a grade is recorded on the student’s transcript. A course registration is valid for one year (i.e., the assignments...
Program for Mission Executives

This special program enables mission executives without significant cross-cultural experience to study missiology at Fuller. Those who have been professionally involved in mission administration for a minimum of seven years may apply for a degree program without cross-cultural experience. Busy executives are encouraged to take advantage of the two-week courses taught throughout the summer as well as during the other three quarters.

School of World Mission Summer Sessions

In order to facilitate missiological study for those with limited time, the School of World Mission offers two-week intensive courses in specialized areas of study throughout the summer. Special sessions include a module of language and culture learning and a module of Islamic studies.

Charles E. Fuller Institute for Evangelism and Church Growth

In 1980, Fuller Theological Seminary joined with the Fuller Evangelistic Association in the establishment of The Charles E. Fuller Institute for Evangelism and Church Growth. This partnership provides special training, research and service to the churches of North America in the areas of church growth diagnosis, consultation and planning.

Conferences, seminars and workshops are held each year in Pasadena and other locations across the country. Since 1983, over 3,000 denominational executives, pastors, and lay leaders have attended seminars on “How to Plant a Church.” Other popular seminars include “How to Break the 200 Barrier,” “How to Lead and Manage the Local Church,” “How to Build and Manage the Staff of Your Church,” and “Church Growth and the Third Wave.” Speakers are drawn from Fuller Seminary faculty, CEFI personnel, and practicing pastors.

Students in the Seminary may make special arrangements to include many of the Institute events in independent study courses for academic credit. Continuing Education Units may be earned by anyone (in place of academic credit). See the Continuing and Extended Education section of this catalog for information on Continuing Education Units.

Core Curriculum and General Examinations

The degree programs of the School of World Mission are based on training in the central theories and methods of six major fields of missiology: theology of mission, historical development of Christian mission, church growth, anthropology, phenomenology and institutions of folk religions, and leadership. Students will normally meet these requirements by completing the following three core courses:

- MB 520 Anthropology
- MC 520 Foundations of Church Growth
- MT 520 Biblical Foundations of Mission

Other services of the Charles E. Fuller Institute include personalized analysis and consultation for churches, custom-designed church growth training modules, and publication and distribution of church growth resources.
and by selecting two of the following three core courses:

- MH 520 The Historical Development of the Christian Movement
- ML 520 Foundations of Leadership
- MR 520 Phenomenology and Institutions of Folk Religions

The general examinations are designed to measure the student’s mastery in each of the above fields of missiology.

Students are normally required to take the five core courses in the School of World Mission. However, those who have taken equivalent courses at another institution may petition to have those courses accepted in place of the School of World Mission courses. Even if the petition is granted, the student will still be required to pass the general examinations given by the School of World Mission. In such cases the student is advised to audit the School of World Mission courses in preparation for the general examinations.

COURSES OF STUDY

In any given quarter, courses will be offered from among the following, depending on the availability of faculty and the composition of the student body. Course offerings and course descriptions are subject to change through normal academic processes.

The courses are numbered according to the following guidelines:

- MB Behavioral Sciences
- MC Church Growth
- MH Mission History
- ML Leadership Training
- MM Ministry
- MR Religions
- MS Scripture Translation
- MT Mission Theology

The 500-level courses are for students in the M.A. programs, and are open to students in any program, with the exception of the 520s (core courses), which may be limited by the professor to those in the M.A. in Missiology program. Courses listed at the 500 level may be taken at the 600 or 700 level with approval of the professor. Students in the Th.M. in Missiology program register for courses at the 600 level. The 700-level courses are for students in the Doctor of Missiology program. The 800-level courses are for Ph.D. students only.

MH 590 Project/Thesis (M.A.). Guidance provided to those involved in projects/theses. Special attention paid to problems assigned by church or mission.

MH 591 Independent Study (M.A.). Reading, reporting and discussion on historical topics at the M.A. level, under faculty supervision.

MH 595 Topics in Mission History. Courses in topics such as history of missions to native Americans or history of the Roman Catholic missions.

MH 690 Project/Thesis (Th.M.). Guidance provided to those involved in writing theses. Special attention paid to problems assigned by church or mission.

MH 691 Independent Study (Th.M.). Reading, reporting and discussion on historical topics at the Th.M. level, under faculty supervision.

MH 700 Advanced Seminar in Mission History. Specific topics of relevance to Doctor of Missiology candidates preparing dissertations in historical areas.

MH 701 Advanced Seminar: Issues in the Chinese Church. Presentation of papers by the students on issues related to the Chinese church, followed by group discussions. Prerequisite: MH560 or MH563. Tan

MH 702 Advanced Seminar: Contemporary Issues in North American Chinese Churches. Discussion of topics pertinent to the interests of the students. Prerequisite: MH580. Tan

MH 790 Dissertation (D.Miss.). Guidance provided to Doctor of Missiology students engaged in writing dissertations.

MH 791 Independent Study. Reading, reporting and discussion on historical topics at the Doctor of Missiology level, under supervision.

MH 800 Tutorial in Mission History. Investigation, under supervision, of topics related to the program and/or dissertation of Ph.D. candidates.

MH 801 Methods in Mission History. Guidance in the methodology for researching topics related to the program and/or dissertation of Ph.D. candidates.

MH 890 Dissertation (Ph.D.). Guidance provided to Ph.D. students engaged in writing dissertations.

Leadership Training (ML)

ML 500 Introduction to Leadership. Fundamentals of leadership theory, dealing with the history of leadership, theology of leadership, leadership styles, leadership emergence patterns, and an overview of leadership patterns. Core course for M.A. and M.Div. in cross-cultural studies. Elliston, Clinton

ML 501 Basic Leadership Emergence Patterns. A study of leadership selection processes, including development phases, process items, spheres of influence, spiritual authority, and leadership principles. Focuses on a biblical case study and missionary case study to illustrate theory. Clinton

ML 502 Introduction to Leadership Training. Overview of training models with particular emphasis on nonformal and informal models and training which applies to types 1,2, and 3. Elliston

ML 520 Foundations of Leadership. A survey of leadership theory, including the history of leadership and contributions from various disciplines (including sociology, anthropology, and management theory). Explores biblical perspectives on leadership, including such topics as styles, spiritual gifts, modeling, emergence patterns, and church structures. Core course: Elliston, Clinton ML 521 Developing Leadership Gifts. An in-depth study of the doctrine of spiritual gifts, with an emphasis on leadership gifts (both directive and supportive). Points out responsibility for identifying, developing and releasing gifted people. Uses Holland's profile to suggest creation of structures through which gifts can operate. Emphasis on cross-cultural application of several major theories.

ML 523 Advanced Leadership Theory. A generic course dealing with selected aspects of leadership theory. When the course is taught in a given quarter, it will focus on a particular announced leadership topic.

ML 530 Leadership Emergence Patterns. Gives a biblical basis for the study of leadership selection processes. Identifies patterns such as time lines, development phases, process items, idealized time line, convergence, gift mix, spheres of influence, spiritual authority, and leadership principles, all in the context of study of actual biblical, historical and present-day leaders. Clinton ML 531 Advanced Leadership Selection Process Studies. Allows for in-depth research and writing on a given leader or a comparative study of several leaders. Prerequisite: ML530.

ML 532 Research in Leadership Selection Theory. Allows for in-depth research on any specific topic of leadership selection process theory.

ML 533 Case Studies in Leadership Selection. May be offered in a given quarter with an announced emphasis, such as Chinese pastors and evangelists or Melanesian leaders.

ML 540 Leadership Training Models. An overview of leadership training which first focuses on the evaluation of training, using two major evaluation models as standards for evaluation. The course next categorizes 30-40 training models under three headings: formal, non-formal and informal. Finally, various field training cases are analyzed using the perspectives that were introduced in the course. Elston ML 541 Specific Training Models. A generic course dealing with selected major training models. When the course is taught in a given quarter, it will focus on a particular announced leadership training model.

ML 542 Designing Field Models. A seminar in which each participant designs a unique strategy training model for use in a specific field situation. The design is critiqued by the class. Participants are introduced to basic training consultant practice during the course. Clinton, Elston

ML 543 Curriculum Design. A generic course applying curriculum design theory to various levels of training. Elston

ML 544 Materials Design. A generic course dealing with one of five major methodologies of preparing instructional materials: programmed instruction, information mapping, workbook design, textbooks for third-world situations, and materials for non-literates. When the course is taught in a given quarter, it will focus on one of these five approaches. Clinton, Elston, Harrison

ML 560 Change Dynamics. A course for executive and middle-level leadership of Christian organizations which explores change agent roles, organizational dynamics, and decision making processes. Introduces several change models as heuristic models for analyzing current change situations. Clinton

ML 570 Fundamentals of Leadership Research. A course which aims to treat three major areas of research: descriptive, leading to hypotheses about leadership; experimental, which tests these hypotheses; and evaluative, in which values are related to research methodologies to facilitate appropriate decision making. Also treats fundamentals of research logic and how they relate to curriculum design and leadership issues. Elliston, Clinton ML 590 Project/Thesis (M.A.). Guidance provided to those involved in projects/theses. Special attention paid to problems assigned by church or mission.

ML 591 Independent Study (M.A.). Reading, and discussion on leadership selection and training at the M.A. level, under faculty supervision.

ML 595 Topics in Leadership Selection and Training.

ML 690 Thesis (Th.M.). Guidance provided to those involved in writing theses. Special attention paid to problems assigned by church or mission.

ML 691 Independent Study (Th.M.). Reading, and discussion on leadership selection and training at the Th.M. level, under faculty supervision.

ML 790 Dissertation (D.Miss.). Guidance provided to Doctor of Missiology students engaged in writing dissertations.

ML 791 Independent Study. Reading, and discussion on leadership selection and training at the Doctor of Missiology level, under supervision.

ML 800 Tutorial in Leadership. Investigation under supervision of topics related to the program and dissertation of Ph.D. candidates.

ML 801 Methods in Leadership Training. Guidance in the methodology for researching topics related to the program and dissertation of Ph.D. candidates.

ML 890 Dissertation (Ph.D.). Guidance provided to Ph.D. students engaged in writing dissertations.

Ministry (MM)

MM 520 Ministry in the Chinese Church North America. Discussion of various forms of Christian ministry in the Chinese American context, as well as the searching out and appreciation of the emotional and experiential differences between seminary and church life and work, with field trip surveys and interviews included. Wong

MM 521 Chinese Community Life. Development of Christian spirituality both personally and corporately, in the communal setting of believers; examination of biblical data and cultural heritage, including interactions and discussions. Prerequisite: MM 520 or MH 563. Tan

MM 522 Pastoral Care in the Chinese Church. Treats the individual, marital and family problems confronting the pastors, with special attention to problems related to ethnic minority and Chinese family setting. S. Tan
MM 523 Ministry After the First Three Years. Develops skills in demographic analysis and interpretation of the local church and its community (local or at-large). Designed to help relate resources to real needs. Prerequisite: MM 520. Wong

MM 540 Cross-Cultural Communication. Examination of various communication theories against the bi-cultural Chinese-American background. Tan

MM 541 Appreciating OBC and ABC Cultural Distinctives. A comparative analysis and study of the monocultural and multi-cultural roots of the OBC and ABC respectively. An assessment of the place and validity of both styles as they relate to the student's present, particular audience. Focus on the important use of story form (saga), history, nature, and parables in Chinese hereditary preaching. Prerequisite: MM 560. Tan

MM 550 Exposition in Chinese Context. Exercises in expository preaching of biblical texts against the Chinese-American bi-cultural background. Tan

MM 551 Muslim Evangelism. Development and evaluation of various forms of Christian witness among the broad spectrum of Muslim peoples. Woodberry

MR 530 Judaism and Christianity. A study of Judaism as a religious faith in relation to Christianity and to the total Jewish experience including the development of Jewish culture from the destruction of the second temple to the present. Glaser, Glaser

MR 541 Indian Religions and Contemporary Cults. A systematic presentation of both philosophic and popular Hinduism and Buddhism. The relationship of their doctrinal bases and social structures to contemporary cults, and the interrelation with Christianity. Athayal

MR 542 Hinduism, Buddhism and Christianity. An analysis of the fundamental presuppositions and the various schools of thought within Hinduism and Buddhism from both an historical and contemporary perspective. Hiebert

MR 550 Introduction to Islam. An overview of Muslim faith and practice, with special attention to comparisons with Christianity, varieties of expression, and their implication for Christian witness. Woodberry

MR 551 Muslim Evangelism. Development and evaluation of various forms of Christian witness among the broad spectrum of Muslim peoples. Woodberry

MR 552 History of the Muslim-Christian Encounter. The major developments in polemics between Muslims and Christians from the eighth century to the present; interaction in writings between Muslim and Christian scholars and attitudes which underlie the Christian mission to Muslims. Gilliland

MR 554 Church Planting in Muslim Contexts. Deals with material from the call of the church planter to the emergence of the church. Covers the practical problems and salient theological issues that arise as the gospel comes into contact with Muslim societies. Woodberry

MR 555 Folk Islam. This course first studies the roots of Islamic animism and its relation to other religions, following which biblical issues are raised with special attention to the role of the power encounter. Woodberry

MR 556 Current Trends in Islam. The crosscurrents shaping the Islamic revival today and their missiological implications. Woodberry

MR 595 Topics in Religion

MR 690 Thesis (Th.M.). Guidance provided to those involved in writing theses. Special attention paid to problems assigned by church or mission.

MR 691 Independent Study (Th.M.). Reading, reporting and discussion on topics in religion at the Th.M. level, under faculty supervision.
MR 700 Advanced Seminar on Religion. Specific topics of relevance to Doctor of Missiology candidates preparing dissertations in the area of religion.

MR 790 Dissertation (D.Miss.). Guidance provided to Doctor of Missiology students engaged in writing dissertations.

MR 791 Independent Study. Reading, reporting and discussion on topics in religion at the Doctor of Missiology level, under supervision.

MR 800 Tutorial in Religion. Investigation under supervision of topics related to the program and/or dissertation of Ph.D. candidates.

MR 801 Methods in Religions. Guidance in the methodology for researching topics related to the program and/or dissertation of Ph.D. candidates.

MR 890 Dissertation (Ph.D.). Guidance provided to Ph.D. students engaged in writing dissertations.

Scripture Translation (MS)

MS 520 Foundations of Translation. Basic theory and practice of translation within a communications framework focusing on pretranslation needs: linguistic, cultural, semantic and exegetical. Shaw

MS 521 Translation Methods and Principles. Translation theory is applied to implicit and explicit information, lexical equivalence, multiple grammatical functions and discourse structure. Prerequisite: MS520 or equivalent. Shaw

MS 540 Theory of Translation. Study and application of modern translation theory to Scripture translation. Emphasis is on communication, linguistic, semantic and cultural contributions to translation theory. Shaw

MS 545 Exegetical Factors in Translation. Students will learn and apply linguistic and semantic analysis to better understand the meaning of a text which can then be translated for any receptor language/culture. Shaw

MS 590 Cultural Factors in Translation. Study of specific problems raised by characteristics of the cultural matrices of the source text, receptor populations and translators. Prerequisite: MS500/520, MS520 or equivalent. Shaw

MS 560 Translation Evangelism and the Church. Ways in which Bible translation can affect church growth including evangelism, contextualization and the avoidance of nominalism. Shaw

MS 570 Translation Consulting Principles and Practices. Mono-cultural and cross-cultural consulting contrasted and the role of the consultant highlighted with respect to the various consulting/teaching styles. Prerequisite: MS520. Shaw

MS 590 Project/Thesis (M.A.). Guidance provided to those involved in projects/theses. Special attention paid to problems assigned by church or mission.

MS 591 Independent Study (M.A.). Reading, reporting and discussion on scripture translation at the M.A. level, under faculty supervision.

MS 595 Topics in Scripture Translation. Various courses and seminars with attention given to translation problems in specific languages or cultures or specific linguistic, cultural or theoretical problems. Prerequisite: MS520 and MS521.

MS 600 Seminar in Consulting and Scripture Translation. The seminar coincides with the Foundations in Translation class, allowing participants to develop consultative skills while assisting beginning students in a consultative role.

MS 690 Thesis (Th.M.). Guidance provided to those involved in writing theses. Special attention paid to problems assigned by church or mission. Hiebert, Clinton MS 691 Independent Study (Th.M.). Reading, reporting and discussion on scripture translation at the Th.M. level, under faculty supervision.

MS 790 Dissertation (D.Miss.). Guidance provided to Doctor of Missiology students engaged in writing dissertations.

MS 791 Independent Study. Reading, reporting and discussion at the Doctor of Missiology level, under faculty supervision, on topics of special interest or student weakness in the area of scripture translation.

MS 800 Tutorial in Scripture Translation. Investigation under faculty supervision of topics related to the program and/or dissertation of Ph.D. candidates.

MS 801 Methods in Scripture Translation. Guidance in the methodology for researching topics related to the program and/or dissertation of Ph.D. candidates.

MS 890 Dissertation (Ph.D.). Guidance provided to Ph.D. students engaged in writing dissertations.

Mission Theory (MT)

MT 510 Doing Theology in Context. A review of the theory of contextualization, evaluation of the literature and application through projects based on the student's experience. Gilliland

MT 520 Biblical Foundation of Mission. Review of perspectives in both Old and New Testaments on the mission of the people of God touching the nations, under the rubric of the Kingdom of God. Core course. Gilliland, Van Engen

MT 521 Pauline Theology and the Mission Church. The principles of Paul in planting and nurturing cross-cultural churches, evaluating contemporary mission practice in the light of Paul. Gilliland
MT 522 Missionary Nature of the Church. Seeks to stimulate reflection and creativity concerning the church from both sociological and theological points of view. Views at both the minimal center of what may be called “Church” and the maximal limits of what may genuinely be included as legitimate arenas of “Church life.” Van Engen

MT 530 Contemporary Theologies of Mission. A comprehensive evaluation of contemporary theologies of mission in the light of the Great Commission, with particular reference to the conciliar-evangelical debate, post-Vatican II Roman Catholic missiology, and the current revolution of rising expectations throughout the world. DEGREE PROGRAMS AND ACCREDITATION

The Graduate School of Psychology comprises two divisions, the Division of Psychology and the Division of Marriage and Family Therapy.

The Division of Psychology offers two degree programs, the Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D.) and the Doctor of Psychology (Psy.D.). The Ph.D. program in clinical psychology is approved (professionally accredited) by the American Psychological Association (APA). The Psy.D. program will seek accreditation at the earliest possible time from the same accrediting body.

In the Division of Marriage and Family Studies, several degrees are offered: the Master of Arts (M.A.) in marriage and family therapy, Doctor of Marriage and Family Therapy (D.M.F.T.), Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D.) in marriage and family therapy, and Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D.) in marriage and family studies. The M.A. in Marriage and Family Therapy is accredited by the Commission on Accreditation for Marriage and Family Therapy Education.

Character and Purpose

The Division of Psychology of Fuller's Graduate School of Psychology is a unique venture in higher education. Its purpose is to prepare a distinctive kind of clinical psychologist: men and women whose understandings and actions are deeply informed by both psychology and the Christian faith. It is based on the conviction that the coupling of Christian understanding of men and women with refined clinical and research skills will produce Christian clinical psychologists with a special ability to help persons on their journeys to wholeness and salvation.

Toward these goals, an attempt is made to avoid reducing human beings to the descriptive data of psychology, and theology to a set of propositions about God. Instead, both disciplines are accorded mutual respect in an effort to impart to the student a genuine appreciation for the contributions of each. The models of training which emerge from this perspective have been termed the Professional/Scientist/Christian model and the Practitioner/Evaluator/Christian model. This reflects the School's commitment to clinical training grounded in scientific psychology and Christian theology.

At its simplest, theology may be defined as conceptualizing God and God's relationship with humankind in ways that are relevant to this day. In a sense, everyone is a theologian, holding views about God. But not everyone is a good and profitable theologian. For this higher purpose a serious study of theology is imperative.

The data of theology consist primarily of the self-revealing acts and words of God contained in the prophetic and apostolic Scriptures. Yet it is not enough simply to quote what Scripture itself contains. Theology must encounter and speak to each new age and situation. Its task is to state the message of the Bible, making clear the relevance of this message to every person's current need.

On the other hand, psychology may be defined as the study of human behavior. It emphasizes the scientific approach, but it does not rule out the several other ways by which we have come to an understanding of human nature. Some of these impressions have come through self-reflective consciousness, creative and artistic expression, religious experience and philosophical thought.

The distinctiveness of the School of Psychology lies in its attempt to integrate these fields in theory, their own and practice. Through a series of didactic, experiential and reflective endeavors, theology and psychology are related. Students are encouraged to reflect on their own appropriation of faith (intrapersonal integration) and to determine how the data of both disciplines can be combined (conceptual integration). Further, support is given to research efforts to assess the interconnections of faith and behavior (experimental integration) and to the mutual sharing of insights with others in related vocations such as the ministry (interprofessional integration). Most importantly, students are trained in the melding of psychology and theology in clinical practice (professional integration).

Faculty members hold the view that integration at any level is a profitable endeavor. They communicate a view of people as having been created in the image of God, with an abiding concern for their relationship to Jesus Christ. They convey the conviction that resources exist which transcend their own. They attempt to model in teaching and living the unique combination of sincere faith and clinical excellence which the School espouses.

The needs of contemporary society are creating new and challenging roles for clinical psychologists. There is an increasing demand for more and better clinical training. The School of Psychology believes it is both the opportunity and the responsibility of the church and society to be involved in this training. Graduates of this program are qualified to serve in both the church and the wider community. As clinical psychologists they serve on hospital staffs, in private practice, in church-sponsored counseling centers, and as faculty members in higher education.

Admission

General standards for admission to any of the three schools of Fuller Theological Seminary are described on page 28 of this catalog.
Admission to the Ph.D. or Psy.D. programs in clinical psychology of the School of Psychology requires that a student have earned the B.A. degree from an academically accredited institution. Admission to these programs is very competitive. The entering student in the fall of 1989 had a median grade point average of 3.70, and the median score on the Graduate Record Examination was 1212.

The undergraduate major is most useful when it is in the social and behavioral sciences. A minimum of six courses in basic psychology (including subjects such as abnormal, developmental, experimental, physiological and social psychology, statistics, tests and measures, learning and motivation, and personality) is a requirement for entry into either program. Equally important for admission to the program are commitment to the historic Christian faith and life, personal qualities of high integrity, strong motivation for service, empathy for others, ability in relationships, spiritual sensitivity and an abiding love for scholarship. These qualities will be evaluated through letters of recommendation from those who know the candidate well, as well as the applicant's statement of purpose.

The completed application form and the $25 application fee should be received by January 1, preceding enrollment. In addition, the applicant must have the following materials sent to the Office of Admissions: 1) transcripts from all colleges and graduate schools attended, 2) the results of the general test of the Graduate Record Examination (optional). These supporting materials must be received by February 1. Applicants should be aware that the GRE must be taken far enough in advance (usually November or December) for scores to reach the office of Admissions by February 1. An application request card is included in this catalog. Application forms can be obtained either by returning the application request or by writing to the Office of Admissions.

Applicants whose native language is not English must have taken the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) within the past five years (required) and 3) the results of the Advanced Test in Psychology of the Graduate Record Examination (optional). The minimum score on the Graduate Record Examination was 600.

Financial Assistance

It is anticipated that tuition will increase approximately eight percent each year for the next several years. While the exact amount of increase is determined on an annual basis, students should plan financially for such an increase.

Financial assistance for this program is limited. Students are strongly encouraged to finance their education through parental and other private support, personal savings, veterans or state disability benefits, outside scholarships, church care, etc.

For students who are not able to support their education in one of the above ways, limited grant-in-aid is available. It should be stressed that this assistance is minimal, and students are required to provide for the greater portion of their own living expenses and educational costs. Financial aid application forms may be obtained from the Office of the Dean following admission.

For eligible students, loans through government sources are available in amounts up to $12,500 per year, and may be applied for through the Seminary's Financial Aid Office. Applicants are encouraged to explore opportunities for financial aid available in their states of residence prior to matriculation.

Administrative, clinical, research and teaching assistantships are provided to the extent they are available. The Psychological Center provides the largest number of assistantships; it provided partial support for 35 students during 1988-89.

The Seminary’s Office of Career Services aids students and spouses in finding part-time positions in Pasadena and the surrounding areas. A large percentage of these jobs are directly in the field of psychology (clinics, counseling centers, etc.) or in psychology-related fields such as residential homes, state or private hospitals, colleges, churches, etc. Some jobs are available in the areas of teaching and research as well as counseling, and involve service to all age groups. Typically, salaries range from $6 per hour to $10 per hour, and hours vary from eight to 20 per week for students and up to full time for spouses. Many of these positions supplement the learning process for students. Students should be aware that graduate study is demanding and those working over 20 hours per week will severely compromise the quality of their educational experience.

The student should be aware that the clinical settings often have no commitment to coordinate their work opportunities with the student’s clinical training needs. The most serious problem present in many situations is the lack of regularly scheduled supervision provided by the setting. In order to ensure that students not engage in employment which is incompatible with the doctoral training program, the faculty has established the policy outlined below:

Students must obtain the approval of the director of clinical training before accepting employment in any setting in which the student will be carrying out any of the functions which are normally performed by clinical psychologists and for which the student is in training within Fuller’s doctoral programs.

The student must obtain a written commitment from the prospective employer stating that the employer will provide not less than one hour a week of individual supervision from a licensed clinical psychologist throughout the student’s term of employment. The employer will pay for this supervision. This written agreement must be accepted by the director of clinical training prior to the job’s beginning.

Student Life

Close bonds develop between students as they progress through the program. Informal gatherings are opportunities for developing relationships and for taking advantage of the many recreational and cultural opportunities to be found in Pasadena and the greater Los Angeles area. Small fellowship groups are formed each fall for incoming students who wish to participate. Students represent a diversity of geographical, denominational, ethnic and educational backgrounds. Opportunities are provided for spouses to participate in many of the activities of their partner’s graduate education. This may include small groups, lectures and social activities.

Students and faculty of the School of Psychology meet together regularly for an hour of worship, informal fellowship, and sharing of community concerns. Responsibility for organization of these “community building days” is shared by faculty and student groups. In addition, special interest groups, along with various social affairs, help to bring students and faculty together on an informal basis.

Students are strongly encouraged (but not required) to take advantage of opportunities for personal, psychological and spiritual growth while progressing through the program. A subsidy program is available for students who participate in individual and/or group psychotherapy during the first three years in the program, subject to the availability of funds.

Psychology Graduate Union

Students in the School of Psychology have an opportunity to become actively involved in decision-making and administrative processes. All students in the School are members of the Psychology Graduate Union. The purpose of this organization is to represent members in all matters affecting student life, and to afford members the experience of serving their peers and the school in the area of academic and professional concerns.

Responsible for all affairs related to the Graduate Union is an executive cabinet composed of the cabinets of the Psychology Division and the Marriage and Family Division. The Psychology Division cabinet is composed of a president, secretary-treasurer (who serves both cabinets), ethnic resource coordinator, women’s resource coordinator, Theology Graduate Union representative, professional liaison, social events coordinator, two student representatives to the faculty, as well as a representative from each year in each degree program in the division. The Marriage and Family Division cabinet is composed of a president, the secretary-treasurer (who serves both cabinets), a representative from each year in each degree program in the division, as well as the ethnic resource coordinator, women’s resource coordinator, professional liaison, and social events coordinator.

The Psychology Division cabinet publishes a newsletter and a quarterly publication, The Stimuli. It sponsors a short-term emergency loan fund and the annual Travis Awards for Predissertation Study of Issues Relating to the Integration of Psychology and Religion. The cabinet provides students making professional presentations with small honoraria. It also holds quarterly social events for the membership, and the annual Gene Pfrimmer Memorial Softball Game, which pits students against faculty members.

Psychology Graduate Union members also have an opportunity to serve as members of various planning, administrative and evaluation committees. Such involvement gives students experience in administrative work and the chance to share in policy-making. The two faculty representatives and the president are members of the faculty policy-making body, with full responsibilities and privileges. Two students represent psychology students on the general Seminary student council. Other students serve on the library, psychology curriculum, admissions, and spiritual life committees, as well as on numerous ad hoc committees. Students may serve on dissertation committees for other students; it is the student’s option to serve and the candidate’s option to select. In every instance students serving on committees in the program have full voting rights.

The active participation of the Psychology Graduate Union in the decision-making processes of the program means that students are deeply involved in the recruitment, evaluation, retention and release of faculty. Students fill out extensive course evaluations of the professor’s sensitivity to issues related to women, ethnic minorities and religious dimensions.

Women

The Graduate School of Psychology follows an “equal opportunity” admissions policy, with about 40% of its students being women. The faculty endorses the American Psychological Association’s Guidelines on the Status of Women. Faculty are encouraged to incorporate research and theory on women’s psychology into all courses, and this issue is included in all course evaluations. Seminars on The Psychology of Women and Women in Therapy are offered every other year, and there is an ongoing research group for persons interested in research on women. Persons interested in integrating feminism, psychology and their Christian faith will find support for this in the larger Fuller community.

One student is appointed each year as Women’s Issues Resource Coordinator. The person in this stipended position is responsible for providing bibliographic and other resources to students and faculty in the program, sensitizing the community to issues pertinent to therapy with women, and the educational process for women students. This person also plans regular social events for women students and faculty and keeps them informed of local workshops, meetings, speakers, and other events focused on women’s issues.

Ethnic Minorities

The Graduate School of Psychology is committed to the recruitment and training of students with ethnic-American backgrounds—Asian, Black, Hispanic and native-American. It follows a proactive admissions policy and is part of the GRE Minority Student Locator program. Psychology faculty are encouraged to address ethnic and cross-cultural issues in their teaching, research and practice. A seminar on “Ethnic Issues in Clinical Psychology” is offered every year, and a number of faculty and students conduct research in this area. Clinical experience with relevant groups is encouraged and available in the diverse population which surrounds Pasadena and the Los Angeles area.

One minority student is appointed each year as Ethnic Issues Resource Coordinator. The person in this stipended position is responsible for sensitizing students, faculty and staff of the psychology program and the Seminary as a whole to issues related to minorities. This includes identifying the unique needs of students, addressing issues pertinent to therapy with ethnic-Americans, and providing resources for students and faculty. This person also serves on the admissions committee as a full member.

Various social events and workshops are conducted each year to increase awareness and facilitate a sense of community among all the psychology students. In addition, students are encouraged to participate in the many activities in this area offered by the Schools of Theology and World Mission.

To provide national leadership in this area, the Schools of Psychology and Theology sponsored a conference in 1982, 1983 and 1985 entitled “Ethnic Mental Health in the ’80s: Its Psychological and Theological Dimensions.” The School of Psychology is committed to sponsoring such a conference again in the near future.

Community Resources

Because of Fuller’s fortunate location in a major metropolitan area, students have continuous access to a wide variety of lectures, symposia and workshops presented by nationally and internationally renowned figures in the field of psychology. Extensive library holdings and major research and clinical facilities in the area provide resources which supplement those provided in the School of Psychology. Distinguished psychologists and other leaders in the mental health professions speak on an occasional basis to students and faculty. In addition, students are encouraged to join professional organizations and attend their conventions.

Division of Psychology Student Handbook

In addition to the information contained in the Seminary student handbook, certain policies, procedures and information concerning students in the program are contained in the Division of Psychology Student Handbook. Of particular importance are documents drawn up by faculty-student committees which outline guidelines for personal and professional behavior, as well as policy and procedures for processing grievances regarding students and faculty. It is an implied contract that all students in the program will comply with regulations in both handbooks while they are students under the jurisdiction of the Seminary.

Division of Psychology Curriculum

In its Ph.D. program in clinical psychology, the Division of Psychology has adopted the professional-scientist model as most appropriate to its purpose, and in the Psy.D. program, the practitioner/evaluator model. These ideals are reflected in the curriculum of each degree program.

Students may select up to an equivalent of four full-time courses during each of the three quarters (fall, winter, spring) of scheduled psychology classes, and may take part in directed reading projects. Theology courses and a limited number of psychology courses are available during the summer quarter. Two-hour courses are considered to be only half of a full-time course. The graduate course of study is a sequence that normally spans a six-year period (five years for the Psy.D.) and should be thoroughly understood in terms of requirements and progression. The curriculum is divided into four parts: general psychology, clinical psychology, theology-integration, and research (including research courses, master’s project and doctoral dissertation). The curriculum for the Psy.D. differs from that of the Ph.D. in terms of some of the course content, the practicum experience, and the nature of the research project. Also, no master’s level research project is required for the Psy.D. degree.

Registration. Registration is the student’s responsibility. If in a given quarter a student fails to register, that student will receive a letter from the Dean. Failure of a student to respond to the letter within two weeks will be understood as the student’s resignation from the program. Special fees will be assessed for late registration for non-classroom experiences such as internships, dissertation, etc.

Part I: General Psychology and Foundational Courses. The core curriculum of general psychology provides the student with a solid base of psychological data. These specific courses are numbered PG800-859. Each student will complete a minimum of 60 quarter hours of general psychology and foundational courses, to include the following required first-year courses:

- PG 800 History and Systems of Psychology (4)
- PG 843 Psychopathology (4)
- PG 850 Basic Methods for Research and Evaluation (4)
- PG 851 Intermediate Research/Evaluation Methods (4)
- PG 852 Advanced Research Methods (4)
- PG 855 Tests and Measurements (4)
- PG 845 Applied Diagnostic Nomenclature (2)
- PG 853 Advanced Program Evaluation (4) (Psy.D. only)

The remaining units (Ph.D. 28 units, Psy.D. 24 units) may be selected from general psychology electives falling within the range of course numbers indicated above.

Each student must demonstrate competence in the areas of biological bases of behavior, the cognitive-affective bases of behavior, the social bases of behavior, and individual behavior by earning at least 4 units of credit in each of these areas. These units may be earned by taking clinical seminars (PC830-839) specifically designated at the time of registration to fall into one of these areas, or by taking general psychology courses which fall into one of these areas as follows:

- Biological bases of behavior: PG810-819
- Cognitive-affective bases of behavior: PG820-829
- Social bases of behavior: PG830-839
- Individual behavior: PG840-849

Each student is responsible to ensure his or her compliance with this requirement.

Psychology research colloquia are presented three times each quarter, involving lectures from distinguished researchers in psychology. Each student in the Ph.D. and Psy.D. programs is required to attend 18 of the 27 colloquia offered during the student’s first three years of the program. Students will be asked to sign in at each seminar, and the student will receive two units of credit by registering for PG856 Research Colloquium during the Spring quarter of his or her third year.

Each student must pass the comprehensive examination (the Psychology subject, or Advanced GRE). After passing it, students may substitute clinical psychology seminars (PC830-834) for general psychology electives. Only clinical seminars taken after the comprehensive examination has been passed may be substituted.

Part II: Clinical Psychology. The clinical psychology curriculum introduces each student to a broad sweep of target populations and clinical course work, practicum placements and supervised field training in various approved settings. Each student will complete a minimum of 132 units (Psy.D. 154 units) in clinical psychology, to include the following courses:

- PC 803 Legal and Ethical Issues (2)
- PC 804 Test Administration (2)
- PC 805 Report Writing (2)
- PC 800 Clinical Foundations I (2)
PC 801 Clinical Foundations II (2)
PC 802 Clinical Foundations III (2)
PC 810 Clinical Psychology A—Adult (4)
PC 811 Clinical Psychology B—Gerontology (4)
PC 812 Clinical Psychology C—Consultation/Community (4)
PC 813 Clinical Psychology D—Child (4)
PC 814 Clinical Psychology E—Adolescent (4)
PC 815 Clinical Psychology F—Family (4)
PC 816 Program Administration (4) (Psy.D. only)
PC 817 Marketing Professional Services (2) (Psy.D. only)
PC 820 Ph.D. Practicum I (2-2-2)
PC 821 Ph.D. Practicum II (2-2-2)
PC 822 Psy.D. Practicum I (2-2-2)
PC 823 Psy.D. Practicum II (2-2-2)
PC 824 Ph.D.Clerkship (4-4-4-4)
PC 825 Psy.D. Clerkship (4-4-4-4)
PC 840 Pre-Internship (4-4-4-4)
PC 841 Ph.D. Internship (12-12-12-12)
PC 843 Psy.D. Internship (16-16-16-16)

The remaining quarter hours must be selected from elective clinical seminars (course numbers PC830-839).

Each student must demonstrate clinical competency by sustaining a series of four clinical evaluations. These focus on knowledge and abilities concerning psychological assessment, professional issues, and clinical interventions.

Part III: Theology-Integration. An exploration into the relationships between psychology and theology constitutes the essential uniqueness of the program. Each Ph.D. student will complete a minimum of 96 quarter hours in theology and integration. The following theology units have been determined jointly by the School of Psychology and the School of Theology, and may be fulfilled in one of two alternative tracks:

Track A:
- Biblical studies courses (7)
- Theology/church history courses (7)
- Ministry courses (2)
- Integration seminars (4)
- Elective courses (4)

Track B:
- Biblical studies courses (7)
- Theology/church history courses (7)
- Biblical language courses (3)
- Integration Seminars (4)
- Elective courses (3)

Only specific courses meet some of the Track A requirements. Details are available from the School of Theology academic advising office.

Additional tuition will be charged for any theology units taken in excess of the minimum requirements.

Each Psy.D. student will complete a minimum of 64 units of theology; additional master's-level tuition will be charged for any theology units taken in excess of this minimum requirement. The following theology units have been determined jointly by the School of Psychology and the School of Theology:

- Biblical studies courses (4)
- Theology/church history courses (4)
- Ministry courses (2)
- Integration seminars (4)
- Elective courses (2)

Students are encouraged to take integration courses as their elective courses. An elective may also be any School of Theology course or selected courses which are cross-listed between the Schools of Theology and World Mission. In addition, for those choosing Track B, selected courses which are cross-listed between the Schools of Theology and Psychology and which have a definite theological perspective may be taken as elective courses.

The integration curriculum includes three types of courses: Introductory, Finch Symposium, and Integration Seminars.

1. The Introductory Seminar (PI800) must be taken prior to taking any other integration seminar. It covers beginning assumptions in and contemporary expressions of integration.

2. Finch Symposium (PI801) is a course offered in conjunction with the annual Finch Symposium lecture series.

3. Integration Seminars (PI802) are offered regularly. These are seminars which deal with current topics of special interest to the field of integration.

All integration seminars are team-taught by professors of the Schools of Psychology and Theology or World Mission.

The entire program in theology-integration is individually designed for each student in consultation with an adviser from the School of Theology. Most students in the Ph.D. program earn a Master of Arts degree in theology, since the fulfillment of the requirements outlined above satisfies School of Theology requirements for that degree. Other students choose to meet additional requirements (paying additional tuition) and earn a Master of Divinity degree.

Part IV: Master's Project and Doctoral Dissertation. These experiences are designed to provide the Ph.D. student with expertise in scientific research and publication. Each Ph.D. student will complete a master's project before scheduling a Doctoral Dissertation Proposal Colloquium. Credit for the master's project may be earned by registering for PG857 Individual Research. The amount of credit earned is based directly on the amount of time spent working on the research project.

Each Ph.D. student earns 32 quarter hours of dissertation units (PG900) in completing the dissertation. Dissertations are prepared in accordance with the dissertation guidelines adopted by the faculty and contained in the Psychology Division Student Handbook.

The Psy.D. program requires a professional dissertation, earning a total of 16 quarter hours of dissertation units (PG902).

Comprehensive Examination

One of the assumptions underlying Fuller's program is that a person earning a doctoral degree in clinical psychology should have a broadly based foundation in the concepts, data, methods and theories of general psychology. Students are expected to reach a superior level of mastery. "Superior level" has been defined by the faculty as a score in the 90th percentile of the Advanced Test in Psychology of the Graduate Record Examination (GRE). Students should arrange to take the GRE in Psychology at the earliest possible date.

All doctoral students must score 650 or higher on the Advanced Test in Psychology in order to pass the comprehensive examination. This requirement must be met before a student may apply for an internship placement.

This examination will be given on campus during September of each year. Students who take the Graduate Record Examination prior to admission to the program may submit their previous scores of 650 or higher as meeting the comprehensive examination requirement. Transcripts of such scores must be sent directly from the Educational Testing Service to the Dean, Graduate School of Psychology, Fuller Theological Seminary.

In recognition of the fact that the field of psychology changes rapidly, the validity of a 650 score on the Advanced Test will only be extended seven years. Students who have not graduated by that point must again obtain a score of 650 or higher on the Advanced Test in Psychology.

A student may take the examination at any of the on-campus administrations or at a national testing center designated by the Educational Testing Service. The number of times a student may retake the examination is not limited. All costs of this examination are the responsibility of the student. The student and adviser or major professor jointly determine when the student will take the Graduate Record Examination. Although the number of times which the examination may be taken is not fixed, any failing performance will be reviewed by the faculty. Repeated failures may lead to a faculty recommendation that the student terminate studies in the program.

Clinical Psychology Sequence (PC810-PC815)

A problem-solving approach is used in teaching the student the basic orientation and skills of the contemporary clinical psychologist. Each quarter, students taking the clinical psychology sequence courses focus on a different target population with which the practicing clinical psychologist must often deal. Emphasis is placed upon the continuity between psychological assessment and psychological intervention, the faculty believing that those two processes are not separable in the practice of clinical psychology. Each student will see faculty members demonstrate a wide range of assessment tools and techniques. Each student will also observe faculty members model a wide range of interventions, e.g., psychoanalytic therapy, Rogerian psychotherapy, behavior therapy, crisis intervention, family therapy, teaching parents to be therapists of their own children and consultation to churches and other community institutions. Usually faculty demonstrations will be followed by student participation in carrying out similar types of assessment and intervention.

All doctoral students, regardless of their background, are required to take the six courses in the clinical psychology sequence. These particular courses are to be taken in the order listed with the final quarter to be completed before the student begins a clerkship. The only exception is for students who have been granted advanced standing by the faculty based on an advanced degree in theology or psychology and demonstrated competence.

Practicum Training

The Practicum Training Program is a two-year experience intended as a beginning for developing professional identity, consolidating basic psychotherapy skills, and initiating students in the wide array of professional activities basic to the practice of clinical psychology. In the Graduate School of Psychology at Fuller, the student will typically build upon skills acquired in the first-year Clinical Foundations course by participating in two years of practica concurrently with the sequenced second and third years of training. Practicum involves two nine-month placements for Ph.D. students and one nine-month and one twelve-month placement for Psy.D. students. Students are encouraged at this stage of training to focus on obtaining a breadth of experience, rather than developing specialized training in any one area.

Field Training

Clinical facilities in the Los Angeles area and throughout the country provide clinical expeence and training to students during the final three years of the program. Field training usually begins in the fourth year of the program and follows the sequence outlined below (80 units):

First Year, Ph.D. and Psy.D programs (12 months): Clerkship, taken at 12 hours per week (600 hours for the year) = 16 units (4-4-4-4).

Second Year, Ph.D. program only (12 months): Pre-internship, with a minimum of 12 hours per week (600 hours for the year) = 16 units (4-4-4-4).

Third Year Ph.D. program, Second Year Psy.D. program (12 months): A full-time internship consisting of a minimum of 40 hours per week (at least 2,000 hours for the year). Available to either program. Ph.D.—48 units (12-12-12-12); Psy.D.—64 units (16-16-16-16).

Before beginning the first year of field training, students must have completed 72 quarter hours of psychology at the graduate level and must have completed the clinical sequence with no holds or incompletes.

Before being allowed to apply for the pre-internship, a student must have obtained a score of 650 or higher on the Advanced Test in Psychology of the Graduate Record Examination. Before commencing the pre-internship, a student must have successfully completed his or her clerkship. A student must complete 1,500 hours (48 credits) of field work training in multidisciplinary settings in a period of not more than 24 consecutive months. This 1,500 hour requirement must be completed before the Ph.D. is granted.

Students are responsible to see that their field training experiences meet the requirements of the licensing law of the state in which they wish to be licensed.

The Clinical Evaluation

The evaluation of a student's clinical competency is a continuing process which extends to the end of the fifth year (Psy.D.) or sixth year (Ph.D.) in the program. The purposes of this program are to ensure that the student is thoroughly prepared: 1) to practice as a skilled clinical psychologist and 2) to pass important post-doctoral examinations such as those required for state licensure. Facility in the integration of psychology and theology and awareness of gender, ethnic and socio-cultural issues are to be evaluated in all four phases of this clinical evaluation. These four phases are described below; further details may be found in the Psychology Division Student Handbook.

Phase I: Assessment Evaluation. This phase involves a standardized contract which includes 1) demonstration of competency in administrative and interpretation of a list of psychological tests; 2) demonstration of ability to conduct in-depth clinical assessment interviewing; and 3) submission of written reports which give evidence of the student's ability to delineate the client's clinically relevant history and level of current functioning, to integrate clinical interview and psychodiagnostic test data to the end that clinically sound assessment conclusions are reached, to formulate diagnostic impressions on the five axes of DSM-III, and to develop an efficacious plan for any necessary interventions. This phase is completed by the end of the fourth year of the program.

Phase II: Professional Issues Evaluation. This phase includes a standardized contract which will demonstrate that the student is knowledgeable in the professional concerns of 1) ethics, 2) law, 3) professional literature, and 4) current professional problems and issues. Competency will be determined by an objective test. This phase takes place during and will be completed by the end of the fourth year of the program (before beginning the pre-internship).

Phase III: Clinical Intervention Evaluation. In this phase, the student will demonstrate ability in 1) understanding presenting problems; 2) gathering information regarding personal history, interpersonal relationships, and present functioning; 3) summarizing and synthesizing psychodiagnostic data; 4) stating diagnostic impressions; 5) formulating treatment goals; 6) applying relevant research to both treatment planning and actual therapy; 7) engaging in effective therapeutic intervention; and 8) evaluating the progress made in therapy. This phase will take place during and be completed by the end of the fifth year of the program. The purpose of this phase is to ascertain and prescribe whatever remediation is necessary before the final phase.

Phase IV: Final Clinical Examination. In this phase, the student will demonstrate final clinical competency as the last step before the faculty certifies the student's readiness to practice as a professional clinical psychologist. Competency will be assessed in an oral examination, part of which will include an actual observation or videotape of the student in a therapy session. This phase will take place during the last six months of the fifth year (Psy.D.) or sixth year (Ph.D.) in the program.

The curriculum in the integration of theology and the social/behavioral sciences is built on the conviction that while it is an endeavor which ultimately must engage each individual personally, integration is also a cognitive activity which involves the examination of basic presuppositions... and includes intense conceptual reflection. Therefore, the curriculum plan is directed toward the enhancement and enrichment of this cognitive examination and conceptual reflection. The intention is that the dialogue which these seminars provoke will stimulate that personal and individual integration of faith and profession which is the goal of all training in the program. A minimum of four seminars is required to earn the M.A. degree in theology. Others may be taken as electives for that degree or in the general psychology requirements for the Ph.D. degree.

Three types of structured educational experiences comprise the curriculum model of integration.

Introduction to Integration (PI800). This introductory seminar attempts to provide the student with essential understandings of presuppositions, tools, paradigms and approaches to the integration of the social/behavioral sciences and the Christian faith. It is a foundation for other study, and must be taken prior to enrolling in any other integration seminar.

Finch Symposium (PI801). Each Winter Quarter an integration seminar experience is built around the lectures of the annual Finch Symposium. Students attend and respond to the invited lectures as well as to respondents from the Seminary’s three faculties. Wide reading on the symposium topic and discussion with other seminar members are also included. The topic varies from year to year. See also the description of the Finch Symposium on page 17 of this catalog.

Integration Seminars (PI802). These seminars are team-taught by a member of the psychology faculty and faculty from either the School of Theology or the School of World Mission. Topics vary from time to time, but are consistently focused around critical questions in the interrelationships between psychology and the Christian faith. The concerns of the seminars are to facilitate integration at the personal, professional and principled levels. One or more seminars are offered each quarter.

Research/Evaluation

Underlying the psychology program’s commitment to the scientist/professional model is the conviction that every clinical psychologist graduating from Fuller should possess expertise in research/evaluation skills and that knowledge derived from empirical methodologies should undergird all of his or her activities as a professional. Students are therefore trained to immerse themselves in the relevant psychological literature as they take general psychology courses, as they choose and evaluate psychological assessment approaches and methods of intervention, and as they participate in the theology integration portion of the curriculum.

Training in empirical methodology takes place in the context of the community of scholarship. Several professors have ongoing research groups in which their advisees and other interested students participate.

For the Ph.D. student, this includes the completion of the required formal research projects. It is the general expectation that the master’s project, the doctoral dissertation, or both will be empirical in nature. Students are encouraged and trained to make presentations at the conventions of professional organizations and to publish their findings in appropriate professional journals.

For the Psy.D. student, this includes coursework in evaluation and a dissertation which is normally empirical in nature, such as the evaluation of a clinic program, a comprehensive review of a clinical problem, or other projects approved by the Director of Research.

Typical Progress

The following table lists program requirements, the number of required units each year, units available each year to be used at the student’s discretion, and a recommended schedule for use of discretionary units. Considerable variation within this outline is possible. Individual courses required each year are identified in the course descriptions.

First Year

Required Units (40)
- Foundational courses
- Integration seminar
- Assessment and Psychopathology practica

Units Available/Recommendations (24)
- General psychology courses
- Theology courses

Second Year

Required Units (Ph.D. 20, Psy.D. 26)
- Clinical sequence courses
- Report Writing
- Clinical Practica
- Program Administration (Psy.D. only)
- General psychology courses
- Theology courses
- Integration seminars
- Completion of master’s project (Ph.D. only) or comprehensive examination

Third Year

Required Units (Ph.D. 20, Psy.D. 22)
- Clinical sequence courses
- Clinical practica
- Marketing Professional Services (Psy.D. only)
- Research Colloquia
Units Available/Recommendations (Ph.D. 44, Psy.D. 42)
Clinical and general psychology courses
Theology courses
Integration seminars
Completion of master’s project (Ph.D. only) or comprehensive examination

Fourth Year
Required Units (16)
Clerkship
Clinical Evaluation, Phases I & II
Units Available/Recommendations (48)
Clinical psychology courses
Theology courses
Integration seminars
Dissertation

Fifth Year (Ph.D. students)
Required Units (16)
Pre-internship
Clinical Evaluation, Phase III
Units Available/Recommendations (48)
Completion of coursework
Continued work on dissertation

Fifth Year (Psy.D. students)
Required Units (64)
Internship
Completion of doctoral project
Clinical Evaluation, Phases III & IV

Sixth Year (Ph.D. students)
Required Units (48)
Internship
Completion of dissertation
Clinical Evaluation, Phase IV
Units Available/Recommendations (16)
Completion of dissertation units

It is assumed that students take courses during the summer quarter to complete all requirements within the five or six years allotted.

Students who have completed graduate work in theology and desire a reduction in the number of theology credit hours which must be earned at Fuller to fulfill degree requirements should contact the Theology Academic Advising Office.

The clinical sequence, including Clinical Foundations, is required for all doctoral students entering the program. Due to this requirement, a minimum of four years is required for Psy.D. students to the program, and five years for Ph.D. students. Students entering with a master’s degree in psychology or theology may qualify for “collapsing” the third and fourth years of the program, subject to faculty approval. Students who qualify must apply for this in the second year of their program.

Terminal Master’s Degree
A Master of Arts degree in psychology is granted only when a student has formally terminated from the program, and when the following requirements are satisfied:
1. Completion of 48 hours of psychology courses, including the sequence on statistics and research methods, with a minimum grade point average of 3.0.
2. Completion of a master’s level research project under the direction of a faculty adviser (Ph.D. students), or the passing of the Comprehensive Examination (a score of 650 on the Advanced Test in Psychology of the Graduate Record Examination; Ph.D. or Psy.D. students).
3. A residence requirement of three quarters.

Students who receive a terminal master’s degree are not subsequently readmitted to the doctoral program in clinical psychology at Fuller without full consideration by the faculty and surrender of the M.A. degree.

Advancement to Candidacy Status
A student shall formally be considered a doctoral candidate when the following criteria have been met:
1. Passing the comprehensive examination.
2. Satisfactory completion of the clinical sequence.
3. Satisfactory acceptance of the master’s project, or equivalent (Ph.D. only).
4. Formal faculty approval.

The transcripts of students who have met these criteria will include a notation that they have achieved candidacy status. A letter will be sent to students informing them of their candidacy.

Transfer of Credit
Students who have completed graduate work in psychology at other institutions and desire a reduction in the number of psychology credit hours which they must earn at Fuller to fulfill degree requirements should contact the Office of the Dean for transfer of credit. Students who have completed graduate work in theology at other institutions and desire a reduction in the number of theology credit hours which must be earned at Fuller to fulfill degree requirements should contact the Theology Academic Advising Office.

Transfer of Credit from another psychology program requires the approval of the student’s adviser and the Dean. The student must earn at least 36 of the required program credits at Fuller.

It is assumed that students take courses during the summer quarter to complete all requirements within the five or six years allotted.
Graduation and Commencement

A student may graduate at the end of any quarter after all requirements have been met. However, in order to participate in the June Commencement exercises, a student must have 1) completed all coursework, 2) completed the clinical evaluation and dissertation final oral by the date specified, and 3) registered to complete the Internship by no later than September 30 following the June Commencement exercises.

An updated schedule of deadlines for each requirement leading to graduation is included in the Psychology Student Handbook.

Clinical Training

The Clinical Training Program stresses a functional approach to case management. In such an approach, the emphasis is placed on psychological assessment which is aimed at decision-making and psychological interventions which are aimed at producing specified therapeutic changes. The primary commitment is to help people solve their problems and to prevent them from the development of new ones. Although the various faculty members represent many theoretical orientations, the traditional “schools of psychotherapy” are deemphasized. Students are expected to become familiar with the major assessment and therapeutic tools which have been scientifically validated.

Several assumptions underlie the clinical training:
1. Clinical psychology is a field that is rapidly growing and changing;
2. A flexible training program which encourages questioning, research and innovation provides the greatest benefits to the future demands of psychology and society;
3. A sound knowledge of general psychology is important to the practice of clinical psychology regardless of the direction that the latter may take;
4. Since clinical psychology deals mainly with interpersonal relationships, the clinical psychologist must learn to be sensitive to the major variables which affect the way one person responds to another;
5. Quality and breadth of experience are more important than the number of experiences;
6. No department of psychology has adequate staff or facilities to expose its students to an ideal range of clinical populations and procedures; therefore, each clinical psychology training program must seek the cooperation of the major mental health facilities in its locale to assist in the clinical training of its students.

The Psychological Center

This Center is a novel complex, the purpose of which is to support the work of the faculty. The primary tasks of the psychology faculty are 1) to teach and train Christian persons as future clinical psychologists, 2) to conduct and supervise research on finding more effective ways to alleviate human suffering, and 3) to model the best of contemporary practice of clinical psychology.

The Psychological Center will eventually provide training for approximately 125 doctoral students a year.

Too often the various health professions have engaged in competition rather than cooperation. An institute has been needed which explicitly promotes cooperation between disciplines, and The Psychological Center seeks to be such an institute.

Psychology is a relatively young science and profession, but it is one of the most frequently chosen academic majors in colleges and universities throughout the country. Psychology has produced a large body of knowledge and techniques which have great relevance for solving human problems and for promoting optimal functioning. Facilities are needed which encourage our future psychologists to apply the knowledge and techniques of their discipline to the solution of significant problems. Research conducted by creative faculty members represent many theoretical orientations, the traditional “schools of psychotherapy” are deemphasized. Students are expected to become familiar with the major assessment and therapeutic tools which have been scientifically validated.

The Graduate School of Psychology began the expansion of The Psychological Center in 1976. This initial phase of expansion was made possible by a grant from the James Irvine Foundation. Since 1976 several other funding sources have assisted in the development of new facilities and programs. These sources include the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, the James Foundation, the Pasadena Foundation, the California State Department of Health, the Pasadena Child Health Foundation, the United States Department of Health and Human Services, the Pfaffinger Foundation, the Peppers Foundation, the Times Mirror Corporation, the Avery Corporation, the City of Pasadena, the Los Angeles County Department of Mental Health, and many individual donors.

The faculty developed the basic plan for The Psychological Center many years ago, but the plan was not implemented until the doctoral program had achieved full academic and professional accreditation. The Psychological Center currently includes 12 clinics, day treatment programs, residential treatment facilities, and havens for respite care.

Students in the Graduate School of Psychology share in the excitement and challenge of developing the services, facilities, programs and projects which constitute the model for The Psychological Center. During their doctoral studies, most students spend several years of field training in The Psychological Center.

The Director of Training for The Psychological Center is primarily responsible for internship training, participates in the selection of predoctoral interns for The Psychological Center facilities, and coordinates supervision and training events for clerks, pre-interns and interns. During the 1989-90 academic year, the Psychological Center is staffed by faculty, staff and advanced students in the Marriage and Family program, and M.F.C.C. interns.

The Psychological Center consists of the following programs:

Child Development Clinic. This clinic was established in 1968 to provide professional services to the community, and clinical and research training for students. Many studies on child psychotherapy have been conducted at the Clinic. Some of these have been funded by the National Institute of Mental Health. In addition to direct services to children, adolescents and their parents, the Clinic’s staff provides psychological consultation to teachers and other child care workers in the community. The Clinic is housed in the new School of Psychology building, and contains office, group therapy rooms, observation rooms, a children’s therapy room and testing/interviewing rooms. Video recorders and other electronic devices are used to improve the quality of care provided at the Clinic.

Covenant House. Covenant House, a therapeutic community-based residential program for autistic and other developmentally disabled children who manifest severe behavior problems, has been in operation since 1979. The staff of faculty and students provides day to day care in conjunction with behaviorally-based therapeutic services, which are structured into the children’s activities. Students typically make a one-year commitment to work at Covenant House, for which they receive a training stipend. Interest in this program should be indicated when applying for admission to the psychological program.

Pasadena Community Counseling Clinic. This clinic serves adults, couples and families with a wide variety of outpatient therapy and assessment services. PCCC is staffed by faculty, staff, psychologists, and advanced students. Among the specialized services offered are biofeedback, couple assessment, and clergy career consultation services. The clinic’s facilities include consultation rooms, observation and testing labs, and computer and video support. PCCC was established in 1964 as the School’s first clinical training facility.

Stop Abusive Family Environments (SAFE). Founded in 1981, this is a family violence program which focuses its services on the treatment of physical abuse and sexual molestation of children and adults. Assessment and outpatient therapy, as well as legal advocacy, are provided for all family members. In addition, research and community education are ongoing components of the activities of this program.

Margo L. Goldsmith Foster Family Agency. The Margo L. Goldsmith Foster Family Agency is a program of the SAFE clinic. The Agency is licensed by the State of California to recruit, train and supervise foster families and to appropriately screen, place and treat foster children.

Relationship Counseling Clinic. The Relational Counseling Clinic is the training arm of the Marriage and Family Therapy program, a division of the Graduate School of Psychology. Because of this affiliation, specialized training and research is an ongoing aspect of the clinic. This clinic services adults, adolescents and children with a special emphasis on issues pertaining to relationships. Although adults are commonly seen for counseling, the emphasis is on marital, premarital and family treatment. There are also groups for special interests (e.g. couple groups and groups for missionary families). The Relational Counseling Clinic is staffed by faculty, licensed marriage and family counselors, advanced students in the Marriage and Family program, and M.F.C.C. interns.

Inter-Community Alternatives Network. I-CAN is a research and training facility developed by The Psychological Center in 1980. It is a day treatment program for chronically mentally ill adults. I-CAN offers an alternative to hospitalization. A support system for participants is developed, and skills essential for independent living are taught by students, staff and volunteers. The program includes several therapeutic components, including individual psychotherapy, client government, social skills training and vocational rehabilitation. I-CAN is a contract program of the Los Angeles County Department of Mental Health.

Heritage House for Gerontology Services. Heritage House is an outpatient clinic offering services to older adults. Located in a spacious home, reflecting Pasadena’s rich cultural and architectural heritage, Heritage House serves persons at all income levels, regardless of race, national origin, creed or religion. Services include individual and group counseling, psychological assessment, support groups, intergenerational family consultation, and community education. and training. The goals of Heritage House include growth, life enhancement and support of older adults and their families, the training of professionals and volunteers in gerontology, and community education.

The Crime Resistance Involvement Council (CRIC). This complex of services is jointly sponsored by the Pasadena Police Department and partially supported by funds from the City of Pasadena. Senior volunteers from the community play an important role in providing assistance to victims of crime and in training older adults to lower their risk of becoming a victim. Another component of CRIC deals with elderly victims of abuse or neglect. CRIC became a part of The Psychological Center in 1976, and has been recognized as a model program.

Older Adult Services. The programs are designed to prevent premature institutionalization of frail elderly. Many clients have memory problems and major health problems. Services include group programming, psychological services and transportation. The Wednesday day program provides a structured therapeutic environment for clients with depression, adjustment disorders and mild memory loss. Opened in 1981, the program provides holistic, multi-disciplinary treatment by a professional staff and is an Alzheimer Day Care Resource Center. The consulting staff includes a physical therapist and an occupational therapist.

Gero-Net. Some seniors who live alone become mentally confused and may engage in disturbing behaviors which trigger calls for police or a psychiatric emergency team. Such persons would usually be hurt more than helped by being taken to a mental hospital. Fortunately, regular face-to-face and telephone contacts by another person can often stabilize the mentally frail senior and allow the elderly person to continue living in his or her own home within the community. The trainees and volunteers of Gero-Net provide such contacts. The Los Angeles County Department of Mental Health covers most of the costs of Gero-Net by an annual contract.

Project IV Family Outreach. Project IV Family Outreach is a novel program involving cooperation between The Psychological Center, the Pasadena Mental Health Center, Foothill Family Service and Pasadena Guidance Clinics. These four agencies provide staff for a common project, established in 1981, which has been housed in the central offices of the Pasadena Unified School District. The primary purpose of the program is to identify and evaluate persons who are at high risk for educational, psychological and social problems, but who tend to underutilize traditional forms of mental health services. The staff works to link clients with the most appropriate services in the community. The Los Angeles County Department of Mental Health pays for the costs of this program.

Church Consultation Service. From 1969 to 1977 the School of Psychology sponsored a Church Consultation Center and Service, and from 1980 to 1986 a Network of Church-Based Human Services. Building on these earlier ventures, The Psychological Center reopened psychological services to churches, para-church organizations and Christian leaders in the fall of 1988. The Church Consultation Service will help students learn how to provide such psychological consultation to religious organizations.

Other Training and Research Facilities

Psychophysiological Laboratory. This laboratory is equipped with the modern electronic instruments used in the study of psychophysiological phenomena. The action of the central and autonomic nervous systems is studied in relation to such psychological factors as beliefs, attitudes and cognitive states. The equipment available for research includes a modern physiological polygraph and electroencephalograph, a multi-channel instrumentation recorder and a computer and signal averager with real-time features.

Stress and Biofeedback Laboratory. This laboratory is equipped to measure a variety of stress indicators and provide stress management and relaxation training through biofeedback training. Students supplement coursework with encouragement to personally train themselves in these modalities.

Computer Facilities. The School of Psychology has terminals on the Seminary minicomputer, which gives access to up-to-date research statistics packages. This system is made available to students for research purposes at no charge. A growing number of microcomputers is available on campus for computer searches and data analysis. Students are encouraged to develop skills in computer use. Computerized test scoring and interactive computerized test feedback are also being developed.

Major Components

Training in clinical psychology includes experiences and supervision in research, psychological assessment (interviewing, observing, testing, etc.), psychological intervention (behavior modification, community consultation, crisis intervention, psychotherapy, etc.), personal growth and integration of information.
Experience in Research

The developing pattern of research training at Fuller involves three overlapping learning processes. These include classroom instruction, apprenticeship and faculty modeling. First, a thorough program of classroom instruction is viewed as a necessary base for each student. In this connection, the student is involved during the first year in the basic sequence of statistics and experimental psychology. For the Ph.D. student, this introduction culminates in the planning and execution of a master's level research project. This project is completed under the close supervision of a faculty member and is considered as a research experience introductory to doctoral research. The Psy.D. student approaches research more indirectly, learning to critique research.

Secondly, a basic notion of the training design requires the student to be involved continuously in research on an apprenticeship basis throughout the program. From as early in the program as possible the Ph.D. student works under the immediate supervision of a faculty member. During the first two years, the student becomes involved in the faculty member's own ongoing research program. Early in the third year, the student begins independent research—identifying a problem and performing various research operations. During the fourth year, a student is expected to complete a proposal for dissertation research, and the final three years are spent in the completion and writing of this project.

Thirdly, all students are expected to benefit from faculty models while moving toward a career of inquiry. Each faculty member is engaged in an ongoing program of research and strives through the association with students to communicate the model of the scientist/professional.

Experiences in Psychological Assessment

Upon graduation each student will have had exposure to several target groups. The student will have assessed children, adolescents, adults and the aged. Cutting across these age groups, the student will have had assessment experiences with normals, psychiatric inpatients and outpatients, the physically handicapped, the developmentally disabled, the economically and socially deprived, minority groups and other client populations. In addition to acquiring experiences with a large number of different target populations, the student will have been introduced to the major assessment techniques. These include observation and description of behavior, interviewing, individual and group testing, special techniques of assessment such as psychophysiological measures of autonomic reactivity and other techniques which show promise of usefulness in psychological assessment. Meaningful assessment is oriented toward clinical decision-making.

Experiences in Psychological Intervention

The target groups for experience in intervention are essentially those listed for experiences in assessment. Each student is exposed to several systems of individual and group treatment. In addition to formal treatment techniques, the student has the opportunity to provide psychological consultation to such persons as teachers, parents, ministers and probation officers.

Experience Designed to Facilitate Personal Growth

In order to maximize the sensitivity of the future clinical psychologist, two formal programs are offered as part of the training:

1. There is intensive clinical supervision of all work with a focus placed on the student's own personality as well as on the personality of the client.

2. Ph.D. and Psy.D. students are encouraged to participate in individual and/or group psychotherapy. The cost is partially subsidized by the school, subject to availability of funds, and students are provided with a list of therapists willing to see students at a reduced fee. Students are free to decide whether they will enter therapy; however, psychotherapy may be recommended by the student evaluation committee. This committee, composed of three School of Psychology faculty members, convenes annually for the review of students referred to the committee by the full faculty.

Psychology Division Courses of Study

For any course title including the word "seminar" either student or faculty may suggest areas for study. The particular topic covered is indicated on the student's transcript. A seminar may be repeated for credit as new areas of study are included. The unit credit for each course offering is listed at the end of the course description.

In determining the number of credits to assign to a variable credit course, the following guidelines are used: 1 unit = 25-30 hours, 2 units = 50-60 hours; 25 pages of reading = 1 hour, 500 pages = 20 hours; research papers = 1 hour per page; 1 class/contact hour = 1 hour.

Designations such as "First year" indicate that the course is required during that year of the program sequence.

General Psychology Courses (PG)

PG 800 History and Systems of Psychology. Traces the emergence of psychology as an independent discipline from its roots in philosophy and the natural sciences. (First year) (4)

PG 801 History of Psychology Seminar. Intensive treatment of specific topics in the history of psychology. Offered on demand. (4)

PG 802 Philosophy of Science. An exploration of epistemological and metaphysical issues, types of inference and reasoning processes and freedom and determinism. (4)

PG 803 Philosophical Psychology. An overview of the philosophy of psychology. (4)

PG 804 Philosophical Psychology Seminar. Intensive treatment of specific topics in philosophical psychology. (2)

PG 808 Independent Readings. Special or advanced reading in areas not covered by other courses in the curriculum. The topic covered is indicated in student's transcript. May be repeated for credit if a new topic is chosen. Prerequisite: Permission of sponsoring professor. (Variable credit)

PG 809 Practicum in the Teaching of Psychology. These seminars are designed to provide the student with background and experience in college and university teaching. Occasional seminars will be offered by the faculty to cover basic teaching skills and professional issues in teaching careers. The Seminar may also be taken as an independent study. (2)

PG 810 Physiological Psychology. An overview of the major theories, issues, data and research methodologies of physiological psychology. Required for the Psy.D. (4)

PG 811 Human Neuropsychology. An overview of the behavioral and psychological manifestations of brain damage and disease in human beings. (4)

PG 819 Seminar in Biological Bases of Behavior. Intensive treatment of specific topics in physiological psychology and neuropsychology or other biological bases of behavior. (4)

PG 820 Cognitive Psychology. An overview of the major theories, issues, data and research methodologies of cognitive psychology. (4)

PG 821 Motivation. An overview of the major theories, concepts, issues, data and research methodologies of the psychology of motivation. (4)

PG 822 Learning. An overview of the major theories, concepts, issues, data and research methodologies of psychology and learning. Required for the Psy.D. (4)

PG 823 Perception. An overview of the major theories, concepts, issues, data and research methodologies of the psychology of perception. (4)

PG 830 Social Psychology. An overview of the major theories, issues, data and research methodologies of social psychology. (4)

PG 831 Group Processes. An overview of the major theories, concepts, issues, data and research methodologies of the psychology of small groups. (4)

PG 832 Family Psychology. A theoretical overview of family development and the eight dimensions of healthy family functioning. These concepts are applied to the student's family of origin. (4)

PG 834 Ethnic Issues in Clinical Psychology. An overview of the major psychological and sociological theories, issues, and research pertaining to three ethnic groups: Asian, Black and Hispanic Americans. Special emphasis on the impact of the therapist's values and theoretical orientation to the ethnic client. (2)

PG 835 Gender Differences. Exploration of issues relating to sex roles, sex differences, gender identity, gender socialization and related topics. (4)

PG 839 Seminar in Social Bases of Behavior. Intensive treatment of topics in social and interpersonal psychology.
PG 840 Psychology of Personality. An overview of the major theories, concepts, issues, data and research methodologies of the psychology of personality. (4)

PG 841 Child/Adolescent Development. An overview of the major theories, concepts, issues, data and research methodologies of developmental psychology. Covers childhood and adolescence. (4)

PG 842 Adult Development. An overview of the major theories, concepts, issues, data, and research methodologies of developmental psychology. Covers adult, midlife and late life. (4)

PG 843 Psychopathology. An overview of the major theories, concepts, issues, data and research methodologies of psychopathology. (4)

PG 845 Applied Diagnostic Nomenclature. Practical training in the use of the DSM-III. (First year) (2)

PG 847 Seminar in Individual Bases of Behavior. Intensive treatment of specific topics relevant to individual development and behavior. (2)

PG 850 Basic Methods for Research and Evaluation. Concepts and techniques of hypothesis development, design of data collection, analysis of data, and report writing. Fall (First year) (4)

PG 851 Intermediate Research/Evaluation Methods. The design and analysis of multivariable experiments and quasi-experiments. Prerequisite: PG850. Winter (First year) (4)

PG 852 Advanced Research Methods. Emphasis is placed on the discovery of a problem, and individual work in the planning, execution and reporting of an experimental investigation. Prerequisite: PG851. Spring (First year) (4)

PG 853 Advanced Program Evaluation. This course covers the major models and methods of evaluating the effects of intervention packages or programs on individuals, families, groups and organizations. The emphasis is on procedures which the practicing clinical psychologist may use to set goals and objectives, document services, evaluate outcomes, perform cost/benefit analyses, and use available information to improve professional services. Prerequisite: PG851 and enrollment in the Psy.D. program. Spring (First year) (4)

PG 854 Multivariate Analysis. Survey of principles and techniques of factor analysis and of analyses with multiple dependent variables.

PG 855 Tests and Measurements. An overview of the methodologies and concepts involved in the selection and use of assessment instruments. (First year) (4)

PG 856 Research Colloquium. Offered three times per quarter, the research colloquia feature lectures by distinguished researchers in psychology. Students in the first three years of the program are expected to attend 18 of the 27 lectures featured during these years. (First, Second and Third year) (2) Spring, Third year

PG 857 Individual Research. Experimental field observations or survey research on a specific problem. Includes master's-level projects (but not doctoral dissertation research). May be repeated for credit. Prerequisites: PG850-852 and permission of the sponsoring professor. (Variable credit)

PG 859 Research Methods Seminar. Intensive treatment of specific topics in statistics and experimental design. (2)

PG 900 Ph.D. Dissertation. The dissertation experience affords each Ph.D. student an opportunity to make a unique contribution to the field of psychology. The project constitutes the equivalent of a half year of full-time coursework, and is typically completed during the last three years of the program. (32)

PG 901 Ph.D. Dissertation Continuation. To be used when a student has fulfilled the 32-unit PG900 requirement. (0)

PG 902 Psy.D. Dissertation. The professional dissertation experience gives each Psy.D. student the opportunity of planning, executing and reporting on a program evaluation project. These projects will focus on programs and services offered through The Psychological Center or on issues and settings approved by the Director of the Psy.D. program. Although the model pattern will be to conduct a program evaluation project, other types of projects dealing with professional psychology may be approved. The project constitutes the equivalent of one-quarter full load for four quarters and is typically completed by the end of the fourth year. Regardless of when the student begins to work on the professional dissertation, he or she shall register for this course in the fall, winter and spring quarters of his or her fourth year. During these three quarters the student shall attend a seminar/group consultation which will meet for two hours each week. Students shall also register for a fourth quarter during summer quarter, either between the third and fourth years or between the fourth and fifth years. (4 per quarter for 4 quarters)

PG 903 Psy.D. Dissertation Continuation. To be used when a student has fulfilled the 16-unit PG902 requirement. (0)

Clinical Psychology Courses (PC)

PC 800 Clinical Foundations I. First of a three-course sequence for entering students in which basic therapeutic skills are taught. The "therapeutic triad" and client-centered therapy are the focus ofirst, second and third year. (First year) (2)

PC 801 Clinical Foundations II. (First year) (2)

PC 802 Clinical Foundations III. (First year) (2)

PC 803 Legal and Ethical Issues. An overview of the legal and ethical issues currently facing clinical psychologists. Particular attention is paid to matters of confidentiality, informed consent, conflicts of interest, sexual involvement, commitment proceedings, advertising, and potential church/state conflicts. (First year) (2)

<tr>
<td>PI 800</td>
<td>Introduction to Integration</td>
<td>An introduction to the field of the integration of psychology and theology. Includes conceptual discussions of the ways in which religious and scientific knowledge interface, the manner in which religious questions impact clinical practice, the interface of values and psychotherapy, and the necessity of personally integrating Christian faith and the discipline of psychology. Opportunity is provided for small group sharing, dialogue with faculty, in-depth reading in the literature and formulation of a personal position statement. (4)</td>

PI 801 Finch Symposium. An integration seminar experience built around the lectures of the annual Finch Symposium. Students attend and respond to the invited lectures as well as to respondents from the Seminary’s three faculties. Wide reading on the symposium topic and discussion with other seminar members are also included. The topic varies from year to year. (4)

PI 802 Integration Seminar. These seminars are team-taught by a member of the psychology faculty and faculty from either the School of Theology or the School of World Mission. Topics vary from time to time, but are consistently focused around critical questions in the interrelationships between psychology and the Christian faith. The concerns of the seminars are to facilitate integration at the personal, professional and principled levels. One or more seminars are offered each quarter. (4)

PI 803 Special Projects in Integration. Special projects in conceptual-theoretical integration of psychology and theology, research in religious behavior and professional integration. May not count as one of the four required integration courses. May be used for elective credit. By permission of professor. (Variable credit)

DIVISION OF MARRIAGE AND FAMILY THERAPY

Master of Arts in Marriage and Family Therapy

Purpose. The Master of Arts degree program in marriage and family therapy is designed to equip men and women to minister to the family at the professional, church or parachurch levels. The program trains graduates for a vocation which is intended to be exercised within a responsible community of Christian service. It focuses not only upon the growth and development of skilled marriage and family counselors, but upon preventive and corrective dimensions as well.

Admission. In addition to the Seminary’s established admission requirements, as described on page 28 of this catalog, admission to the M.A. program in marriage and family therapy normally requires a 3.0 overall grade point average in all undergraduate and graduate studies, and a least one year of work (36 quarter hours or 24 semester hours) in the social and/or behavioral sciences. Previous background or experience in counseling-related fields is highly recommended. When appropriate, a personal interview is included in the requirements for admission. Scores from the Graduate Record Examination, taken within the past five years, are also required as a part of the application process.

Applicants whose native language is not English must have taken the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) with a minimum score of 600. Test scores should not be more than five years old.

New students are admitted to the program only once each year, for the Fall quarter. The deadline for submitting an application is February 15. Applications must be complete, with all transcripts, test scores and supporting documents, by March 15. Notification of admission decisions will be made by April 15.

Advancement to the second year of the MFT program is normally granted in the spring quarter of the first year or when the student has completed the first year clinical sequence. This advancement is granted by the MFT faculty and is based on the candidate’s appropriate personal and relational characteristics, demonstrated clinical competency and readiness, and academic performance in marriage and family coursework and overall grade point average in courses taken at Fuller.

Curriculum. The curriculum is designed to meet the academic requirements of Section 4980.37 of the State of California Business and Professions Code. All requirements for the degree may be completed in either two or three years, depending on the number of courses taken per quarter.

The curriculum consists of 28 courses (108 quarter hours). Six of these courses are in the area of biblical studies, six are in theology and church history (three of which are specifically designed to integrate the disciplines of theology and marriage and family studies), and 16 are specified courses in marriage and family therapy.

The 16 core courses in marriage and family therapy are designed to give academic instruction and clinical experience in the following areas: the theoretical foundations of marital and family therapy; based on a family systems approach; the assessment and treatment of marriage, family and child dysfunction; human development and family studies; professional ethics and law; research; and supervised clinical practice. The curriculum includes a clinical practicum experience spanning five quarters and a total of 12 quarter units of credit. Students must complete a minimum of 500 hours of supervised clinical contact with clients, and 100 hours of supervision to fulfill this clinical requirement.

Doctoral Programs in Marriage and Family Therapy

The Marriage and Family Division of the Graduate School of Psychology offers three doctoral degrees, each with its own distinctive purpose and curriculum.

Admission. In addition to Fuller’s M.A. in Marriage and Family Therapy or a master’s degree from another institution deemed to be equivalent, admission to any of the marriage and family doctoral programs normally requires a 3.5 grade point average (for graduate and undergraduate course work), a GRE score (no more than five years old) of 1100, clinical experience and positive personal and professional recommendations. A student’s combined strengths in all of these areas may also be a determining factor.

Applicants whose native language is not English must have taken the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) with a minimum score of 600. Test scores should not be more than five years old.

New students are admitted to the program only once each year, for the Fall quarter. The deadline for submitting an application is March 15. Applications must be complete, with all transcripts, test scores and supporting documents, by April 15. Notification of admission decisions will be made by May 15. Applications received after the deadline may not be accepted.

Doctor of Marriage and Family Therapy

Purpose. The Doctor of Marriage and Family Therapy is designed to provide the student with more sophisticated knowledge and skills relevant to the profession of marriage and family therapy. Similar in intent to the Doctor of Psychology in the field of clinical psychology, the D.M.F.T. follows a practitioner/evaluator model. The degree is intended to equip those who desire to focus on the professional, clinical practice of marriage and family therapy.

Curriculum. The D.M.F.T. requires the successful completion of 224 units, including master’s level work. Doctoral level requirements include 36 core units in marriage and family, 16 units in the marriage and family therapy concentration, a 48-unit clinical internship and a 16-unit project.

Doctor of Philosophy in Marriage and Family Studies

Purpose. The Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D.) in marriage and family studies is an academic degree designed to prepare persons to conduct research, write and teach in the area of marriage and family ministries within the church, college, university or seminary settings. Skills in marriage and family therapy are secondary vocational objectives in this Ph.D. program. In essence, the program aims to provide an understanding of the family and social systems from a theological, psychological and sociological perspective.

Curriculum. This program requires the successful completion of 212 units, including master’s level work. In addition to the core requirements in marriage and family studies, students choose two 16-unit concentrations from the following minor areas: church and family, general psychology, cross-cultural families, or other appropriate concentration. This program also requires the completion of comprehensive examinations and the successful defense of a dissertation.

Marriage and Family Courses of Study

The following courses are offered by the faculty of the Graduate School of Psychology in support of the Master of Arts degree in Marriage and Family Therapy. The prerequisite “MFT” means that the class is open only to students in the marriage and family therapy program.

A listing of all doctoral level courses in marriage and family is available upon request from the office of the associate dean for marriage and family programs.

Marriage and Family Faculty

HISTORY AND PHILOSOPHY

In 1985, the administrative structure of the Seminary was reorganized to include a fourth academic unit concentrating on continuing education for those already involved in ministry. This new academic division, officially designated Continuing and Extended Education (CEE), includes the Extended Education program, the Doctor of Ministry program, the Lowell W. Berry Institute for Continuing Education in Ministry, and the Institute for Christian Organizational Development.

The goal of Continuing and Extended Education is to make available to those engaged in work and ministry the opportunity to further their education, and to bring together resources to focus on the special needs of the church and its ministry, as well as the needs of Christian organizations. Through Continuing and Extended Education, work leading to a degree, as well as non-degree and continuing education, is available. Seminars, conferences, workshops, and off-campus graduate-level coursework are among the alternative forms of training provided. Continuing and Extended Education utilizes the expertise of those already involved in areas such as church growth, the management of Christian organizations, and marriage and family ministries. The philosophies, aims, curriculum and opportunities of the various programs of Continuing and Extended Education are described in this section. Further information regarding a particular program may be obtained from the office of that program.

EXTENDED EDUCATION PROGRAM

History

Extended Education, now entering its seventeenth year, began offering courses in September 1973 in Seattle, Washington, and Los Angeles, Fresno and Chico. The Extension program was developed as a response to the need for training laypersons in the context of the local church. A local committee of Christian leaders and students in the program determined the local character and helped to shape the local program.

More than one hundred students were enrolled in the first Extension student body in those four cities. In its first ten years, besides its current Extension areas, Extended Education held courses in Boulder, Colorado, in Eastern Washington and in Sacramento and Los Angeles County, California. The program continues to offer courses in six established Extension areas: Seattle, the San Francisco Bay Area, Greater Phoenix, Orange County, San Diego County and Honolulu. Four of the Extension areas—Seattle, the San Francisco Bay Area, Phoenix and Orange County—now offer the Master of Arts in Theology degree entirely in Extension.

From the outset, the Extended Education program has been characterized by the desire to provide theological education with a high degree of academic excellence to students in their ministry and work settings. The courses offered during the 1989-90 year reflect Fuller Theological Seminary's commitment to offering graduate courses off campus, in the context of the local church and other local ministries.

Philosophy

Fuller Theological Seminary Extended Education seeks to serve local churches by providing opportunities for theological education for ministry within a local church context. Extended Education seeks to provide educational experiences in off-campus, non-traditional settings which will enable students to discover, develop and improve their gifts for service and ministry within the scope of the church's overall mission. By offering fully accredited graduate courses off-campus on weekends and evenings, Extended Education makes theological education possible for many church leaders, church staff members, Bible study leaders, business people, homemakers, professionals and others whose careers or circumstances preclude full-time study. Extended Education:

1. Provides theological education for the development of lay persons for leadership in ministry in the local church and community;
2. offers prospective theological students experience in church ministry and Christian community while beginning their studies and testing their callings; and
3. Extends resources to pastors for the development of local church educational programs and for personal and professional enrichment.

The process of theological education for ministry in extension is implemented by going to the student, being close to the location of ministry and being close to the life and task demands of the participants.

In short, Extended Education is a community of learners-practitioners-scholars in ministry who seek to know God better, to understand his revelation more fully and to do his ministry more effectively. Fuller's Extended Education provides theological education of academic excellence in off-campus settings on non-traditional schedules. Through course work in Extension, students encounter a concept of ministry which takes seriously the charge to "equip the saints for the work of ministry."
Coordinating Boards/Steering Committees

Within guidelines determined by the administration and faculty of the Seminary, each area’s Coordinating Board or Steering Committee provides contextualized leadership for the local program. Members represent various denominations and occupations in the Christian community of the Extension area. All members of these boards sign the Fuller Theological Seminary Statement of Faith and are formally appointed by the Seminary.

Faculty

Fuller Theological Seminary faculty members and adjunct faculty travel to the Extension class sites to teach Extended Education courses. The adjunct faculty are qualified professors, pastors, Christian psychologists and leaders in national and international Christian organizations. These persons join Seminary faculty members in offering courses in biblical studies, church history, theology, ministry, missions, languages, field education and counseling. All resident and adjunct faculty sign the Fuller Theological Seminary Statement of Faith.

Admission Requirements and Procedures

The general standards for admission to the Seminary may be found on page 28 of this catalog. Admission to the School of Theology through its Extended Education Program normally requires a baccalaureate degree from an accredited institution. Applications may be obtained from the local Extended Education office, and all application materials, including transcripts, must be in the local Extended Education office at least four weeks prior to the start of the quarter. The local Extended Education office will forward the completed application to the Admissions office on the Pasadena campus, which will inform the student of the decision of the Admissions Committee.

Late applications may be submitted after the regular application deadline. Applications received after the deadline are subject to special fees and restrictions. A late admission is tentative, subject to confirmation by the Admissions Office, and is valid only for that quarter.

It should be understood that admission to Fuller depends on factors beyond the applicant’s academic record. These include theological development, Christian experience, spiritual growth, call to service and gifts for ministry. Men and women of God are qualified for Christian ministry by faith, moral character, experience and academic achievement. Such people are characterized by compassion for individual persons, by sensitivity to the needs of the total community, by a burden that the whole of God’s will be obeyed on earth, by a readiness to accept correction, by a desire for moral growth, by personal integrity, and, above all, by a mature trust in Jesus Christ as the foundation of life and ministry.

Update and Reapplication. Students who have not registered for classes at Fuller for more than two years but less than three years must submit an update form, available from the local Extended Education office. Students who have not registered for classes at Fuller in more than three years must reapply for admission, updating certain parts of their application. Contact the local Extended Education office for details.

Curriculum and Registration

Courses offered in extension on a quarterly basis are equivalent to those offered at the Pasadena campus. Full-time faculty and local adjunct professors provide instruction. Courses are taught on weeknights or weekends in local facilities, and library resources are arranged. Each Extended Education area publishes its own quarterly listing of class offerings. Expanded course descriptions, which include course objectives, required reading, assignments and other information, are available from the local Extended Education office. Contact the local Extended Education office for further information on registration and the purchase of textbooks. Fuller Theological Seminary reserves the right to cancel a class due to insufficient enrollment.

Admission to the Seminary through the Extended Education program also permits students to enroll in courses on the Pasadena campus. For information on registration for an on-campus course, contact the School of Theology Academic Advising Office.

The Fuller Extended Education program also offers supervised field experiences for credit to those students desiring opportunities for practical application of academic information. Courses may be taken in a practical setting as outlined by Extended Education publications and administered by the Area Director.

Course Changes

Students may add or drop courses through the local Extended Education office with a service charge of $5.00 for each change or set of changes made at the same time. Courses may be added, and grade, credit/no credit, or audit status changed, prior to the second class meeting.
Courses may be dropped without grade penalty (No Credit) before the fourth class meeting if the class meets five to seven times, or before the fifth class meeting if the class meets eight to ten times. There is a refund schedule for classes dropped prior to the third class meeting (see below).

Academic Policies

Students in Extended Education are subject to the same academic policies that apply to other students in the Seminary. These policies are described on pages 37-41 of this catalog, as well as in the Extended Education Student Handbook.

Library Facilities

Each Extension Area has borrowing arrangements with local libraries. Extension students may use the libraries listed for their Area or may contact the local Extended Education office about borrowing books from McAlister Library on the Pasadena campus. Some libraries require a user's fee. Use of these facilities requires proof of current registration.

- Seattle: University of Washington, Seattle Pacific University, Lutheran Bible Institute and the libraries of local churches.
- San Francisco Bay Area: University of Santa Clara, Graduate Theological Union.
- Orange County: O. Cope Budge Library of Southern California College, University of California at Irvine, Orange Coast College, Library of the School of Theology at Claremont.
- Phoenix: Grand Canyon College, Arizona State University, KINO Institute.
- San Diego: University of California at San Diego, Point Loma College, California State University at San Diego.
- Hawaii: University of Hawaii at Manoa, Chaminade University.

Program Opportunities

Master of Arts Degree in Theology. The Master of Arts degree in theological studies is designed for students who desire graduate work in theological education along with greater flexibility in the design of their educational experience. Personal enrichment is often the aim of M.A. students. The degree also has been pursued by those intending church-related vocations in denominations not requiring the M.Div. degree.

Because of the great variation in student goals and previous studies, each person has the responsibility to construct an individual curriculum in consultation with an academic adviser.

Students may earn the Master of Arts degree by completing 24 courses, 12 of which must be in biblical studies and theology. The remaining 12 are electives.

The M.A. is currently available in Seattle, the San Francisco Bay Area, Phoenix and Orange County. There are no language, thesis or Pasadena residency requirements. Students in San Diego County and Hawaii may take 18 courses toward the degree in their area and must complete six courses in Pasadena or through an extension area which is approved to offer the M.A.

Master of Divinity Degree. The Master of Divinity program prepares the student for full-time service in the Church of Jesus Christ. It allows the student to focus on one primary objective of denominational requirements for ordination. Students who wish to apply as candidates for the Master of Divinity degree should contact the Fuller in Seattle Office.

Candidates for the Master of Divinity degree may fulfill their requirements, including core courses, by taking up to 24 courses in Extension areas and completing 12 courses in Pasadena to fulfill the M.Div. residency requirement. See the School of Theology section of this catalog for further information on the requirements for this degree.

Transfer Credit. By special request to the Director of Academic Advising, an applicant may receive a maximum of 48 units of transfer credit for approved graduate studies done elsewhere toward the M.A. degree, or 80 units toward the M.Div. degree. These courses must be appropriate to the student's vocational objectives and have been discussed with an academic adviser.

Certificate of Graduate Studies in Ministry. Students may receive the Certificate by completing 12 selected courses, which represent the equivalent of one year of seminary study. Six courses must be in biblical studies, theology and church history, and six must be in ministry and mission, including one course in field education.

Non-Degree Applicants. Students with no particular degree or certificate objectives are welcome and encouraged to enroll. Of the following categories, the Limited Graduate, Special Student and Unclassified Student categories are master's-level credit classifications from which students may later apply to a degree program.

- Limited Graduate Student: One who is qualified for regular admission but wishes to take no more than five courses (20 units).
- Unclassified: One who is qualified for regular... admission, wants to take an unlimited number of courses, but does not want to pursue a degree program at this time.

Special Student: One who does not meet academic requirements for regular admission, limited graduate or unclassified student status.

Visiting Student: One who is currently enrolled as a student in good standing in the post-bachelor’s level at another graduate institution, but wants to have transcript evidence of course work done at Fuller for transfer to the school of primary enrollment.

Audit: Courses may be audited on a space available basis at 50 percent of regular tuition. There is an audit application and application fee. No permanent record is kept of audit enrollments, and no transcript will be issued for audit-only students. Audits are not recorded on the transcripts of students in degree programs.

Continuing Education Units. Students may earn Continuing Education Units (non-credit units) for courses offered through Extended Education. One Continuing Education Unit (CEU) is defined as ten contact hours of satisfactory participation in an approved course. The CEU system provides a uniform measurement and record of non-credit post-secondary-level study. Professionals in a variety of fields, such as pastors, Christian school teachers, nurses, denominational executives and leaders of parachurch organizations, can use the CEU records to verify an educational experience that has helped them maintain or improve their skills. Students may apply for CEUs only if they are not taking the course or seminar in question for academic credit. A one-time fee will be charged to set up a Continuing Education Unit file in the Office of Continuing Education. Under no circumstances will CEUs be transferred as or converted to academic credit.

Expenses

All expenses are payable in U.S. currency. The Seminary reserves the right to change rates and policies when necessary.

Payment Policy. All tuition and fees are due at registration unless prior arrangements have been made for deferred payment through the local Extended Education office. See page 32 of this catalog for the Seminary’s policy on deferred payment.

Refund Policy. There is a 100% refund for classes dropped prior to the second class meeting. The refund is 50% for classes dropped prior to the third class meeting. There is no refund for classes dropped after this point. There is no refund of audit charges at any time.

Financial Aid. Financial aid is often available to those with demonstrated need. Contact the local Extended Education office.

Veteran’s Benefits. All Extended Education areas have been approved for veteran’s benefits. For further information, contact the local Extended Education office.

Fuller Seminary in Seattle

Seattle Extension is the oldest and largest Extension area in the Extended Education program at Fuller. Begun in 1973, it has experienced significant growth over the past 16 years. Now with more than 500 enrollments in 23 courses it plays a significant role in theological education in the Seattle area. The continued viability of the Extension program is reflective of the area’s desire to equip the people of God in Seattle for the work of the ministry.

Seattle Extension was one of the first Extension areas to enable students to earn their Master of Arts in Theology degree without a Pasadena campus residency requirement. Seattle is also the only Extension area that allows students to apply for the M.Div. degree, although that degree does have an on-campus residency requirement.

Extension classes are held at Seattle Pacific University.

Fuller Seminary in Southern California (Orange and San Diego Counties)

Orange County Extension began in 1973 as a part of the Southern California Extension program. Over the past 16 years, Orange County Extension has experienced significant growth. It currently has more than 330 enrollments in 20 courses. Classes were held in San Diego County for the first time in the fall of 1983. San Diego County Extension has been drawing interested students for the past five years and continues to be a vital center for theological education. This growth is reflective of the area's desire to equip the people of God in Orange and San Diego counties for the work of the ministry.

Orange County was one of the first Extension areas to enable students to earn the Master of Arts in Theology degree without a Pasadena campus residency requirement. San Diego County is not approved to offer the Master of Arts degree. However, students in San Diego County may earn the degree by taking courses solely through the Arizona Extension.

Orange County classes are held at Southern California College. Classes in San Diego County are held at Solana Beach Presbyterian Church, First Assembly of God Church and Christ United Methodist Church.

Fuller Seminary in Arizona

The Arizona Extension began in Phoenix in 1977, with 37 enrollments in three courses. Twelve years later it has more than 230 enrollments in 17 courses. This growth is reflective of the area's desire to equip the people of God in Phoenix for the work of the ministry.

As of March, 1985, Arizona Extension was able to offer the Master of Arts degree in Theology without a Pasadena campus residency requirement. This means that students in Arizona may earn the M.A. by taking courses solely through the Arizona Extension.

DOCTOR OF MINISTRY PROGRAM

Purpose

"The purpose of this degree program is to equip one for a higher level of competence in the practice of ministry than that achieved in the foundational work normally issuing in an M.Div. degree. (Association of Theological Schools, Procedures, Standards and Criteria for Membership, p. 25.) The Doctor of Ministry is a professional degree granted by the School of Theology. The program is designed to serve the need of ministers for an experience of continuing education which renews the personal life of faith, further develops professional competence and stimulates continued growth in biblical and theological foundations for ministry. Using the resources of the Seminary, a program of study has been developed which provides options including emphases in pastoral care, church growth, worship/preaching, renewal/evangelism, marriage and family ministries, church management, spirituality, small groups, leadership, and ministry of the laity.

Participants in the program are afforded the opportunity for continuing education while remaining active in their local ministries. The program of study combines a critical assessment of experience with a peer group learning situation with the guidance of leaders who have expertise in developing and sustaining effective ministry. The philosophy and goals of the program are to combine theoretical knowledge with a suitable full-time ministry which results in a demonstrable competence.

Admission Requirements

General standards of admission to the Seminary may be found on page 28 of this catalog. Admission to the Doctor of Ministry Program is on the basis of competence in theology and ministry, as well as motivation to pursue further study in a recognized area of ministry.

* Competence in theology will be demonstrated by having received a Master of Divinity degree or its equivalent from an ATS-accredited school with a balanced curriculum, including the recognized disciplines of biblical studies (with one year of one original language, either Greek or Hebrew), the history of the Christian church, systematic theology and ethics, and studies in ministry. A grade point average of at least 3.0 (4.0 equals A) is required for admission as a regular student. Applications of those who do not have the equivalent of a three-year Master of Divinity degree will be referred to the Admissions Office for evaluation. The Admissions Office will then notify the applicant of the courses needed to satisfy equivalency. Once these stipulations are fulfilled, the Admissions Committee will review the application for the purpose of taking formal action on it. No work done to complete the equivalency requirement will count toward the D.Min. degree.

Competence in ministry will be evaluated on the basis of at least two years in ministry after receiving the Master of Divinity degree. The candidate must have completed at least five years in ministry before being awarded the Doctor of Ministry degree, and must be currently involved in some form of full-time ministry. Continuation in the D.Min. program requires continued involvement in ministry.

The Admissions Committee evaluates applicants on the basis of transcript evidence, references and two statements by the applicant—one describing his or her experience in ministry, and one defining goals for participation in the degree program. The applicant must show growth and competence in church leadership and ministry skills. Applicants who are not native speakers of English must pass a written and oral English examination (TOEFL) with a score of 550 before admission is granted. Further information on this examination may be found on page 29 of this catalog.

Degree Requirements

The in-ministry/continuing education model of the Doctor of Ministry Program builds on the biblical, theological and professional foundations of an accredited M.Div. degree, providing advanced study in theology and ministry within the context of the candidate’s ministry.

The Doctor of Ministry degree requires the completion of 48 units of credit. Eight units of credit are assigned for completion of the dissertation or ministry project. The remaining 40 units are chosen from a schedule of specially designed seminars (eight units each), courses (four units each), or sessions of 12 units. Students may enroll for up to 24 units in one academic year, completing the degree requirements in two to seven years. However, it is recommended that only 12 units be taken in one academic year. Only B work and above will count toward satisfying graduation requirements (except that one B-grade is allowed).

Each session, seminar or course has three components:

1. A reading assignment which must be completed prior to classroom interaction (3,000 pages for a seminar, 1,500 pages for a course, or 4,500 pages for a session);

2. A one or two-week intensive period of classroom interaction; and

3. An extensive post-session project which synthesizes reading and class work and applies them to the ministry situation.
Classroom activity is scheduled in one and two-week sessions during each of the four academic quarters in order to allow students to utilize their study and vacation leave for this continuing education program. Each applicant may design a program of study which best meets personal needs and vocational interests. Seminars (8 units) meet for four hours each morning of the two-week period (or for eight hours per day during one-week sessions), and courses (4 units) meet for two hours each afternoon, with sessions (12 units), including both time periods.

Dissertation or Ministry Project.

The Doctor of Ministry program culminates with the completion of a dissertation or ministry project. A student may begin work on this final phase after completing the following requirements: 1) 24 academic units of course work with satisfactory evaluation and grade reports; 2) faculty approval of dissertation or supervised ministry project proposal; and 3) completion of any admission deficiencies. Students initiate the process by submitting to the Doctor of Ministry office an outline and synopsis for a dissertation or submitting a proposal for a supervised ministry project.

Dissertation. The dissertation incorporates significant research, reading and class work done in connection with the seminars and courses, and builds a bridge between theological and practical understandings with a specific plan for the local church or other areas of ministry. The mentoring process for the development and writing of a dissertation involves tutoring in the basic principles of a theology of ministry as well as guided formulation of a dissertation topic and outline. This process is divided into two phases: 1) a tutorial in theology of ministry (normally offered to all participants during any two-week session on campus) that involves interaction and discussion based on the text Theological Foundations for Ministry, edited by Ray S. Anderson, and 2) a tutorial on constructing and writing a dissertation project (open to students who have completed 24 units). Both tutorials of four class hours each are offered in conjunction with most sessions and are provided as part of the dissertation fee.

Ministry Project. The ministry project, a supervised project of parish involvement, can be substituted for the dissertation. Ordinarily, the ministry project will follow one or two broad categories: 1) An action/reflection project that seeks to apply a specific aspect of theoretical learning to a ministry task by which results may be measured and evaluated. This is designed to demonstrate the person's competence in ministry rather than yield experimental data or prove an hypothesis; 2) An experimental research project which seeks to test an hypothesis or investigate a theory of ministry that can be reported in such a way that it adds to the scholarly literature in the area of study. The ministry project is designed primarily to train the person in research methodology as well as yield positive results which can be reported to others.

A proposal for the project should clearly identify the nature of the ministry project. Minimal objectives incorporated into the project proposal include: 1) a rationale for the project, identifying specific ministry needs to which the project relates, as well as the Doctor of Ministry course work on which the project is based; 2) a description of the ministry site in which the project will take place (i.e., geographical location, ecclesiastical setting, student's position or role, etc.); 3) a design for the project, including strategy for implementation and time schedule (ordinarily from three months to one year in length); 4) an explicit strategy for parish involvement in the project; 5) criteria for evaluation of the project after its completion.

The foundation for the ministry project is the course Theology for Ministry (4 units), which is an exercise in theological reflection designed to assist the Doctor of Ministry participants in the development of their own theology of ministry. The course includes a tutorial of four class hours and must be attended during one of the sessions on campus. This course must be taken for credit by those doing a ministry project.

Concentrations

The Doctor of Ministry degree is normally a generalist degree. However, there are groupings of courses which can bring focus and concentration to the local church ministry. The student is free to design a program to meet special needs of ministry or to follow with flexibility one of the following groupings of courses. The courses outlined in each grouping carry the thematic integrity of the stated concentration.

Registration and Expenses

For those who have been officially admitted into the program, reservations may be confirmed for sessions, seminars and courses by submitting a $100.00 deposit toward tuition.

Tuition for the entire Doctor of Ministry program is $6,456. In addition, a $75 graduation fee and a $70 dissertation or ministry project binding fee are charged. If preferred, each 8-unit seminar ($1,076), 4-unit course ($538), and 12-unit session ($1,614), and the dissertation or project fee ($1,614), may be paid on an individual basis as studies progress. A deferred payment plan is available. The above prices are guaranteed to June 15, 1990.

The cost for the audit participant is $538 per class session. Credit students enrolled in a seminar may audit the related course without charge, or vice versa.

Meals are available at the Seminary Monday through Friday. The Doctor of Ministry office will assist with housing arrangements when requested and available.

Courses of Study

The following sessions, seminars and courses are offered in support of the Doctor of Ministry program.

CF 707 Ministry of the Laity (8 units)
Out of biblical and theological foundations, this course will construct a theological model for the ministry of the laity. Strategies for support, encouragement, affirmation and training of the laity will be explored from both sides, clergy and laity. Comprehensive strategies for the church gathered and scattered in shared and mutual ministry will widen and refocus traditional perspectives of pastoral ministry. Leadership development and the role of small groups will be explored in various case situations. A methodology of assessment for local church ministry of the laity will launch each participant into self-appraisal and ministry alternatives. Slocum, Ogden

CF 711 Small Groups I: Building Christian Community Through Small Groups (8 units)
This seminar focuses on the birthing, feeding and support of Christian small groups through the local church. Multiple models for small group ministry will be explored, including biblical studies, personal support and sharing groups, accountability groups, mission and evangelism groups, and house churches. Issues of group life such as communication skills, study skills, prayer skills, patterns of communication, lifecycles of groups, developing contracts, and processing evaluation will be explored. Building a philosophy of small group ministry, reflecting a theology of Christian community, strategic planning and leadership for church small group ministry will be covered. Peterson

CF 720 Spirituality and Ministry (12 units). Exploration of the dynamics of the spiritual life as related to the pastor’s own life of faith and prayer as impacting the pastor’s role of spiritual leadership in the congregation. Emphasis on spiritual pilgrimage, spiritual direction, and spiritual ministry will emerge out of reflection on and practice in spiritual disciplines, personally and in congregational life. The interrelationship between Christian community, mission and spirituality will be developed. Peterson

CF 722 Small Groups II: Church Strategies for Small Groups (8 units) Based upon the foundations for Small Groups I, this seminar is focused for the ministry of resourcing multiple small group models and ministries. Strategies for denominational group ministry, city-wide group ministry and multiple congregational ministry will be developed with deeper exploration into the biblical and theological dimensions of Christian community through small groups. Current models of small group ministry will be critiqued. Vision and strategy for mission, evangelism and spiritual formation will be explored. Hestenes and Icenogle

CN 705 The Minister’s Personal Growth and Skill Development (12 units). The work of the Christian ministry has many emotional hazards. These will be examined in this session as they pertain to the emotional health of the pastor. It is designed to assist the minister in identifying areas of personal potential weakness and to provide resources for dealing with these problems. Attention will be given to aspects of the minister’s personal and family life: roles, conflicts, anger, depression, assertiveness and relationships. Techniques for changing behavior will be explored. Hart

CN 709 Theology and Therapy (12 units). This course will explore the question, “What content and perspective in theology will guide Christian counsel by pastors, lay shepherds, and Christian counselors?” Relevant theory and practice of psychotherapy will be part of this question. Each discussion will include a case in pastoral counsel. The purpose of this course is to develop an applied theology that is called wisdom in the Bible. EV 700 Church Renewal (8 units). This seminar will focus on the recurring phenomenon of renewal in the church as an important aspect of biblical ecclesiology. In the tradition of the Wesleyan movement, understanding of the work of the Holy Spirit out of biblical perspectives, historical events and contemporary case studies will be applied to the life of the local congregation. Offered in cooperation with Azusa Pacific Graduate School of Theology. Snyder, Grant

EV 701 Evangelism and Discipleship (4 units). This course will present a biblical, theological and philosophical foundation for evangelism and discipleship in the Wesleyan tradition. Strategies and models for local church ministry in the application of personal and congregational evangelism and discipleship will be developed in the light of contemporary American needs. Assessment of local church ministry objectives and status in the light of biblical principles will lead to the development of pragmatic strategies for local congregational evangelism and discipleship. Practices of assimilating new members will be suggested. Offered in cooperation with Azusa Pacific Graduate School of Theology. Magna, Grant

EV 703 Church Growth I: American Church Growth (12 units). Application of the principles of church growth to the American church. Theological and demographic factors active in church growth will be presented for exploration and implementation of pastoral leadership. Field case studies of fast-growing churches will be presented, and factors which inhibit or encourage growth will be analysed. Wagner, George

EV 706 The Renewal of the Life and Mission of the Church (12 units). The biblical aspects of the nature of the church and forms of congregational life which appear to be conducive to renewal and mission will be explored. Subjects considered will include personal renewal for the pastor, renewal through mutuality of the members of Christ’s body for growth and ministry, the Holy Spirit as enabler, and the local congregation as base for ministry. Finney

EV 710 Church Growth II: Advanced Analysis in Church Growth (6 units). Continuing study in the practical principles of church growth. Advanced in-depth study of church growth diagnosis and practice will venture into contemporary renewal movements. The cultural, historical and theological presuppositions and dimensions of church growth will be explored and integrated. Wagner

EV 711 Theology of Church Growth (4 units). The theological foundations for church growth will be developed. Contemporary practice of church growth will be critiqued in light of these foundations. Reflection and discussion upon the principles of church growth will attach this seminar closely to Church Growth II. Gibbs

EV 715 The Ministry of Evangelism (8 units). Comprehensive survey, analysis and development of numerous evangelism strategies will be constructed on the foundation of biblical and theological principles of Christian evangelism. Gibbs

EV 720 Cross-Cultural Strategies for Mission Through the Local Church (8 units). This seminar will provide training for pastors to mobilize their congregations for first-hand mission action. Small group interaction, field trips, case studies, lectures and discussion methods will move the class into issues of cross-cultural understanding, motivation for mission, personal and church involvement strategies for second and third world peoples, how to disciple men and women for mission, training of laity for ministry in mission, formation of short-term mission experiences, and wider commitment of the whole congregation in mission strategies. Offered in cooperation with the Cross-Cultural Exchange Program of World Vision U.S. Millham, Millham

GM 707 Healing Ministry in the Local Church (8 units). This course is designed to introduce students who are experienced in pastoral ministry to a theological and biblical perspective for understanding contemporary ministries of divine healing from the perspective of the Third Wave. It will survey the relationship between the growth of churches worldwide and the ministries of the miraculous, and examine the influence of culture on...
This seminar is offered in a two-week intensive model. Pre-seminar assignments and a post-seminar project are required. The exegetical component will be based on the use of Greek language skills and will fulfill the Master of Divinity equivalency requirement for New Testament Greek for D.Min. students. Miller-Provence

MF 722 Marriage and Family Ministries in the Local Church (12 units). This session is designed to provide religious leaders with both a philosophy and methodology for a ministry to families in the local church. Relevant scripture and current theory and research in the social and behavioral sciences are combined into a comprehensive approach to the family as it develops through its life cycle from the premarital stage to retirement and aging; includes discussion of the issues pertaining to the single person and the single parent as they relate to the local church. Guernsey, Anderson

MF 724 Building Strong Families Through the Local Church (12 units). This session will focus on the factors which are important in developing strong family life. Topics addressed will be communication and expressiveness in family interaction; family problem solving and decision making; family power issues; parenting issues; stress and crises management in the family; issues of the divorced; single-parent families and step-families; flexibility in sex roles; and maintaining healthy regard for each member’s sexuality. The development of the parent-child bond from infancy through adolescence will be understood in the light of the dual need for family closeness and individual separateness. The seminar format will consist of lectures and experiential kinds of learning. J. O. and J. K. Balswick

MF 726 Pastoral Strategies for Crisis Intervention (12 units). This session will focus on the pastoral office, offering a variety of effective intervention strategies for catastrophes which impact families and individuals frequently but without warning and with devastating consequences. Topics to be addressed are death (suicide, abortion, euthanasia, etc.) and catastrophic illness, domestic violence and sexual abuse, substance abuse (alcohol and drugs), and divorce. The seminar format will include a theoretical and ethical component, simulation, and experiential learning. Anderson

OD 760 Leadership II: Strategic Planning and Fund-Raising (12 units). Wright, Reid

PM 706 Theology and Ministry of Worship (8 units). This course is a study of the place of Jesus Christ and the Holy Spirit in Christian worship and prayer (public and personal) as this should be reflected in the life of the Church, preaching, baptism, and the Lord’s Supper. Special attention will be given to the doctrine of the priesthood of Christ and of the believer in the light of the New Testament and the Reformation, with a concern to show its relevance for the Christian ministry. Torrance

PM 708 Theology and Practice of Preaching (12 units). This session will include lectures on the theology and practice of preaching, review of major homiletical and hermeneutical principles, consideration of preaching in the context of worship and liturgy, and a practical experience. Pitt-Watson, Schaper

TH 711 Theology of Ministry (4 units). A reexamination of divine revelation as constitutive for both the nature and the strategy of ministry. Through critical analysis of selected theological literature, written analysis of life situation cases and a position paper, students will work out their own theology of ministry. The course is an independent study project which requires attendance at one Theology of Ministry tutorial on campus. Anderson

Purpose

The Institute for Christian Organizational Development was established in 1981 to address the need for management training designed specifically for the Christian leader. The Institute offers graduate-level training seminars and short-term workshop experiences in various management areas. One and two-week intensive seminars are scheduled on the Pasadena campus.

Admission

Participants in the Institute training events must be already engaged in a leadership role in ministry. Executives of Christian organizations, pastors, denominational and mission executives, and Christian men and women carrying executive responsibilities in the corporate world form the primary constituency of the Institute. Special workshops and courses are developed for seminary students preparing for their leadership role in the Church and its varied ministries. These courses are offered on campus and through the Extended Education Program.
Curriculum

The basic Institute curriculum is offered on two tracks, one for pastors, leading to a concentration in Church Management within the Doctor of Ministry program, and one for executives, leading to a concentration in Church Leadership in the M.A. or D.Min. programs of the School of Theology.

Regularly scheduled seminars in the Church Management concentration include:

- Church Management I: Empowering People for Ministry
- Conflict Management in the Local Church
- Church Management II: Planning and Marketing the Ministry

The concentration in Church Leadership includes the following seminars:

- Developing Empowering Leadership
- Managing Human Resources
- Strategic Planning
- Fund-Raising

In addition, an annual series of seminars for chief executive officers and trustees on Christian leadership has been developed. The seminars are offered in both Pasadena and Chicago.

Faculty

The faculty for the Institute are drawn from the ranks of faculty and administration of the Seminary as well as from the ranks of Christian leaders in ministry and business around the country. Each seminar is led by a faculty team of at least one practicing management expert and a theologian or minister. The Institute faculty for 1988-89 include:

- Ray S. Anderson, Professor of Theology and Ministry, School of Theology, Fuller Theological Seminary
- James Appleton, President, University of Redlands
- Molly Davis-Scott, Director of Communications, World Vision
- Samuel Delcamp, Vice-President of Development, Fuller Theological Seminary
- Gary Demarest, Associate Director, Missions Unit on Evangelism and Church Development, Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.)
- Max DePree, Chairman, Herman Miller, Incorporated
- David Allan Hubbard, President, Fuller Theological Seminary
- John Johnson, Marketing and Advertising Consultant
- Patrick Lattore, Associate Provost, Continuing and Extended Education, Fuller Theological Seminary
- David Luecke, Vice-President for Seminary Services and Associate Professor of Christian Leadership and Management, Fuller Theological Seminary
- H. Newton Malony, Professor of Psychology, Fuller Theological Seminary
- Doug McKenna, Associate Professor of Management, Seattle Pacific University
- Richard Mouw, Professor of Philosophy and Christian Ethics, School of Theology, Fuller Theological Seminary
- Elizabeth Patterson, Assistant Provost, Fuller Theological Seminary
- Walter C. Wright, Jr., President, Regent College

LOWELL W. BERRY INSTITUTE FOR CONTINUING EDUCATION IN MINISTRY

Purpose

The purpose of the Lowell W. Berry Institute is to provide a system of continuing education events for church professionals and lay leaders. These events provide a unique resource to the church and the community in specialized areas of theology and ministry.

Curriculum

The Institute participates each year as a sponsor of major multi-session national conferences. One outstanding example is “Growing the Church Through Small Groups,” which attracts over 1,000 people each year. It is scheduled next for March 5-9, 1990, in Pasadena, California.

The Institute also sponsors regional conferences, such as the annual Oak Brook Conference on Ministry held in Oak Brook, Illinois, and co-sponsored by Christ Church of Oak Brook.

In addition, the Institute plans local workshops on specialized topics. Consultations on alcoholism—“Alcoholism: Your Church Can Help!”—are presented each winter and spring. One-day workshops on the topic of “Clergy Liability” are offered regularly. Further information on conferences and workshops sponsored by the Lowell W. Berry Institute for Continuing Education in Ministry may be obtained by writing the Institute in care of Fuller Theological Seminary.

Continuing Education Units. The events sponsored by the Institute may earn Continuing Education Units (non-credit units). One Continuing Education Unit (CEU) is defined as ten contact hours of satisfactory participation in an approved course or seminar. The CEU system provides a uniform measurement and record of non-credit post-secondary-level study. Professionals in a variety of fields, such as pastors, Christian school teachers, nurses, denominational executives and leaders of parachurch organizations, can use the CEU records to verify an educational experience that has helped them maintain or improve their skills. The Continuing Education Committee can grant CEU recognition to any Seminary-sponsored event which meets CEU guidelines.

Participants in an approved Seminary-sponsored event may apply for CEUs only if they are not taking the course or seminar in question for academic credit (that is, they must be course auditors or participants in a non-credit special event). A one-time fee will be charged to set up a Continuing Education Unit file in the Office of Continuing Education. Under no circumstances will CEUs be transferred as or converted to academic credit.

FORMAL STATEMENTS OF COMMUNITY STANDARDS

Preamble

Men and women of God are suited for Christian service by moral character as well as by academic achievement and spiritual gifts. Among their qualifications should be compassion for individual persons, sensitivity to the needs of the communities of which they are a part, a commitment to justice, a burden that the whole of God's will be obeyed on earth, personal integrity, a desire for moral growth, and mutual accountability. Candidates for a degree from Fuller Theological Seminary are expected to exhibit these moral characteristics.

The ethical standards of Fuller Theological Seminary are guided by an understanding of Scripture and a commitment to its authority regarding all matters of Christian faith and living. The Seminary community also desires to honor and respect the moral traditions of the churches who entrust students to us for education. These moral standards encompass every area of life, but prevailing confusion about specific areas leads the community to speak clearly about them. Students receiving training in a discipline for which there are professional ethical standards are subject to those as well.

Three statements of community standards are affirmed by all trustees, faculty, administrators, staff and students of the Seminary. These are:

1. Statement on Academic Integrity
2. Statement on Sexual Standards, Marriage and Divorce
3. Statement on Respect for People and Property

In the application of these statements of community standards, the Seminary urges the practice of loving confrontation when any member of a Christian community feels that another member is living in violation of what the Bible teaches about Christian conduct. The Seminary, therefore, encourages individuals to follow, where feasible, the steps of confrontation and dialogue described in Matthew 18:15-22. Specific applications of these steps are presented in the Faculty Handbook, in the Staff Personnel Policies Manual, and in the Student Handbook ("Procedure for Processing Grievances Regarding Students").

The use of Seminary disciplinary procedures should always be viewed as a last resort. In no way do they exempt the Seminary from making every possible effort to guide the honest pursuit of truth, to encourage wholesome approaches to sexuality, to support stable family life, or to model community relationships that convey respect for people and property.
The Seminary is committed to provide education and counseling to those of its community who are in special need, to extend Christian charity to those involved in strife, marital conflict or the struggle for sexual identity, and to demonstrate the personal forgiveness available through Christ for all human failure.

Statement on Academic Integrity

Truthfulness is of the very nature of God, who is Truth itself. Truth is a prominent theme in Scripture, and God’s faithfulness and dependability rest in truthfulness. The biblical admonitions against false witness, lying and dishonesty are also prominent.

Fuller Theological Seminary is committed to intellectual and moral growth. Upholding the standard of academic integrity with its reliance on honesty is a responsibility of both faculty and students. In addition to maintaining integrity in their own academic pursuits, the faculty have the right and obligation to set and clarify academic requirements for the work of students. Academic integrity is a personal responsibility of students to represent as their own work in reports, papers or examinations only what they are entitled to honestly so present. It includes a collective responsibility to assure that all uphold the spirit and letter of academic integrity.

Conduct regarded as violating academic integrity includes:

Dishonesty, in an examination by copying from the examination paper of another, allowing one’s own examination paper to be copied, reading without the instructor’s consent a copy of the examination prior to the date it is given, giving or receiving unpermitted aid on a take-home examination, or the submission of the same work product in more than one course without the express permission of the instructor(s).

Plagiarism, which is the passing off of another’s ideas or writings as one’s own. It involves failure to acknowledge material which is copied from others or failure to acknowledge one’s indebtedness to another for the gist of important thoughts in a formal statement, written or oral.

Charges of violating academic integrity shall be handled according to published procedures for processing grievances.

Statement on Sexual Standards

Fuller Theological Seminary believes that heterosexual union must be reserved for marriage and insists on sexual abstinence for the unmarried. The Seminary believes premarital, extramarital and homosexual forms of explicit sexual conduct to be inconsistent with the teaching of Scripture. Consequently, the Seminary expects all members of its community—trustees, faculty members, students, administrators, and restricted staff members—to abstain from what it holds to be unbiblical sexual practices.

If any member of the community, as defined above, is charged with failure to abide by these sexual standards, the Seminary will invoke the procedures for investigation and, when necessary, discipline outlined in the relevant faculty, student or staff handbook.

Statement on Marriage and Divorce

The Seminary’s biblical convictions and churchly responsibilities call us to make clear our commitment to Scripture’s teachings on the nature of marriage as a covenant. These teachings view marriage as a witness to the permanent relationship between Christ and his Church, and do not condone divorce as an acceptable way of dealing with marital differences.

The Seminary community’s concern for the sanctity of marriage is manifested in attitudes and programs that foster marital harmony and in support and compassion for those who struggle to keep their marriages stable under the almost relentless pressures of our society. At the same time, spiritual commitment requires fidelity within marriage and sexual continence outside of it for participation in the official life of the Seminary, whether as trustee, faculty member, student, administrator, or restricted staff member (whose position is classified as central to the religious goals and activities of Fuller1). The Seminary’s role in serving a multidenominational constituency and in encouraging Christian ethical conduct among the leadership of the churches requires that the members of the Seminary community be exemplary in these and all other ethical matters.

The full seriousness of the apostolic pattern that sets up special qualifications in character and conduct for Christian leaders (e.g., 1 Tim. 3:1-13) is recognized, including stability of marriage and family life. These qualifications are carefully considered in the selection of trustees, faculty members, administrators, and staff members for restricted positions. No divorced person will be called to any of these offices without a thorough review of the circumstances of the divorce by the Trustee Affairs Committee in the case of trustees, the Faculty Senate in the case of faculty members or academic administrators, and under the supervision of the Administrative Cabinet in the case of other administrators. Where the recommendation of the appropriate committee is to proceed with the appointment, the recommendation concerning trustees and non-academic administrators shall be submitted to the Board for final approval; recommendations concerning faculty members and academic administrators shall be reviewed by the Board for recommendation and set up for formal action. Whenever possible, the recommendation shall be based on information and interviews with the spouse and former spouse of the candidate.
the Joint Faculty before submitting them to the Board for the final approval. Upon appropriate recommendation, appointments of administrators and restricted staff members will proceed in the normal way.

Where divorce occurs in the life of any trustee, faculty member, administrator, or restricted staff member, while officially related to the Seminary, the person is to notify the administrator to whom he or she is directly responsible. Normally that administrator would be, in the case of trustees, the chairperson of the Board; in the case of a faculty member, the appropriate Dean. In the case of administrators or restricted staff members, notification should be made to their cabinet-level supervisor. The divorcing person is to submit a letter explaining the circumstances at the time of the judgment of dissolution. The responsible cabinet-level administrator will submit a report and recommendation to the President in the case of Seminary personnel, or to the Trustee Affairs Committee in the case of trustees.

Where a student undergoes the tragedy of divorce while in any program of the Seminary, that student shall, by the time of the judgment of dissolution, submit a letter explaining the circumstances to the Dean of the school in which he or she is enrolled. The Dean will submit a report and recommendation to the Provost. If further investigation is necessary, the process shall be carried out in accordance with the "Procedures for Processing Grievances Regarding Students."

In any of these cases, failure to report the divorce within thirty days after the judgment of dissolution shall be grounds for discipline.

"Because this position involves work central to the religious goals and activities of Fuller and the representation and espousal of such goals and activities, it is necessary to the normal operation of the Seminary and it is, therefore, required that the person to occupy this position subscribe to and execute a statement of faith."
GLOSSARY OF TERMS

The following terms have proved consistently difficult to understand for students coming to Fuller from other educational systems. This difficulty is experienced by students from European educational systems as well as Third World students.

Comprehensives: an examination or series of examinations to be taken as required parts of a degree program or for admittance to a higher degree program. These may be based on knowledge gathered from all the course offerings, or from a specific set of core courses, in which case they should be scheduled shortly after the completion of the core courses.

These are described more fully in the School of World Mission section of this catalog.

Grade Point Average: the grade point average (GPA) designates the estimated merit of a student's work in the form of a decimal which represents a specific letter grade. Letter grades and their numerical values are listed on page 40 of this catalog. The GPA for a single quarter will be the grade point which results from the averaging of letter grades received in all courses for that quarter. See also “cumulative grade point average” above.

Intensive Course: a course offered over a two-week period of time within a quarter, instead of the entire ten weeks of the quarter. Such a course is scheduled to meet every weekday of the two-week period, for three to four hours each day, so that the class meets the same number of hours as it would if it were scheduled for the ten-week period. Courses are offered on this basis every quarter, and especially in the summer.

Matriculation: the beginning of a course of studies. A “matriculation fee,” which is applied against tuition, is required of students before they begin a course of studies. The date of matriculation is the time at which you register for your first classes. Deadlines for completion of degree requirements in some programs are measured from the date of matriculation.

Priority Number: a number assigned to each student prior to registration for the next quarter which designates at what time the student may register. This allows students who are closer to graduation, and need particular courses to complete their requirements, to register first.

Quarter: an academic term comprising a period of ten weeks. It is followed by one week for exams. Three quarters—fall, winter and spring—comprise the academic year. Courses are also offered during the summer quarter. Most courses last for one quarter.

Thesis: a written work generally shorter in length than the dissertation, which may be required of certain master’s programs.

Core Courses: basic required courses which form a necessary foundation for all other coursework in a specific degree program and, if possible, should be taken at the beginning of the program.

Course: a specific field of study undertaken with a professor for a set period of time and for a specific number of units.

Credit: acknowledgement that a specific course has been satisfactorily completed and is registered on the student's official record. Credit is received for any passing grade. Another meaning of “credit” is that of a measure of credit, for example, “four credits” or “four units of credit” for a course. Normally a minimum of 25-30 hours of class time, research and study is required for each unit of credit that is earned for a class.

Credit/No Credit: In certain programs, a student may choose not to receive a letter grade for a course completed. A student’s work is then recorded as “credit” for pass and “no credit” for fail. All coursework is required and graded as it would be for a course which would receive a letter grade. This option is limited to certain degree programs, and in each program there is a limit as to how many courses a student may take in this manner.

Cumulative Grade Point Average: a single decimal grade which is a numerical score representing the average of all letter grades received by a student for all courses completed. The cumulative grade point average is recorded on the grade card which reports the results of each quarter’s work. See also “grade point average.”

Dissertation: the final written work submitted by a student as part of the higher degree requirements of a doctoral program.

Elective: a non-required course, which may be chosen by the student for inclusion in his or her degree program alongside those courses required by the program. A number of elective courses must be taken to complete the total number of units in most degree programs.

General Exams: a series of examinations required in School of World Mission degree programs, covering the six major fields of missiology.

GIFT OPPORTUNITIES

The expenses at Fuller Theological Seminary are comparable to those of similar institutions and are kept so by the regular giving of interested Christian people. No student pays the complete cost of his or her education. Substantial sums are sought annually by the Seminary to make up the difference between what the seminarian pays and the actual cost of education.

There are many ways in which one can give to Fuller Theological Seminary. Appreciated securities or property, as well as life insurance, may be given to the Seminary with considerable tax savings to the donor. Contributions may also be made with a retained life income through trusts or annuity agreements. Wise estate planning may also provide opportunities for conservation of wealth, as well as income and estate tax savings to the donor.

Investments in the lives of men and women who are training for Christian service at Fuller Theological Seminary may also be made by leaving funds for this purpose in one's will. The legal form for a bequest to Fuller Theological Seminary should read as follows:

I give, devise and bequeath to Fuller Theological Seminary, a California non-profit corporation located at Pasadena, California, the sum of $_________ (or property herein described) to be used by its Board of Trustees as it may deem advisable for the benefit of the students of Fuller Theological Seminary.

For further information regarding ways of giving to Fuller Theological Seminary, please direct your inquiries to:
