THE MINISTRY OF FULLER

THE PURPOSE

Fuller Theological Seminary, embracing the Schools of Theology, Psychology and World Mission, is an evangelical, multidensonalational, international and multiethnic community dedicated to the preparation of men and women for the manifold ministries of Christ and his Church. Under the authority of Scripture it seeks to fulfill its commitment to ministry through graduate education, professional development and spiritual formation. In all of its activities, including instruction, nurture, worship, service, research and publication, Fuller Theological Seminary strives for excellence in the service of Jesus Christ, under the guidance and power of the Holy Spirit, to the glory of the Father.

THEOLOGICAL STANCE

Evangelical Commitment

The Fuller Theological Seminary community—trustees, faculty, staff and students—believe that Jesus Christ, as revealed in the Holy Scripture and proclaimed in the power of the Holy Spirit, is the only ground for a person’s reconciliation to God. The Seminary assumes, then, a commitment to:

1. An evangelical fervor which flows out of an emphasis on the character of God himself;
2. The practice of evangelism in every culture of the world;
3. A constant engagement with Scripture, testing all things by it;
4. Engagement in responsible Christian community through corporate worship and mutual supporting love in the bonds of the grace of Christ;
5. Godly living; Christlikeness in word and deed;
6. Confidence in the unity of God’s truth in its application to the spiritual, psychological and cultural development of men and women.

Doctrinal Perspective

Doctrinally the institution stands for the fundamentals of the faith as taught in Holy Scripture and handed down by the Church. Consistent with this purpose, the faculty and trustees of the Seminary acknowledge the creeds of the early church and the confessions of the Protestant communions to which they severally belong, and, among recent evangelical statements, the Lausanne Covenant (1974).

Statement Of Faith

Under God, and subject to biblical authority, the faculty and trustees of the Seminary bear concerted witness to the following articles, to which they subscribe, and which they hold to be essential to their ministry.

I. God has revealed himself to be the living and true God, perfect in love and righteous in all his ways; one in essence, existing eternally in the three persons of the Trinity: Father, Son and Holy Spirit.

II. God, who discloses himself through his creation, has savingly spoken in the words and events of redemptive history. This history is fulfilled in Jesus Christ, the incarnate Word, who is made known to us by the Holy Spirit in sacred Scripture.

III. Scripture is an essential part and trustworthy record of this divine self-disclosure. All the books of the Old and New Testaments, given by divine inspiration, are the written word of God, the only infallible rule of faith and practice. They are to be interpreted according to their context and purpose and in reverent obedience to the Lord who speaks through them in living power.

IV. God, by his Word and for his glory, freely created the world of nothing. He made man and woman in his own image, as the crown of creation, that they might have fellowship with him. Tempted by Satan, they rebelled against God. Being estranged from their Maker, yet responsible to him, they became subject to divine wrath, inwardly depraved, and, apart from grace, incapable of returning to God.

V. The only Mediator between God and humankind is Christ Jesus our Lord, God’s eternal Son, who, being conceived by the Holy Spirit and born of the Virgin Mary, fully shared and fulfilled our humanity in a life of perfect obedience. By his death in our stead, he revealed the divine love and upheld divine justice, removing our guilt and reconciling us to God. Having redeemed us from sin, the third day he rose bodily from the grave, victorious over death and the powers of darkness. He ascended into heaven where, at God’s right hand, he intercedes for his people and rules as Lord over all.

VI. The Holy Spirit, through the proclamation of the gospel, renews our hearts, persuading us to repent of our sins and confess Jesus as Lord. By the same Spirit we are led to trust in divine mercy, whereby we are forgiven all our sins, justified by faith alone through the merit of Christ our Savior and granted the free gift of eternal life.
VII. God graciously adopts us into his family and enables us to call him Father. As we are led by the Spirit, we grow in the knowledge of the Lord, freely keeping his commandments and endeavoring so to live in the world that all may see our good works and glorify our Father who is in heaven.

VIII. God, by his Word and Spirit, creates the one holy catholic and apostolic church, calling sinners out of the whole human race into the fellowship of Christ's body. By the same Word and Spirit, he guides and preserves for eternity that new, redeemed humanity, which, being formed in every culture, is spiritually one with the people of God in all ages.

IX. The church is summoned by Christ to offer acceptable worship to God and to serve him by preaching the gospel and making disciples of all nations, by tending the flock through the ministry of the word and sacraments and through daily pastoral care, by striving for social justice and by relieving human distress and need.

X. God's redemptive purpose will be consummated by the return of Christ to raise the dead, to judge all people according to the deeds done in the body and to establish his glorious kingdom. The wicked shall be separated from God's presence, but the righteous, in glorious bodies, shall live and reign with him forever. Then shall the eager expectation of creation be fulfilled and the whole earth shall proclaim the glory of God who makes all things new.

The Mission Beyond The Mission

Beyond the immediate purpose of the nurture and training of students for the ministries of Christ, the faculty and Board of Trustees of Fuller Theological Seminary see a further mission. In 1983, they adopted a statement entitled "The Mission Beyond The Mission," which sets forth the vision that will give further direction to the Seminary's planning and priorities. The statement is organized around five imperatives:

1. Imperative One: Go and make disciples
2. Imperative Two: Call the church of Christ to renewal
3. Imperative Three: Work for the moral health of society
4. Imperative Four: Seek peace and justice in the world
5. Imperative Five: Uphold the truth of God's revelation

Committees composed of faculty, trustees, and student representatives have prepared recommendations on some of the ways in which Fuller's responses to these imperatives can be implemented in the life and ministry of the Seminary. These recommendations form an important part of the Seminary's long-range planning process.

INSTITUTIONAL GOALS

Fuller Theological Seminary's unique contribution to the church is reflected in the union of its three faculties. In this union, psychology and world mission join with theology to effect the biblical mandate of bringing persons throughout the world to maturity in Christ through every language and culture. As an educational arm of the church, Fuller's three graduate schools seek to serve the body of Christ in its worldwide ministry, combining these emphases in the type of training they provide.

Academic Excellence

The trustees and faculty of Fuller are committed to achieving and maintaining the highest academic standards in teaching, research and writing. In the quest for academic quality, we assume that there will exist:

1. A commitment to increase and strengthen the quality of teaching in the classroom — through funding and supporting innovative programs — through varied teaching models — through careful evaluation and feedback;
2. A rigorous program of research and writing to provide literary leadership for the church;
3. Interaction with nonevangelical viewpoints;
4. A commitment to maintain the highest possible standards of responsible academic freedom;
5. A commitment to flexibility in curriculum design — to allow room for innovation and growth — to recognize individual needs and specialized ministries;
6. A commitment to the best of theological traditions;
7. An academic program which will encourage and foster the spiritual formation of the individual;
8. Recognition by regional and professional accrediting agencies — Western Association of Schools and Colleges — Association of Theological Schools — American Psychological Association — Commission on Marriage and Family Therapy Education.
Professional Competence

The Seminary is committed to an academically and professionally qualified faculty whose appointments and advancements are dependent upon potential and acknowledged competence in teaching, writing and professional practice. These standards assume:

1. A willingness to invest in the growth of persons both within the context of the Seminary and outside its walls
   - personally
   - professionally
   - spiritually;
2. A commitment to relate productively with local congregations
   - in support of local pastors by offering workshops and other services to enhance their ministry
   - in a continued and expanded use of local churches for fieldwork experience
   - in keeping local churches informed of Fuller's ministries
   - in listening to the local churches' articulation of their ministry and needs;
3. An ability to serve the church in the area of research
   - by keeping abreast of the times
   - by initiating new programs in order to meet present and future needs
   - by coordinating efforts within the three schools to optimize the application of their unique resources;
4. A commitment to provide professional training of the highest quality for the varied ministries within the church
   - incorporating practical "in-ministry" experience
   - stressing the importance of preaching and other means of communication
   - recognizing the effect of culture on the ministry of the church;
5. A concern for the highest standards of professional competence for men and women engaged in ministry outside of the organized church
   - in the healing ministry of clinical psychology
   - in the caring ministry of social agencies
   - in the teaching ministry of educational institutions.

Multidenominational Breadth

The trustees and faculty of Fuller Theological Seminary are pledged to serve the entire church of Jesus Christ in its various expressions whether congregational, denominational or multidenominal. While maintaining a multidenominational structure, Fuller encourages its students to work within existing church organizations. In reflecting this approach, the Seminary assumes the following:

1. Strong denominational participation by individual trustees and faculty members;
2. Encouragement for students to serve the church organization that nurtured them;
3. The preparation of men and women for ministry in their own church organizations, recognizing the distinctive of each denomination or organization;
4. A commitment to be ecumenical in church relationships;
5. An emphasis on preaching, evangelism, Christian nurture and church discipline through which unity is expressed.

Vocational Diversity

In order to meet the demands of the church today, the trustees and faculty of Fuller Theological Seminary take seriously the apostolic description of the church's nature—one body, many members. For this reason, the programs of the three schools and the continuing education programs are designed to provide training for a wide range of Christian service. This attitude toward diversity assumes the following:

1. A diversity of gifts and ministries to be exercised with awareness of the unity of the body and dependence upon the head, Jesus Christ;
2. A variety of programs designed to prepare men and women for the general and specialized ministries identified by the church
   - pastors
   - staff ministers
   - missionaries
   - clinical psychologists
   - youth ministers
   - administrators
   - research psychologists
   - professors
   - chaplains
   - campus ministers
   - Christian educators
   - counselors
   - evangelists
   - marriage and family therapists
   - social workers;
3. A correspondence between the enrollment in each program and placement opportunities
   - responding to the church's request for ministers with specifically defined training (e.g., preaching, Christian education, family ministries, administration)
   - observing the growing need for mission training, particularly at the professional level
— addressing the continued need for clinical psychologists and marriage and family therapists;
4. The offering of extension courses in theological education to allow laypersons, many of whom are already involved in vocational service, to strengthen skills in Christian ministry;
5. The opportunity for in-service training which provides both academic stimulus and spiritual growth.

Personal Maturity

The trustees and faculty of Fuller Theological Seminary believe that the church of Christ must minister to the whole person. Emotional healing in Christian perspective is the particular goal of the Graduate School of Psychology, but the aim is shared by the two other faculties as well. The ultimate objective is that every Fuller graduate be equipped to model as well as foster in others a personal maturity which is demonstrated by loving service to others and responsible Christian discipleship. In developing and nurturing spiritual and emotional maturity, we assume there will exist:
1. An investment by the Seminary in the personal, the professional and the spiritual development of each of its members — in time and availability — in resources — in services provided — in participatory governance;
2. The opportunity for all students to participate in supportive community — for social development — for spiritual formation;
3. Easy accessibility to the counseling services offered on campus;
4. A commitment to strengthen marriage and family life while affirming the value of those who are single.

Social Concern

The trustees and faculty of Fuller Theological Seminary have a deep-seated concern to demonstrate and to evoke a quality of discipleship which applies the biblical norms of love and justice in all human relationships. This regard for social justice assumes that the following will be evident:
1. A biblically shaped perspective in the question of the relationship between evangelism, social concern and the Christian’s mission in the world;
2. Course offerings which encompass cross-cultural studies, problems of church and state, and aspects of social ethics, as well as social work, family guidance and mental health services;
3. Opportunities in internships and field education that confront students with the massive problems thrust upon them by our urban society;
4. A reflection in all areas of Seminary organization of a significant minority involvement — in the African-American and Hispanic Ministers programs within the School of Theology — supported through a central office organized specifically for women’s concerns — undergirded by the office of the associate provost for ethnic and cultural concerns.

Ethnic and Racial Diversity

Fuller reflects the multiethnic and cultural richness of the body of Christ. Through its setting in Southern California and its international student constituency, Fuller Seminary is faced with the challenges and opportunities of multicultural ministry in a badly divided and broken world. This situation assumes for a theological seminary that:
1. Christ has broken down the dividing wall of hostility that separates people and races (Ephesians 2:14). But redemption does not face the created cultural differences of people, but rather enables God’s people to enter more deeply into a fellowship of mutual understanding and love.
2. Since each cultural group has unique gifts to offer the church and its life, each one must be given a place where it can feel safe in the academic community and empowered to make its contribution to the upbuilding of the body of Christ.
3. Through a broad ranging discussion of all parts of the community, programs will be developed that welcome and affirm the cultural diversity of its students both in providing faculty and staff models and a curriculum that develops a multicultural perspective on theology and ministry.

Local and International Perspective

The Seminary community is dedicated to the task of proclaiming the gospel both in its local setting in Pasadena and throughout the world. This commitment assumes that there exists:
1. A need for an evangelical, multidenominational seminary on the West Coast — with a continued location in Pasadena
—— ministering in the changing multi-cultural population of Southern California;
2. A concern not only to share the gospel with those outside the Seminary but also to implant a missionary vision within the life of every Fuller student;
3. A dedication to the growth of the church in every culture of the world confronted with rapid change and unrest.

Interdisciplinary Endeavor

The faculty of Fuller is committed to an integration of ideas, research and programming in the areas of theology, missiology and psychology. The faculty assumes that there will be:
1. A need to strengthen the theological foundations of such an integration to give it an enduring viability;
2. A need to strengthen the social science foundation upon which integration rests to give it greater scientific credibility;
3. A growing recognition that the resources of psychology and theology may, if combined, provide new and more effective remedies for many human problems that exist;
4. A commitment to the integration of theological and social science insights in the development of missiology;
5. A need for academic, professional and personal preparation for training in these new disciplines;
6. A requirement for an academic community in which scholars from all three disciplines can generate, through research and theorizing, a new body of literature to promote integration.

Responsible Stewardship

The Seminary community is committed to a responsible stewardship of its intraorganizational processes, facilities and financial resources. This assumes that there will be:
1. An endeavor toward development into an organization that accomplishes its mission while it fulfills the lives of its members;
2. Continued leadership training by the Seminary to meet the needs of the church;
3. A periodic reconsideration and refining of the Seminary’s intraorganizational processes to ensure greater efficiency and fulfillment of its goals;
4. A recognition that all planning for facilities should take into consideration that — our needs will change
   — the scale of our operations will change
   — the situation in which we work and live will change
   — we will change
   — there will be an intermingling of user functions on campus.

The Distinctives of Each School

In addition to sharing in and contributing to these characteristics, each school has its own distinctives which describe the specific nature of its ministry:

School of Theology
1. Preparing men and women academically, vocationally and spiritually for the lay and ordained ministries of the church;
2. Supporting the development of faithful scholarship and preparing future teachers of the church;
3. Engaging in the reflection, research and publication essential to the increase of theological insight.

School of Psychology
1. Training Christian men and women to serve in the areas of teaching, research, clinical practice, and family therapy;
2. Exploring the interrelationship between theology and psychology;
3. Pursuing and publishing research in the areas of clinical, general and experimental psychology, the psychology of religion, and family therapy.

School of World Mission
Equipping men and women who serve as international church leaders, midcareer missionaries and emerging cross-cultural missionaries, thus furthering their development in commitment and competence to relevant ministry, research and communication concerning Christ’s world mission, with special emphasis on:
1. Encouraging a deeper commitment to the biblical basis, authority and norm of mission and church growth;
2. Communicating the gospel appropriately in every cultural context;
3. Planting and developing churches among every people;
4. Equipping others for mission;
5. Expanding the awareness of the life and ministry of the global church.
The Founding. The founding of Fuller Theological Seminary resulted from the combination of the dreams of two well-known evangelical leaders, Charles E. Fuller, famous radio evangelist, and Harold John Ockenga, pastor of the Park Street Church, Boston. In Dr. Ockenga, Dr. Fuller found one who not only shared his zeal for evangelism and mission, but one whose academic achievements suited him well for a role in founding a theological seminary.

In May, 1947, the two men and four other evangelical scholars met in downtown Chicago for a time of seeking God's will concerning the feasibility of launching a new theological seminary. So strong was the spirit of prayer that the participants were convinced that God was indeed leading them into this venture of faith, and Fuller Theological Seminary was launched. As the result of announcements made on the "Old Fashioned Revival Hour" that summer, 39 students enrolled in the first entering class in the fall of 1947. Charter members of the faculty were Drs. Everett F. Harrison, Carl F. H. Henry, Harold Lindsell and Wilbur M. Smith. Trustees Herbert J. Taylor of Chicago, Arnold Grunigen of San Francisco, Dr. R. C. Logefeil of Minneapolis, together with Drs. Ockenga and Fuller (chairman), formed the founding Board of Trustees.

The Seminary was named after Henry Fuller, a devout Christian layman who actively supported many Christian causes in this country and overseas.

The Early Years. For the next six years, the Seminary was housed in the buildings of the Lake Avenue Congregational Church of Pasadena. During this time, it grew to a student body of 250 and a faculty of 15, with 152 graduates. In the fall of 1953, the Seminary moved to its present location and a suitable building which had been constructed specifically for its use.

The Presidents. By making frequent flights from Boston to Pasadena, Dr. Ockenga served as President until 1954, when Edward John Carnell was appointed the first resident presiding officer. Dr. Ockenga became the chairman of the Board of Trustees, and Dr. Fuller, honorary chairman. A number of notable advances were made during Dr. Carnell's five years as president, among which were receiving full accreditation by the American Association of Theological Schools in December 1957, the addition of several key faculty and board members, and an increase in student enrollment to over 300, with 524 graduates.

President Carnell resigned his position in 1959 to give himself fully to teaching and writing, and Dr. Ockenga again became president. During his second term (1959-1963) the McAlister Library was completed.

In 1963 the Board of Trustees appointed David Allan Hubbard to the office of president. A Fuller graduate (B.D., Th.M.), Dr. Hubbard had proved his potential for Christian leadership through doctoral studies at St. Andrews University in Scotland, a professorship at Westminster College, Santa Barbara, and a widespread college conference ministry. Major advancements under President Hubbard's guidance included the introduction of the core curriculum, the inauguration of the Doctor of Ministry (D.Min.) and the Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D.) in the School of Theology, and the founding of the Schools of Psychology and World Mission. Accreditation for the three schools by the Western Association of Schools and Colleges was received in 1969.

When Dr. Hubbard retired in June of 1993 after 30 years as president, an international search culminated in the appointment of Dr. Richard Mouw as president. Dr. Mouw had come to Fuller in 1985 as professor of Christian philosophy and ethics after 17 years on the faculty of Calvin College, and had served since 1989 as provost and senior vice president at Fuller.

The School of Psychology. In May 1961, Dr. John G. Finch, consulting psychologist from Tacoma, Washington, delivered a series of lectures at the Seminary on the theological and psychological dimensions of humankind. Dr. Finch's vision sparked the idea for a School of Psychology parallel in theory and training to the School of Theology. Through the interest and generosity of a trustee of Fuller Theological Seminary, Mr. C. Davis Weyerhaeuser, and Mrs. Weyerhaeuser, further study and planning for the school was made possible. A steering committee, consisting of distinguished psychiatrists, psychologists and theologians, was formed in 1962 to work with nationally-known authorities in psychology. In November 1964, the opening of the Pasadena Community Counseling Center, under the direction of Dr. Donald F. Tweedie, Jr., initiated the first phase of the new program. A strategic three-year grant totaling $125,000 from Lilly Endowment, Inc., in 1964 enabled Fuller to plan on accepting students for the 1965-66 school year.

Dr. Lee Edward Travis was appointed dean of the School of Psychology in the fall of 1964 and assumed his duties in January 1965. That September, 25 full-time and four part-time students, a faculty of six, a visiting faculty of five and one postdoctoral fellow initiated the program of the new school. In December of 1972, the American Psychological Association granted approval to the doctoral program in clinical psychology (Ph.D.) of the Graduate School of Psychology.

The School of Psychology expanded its community service/training/research programs by opening the Child Development Clinic in 1968, the Church Consultation Service in 1969, the Victim Assistance Program in 1976, Covenant House (a residential treatment facility for children) in 1979, Heritage House for Gerontology Services in 1979, the Inter-Community Alternatives Network (I-CAN) in 1980, the Stop Abusive Family Environments (SAFE) Program and the Community Assistance Program for Seniors (CAPS) In-Home Services in 1981, The Project IV Family Outreach (developed in cooperation with several other community agencies) in 1981, the CAPS Day Treatment Program for Seniors in 1983, Gero-Net in 1985, the Sponsors Project and The Junction in 1986, and the Relationship Counseling Clinic in 1987. Beginning in 1976 all training components in the School of Psychology were organized under The Psychological Center. Reorganization within the Center in 1990 has brought all gerontological services together as The Center for Aging Resources, while the outpatient services for children, adult individuals and marriage and family have come together as Fuller Psychological and Family Services.

In 1987, the academic program of the School of Psychology was expanded with the addition of a second doctoral degree, the Doctor of Psychology (Psy.D.) degree, and the move of the Marriage and Family program from the School of Theology to the School of Psychology. A professional doctorate in marriage and family therapy (D.MFT.) was added to the Master of Arts in Marital and Family Therapy and Ph.D.s in Marriage and Family Studies and Marital and Family Therapy in 1988. The M.A. curriculum was revised and renamed as a Master of Science in Marital and Family Therapy in 1991.

In 1991 the Lee Edward Travis Institute for Biopsychosocial Research was inaugurated. The Institute provides a distinctive research unit within the Fuller Graduate School of Psychology in which interested faculty, research collaborators and students can engage in regular and ongoing activities with a common focus. It also fosters collaborative research in the broad areas of health psychology, behavioral medicine, neuropsychology, psychoneuroimmunology, psychophysiology, and others. The Travis Institute became the second entity of its kind in the School of Psychology, joining the Institute for Marriage and Family, which had been in existence since the early 1980's when the Marriage and Family Program was a part of the School of Theology. The goal of this institute is to strengthen the effectiveness of marriage and family ministries in the worldwide church by utilizing research to develop materials, technologies, media, and other practical applications that support Christian marriage and family living.

In response to the need for training for marriage and family therapists in the San Francisco Bay area, the Marriage and Family Division of the School of Psychology was expanded with the addition of a second doctoral degree, the Doctor of Psychology (Psy.D.) degree, and the move of the Marriage and Family program from the School of Theology to the School of Psychology. A professional doctorate in marriage and family therapy (D.MFT.) was added to the Master of Arts in Marital and Family Therapy and Ph.D.s in Marriage and Family Studies and Marital and Family Therapy in 1988. The M.A. curriculum was revised and renamed as a Master of Science in Marital and Family Therapy in 1991.
the School of Psychology began a program in the fall of 1994 in Menlo Park, California, leading to the Master of Arts in Marital and Family Therapy. The School of World Mission. In 1961, Dr. Donald A. McGavran founded at Eugene, Oregon, a graduate research and teaching center based on the belief that the growth of the church is the chief and irreplaceable function of Christian mission. The Institute of Church Growth flourished, supported by Northwest Christian College.

In 1964, under the leadership of President Hubbard, a faculty committee was appointed to explore the founding of a school of world evangelism. It thoroughly canvassed the field and reviewed programs of seminaries and missionary training schools across the nation. A steering committee of 24 noted missionary leaders was appointed to guide the formation of the school and the choice of the faculty.

In the spring of 1965, the Seminary's plan having matured, Dr. McGavran was invited to become dean of its School of World Mission and to bring to it his colleague, Dr. Alan R. Tippett. Northwest Christian College cordially agreed to have the School of World Mission and Institute of Church Growth become the third in the Fuller complex of schools, offering master's degrees in missiology. In 1970, the professional doctorate (D.Miss.) with concentration in youth ministries began a program for minority ministers began in 1973. Mature African-American and Hispanic pastors who had not had the opportunity to complete a standard baccalaureate degree were invited to enroll in an M.A. program designed to strengthen their performance as community and church leaders. By fall, 1979, approximately 112 African-American and Hispanic pastors were studying in programs at both the Pasadena campus and in the extension centers. At this time a program for Asian pastors was inaugurated, with 11 students enrolled in the M.A. program and 34 students in the D.Min. program within six months. In October, 1977, 90 Young Life staff trainees entered the Institute of Youth Ministries, a cooperative program between the School of Theology and Young Life. The Institute combined the theological resources of the Seminary with the field training expertise of Young Life to offer the Master of Arts and the Master of Divinity with concentration in youth ministries. Enrollment has increased to nearly 300 students annually.

During this same period, a number of concentrations were developed within the M.A. and M.Div. programs of the School of Theology, giving students the opportunity for special preparation in the areas of Christian formation and discipleship, family pastoral care and counseling, marriage and family ministries, youth and Christian higher education. In June of 1992 a new degree program, the Master of Arts in Christian Leadership, was approved by the Association of Theological Schools. Enrollment in this program, with concentrations in ministry of the laity, adolescent ministries, and Christian higher education began in 1993. education, began in the fall of 1992 on the Pasadena campus and at the Seminary’s Extended Education sites.

Continuing and Extended Education. In 1973, Fuller Seminary opened extension centers in other cities for the training of lay persons in the context of the local church. By the fall of 1979, extension programs were operating in six cities in the western United States, with the M.A. in theology available through the Seattle, San Francisco Bay and Southern California Extensions. In 1994, the Seminary enrolled over 800 students in its Southern California, Northern California, Washington, Arizona and Colorado Extended Education areas. The Seminary broke new ground in theological education in 1992 with the development of a new model for the Master of Divinity degree which allows selected students to complete the entire degree in Seattle. This program, provisionally approved by the Association for Theological Schools, is offered in cooperation with the Seattle Association for Theological Education, a partnership of Fuller Seminary, Regent College, Seattle Pacific University, and a number of Pacific Northwest churches.

The School of Theology began a continuing education program for professional ministers in the fall of 1974. A specially planned model of the Doctor of Ministry offered the resources of the three schools of the Seminary in intensive instructional modules designed to develop the minister’s professional skills in the context of his or her ministry. In 1978, a new phase of Fuller’s ongoing concern for the continuing education of pastors and lay leaders was inaugurated with the National Convocation of Christian Leaders at Stanford University. In 1985, the Doctor of Ministry program, Extended Education, The Lowell W. Berry Institute for Continuing Education in Ministry, and the Institute for Christian Organizational Development were organized to form a fourth administrative unit in the Seminary, Continuing and Extended Education. In 1994, the Schools of World Mission and Psychology initiated their first degree programs to be offered through Continuing and Extended Education. The Doctor of Ministry program in Global Mission, Regent College, Seattle Pacific University, and a number of Pacific Northwest churches.

A CHRISTIAN COMMUNITY

Spiritual Guidance and Formation

The Seminary has committed itself to the principle that the spiritual development of every student is a matter of prime importance in theological education. To foster and implement this commitment the Spiritual Life Committee has formed an office and a program of spiritual formation. Under the leadership of the Office of Christian Community, student interns from the three schools provide resources, encouragement and programs designed to enrich the spiritual life and faith of all members of the Seminary community. Retreats, special services, small groups, informal contacts and personal counseling situations are used to foster spiritual growth.

A program of spiritual direction for individuals has also been instituted, and new ways of encouraging serious approaches to spiritual growth are being explored.

Pre-Sem Program. This is a unique ten-day pre-orientation wilderness experience takes place in the High Sierras, sponsored by the Office of Christian Community. The trip is designed especially for incoming students, but is open to currently enrolled students as well. It offers the opportunity for students to build lasting friendships with one another in the spectacular setting of pristine wilderness. The program encourages students to reflect on the nature of God and the creation as well as many other aspects of seminary life and future ministry.

Retreat Program. This program seeks to provide students, faculty and staff with the opportunity to go away from campus to a setting conducive to community, silence and prayer, in order to participate in a focused experience of Christian community and growth.

Small-Group Program. This program seeks to make available to the students and their spouses in each of the three schools the opportunity to participate in a meaningful experience of Christian community in small groups of four to twelve persons.

Chapel Services. The Seminary family—faculty, staff and student body—meets at midmorning two days a week for a one-hour chapel service. Chapel provides a time of community celebration and reflection and an opportunity to share together in worship, teaching, and exhortation. Both traditional and contemporary forms of Christian worship are experienced.

Multidenominational Representation

Fuller Theological Seminary trains and counsels its students to return to the denominations that nurtured them. Education for ministry at Fuller Theological Seminary is accepted by every major denomination. Denominational distinctions, such as church government, are taught by persons who represent the various denominations. Furthermore, the Seminary faculty comprises such a cross-section of church affiliation that most of the greater traditions of the church are represented. The student body at Fuller is composed of men and women from more than 100 denominations and church bodies. This opportunity for contact with a wide variety of ecclesiastical backgrounds is a broadening and enriching experience.

The following affiliations were represented on campus by five or more students during 1993-94:

- African Methodist Episcopal
- American Baptist Churches in the U.S.A.

In addition, representatives of several denominations—the Reformed Church of America, American Baptist Churches in the U.S.A., and the United Methodist Church—serve on the School of Theology faculty as Ecclesiastical Faculty.

Denominational Relations

As a multidenominational institution, Fuller Theological Seminary seeks to work actively with the many denominations represented among its student body. Relationships with denominations are coordinated by an Office of Denominational Relations. This office seeks to facilitate and focus communication and interaction between the students, the Seminary, and the various denominations. The office also coordinates Seminary relationships with regional and national denominational structures and leaders. Many denominations have volunteer liaisons who work with the Office of Denominational Relations to assist their denominational groups in the task of providing fellowship, guidance, and academic support to students.

Office of Presbyterian Ministries

The Office of Presbyterian Ministries, now in existence for sixteen years, serves the more than 400 Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.) students within the Fuller student body. On the Pasadena campus, the office provides an intentional program of instruction and experience to prepare men and women for ministry in the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.). Academic courses in Presbyterian Creeds, Presbyterian Polity, Reformed Worship, and Presbyterian History are offered each year. Each Monday morning during the academic year a meeting is held for Presbyterian students to get to know their future colleagues in ministry. Speakers at these meetings are denominational leaders who represent the many board, agencies and program emphases of the denomination. The Office of Presbyterian Ministries provides counsel for students regarding the preparation for ministry process, assists them as they prepare for the national standard ordination exams, serves them as a liaison with the governing bodies of the denomination, and seeks to provide community for the Presbyterian students at Fuller.

Theological Education Agency of the Reformed Church in America

This program was established in 1985 by the General Synod of the Reformed Church in America. Located on Fuller’s Pasadena campus, its purpose is to serve all ministerial candidates of the Reformed Church in America who are not attending one of the two denominational seminaries. The director supervises students in preparation for ordination, assists in locating internships, and offers instruction in RCA polity, history, confessional statements and worship.

American Baptist Theological Center

In the spring of 1988, the American Baptist Churches formally related to the American Baptist Churches/Los Angeles and those related to the American Baptist Churches/Pacific Southwest, in cooperation with the Board of Educational Ministries of the American Baptist Churches/USA, voted to form a new American Baptist Theological Center on Fuller’s Pasadena campus. This center is intended to serve the needs of American Baptist churches locally and nationally by cooperating with the Seminary in the theological education of American Baptist students preparing for a wide variety of ministries. The Center is intended to prepare students for ministry in the older churches as well as in churches now being formed in a context rich in ethnic and cultural diversity.
Opportunities for Worship and Service

In the Los Angeles and Orange County areas, there are thousands of congregations representing nearly every denomination or affiliation, providing everyone at Fuller with the opportunity to be involved in the life of the church. Every student is encouraged to unite with one of these communities of Christians.

In addition, there are many specialized church and parachurch ministries in the area which offer students varied opportunities for training, witness and service.

AN ACADEMIC COMMUNITY

Faculty

The resident faculty of Fuller Theological Seminary is composed of more than 70 men and women who are committed to the highest standards of teaching, research and writing in the various fields of theological, psychological and missiological study. In recent years, members of the Seminary faculty have published more than 100 books, as well as numerous chapters or articles in books, periodicals and professional journals. Fuller professors serve as officers of professional societies and organizations and as editors of theological and professional journals and series. In addition to their teaching ministries at the Seminary, they are actively involved in various kinds of ministry with area churches.

Fuller’s full-time faculty is supplemented each year by a number of highly-qualified visiting and adjunct faculty members, who enrich the curriculum of the three schools.

Academic Programs

Fuller Theological Seminary has programs of study leading to a variety of professional and academic degrees. The School of Theology grants the M.A. in Theology, the M.A. in Christian Leadership, M.Div., Th.M., D.Min. and Ph.D. degrees. A variety of concentrations are offered within the M.A. and M.Div. programs, enabling students to focus their studies in particular areas of individual need and interest. The School of World Mission offers the M.A. in Intercultural Studies, the M.A. in Cross-Cultural Studies, Th.M. in Intercultural Studies and in Chinese Ministry and Mission, D.Min. in Global Ministries, D.Miss., Ph.D. in Missiology and Ph.D. in Intercultural Studies degrees. The Ph.D. in Clinical Psychology and the Psy.D. (Doctor of Psychology) are granted by the School of Psychology, as well as the M.A. and M.S. in Marital and Family Therapy, the Doctor of Marital and Family Therapy (D.MFT.), the Ph.D. in Marital and Family Therapy, and the Ph.D. in Marriage and Family Studies.

In support of its degree programs, over 350 courses are offered each year on the Pasadena campus, with over 100 more classes taught each year in Fuller’s Extended Education Program. In addition to its daytime schedule and normal ten-week quarters, the Seminary regularly offers evening courses and intensive one- and two-week courses, making possible a very flexible program of study.

In order to gather educational resources to focus on specific needs and specialized ministries, and to make the resources of theological and missiological education available to those engaged in work and ministry, the Seminary has established a number of special institutes, programs and cooperative relationships. These include:

- Extended Education Program
- Theological Studies Program for African-American and Hispanic Ministers
- Institute of Youth Ministries (in cooperation with Young Life)
- Seattle Master of Divinity Program
- Seattle Association for Theological Education (in cooperation with Regent College, Seattle Pacific University, and area churches)
- Lowell W. Berry Institute for Continuing Education in Ministry
- In-Service Program (School of World Mission)
- Institute for Christian Organizational Development
- Fuller Psychological and Family Services

Continuing and Extended Education Programs

Through its continuing and extended education programs Fuller Theological Seminary seeks to bring theological and missiological education to laypersons, ministerial students, pastors and field missionaries in the context of their own ministries.

The Doctor of Ministry Program of the Schools of Theology and World Mission is designed to provide continuing education for ministers, missionaries, international church leaders and mission executives while they remain active in their ministries. In the School of Theology, an emphasis in areas such as church growth and evangelism, spirituality and renewal, pastoral care and counseling, small groups and Christian community...
Fuller Seminary significantly expanded its Extended Education offerings in the Fall of 1994 when the Marriage and Family Division of the School of Psychology began a program in northern California (Menlo Park) leading to the Master of Arts in Marital and Family Therapy.

Interdisciplinary Studies

Fuller Theological Seminary is committed to integration in the areas of theology, missiology and psychology in the curriculum and programs of its three schools.

The Graduate School of Psychology is distinctive in its attempt to integrate the social and behavioral sciences and theology in theory, research and practice. Students in the Ph.D. programs in the School of Psychology also earn the M.A. or M.Div. degree from the School of Theology. The Doctor of Psychology (Psy.D.) and the Doctor of Marital and Family Therapy (D.MFT) degrees include a major theology component.

The family life education concentration in the M.A. and M.Div. degrees of the School of Theology draws on the resources of the marriage and family therapy faculty of the School of Psychology.

Degree programs of the School of World Mission utilize the resources of the School of Theology in providing a foundation for missiological theory and practice that combines biblical, historical and theological studies with the social and behavioral sciences. The same combination is available in the form of a cross-cultural studies concentration in the M.Div. program of the School of Theology. In addition, most School of World Mission courses are available as electives to students in the School of Theology.

Library Facilities

The library contains the bibliographic resources which support the degree programs of Fuller Theological Seminary and independent faculty research. Through the generosity of the McAlister Fund, many loyal alumni/ae, trustees and friends of the Seminary, the McAlister Library was completed in 1963. Extensive remodeling was done in 1978, including the addition of two more floors. The five floors of the library now house a collection of over 203,000 cataloged volumes, including the libraries of Professors Everett Harrison, Robert Bower, George Eldon Ladd, and Dr. Wilbur Smith, which were donated to the Seminary.

In 1993, the Library acquired a major collection of theological materials. It is estimated that approximately 13,000 of these books are not owned by other libraries in the western states.
This collection is especially strong in the areas of the Wesleyan holiness movement, women and the church, Third World theological writings and the social witness of various American churches, such as abolitionist churches, black churches and peace movements.

The library subscribes to over 900 national and international journals and more than 700 monographic serials in the fields of religion, theology, philosophy, psychology and missiology. An unusually fine collection of theological bibliography and reference material is also available.

Students have open stack privileges. The reference collection of the library is located in the main reading room, where there is immediate access to the books desired. Additional study space is located throughout the library, and students may reserve individual study carrels.

The Media Services Department, located in the library, provides a variety of resources for student use, including language study tapes, tapes of various classes, chapel services and lectureships, records, filmstrips and audiovisual equipment. The David du Plessis Center houses the papers of David J. du Plessis and will also hold historical records and memorabilia of the Seminary. Special resources in Women's Studies are also available. Photocopiers and microform readers and printers are available. The rare-book room contains leather-bound books from the sixteenth through the nineteenth centuries, which are available for scholarly research.

The theological holdings of other libraries in the greater Los Angeles area total over a quarter of a million volumes. Students at Fuller have borrowing privileges at the library of the School of Theology at Claremont, and, by referral, students may borrow books at eight other regional theological libraries. In addition, McAllister Library has the printed and/or microform catalogs of the Graduate Theological Union at Berkeley, the Missionary Research Library and the library of Union Theological Seminary, New York. These resources and the OCLC bibliographic network aid in the search for interlibrary loan materials for students and faculty. A computer-assisted literature searching service is also available, as well as computer-based research tools such as Gramcord, the Thesaurus Lingua Graece (TLG) and the PsycLIT database on CD-ROM.

Lectureships

Fuller Theological Seminary is fortunate to be able to bring to its campus from time to time as special lecturers men and women who have distinguished themselves by their scholarship and their service to the church.

Payton Lectures. In 1949 Fuller Theological Seminary instituted the Payton Lectures in memory of Dr. and Mrs. John E. Payton, parents of the late Mrs. Charles Fuller. The theme of the lectures falls within one of these areas: the uniqueness or confirmation of the historic Christian faith, the refutation of non-Christian or sub-Christian views, or the formulation of biblical doctrines.

STUDENT SERVICES

Office of Student Services

The Office of Student Services is responsible for special services and programs designed to complement the formal education environment for students. The office is open to individuals for expression of their needs and concerns. Services provided by this office include new student orientation and assistance with grievances involving students. The Office of International Student Services and the Office of Women's Concerns are part of the larger structure of the Office of Student Services. The office also edits and distributes the weekly campus newsletter (The SEMI).

Health Services

Health services available include helping students make the best use of their Fuller health insurance and assistance in finding quality care at affordable prices. Entrance into the community's health care system is facilitated by referrals to local physicians and medical services.

Fuller offers two student insurance plans for students and their families through outside insurance carriers (one a health maintenance organization). Insurance can be purchased quarterly or annually with payment made at registration.

International Student Services

International Student Services, a branch of the Office of Student Services, provides a wide range of assistance to international students who come to Fuller on visas, as well as to resident aliens studying at the Seminary. Services include immigration assistance (visa papers and related processes), orientation to American culture, guidance for personal and financial issues that arise when studying in the United States, help with furnishings, utensils, and other needed household items (for students from overseas), and social activities for international students and families. An international student orientation manual gives practical information on a variety of aspects of life at Fuller Seminary and in the community. Every effort is made to assist international students as they prepare to come to Fuller and as they adjust to American life.

Women’s Concerns

The Office of Women’s Concerns exists to provide professional, personal, and academic support for women at Fuller, and to serve as an advocate for women on campus at all levels. The Office of Women’s Concerns sponsors the annual Women’s Lectureship. For students interested in pursuing research on women’s issues, the Office of Women’s Concerns maintains a research center in the library with catalogued copies of articles and research papers dealing with women. Personal and career counseling are available to all women at Fuller, and opportunities for support come through planned retreats, lectures and panel presentations, and social events. Women students are encouraged to prepare for whatever form of ministry for which they are gifted and called. Graduates are now ministering as pastors, teachers, counselors, psychologists and missionaries, and in a wide variety of other ministries around the world.

Student representatives from each school and each program serve on the Women’s Concerns Committee, which works with the Office of Women’s Concerns to plan programs and events to meet the needs of women students at Fuller. These committees in turn meet with other groups of women on campus to provide a wide representation of needs and interests.

Community Life Program

The Community Life Program is designed to enhance the quality of residential life for residents living in Seminary-owned housing near the campus. These housing units are served by Community Coordinators who foster relationships and develop activities that promote community building among residents. Community Coordinators work in cooperation with the Housing Office and other campus departments which serve residents. They actively represent the needs and concerns of building residents, and serve as resource people in emergencies.

Academic Advising

Fuller Theological Seminary offers a unique program of academic advising to students in the School of Theology, the School of World Mission and the marriage and family division of the School of Psychology. Advisors are current or former students specially trained to assist students with the structuring of a program of study and the quarterly selection of classes. Advisors work throughout the year to serve students in such areas as evaluation of transfer credit, clarification of academic policies, assistance with petitions and other special needs and exploration of vocational and academic goals. These advisors are also available to help prospective students with information regarding degree programs, transfer credit, and other questions.

Students in the clinical psychology division of the School of Psychology are mentored by faculty members but advised with regard to the psychology portion of their curriculum by a trained advisor. They also are advised by a specially trained student advisor in the School of Theology academic advising office with regard to the theology portion of their curriculum.

Financial Aid

Fuller Theological Seminary is committed to doing everything possible to help eligible students meet their financial needs. The Office of Financial Aid provides year-round counseling and assistance in obtaining financial aid of various kinds. The Seminary offers limited direct financial assistance in several forms. Grant-in-aid funds are available each year to qualified students in the three schools. Special funds are available to assist African-Americans and Hispanic Americans in the School of Theology with their tuition. A team ministry grant is available to married couples with demonstrated financial need when both are students with regular acceptance and good standing in master’s-level programs in the Schools of Theology or World Mission. The Office of Financial Aid also provides assistance to students in obtaining loan and grant funds from a variety of outside sources.

Housing Services

Fuller Theological Seminary is committed to provide Fuller-owned or Fuller-leased housing for as many students as possible. Approximately 550 unfurnished apartments in several complexes convenient to campus provide single, married and family housing. An emphasis is placed on the development of Christian fellowship among neighbors. Housing Services also offers assistance in locating alternative housing in the area. Housing Services maintains contact with many property owners who prefer to rent houses or apartments to Fuller students, and coordinates information regarding students seeking roommates, houses shared in Christian community living, housing/employment offers, and rooms in private homes. A copy of these community listings, updated weekly, is available for a nominal charge from Housing Services. A limited number of furnished apartments are also available for the temporary usage of students or their guests.

Placement Services

Assistance in the placement of students and alumni/ae is provided by the Office of Career Services. Anyone in the Fuller community may utilize the services of this office for finding partner full-time employment during their seminary years, as well as for career placement at graduation and beyond. The Office of Career Services maintains up-to-date listings of a wide variety of job opportunities, and coordinates opportunities to interview both on and off campus for prospective job openings. The Alumni/ae Placement Bulletin, published monthly, keeps graduates informed of current positions available.

Counseling Resources

Fuller Theological Seminary is concerned about each student as an individual. Faculty members are available at stated times during the week for conferences. Academic advisors are also available for help and counsel. Career counseling can be obtained through the Office of Career Services.

Professional help may sometimes be needed by students and their families in dealing with problems of an emotional, social or interpersonal nature. Fuller Psychological and Family Services (FPFS), sponsored by The Psychological Center of the Graduate School of Psychology at Fuller, provides such services as psychological evaluation and assessment, psychotherapy and counseling on matters such as marriage, family and interpersonal relationships. Broad approaches are implemented in an attempt to treat the whole person. Recognizing the financial needs of students and their families, these services are available on a sliding fee scale. Referrals may also be given to local Christian therapists in private practice.

STUDENT ORGANIZATIONS AND ACTIVITIES

All Seminary Council and Graduate Unions

The student body is constitutionally organized as the "Associated Students of Fuller Theological Seminary." This organization reflects the structure of the institution. Students from the Schools of Theology, Psychology and World Mission elect representatives to their particular Graduate Union. Each Graduate Union represents needs, interests and opinions which are of concern to the students it represents. Graduate Unions have their own by-laws and elect representatives annually.

Whereas the Graduate Unions represent the academic, professional and social needs of students within their respective schools, the All Seminary Council responds to issues and needs that concern the entire student community. The entire student body annually elects the two members of the All Seminary Council Cabinet (president and vice-president). Two representatives from each Graduate Union serve on the Council, as well as representatives from Multicultural Concerns, Women's Concerns, International Students Concerns, Mission Concerns, and Peace and Justice Concerns Committees. The All Seminary Council and the Graduate Unions work closely with the administrative processes of the Seminary. Student representatives appointed by the Council or Graduate Unions serve on Seminary committees and on faculty committees in each of the three schools, as well as on Board of Trustees committees.

Multicultural Concerns Committee

The Multicultural Concerns Committee seeks to support persons who are attempting to integrate their cultural distinctives with their education at Fuller. The committee seeks to do this by promoting ethnic awareness and cultural sensitivity within all three schools. A primary goal of the Multicultural Concerns Committee is to challenge and affect the Fuller community and the community at large through various forums which are specifically designed to stimulate growth and creative investigation into the areas of cultural intersection. The Committee seeks to represent the broad range of ethnic and cultural identities represented on campus and in the community.
International Students Concerns Committee

The International Students Concerns Committee is a special-interest group sponsored by the All Seminary Council. This committee seeks to include in its membership representatives from all identified international student groups at Fuller. The chairperson of this committee serves on the All Seminary Council and provides advocacy for the needs and concerns of international students in All Seminary Council discussions and projects. The International Students Concerns Committee seeks to promote a sense of identity among international students to assist them in their adjustment to life at Fuller, and to serve as a facilitator of fellowship among international students and a bridge with the North American students to build a supportive community together.

Mission Concerns Committee

The Mission Concerns Committee, sponsored by the All Seminary Council and composed of students from all three schools, seeks to promote awareness of mission on the Fuller campus. The Mission Concerns Committee seeks to help each student identify his or her part in the cause of worldwide evangelization. The Committee sponsors mission prayer groups and organizes a number of events to stimulate the interest of the Fuller Community in cross-cultural ministries. The Mission Concerns Committee also sponsors short-term overseas mission internships, with the assistance of the Fuller Student Fund.

Peace and Justice Committee

The Peace and Justice Committee was envisioned and initiated by students concerned about issues of ethical and social importance. The Committee encourages the Fuller Community to become more sensitive to and aware of the social and ethical problems facing contemporary society. It acts as a resource whereby every student may be better informed of areas of acute human need, be assisted in his or her own struggle to work through the implications of the gospel for contemporary social issues, and become actively engaged in meeting human needs and addressing social and ethical issues. The Committee sponsors campus forums, outside speakers, information displays, and community activities. Through the Fuller Student Fund, the Peace and Justice Committee sponsors scholarships for students engaged in a variety of summer internships relating to social justice.

Women's Concerns Committee

The Women's Concerns Committee serves as an advocacy group for the academic, professional and personal needs of women students at Fuller. The Committee seeks to build bridges of communication and support between women and men on campus through guest speakers, faculty/student panels, and facilitation of small groups. Education, social events, and spiritual nurture are major areas of focus for the Committee. Working in conjunction with the All Seminary Council and the Office of Women's Concerns, the Women's Concerns Committee addresses the particular needs and concerns facing women preparing for ministry, and provides assistance to both men and women in understanding equality in the body of Christ.

Computer Lab

As a service to Fuller students, the All Seminary Council has established a computer lab on the fourth floor of McAllister Library. For a low quarterly fee, students may make use of Macintosh computer equipment and software and take advantage of opportunities for special training. In addition, computer equipment and software may be purchased through the Bookstore at substantially discounted prices.

Sports Program

In an effort to aid in building and strengthening community as well as physical well-being, the All Seminary Council sponsors an intramural sports program, offering a wide range of both team and individual sports for men and women. Coed team sports include flag football and soccer (fall quarter), volleyball and basketball (winter quarter), and ultimate frisbee and softball (spring quarter). The Council has negotiated low membership fees for students and their families at the nearby Foothill YMCA and the San Marino/South Pasadena YMCA, which provide excellent recreational facilities. In addition, limited use of the Pasadena Athletic Club has been arranged on a quarterly basis at a substantially reduced membership cost.

The Catalyst

Established by the students in 1977, the Catalyst offers sandwiches, coffee and other foods in a pleasant, informal setting. Rental of the facilities for private uses or Seminary-related functions may be arranged through the All Seminary Council office.
Fuller Wives

SUPPORT (Student Wives Uniting, Praying, Preparing, Overcoming, Renewed Together) is a support group designed to strengthen and encourage seminary wives in their various roles and ministries in the Body of Christ and in their personal and spiritual growth. The group provides support and fellowship through Bible study groups, support groups, a prayer chain, and childcare for some group activities.

FOCUS is a group committed to focusing on the needs of Fuller wives by supporting and sharing with one another in a small and large group setting. They offer fellowship, celebrations and workshops for the women who have an important and unique role as individuals and as part of a married team going through the rigors and joys of graduate school.

The Fuller Student Fund

The Fuller Student Fund is supported by students to help other students. The contributions given during registration are used to provide scholarships for summer ministry and mission. The fund is administered by the All Seminary Council through its Concerns Committees.

CAMPUS FACILITIES AND SERVICES

Fuller Theological Seminary is located in the heart of downtown Pasadena at Oakland Avenue and Ford Place. The campus is situated in the center of a large metropolitan area with outstanding schools, libraries, cultural interests, and recreational and employment opportunities.

Administrative and Classroom Facilities.

The offices of the president and provost are in Slesser Hall. Payton Hall houses office of the dean and many of the faculty of the School of Theology, a number of classrooms, the mailroom and refectory.

The administration and faculty of the School of Theology also occupy a building complex on the Arol Burns Mall and Ford Place, including Taylor Hall, which houses the African-American and Hispanic Ministers programs.

The offices of the various programs of Continuing and Extended Education, including the Doctor of Ministry program, Extended Education, the Lowell Berry Foundation and the Institute for Christian Organizational Development are grouped together in a single building at the corner of Oakland and Walnut.

Kresge Hall, an addition completed in 1972, joins the McAlister Library with Payton Hall. It provides administrative, advising, and faculty offices for the School of World Mission. Other School of World Mission Offices are located in Glasser Hall on the Arol Burns Mall.

In the fall of 1986, the School of Psychology moved into a new three-story building. This structure houses offices for administration, faculty, and student interns, The Psychological Center (including a number of clinics), and a psychophysiological laboratory, as well as classrooms and an auditorium for the Seminary at large.

McAlister Library. The McAlister Library houses over 203,000 cataloged volumes— as well as an extensive collection of periodicals, journals and other resource materials—on five floors.

Student Services. The offices of a variety of student services are located in a collection of buildings facing Barker Commons and the central mall. These include the Office of Admissions and the Registrar’s Office (Academic Services Building); Theology Academic Advising and Financial Aid (Stephan Hall); Career Services, Field Education, Denominational Relations, the Office of Presbyterian Ministries, the American Baptist Theological Center, and the Theological Education Agency of the Reformed Church in America (Carnell Hall); Student Services, Women’s Concerns, the Office of Christian Community, the All Seminary Council and Graduate Union offices, (Kreyssler Hall); and the International Students Services Office.

Housing. Approximately 550 apartments in several complexes convenient to campus and owned or leased by the Seminary provide housing for single students, couples and families. Other housing facilities and services are described above under “Student Services.”

Refectory. The Refectory, located in Payton Hall, provides breakfast and lunch Monday through Friday (except holidays) during the academic year.

Bookstore. The Seminary operates a well-stocked bookstore for the benefit of students, alumni/ae, faculty and the public. Quality theological publications of value for all aspects of ministry are available at a discount, and students have limited charge privileges. Apple Macintosh computer equipment and software is also available to students at substantially discounted prices.

Handicapped Students. The Seminary endeavors to respond to the special needs of handicapped students. Ramps and elevators provide access to most campus offices and classrooms. Special efforts are made to schedule classes in facilities which provide access for handicapped students, and parking places are reserved in all campus parking areas.

Standards for Admission

In general, applicants must have a baccalaureate degree or its equivalent from an institution that is accredited by a recognized regional or national accreditation body before they can be admitted to master's degree programs at Fuller Theological Seminary. Requirements for admission are described under each degree program in the various sections of this catalog. Admission is granted to a specific program and not to the Seminary or School at large.

Applicants who are not citizens of the United States or whose native language is not English must also meet admissions criteria as described below in sections regarding International Students and English Language Requirements.

It should be understood that admission to Fuller depends on factors beyond the applicant's academic record. These factors include theological development, Christian experience, spiritual growth, call to service and gifts for ministry. Men and women of God are qualified for Christian ministry by faith, moral character, experience and academic achievement. Such people are characterized by compassion for individual persons, by sensitivity to the needs of the total community, by a burden that the whole of God's will be obeyed on earth, by a readiness to accept correction, by a desire for moral growth, by personal integrity, and above all, by a mature trust in Jesus Christ as the foundation of life and ministry.

The Seminary reserves the right to draw conclusions regarding the evangelical, Christian profession of all applicants. This determination will be made on the basis of the statements of Christian faith given in the application. Such statements are a significant factor in the admissions decision.

The Seminary also reserves the right to admit or deny admission to any non-Christian or non-evangelical individual or any individual from an organization having a theological stance which is not in accord with the Seminary's Statement of Faith. While desiring to maintain flexibility in admission to its programs, the institution will not compromise the integrity of its purpose and Statement of Faith by admitting students whose orientation may be disruptive or may confound the academic freedom of fellow students or faculty.

Fuller Theological Seminary admits students of any race, color, gender, national or ethnic origin to all the rights, privileges, programs and activities generally accorded or made available to students of the Seminary. It does not discriminate on the basis of race, gender, color, national or ethnic origin in the administration of its educational policies, loan programs, and athletic and other Seminary-administered programs.

Categories of Admission

In addition to full admission to regular degree programs, a limited number of students may also be admitted under one of the following classifications:

- Limited Enrollment Student: one who is qualified for regular admission but wants to take no more than five master's-level courses (20 units);
- Unclassified Student: one who is academically qualified for admission, wants to take an unlimited number of master's-level courses, but does not want to pursue a degree program;
- Special Student: one who does not meet the academic requirements for regular admission, unclassified or limited enrollment student status at the master's level, but is at least thirty-one years of age and has had at least ten years of ministry experience;
- Visiting Student: one who is currently enrolled as a graduate student in good standing at another graduate institution, but wants to have transcript evidence of coursework done at Fuller for transfer to the school of primary enrollment.

Application for Admission

A Request for Application form is included at the back of this catalog. Applications may be obtained by returning the request form or by writing or phoning the Admissions Office. Different programs of the Seminary have different applications; it is important to request the application for a specific program and to make sure it is the correct application before submitting it.
Admission is granted to a specific program and not to the Seminary or a school at large. All forms should be completed and returned to the Admissions Office as soon as possible, and no later than the application deadline for the quarter for which admission is sought (see below). The nonrefundable application fee is $50.00 for degree programs as well as special and unclassified admission, and $25.00 for all other classifications. Complete application instructions are included with the application packet.

The School of Psychology and the Doctor of Philosophy program in the School of Theology require scores from the aptitude portion of the Graduate Record Examination (GRE). GRE information is available from most colleges or by writing GRE, Educational Testing Services, P.O. Box 6000, Princeton, NJ 08541-6000. GRE scores over five years old are not acceptable. The Division of Marriage and Family of the School of Psychology will accept the Miller Analogies Test (MAT) in lieu of the GRE. Information may be obtained from most colleges or by writing MAT, The Psychological Corporation, 555 Academic Court, San Antonio, TX 78204-3959.

Application Deadlines and Notification of Acceptance

Most programs in the Schools of Theology and World Mission have quarterly application deadlines approximately 30 days before the beginning of the quarter for regular and special admission. For 1994-95, they are as follows:

- Fall Quarter 1994 – August 26, 1994
- Winter Quarter 1995 – December 5, 1994
- Spring Quarter 1995 – February 27, 1995
- Summer Quarter 1995 – May 19, 1995
- Fall Quarter 1995 – August 25, 1995

The African-American Ministers program admits students only in the Fall and Spring quarters, with the above deadlines applicable.

Students who miss the application deadline for a particular quarter may still seek late admission. Admission requirements are the same as those for regular acceptance, and is not available to those applying for admission as special students. Late admission is valid for one quarter only.

Decisions of the Admissions Committee will normally be announced within four weeks of the completion of an application file. Some programs require that a matriculation fee be paid within 30 days of notification of acceptance. The matriculation fee is nonrefundable, but will be applied toward the first quarter's tuition. Failure to pay this fee within the stated time may result in a cancellation of the student's acceptance in order to offer the position to another student.

Competitive programs generally admit students only in the Fall Quarter of each year. The application deadlines for these programs are as follows:

If openings are available, the Division of Marriage and Family will give consideration to exceptional applicants for the Winter, Spring or Summer Quarters. Application files must be complete two months prior to the beginning of the quarter. Please refer to the academic calendar at the end of this catalog for the beginning dates of these quarters. Conditions of such an admission are described in the Marriage and Family section of this catalog.

International Students

The term “international students” is used at Fuller to denote both internationals who come on visas to study at Fuller as well as those who are legal permanent residents of the United States.

International students who do not have permanent resident status in the United States will be considered for admission to Fuller Theological Seminary only if they can meet the requirements of a financial guarantee for themselves and all dependents who are accompanying them to the United States. The financial guarantee must be from the source(s) that will actually provide the funds for study and living expenses. This can be done by (a) showing that they are sponsored by a responsible Christian organization which will commit itself to guarantee the necessary support and round-trip transportation for the student and his or her dependents (if they are to accompany the student to the Seminary), or (b) demonstrating by a letter from a bank or savings institution that the student has on deposit sufficient funds to cover tuition, other school fees, living expenses for the student and family, and round-trip airfare, or (c) providing the same proof from other individuals or organizations who wish to contribute to the student’s support that there are sufficient funds available to cover their financial commitment. If the dependents are remaining in their home country, the Seminary strongly recommends that appropriate financial arrangements be made to care for them during the entire time the student is away, in addition to the student’s expenses in the United States.

International applicants should submit their applications at least six months prior to the quarter in which they intend to enroll. The application file should be completed (including transcripts, financial guarantees, etc.) at least 60 days before the planned date of arrival in order to allow time for the student to receive the visa application papers. International applicants may be required to submit official documentation of secondary (high school or equivalent) as well as postsecondary (college level) education.

Appropriate visa application forms will be sent to the student. The student may be required to deposit in advance a portion of the financial guarantee with the Seminary to ensure that sufficient funds are available for initial housing and registration expenses upon the student’s arrival in the United States. Questions regarding visas should be addressed to the Immigration Counselor in the International Student Services Office.

International students on F and J visas are required to maintain valid immigration status throughout their stay at Fuller in order to remain in good standing with the Seminary. These visas are only available for study at the Seminary’s Pasadena campus.
English Language Requirements

In addition to the specified admission requirements for each degree program, each applicant who does not speak English as a first language is required to take the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) examination to determine English language proficiency. Most applicants can obtain the TOEFL Bulletin by writing to TOEFL, P.O. Box 6154, Princeton, NJ, 08541-6154, USA. Students in Europe, Hong Kong, India, the Middle East (except Israel), North Africa, Republic of China and Taiwan must obtain a TOEFL Information Bulletin locally. Since tests are given on a limited basis each year, and preregistration is required, the student should allow sufficient time for the results to be included in the admission process. A score of 550 on the TOEFL examination is required for acceptance to most programs; a score of 600 is required for the Th.M. program in the School of Theology and doctoral programs in the Schools of Theology and Psychology. Applicants to master's-level programs in the School of Theology or School of World Mission who score at least 500 and are otherwise qualified for admission may apply through Fuller's English as a Second Language program (see below).

An applicant may petition to waive the TOEFL requirement if a degree was earned recently from a recognized institution where English was the language of instruction. A letter of verification is required from the registrar or other academic official of the institution. The Admissions Committee will make the final decision on whether or not to waive the TOEFL requirement.

The faculty reserves the right to require any student whose first language is not English to suspend enrollment in regular classes and enroll in the English as a Second Language Program (see below) if it is determined by the faculty upon matriculation or anytime thereafter that the student is experiencing academic difficulty due to lack of graduate level proficiency with the English language, regardless of the student’s TOEFL score or the granting of a waiver.

English as a Second Language Program

The English as a Second Language (ESL) program at Fuller Seminary is designed to help students facilitate their transition to Fuller's graduate-level studies in English. It is intended for master's-level applicants in the School of Theology or School of World Mission who score between 500 and 549 on the TOEFL examination. To be eligible for this program, applicants must be qualified for admission to a particular degree or nondegree program in every other way.

There are two levels in the program, the High Intermediate Level and the Advanced Level. Eligibility for each level is based on the applicant's TOEFL score and the results of a placement test. Each level consists of a full quarter of full-time ESL studies, including courses in reading and writing, speaking and listening, culture and communication, and auditing a selected master's-level class in Fuller's regular curriculum. The High Intermediate Level also includes a course in Theological English. Students admitted to the High Intermediate Level must pass this level before proceeding to the Advanced Level. Students who successfully complete the Advanced Level may then enroll in regular master's-level classes for academic credit.

For those classes dropped by the end of the second week of classes, the refund is 75 percent; for those dropped the third week of classes the refund is 50 percent; for those dropped the fourth week of classes the refund is 25 percent. No refund is made for classes dropped after the fourth week of classes. Courses are added at the full rate. There is no refund of audit charges. For courses offered in one-week intensive sessions, there is a 100 percent refund if the course is dropped by the end of the first day; a 75 percent refund on the second day; and a 50 percent refund if dropped on the third day. No refund will be made thereafter. Courses are added at the full rate. There is no refund of audit charges.

For courses offered in two-week intensive sessions, there is a 100 percent refund if the course is dropped by the end of the second day; a 75 percent refund on the third day; a 50 percent refund if dropped on the fourth day; and a 25 percent refund if the course is dropped on the fifth day of class. No refund will be made thereafter. Courses are added at the full rate. There is no refund of audit charges.

For courses offered in the five-week intensive sessions, there is a 100 percent refund if the course is dropped by the end of the third day; a 75 percent refund through Monday of the second week; a 50 percent refund through Wednesday of the second week; and a 25 percent refund through Monday of the third week. No refund will be made thereafter. Courses are added at the full rate. There is no refund of audit charges.

In all cases, any applicable refunds are based on the date that an official drop form, signed by an academic advisor, is received in the Registrar's Office.

School of Psychology. In instances where a clinical division doctoral student withdraws, there is no refund of tuition for that particular quarter. Refund of tuition for students in the marriage and family division follows the same pattern as the Schools of Theology and World Mission (above).

Extended Education. A separate tuition refund policy applies to classes offered through Fuller's Extended Education centers. See the Continuing and Extended Education section of this catalog for details.

Government Loans and Tuition Refund. Students who have received government loan monies (i.e., Perkins, Stafford, and HEAL) for quarters in which they enroll less than half-time may owe a refund to their lender. Contact the Office of Financial Aid for details.

Tuition Payment Policy

A deferred payment plan is available for those students with a satisfactory payment history who are not able to pay the total charges at the time of registration. A $15 deferred payment service fee allows the student to pay a minimum of $200 (plus any optional fees) at registration. Student account balances must be paid in full prior to registration for the next quarter. Interest on deferred payment balances will accrue from the beginning of the month after registration at the current interest rate set by the Seminary. This plan is available only to those registered for academic credit (not auditors).

Overdue Accounts Policy

Students whose tuition, housing or bookstore accounts are not current will not be able to register for the next quarter, receive diplomas or have transcripts issued. Persons whose accounts are not current may be subject to legal collection procedures.

Disenrollment Policy

The Seminary reserves the right to disenroll a student in any of the following situations: (1) Payment for registration was made by a check not backed by sufficient funds; (2) Registration was not accompanied by adequate payment (including previous balance and appropriate down payment on new charges, or payment in full in cases where such payment is required); (3) Student registered for more units than approved by the Manager of Student Accounts, when permission for limited registration has been given based on previous balance or payment history; (4) Student is found to have a delinquent account in the Bookstore or Housing Office at the time of registration and has evaded, falsified or inadvertently obtained registration clearance from either office.

In most cases, the student will be permitted five working days to remedy the situation before being disenrolled. In the case of repeated offenses, however, the Seminary reserves the right to disenroll the student immediately.

In all cases, once the student has been disenrolled, reenrollment for that quarter will not be granted even if the situation is subsequently resolved. Future enrollment will depend on whatever conditions are imposed by the office(s) involved as necessitated by the situation.

FINANCIAL AID

Fuller Theological Seminary is committed to doing everything possible to help eligible students meet their financial needs.

Through employment, loans and grants, the Seminary seeks to alleviate financial need. Before grants are considered, it is expected that a student will provide a reasonable part of the total amount required to meet expenses by seeking employment and/or loan funds.

The Seminary provides limited assistance in finding employment for students and spouses. There are generally a number of openings for on-campus employment (including college work-study positions for eligible students), and employers in the area frequently contact the Seminary to report employment opportunities for students and their spouses. There are also numerous church-related jobs available in the area, although many of these involve internships and are generally not recommended for first-year students. In accepting employment of any kind, however, it is understood that the student will not exceed the number of hours commensurate with the demands of his or her academic load, family responsibilities, etc.

In many instances, the parents of students cannot be expected to be of financial assistance. However, parental financial information may be required on applications for federal, state or institutionally-funded programs unless certain independency criteria are met. It is anticipated that the student will seek and obtain help from the family when it is feasible. In some cases, assistance can be expected and should be sought from the home church, denominational headquarters and other interested groups.

Financial Aid Application

Any student desiring a loan or grant is required to complete the proper forms for student aid. The appropriate forms are available to prospective students after they have applied to a degree program. Students entering the M.A. or M.Div. programs of the School of Theology, all programs of the School of World Mission, and the marriage and family programs of the School of Psychology should request grant applications through the Office of Financial Aid. Students studying in the Seminar’s Extended Education areas should contact their local Area Director for information regarding limited tuition assistance. Students in the clinical psychology programs of the School of Psychology should apply directly to that division for grant assistance. Ph.D. students in the School of Theology may apply for graduate assistantships and limited merit-based scholarship funds through the Center for Advanced Theological Studies. Loan applications for students in all degree programs of all three schools, both in Pasadena and in Extended Education areas, are processed through the Office of Financial Aid.

Grants-In-Aid

In general, the Seminary does not offer scholarships in the usual sense of that term, i.e., grants made on the basis of outstanding academic achievement. The Seminary does have limited funds available for grants made primarily on the basis of need, as demonstrated on the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA), with proper consideration of future promise and academic standing.

In addition, students in the Schools of Theology and Psychology desiring and receiving grants must be enrolled as regular students in a degree program, and must make satisfactory progress in their educational pursuits.

Team Ministry

A team ministry grant is available to married couples with demonstrated need if both are students with regular acceptance and good standing in the M.A. or M.Div. programs of the School of Theology or the M.A. or Th.M. programs of the School of World Mission. Applications are available from the Office of Financial Aid. Under this program, eligible couples pay full rate for the first 16 units of their combined tuition in any given quarter, and receive a grant equal to 75% of the cost of their tuition beyond the first 16 units. If one spouse is taking more than 16 units, the team ministry grant for the extra units beyond 16 for the one person must be approved by the Office of Financial Aid. Only units taken on the Pasadena campus are eligible for the team ministry benefit.

If both students are in the School of Psychology, both apply individually for School of Psychology grant-in-aid. Spouses of School of Psychology students enrolled in School of Theology courses apply individually in the School of Theology.

In addition to team ministry, couples may apply for any of the endowed scholarships from which grant awards are based on specific criteria established by donors, as well as financial need. Aside from these special endowed grants, the team ministry grant represents the maximum grant available to a married couple studying at the Seminary.

Spouses of students are also eligible for special audit benefits. See Auditing Courses under the Registration heading in this section of the catalog.

Loans

The following are loan sources available to eligible Fuller students. Applicants for federally funded loan or grant programs must be U.S. citizens, permanent residents or residents of the Trust Territories, must be in compliance with Selective Service laws, must be enrolled at least half-time as regular students in a degree program, must maintain satisfactory academic progress, and must not owe a refund to or be in default on any Title IV loan. In addition, in accordance with Section 428 of the Department of Education’s Higher Education Technical Amendments of 1991, Fuller Seminary reserves the right to refuse to certify an otherwise eligible borrower’s loan application on the following grounds: (1) poor credit history; (2) high indebtedness relative to the student’s anticipated income; or (3) any other factors suggesting an unwillingness or inability of the student to pay his or her student loans. In cases where the Seminary refuses to certify a borrower’s loan application, the reason for such action will be documented and provided to the student in writing.

The terms of federally funded programs change frequently, and the Office of Financial Aid can supply the most recent information upon request. Verification of financial information is required (e.g., base year federal tax return).

Perkins Loans. These loans are jointly funded by the federal government and the Seminary. No interest accrues while the student is enrolled at least half-time, and payment does not begin until six to nine months following graduation or withdrawal. Funds are limited in this program, and are therefore available only to those persons with exceptional need.

Subsidized Stafford Student Loans. These loans may be obtained through financial institutions and are guaranteed privately or by the state in which the loan is granted. Payment is deferred and interest is paid by the federal government while the student is enrolled at least half-time. Repayment begins six months after the student graduates or drops to less than half-time enrollment.

Unsubsidized Stafford Student Loans. These loans are available to students who may not qualify for a Subsidized Stafford Student Loan. Based upon cost of attendance, the interest on these loans is the responsibility of the borrower and begins to accumulate from the date of disbursement. Other provisions of these loans are the same as for the Subsidized Stafford Loans. The combined total of all such loans may not exceed Stafford limits.

Health Education Assistance Loans. These loans are available only to clinical students in the School of Psychology. Interest begins accruing upon disbursement. The student may make semiannual interest payments or defer interest payments, in which case the interest may be compounded. Repayment of principal and interest begins nine months after the student graduates or enrolls less than full-time.

Commercial Educational Loans. These loans are offered by various financial institutions and are in addition to and distinct from the federally-funded loan programs. Terms vary among plans. The most recent information is available from the Office of Financial Aid.

Fuller Seminary Short-Term Loans. These loans are designed to meet emergency needs and are without interest if repaid within 60 days. They are not designed to pay tuition, bookstore or housing accounts, and depend upon funds available. Application may be made in the Office of Financial Aid.

Other Sources

California Graduate Fellowship. The California Graduate Fellowship offers full tuition and required fees up to $6,490. Application is made annually in early March. Awards are for one year only, but can often be renewed for up to three years. Applicants must be California residents who can demonstrate their intent to become university or college faculty members.

Qualification is based heavily on level of parental income and education, as well on Graduate Record Exam scores, grade point average, and other factors.

The Fund for Theological Education. The FTE provides North American Ministerial Fellowships to outstanding seminarians who are willing to give serious vocational consideration to ordained ministry. Persons already attending theological schools are not eligible. Candidates must be nominated by a member of the clergy, faculty or administration, or a former Fund Fellow. Direct applications are not accepted. Nominations must be received by The Fund for Theological Education no later than November 10 of the year prior to attendance.

Government Agencies. Students eligible for veteran’s benefits may receive those benefits for training in most programs at Fuller. Information is available from the veterans affairs advisor in the Registrar’s Office. Students with physical disabilities may qualify for assistance from their state’s vocational rehabilitation agency.

Scholarships and Awards. There are a limited number of scholarships and awards given to Fuller students in recognition of achievement in various areas. These are described more fully in the first section of this catalog. They are awarded by academic divisions and departments of the Seminary on the basis of performance in Fuller classes. There are no applications for these scholarships and awards.
REGISTRATION

Orientation

For students entering in the Fall Quarter, the course of study at Fuller begins with orientation, which is held the week before regular (ten-week) classes begin (see calendar). Entering students in all three schools are expected to attend. The orientation program introduces the student to seminary life and theological training and provides an experience of Christian community.

Winter, Spring and Summer orientation programs are normally scheduled on one day prior to the first day of classes. All students entering these quarters are expected to attend. Students who enter in the winter or spring quarters may attend the week-long orientation in the fall. Students who enter in the Summer Quarter are expected to attend the Fall Quarter orientation.

Registration for Classes

Regular attendance in any Seminary class is not permitted unless the person is registered for the class.

The following paragraphs describe Pasadena campus registration. For information on registration in Extended Education, see the Continuing and Extended Education section of this catalog.

Fall registration for new students is held during the week immediately preceding the first day of regular classes (see calendar), and is a part of the new student orientation program.

Registration for new students for Winter, Spring, or Summer Quarters takes place on the scheduled orientation day, usually the Friday before the first week of the quarter, or the day before classes start; see the Academic Calendar in this catalog for the dates of new student registration in these quarters. For returning students, registration for these quarters is normally scheduled during the eighth week of the previous quarter.

Registration priority times are assigned each quarter on the basis of each student’s accumulated credits and other factors. Students may not register in advance of their assigned times. Students whose accounts are not current will not be permitted to register for classes unless special arrangements have been made with the coordinator of student accounts prior to the week of registration. Students are required to pay a minimum of $200 plus any optional fees at the time of registration; students with a satisfactory payment history may defer the remaining charges.

All students must meet with their academic advisor prior to their scheduled registration. An academic advisor will be assigned to each incoming student during orientation. A completed and approved class request card, provided by the academic advisor, is required for registration. Any course change must be approved in writing by the academic advisor before the change can be made in the Registrar’s Office.

Registration for courses occurring before the regular registration periods described above is done through Self-Registration Packets available from the academic advising offices (see below for deadlines).

Registration Deadlines

Registrations involving any ten-week classes (including independent studies, field education, practica, thesis or dissertation, continuation, and any other enrollment that does not have a regular schedule of meetings) must be received in the Registrar’s Office or Extended Education Office by the end of the first week of the ten-week quarter. A late registration fee will be charged if the registration is not received prior to the first day of the first week of the quarter.

Registration for a one-week intensive course must be received no later than Monday of the week of the intensive session. A late registration fee will be charged if the registration is not received prior to the first day of the first week of the session.

Registration for a two-week intensive course must be received no later than Tuesday of the first week of the intensive session. A late registration fee will be charged if the registration is not received prior to the first day of the first week of the session.

Registration for a five-week intensive course must be received no later than Wednesday of the first week of the intensive session. A late registration fee will be charged if the registration is not received prior to the first day of the first week of the session.

A special set of registration deadlines and late charges apply to Extended Education courses. See the Continuing and Extended Education section of this catalog for further information.

Course Changes

After registration has been completed, courses are added or dropped through the Registrar’s Office or Extended Education Office with a service charge of $5.00 for each change or set of changes made at the same time. Course changes must be approved in writing by the student’s academic advisor before the change can be made. No course has been officially added or dropped until the change has been recorded on the student’s permanent record.
Students are permitted to add ten-week courses through the first week of each quarter only. In a one-week intensive session, courses may be added only through the end of the first day; in a two-week intensive session, courses may be added through the end of the second day; and in a five-week session, courses may be added through the end of Wednesday of the first week.

Students are permitted to drop ten-week courses through the end of the fifth week of the quarter. One-week intensive courses may be dropped through the third day (Wednesday); two-week intensive courses may be dropped through Friday of the first week; and five-week intensive courses may be dropped through Wednesday of the third week. In no case is a student ever dropped automatically from any class (except through administrative disenrollment; see above). The student must initiate the drop process through his or her academic advisor and the Registrar’s Office. See above in this section for the refund policy for dropped courses.

A special set of course change deadlines apply to Extended Education courses. See the Continuing and Extended Education section of this catalog for further information.

Auditing

Students enrolled in any degree program of the Seminary, or their spouses, are permitted to audit master's-level classes in all three Schools for a fee of $25 per course, as long as the student is enrolled for credit, or has been during the current academic year (fall through summer). Fuller graduates are invited to audit two master's level courses per year without charge. Active full-time pastors and missionaries are invited to audit any master's level course in the School of Theology or School of World Mission without charge for the first course. Subsequent courses may be audited for one-fourth of the current credit tuition fee. Other persons will be charged one-half of the current credit tuition fee. Enrollment as an auditor is subject to all limitations of class size, the priority of students enrolled for credit, and the exclusion of auditors from a particular class or a given type of class.

Any person who is not a current student must apply to audit and pay an audit application fee. Forms are available in the Admissions Office. Persons not enrolled as students at the Seminary who wish to audit classes must normally hold a B.A. degree or its equivalent. Audits are not recorded on the transcripts of students in degree programs.

Continuing Education Units

Many courses at Fuller can be taken for Continuing Education Units (noncredit units). One Continuing Education Unit (CEU) is defined as ten contact hours of satisfactory participation in an approved course or seminar. The CEU system provides a uniform measurement and record of non-credit post-secondary-level study. Professionals in a variety of fields, such as pastors, Christian school teachers, nurses, denominational executives and leaders of parachurch organizations, can use the CEU records to verify an educational experience that has helped them maintain or improve their skills. Fuller's Council on Continuing Education can grant CEU recognition to any Seminary-sponsored course or seminar which meets CEU guidelines. The Seminary is licensed as a Provider of Continuing Education to Registered Nurses by the California State Board of Nursing (Provider No. 04149).

Participants in an approved Seminary-sponsored event may apply for CEUs only if they are not taking the course or seminar in question for academic credit (that is, they must be course auditors or participants in a noncredit special event). Under no circumstances will CEUs be transferred as academic credit.

ACADEMIC POLICIES

Current and detailed information concerning academic policies is provided by the student handbook. Further information is provided by special handbooks prepared for students in the School of Psychology, the School of World Mission, the Center for Advanced Theological Studies, and the Extended Education Program.

Changes are effected from time to time in the general regulations and academic policies. There are established procedures for making changes and for making such changes known to the students of the Seminary. A curriculum or graduation requirement, when altered, is not made retroactive unless the alteration is to the student's advantage and can be accommodated within the span of years normally required for graduation.

Each student is responsible for knowing and understanding current academic policies. Ignorance of a policy which appears in a student handbook or in the catalog is not a valid reason for granting an exception to any policy.
Residence Requirements and Transfer Credit

Residence requirements vary by degree program and are described in the appropriate sections of this catalog and in the student handbooks of the three schools. Subject to these limitations, Fuller normally accepts appropriate transfer credit from graduate institutions accredited by the Association of Theological Schools or regional accrediting associations. The Theology Academic Advising Office is responsible for all transfer credit granted in the School of Theology. Students in the School of World Mission and the School of Psychology should consult their academic advisor concerning transfer credit.

Satisfactory Academic Progress

Satisfactory academic progress is defined as "reasonable progress toward completion of an educational goal." The guidelines which follow (see especially Academic Standing and Academic Probation) have been established to define the minimum standards for satisfactory academic progress at Fuller Theological Seminary. Individual schools or programs may impose additional or more stringent standards. Details may be found in the various student or program handbooks.

Enrollment Status

Student enrollment status is defined on a quarterly basis in most of the programs of the Seminary. One unit of credit is defined as an academic designation denoting a minimum of 25-30 hours of classroom experience, academic preparation and research. In addition to the following definitions, special guidelines for enrollment certification pertain to certain classes and programs. Contact the Registrar's Office for details.

In all cases described below, all courses, in any of the three schools, on the Pasadena campus, at Extended Education sites, and in any other way that Fuller offers courses, are counted toward the both the minimum and maximum load.

Full-time Study. For master's level programs, both degree and nondegree, the minimum full-time study load is twelve (12) units per quarter. The maximum study load is twenty (20) units in any quarter.

In the Ph.D. programs in the Schools of Theology and World Mission and the D.Miss. program, eight (8) units per quarter is considered a full-time study load.

For Doctor of Ministry students, twelve (12) units in any given quarter constitutes full-time enrollment for that quarter and the following quarter. The maximum study load is twenty-four (24) units in any twelve-month period.

For doctoral students in the School of Psychology, the minimum full-time study load is twelve (12) units per quarter. For students in the Clinical Psychology Division, the maximum academic load is sixteen (16) units in any given quarter (including the Summer Quarter). The maximum load for doctoral students in the Marriage and Family Division is 20 units.

Half-Time Study. Six to eleven (6-11) units per quarter constitutes half-time status at the master's level, and in the doctoral programs in the School of Psychology. Half-time status for other Ph.D. programs, the D.Miss. program, and the Theology Th.M. program is defined as four to seven (4-7) units per quarter. In the D.Min. program, four to eight (4-8) units in any given quarter constitute half-time enrollment for that quarter and the following quarter.

International Students

International students are required to maintain valid immigration status throughout their stay at Fuller in order to remain in good standing with the Seminary. In most cases, this requires that the student be enrolled full-time for three consecutive quarters out of every year. A person whose immigration status is not valid is not considered a current student, and cannot register for classes, participate in Seminary activities, or apply for readmission or admission to other degree programs.

Absences and Withdrawal

In the event of absence, it is the student's responsibility to make necessary arrangements with the instructor. Faculty members decide their own policies concerning class attendance.

Whenever possible, students are expected to report to their academic advisor any anticipated extended absences. Students who do not expect to register for a given quarter (except Summer) should consult with their academic advisor. In some cases of extended absence, it may be necessary for the student to reapply for admission.

Students who expect to discontinue their work at the Seminary are expected to complete withdrawal forms, which require exit interviews from a variety of offices.

Academic Standing

To remain in good academic standing, students must have successfully completed 75% of the courses in which they enrolled prior to fall 1993, and have a cumulative grade point average (GPA) of 2.50 for all coursework. Grades which represent successful completion are A, A-, B+, B, B-, C+, C, C-, CR (Credit), P (Pass), or SA (Satisfactory). Grades which do not represent successful completion are I (Incomplete), F (Fail), and NC (No Credit).

In some programs, especially doctoral programs, higher standards for good academic standing in the program may apply. These higher standards are detailed in the appropriate student handbooks, and take precedence over the above standards.

Academic Probation

In the event that a student fails to meet the above standards for good academic standing, he or she will be placed on academic probation. Students whose cumulative grade point average falls below 2.00 may be subject to academic dismissal.

Appeal Process

Students may request exceptions to this policy, as noted above, by presenting a written description of their extenuating circumstances and their plan for establishment of good academic standing to the Academic Affairs Committee of their school for consideration. The student will be advised in writing of the decision after review by the committee.

Satisfactory Academic Progress and Financial Aid

Students must meet the Seminary’s minimum standards for satisfactory academic progress in order to qualify for financial aid.

Student Status and Financial Aid. Special students are ineligible for Seminary financial aid as well as federal financial aid (except that students admitted through the African-American or Hispanic Ministries special access programs are eligible for the Seminary grant). Students admitted as special students who are later granted regular acceptance into a degree program will then become eligible for all forms of financial aid.

Academic Standing and Financial Aid. Review of the records of all regular students will occur quarterly (after the grading period). In the event that a student fails to meet the Seminary standards for good academic standing (see above), the student will be notified and will be ineligible for Seminary or federal financial aid. When such students reestablish good academic standing, they will again be eligible for all forms of financial aid.

If such students are unable to reestablish good academic standing and are placed on academic probation, they remain ineligible for both Seminary and federal financial aid.

Academic Progress and Financial Aid. In order to maintain eligibility for federal financial aid, students are required to be making satisfactory progress toward the completion of their degrees. For purposes of federal financial aid, students will be considered to have advanced one grade level when the following numbers of units have been completed (Group A—Ph.D. SOT/SWM, Th.M., SWM, D.Min.; Group B—all other degree programs):

Students need not advance a grade level each year, but are eligible for a certain amount of federal financial aid in each grade level and cannot receive additional federal financial aid until they have made advancement or twelve months have elapsed. No financial aid will be awarded to students who are enrolled beyond the time limit established by the Seminary for the completion of degree work, or for students who are registered for dissertation work bearing no units of credit.

Time Limits for Completion of Degrees

In order to ensure that a degree, when granted, represents education that is reasonably focused (not acquired a little at a time over an unreasonably long period of time) and current, requirements for a degree must normally represent credit earned within a certain period of time. This period includes any credit earned elsewhere and applied to the degree, as well as all credit earned at Fuller.

For the M.A. or M.Div. degree in the School of Theology this limit is set at ten years. The time limit for the Th.M. degree is five years, for the D.Min. degree seven years, and for the Ph.D. degree eight years. There is a ten-year time limit for completion of degrees in the School of World Mission (master’s or doctoral level). The limit for the M.S. or M.A. degrees in marital and family therapy in the School of Psychology is seven years, and for all doctoral programs in that School the limit is ten years.
Examinations

Final examinations are scheduled during regular class hours during the eleventh week of each quarter, or on the last day of an intensive session. Students are expected to take final exams at the scheduled hours. In the case of serious illness, emergency, or when a student has three exams scheduled on the same day, arrangements may be made with the professor to take an exam at another time. Postponement of a final examination beyond the last day of the quarter requires an Incomplete (see below for details).

Permanent Academic Record

All grades recorded become a permanent part of the student's academic history. If a student receives a failing grade, that grade will remain on the record. If such a course is retaken, the new registration and grade will also be recorded on the student's permanent record.

After a period of two years, it is presumed that both student and faculty member have had ample opportunity to be aware of the grade recorded and to see that any appropriate adjustment has been made. At this point any grade recorded becomes permanent and cannot be changed.

Grading

Grades have been assigned the following numerical values for the purpose of computing the grade point average:

<thead>
<tr>
<th>Grade</th>

</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>

<tr>

<td>2.0</td>
</tr>
<tr>

</tr>
<tr>
<td>C-</td>
<td>1.7</td>
</tr>
</tbody>

All other grades, including P (Pass), SA (Satisfactory), I (Incomplete), H (Hold), IE (Incomplete Extended), HE (Hold Extended), IP (In Progress) and RD (Report Delayed) are not computed in the student's grade point average. The grades CR (Credit) and NC (No Credit), which are considered a part of any of these limits, must be submitted; the Hold grade cannot remain. The professor submits a grade for courses in which the Pass/Fail option is selected, but the student's transcript indicates that the grade has been changed from an Incomplete.

Incomplete

A student whose work in a master's-level course is not completed at the end of the quarter may request a grade of Incomplete. If the Incomplete grade is granted, the student's transcript indicates that the grade has been changed from an Incomplete.

Pass/Fail Option

Master's-level students may choose to take up to one-fourth of the coursework done at Fuller on a pass/fail basis. However, no more than 12 units may be in any one of the following four areas: Biblical languages, biblical studies, theology/church history, and ministry. Psychology doctoral students may exercise this option in their regular M.A. or M.Div. courses. In the School of Psychology doctoral curriculum in clinical psychology, only certain courses (such as the internship and dissertation) may be taken Pass/Fail. Students not enrolled in a degree program may exercise the Pass/Fail option at a rate of one course in four. Courses offered only on a Pass/Fail basis are considered a part of any of these limits.

The professor submits a grade for courses in which the Pass/Fail option is selected, but the student's transcript is marked with either a P (pass) or F for the course. For students seeking to be removed from academic probation, the actual grades submitted will be taken into account in determining good academic standing. Students who select the Pass/Fail option may request, on an appointment basis, to be informed of their actual grade in a course, but that grade can never be recorded on the transcript or reported in any way outside the Seminary.

The exercising of the Pass/Fail option is normally indicated at registration time on the class request card. Changes in status may be made through the end of the second day of the second week of classes for ten-week courses, through the end of the second day of classes in one- and two-week intensive sessions, through Wednesday of the first week of five-week sessions and before the second class period in Extension classes. Changes must be made through the Registrar’s Office (or local Extended Education office).

Formal Statements of Community Standards

Fuller Theological Seminary expects all members of its community to live in accord with standards of wholesome Christian character. In order to clarify their understanding of Christian standards in areas of special concern, the Seminary faculty and Board of Trustees may adopt formal statements of community standards. Five such statements which have been adopted are those on academic integrity; sexual harassment; sexual stan-

Formal Statements of Community Standards
Graduation

The prescribed course of study as outlined in the curriculum for each degree program must be satisfactorily completed.

In order to graduate it is required that a student be in good academic standing as defined earlier in this section of the catalog. Some programs have higher standards which apply. These are described in the appropriate sections of this catalog and in the student handbooks for the three schools and the various degree programs.

Students are responsible for meeting the graduation requirements set forth in the catalog published at the time of their matriculation for the degree which they are seeking. Students who change programs are responsible for meeting the graduation requirements in effect when they request the change. Students who take extended leaves of absence of more than one year are subject to the graduation requirements in effect at the time of their reinstatement unless written permission was obtained prior to their extended leave.

In addition to academic requirements for graduation, students must receive the endorsement of the faculty responsible for the degree program in which they are enrolled that they have acted responsibly in attempting to live in accord with standards of wholesome Christian character and with the general standards of the institution, as well as those of the particular program in which they are involved.

It is also necessary for students to present a satisfactory clearance of accounts prior to graduation. Students who have not made satisfactory financial arrangements will not have access to any student services, including transcripts, degree checks, diploma, transfer, or enrollment for another degree program.

Students anticipating graduation must complete an Application for Graduation. This should be done at the time of the advising appointment for registration for the quarter prior to the student’s final quarter (i.e., two quarters before the intended graduation date). Applications must be submitted no later than the end of the first week of the quarter of intended graduation. Students who for any reason do not complete their degree requirements within this quarter must reapply for graduation.

In order to qualify for graduation in a given quarter, all work must be completed and all requirements met by the official graduation date for that quarter. Classes which do not end within the quarter do not qualify for graduation in that quarter. Work completed under Incompletes and Holds applies to graduation in the quarter in which it is actually completed, not the quarter in which the course was originally taken.

Degrees are recorded quarterly. The last day of the quarter as indicated by the academic calendar is considered to be the official date of graduation.

Commencement. Baccalaureate and Commencement exercises are held only at the end of the Spring Quarter. Students who have graduated in the most recent Summer, Fall or Winter quarters and have not already attended Commencement are invited to participate, as are those who apply for graduation in the current Spring Quarter. Graduates who were eligible for the previous year’s Commencement but did not attend are also invited. Students who expect to graduate at the end of the Summer Quarter, as well as students who have internships to complete after Summer quarter, may also participate, subject to certain limitations (see below). Participation in Commencement exercises is not equivalent to the conferral of the degree, which is official only when faculty approval has been given, the Registrar’s Office has determined that all academic requirements have been met, and satisfactory financial arrangements have been made.

Special Commencement Participation Policies. A special policy permits master’s-level students who have no more than 20 units of course work (not to include theses or dissertations, qualifying exams, etc.) to complete during the Summer quarter to participate in the June Commencement exercises. The deadline for application is the end of the first week of the Spring quarter, just as for Spring quarter applications. Special conditions apply; copies of the policy may be obtained from the Registrar’s Office and academic advising offices. A further policy offers the same possibility of participation to students who will have completed all requirements by the end of Spring or Summer Quarter except for a three-quarter internship. The purpose of this policy is to encourage and facilitate doing a three-quarter internship following the completion of coursework. Again, special conditions and limitations apply; copies of the policy may be obtained from the Registrar’s Office and academic advising offices.

ADMISSION

Requirements

General standards for admission to the Seminary may be found in the second section of this catalog. Specific requirements for entering degree programs are given within each degree program section. In addition, applicants for whom English is a second language must take a written and oral language examination (TOEFL). A score of 550 is required for admission to master's-level programs, and a score of 600 is required for admission to the Th.M. and doctoral programs. Applicants to master's-level programs with TOEFL scores between 500 and 549 who are otherwise qualified for admission may seek admission through Fuller's English as a Second Language Program.

Unclassified Students

Those individuals who desire Christian training, but who do not wish to study in a regular degree program, are welcomed. Men and women who are not certain of a definite call to the ministry and desire a time of seminary study to help them in determining God's will for their lives may want to study as unclassified students.

THE THEOLOGICAL CURRICULUM

The theological curriculum which aims at excellence must combine breadth, depth and balance. It must include the basic areas for everyone engaged in Christian ministry, and yet provide courses of special interest and concern to the individual student. It must be grounded in the Scriptures, the sure and solid authority of our faith, and be concerned for efforts to express faith in a coherent system of truth. It must reflect understanding of the traditions of the past, and show awareness of the needs of the present and the future. It must preserve what is genuine within the historic experience of the church while being open to what may be new by Christ's Spirit.

Fuller approaches its task of theological training by way of the great Protestant tradition of biblical studies in the languages in which God was pleased to reveal his word. Greek and Hebrew are prerequisites for many biblical courses and are constantly used in instruction. Courses in the theology and history division give the student a close acquaintance with the classical thinking of the church in its effort through the ages to express this revelation and to apply it as a guide through the perplexities and ambiguities of life. This background sets the stage for the ministry courses in which the various ap-
Approaches to teaching God’s word are shaped from the perspective of theology. A curriculum cannot include everything a servant of God will need for the rapidly changing world of these last decades of the 20th century, but it should not omit that which is essential. Furthermore, it must supply the basic content and skills which will enable one to feed God’s flock and to maintain personal growth with increasing responsibilities.

Degree Programs

The School of Theology offers programs leading to the following degrees: Master of Divinity, the Master of Arts in Theology, the Master of Arts in Christian Leadership, the Doctor of Ministry, the Master of Theology, and the Doctor of Philosophy in Theology. In each case, it is possible to develop an area of concentration within the overall curriculum for the degree.

Field Education

An internship in a church or related setting is an integral part of the curriculum for the Master of Divinity degree and can be incorporated in other master’s-level programs. Its purpose is to provide an educational opportunity to apply what is learned in the classroom in a practical area of ministry under qualified supervision. The Office of Field Education helps students arrange approved internships and provides counsel relating to internships and other field experiences.

Multidenominational Representation

Fuller Theological Seminary trains and counsels its students to return to the denominations that nurtured them. Education for ministry at Fuller Theological Seminary is accepted by every major denomination. Denominational distinctives, such as church government, are taught by persons who represent the various denominations. Furthermore, the Seminary faculty comprises such a cross-section of church affiliation that most of the major traditions of the church are represented. In addition, the Seminary has an Office of Presbyterian Ministries, and has on its campus the office of the Theological Education Agency of the Reformed Church in America, which serves all ministerial candidates of the Reformed Church in America who are not attending one of the two denominational seminaries, and the American Baptist Theological Center. In addition, representatives of several denominations – The Reformed Church of America, American Baptist Churches in the U.S.A., and the United Methodist Church – serve on the School of Theology faculty as Ecclesiastical Faculty. Denominational concerns are coordinated by a director of field education and denominational relations.

MASTER OF DIVINITY

The Master of Divinity degree program prepares the student for full-time service in the church of Jesus Christ. It allows the student to train either for the general pastorate of a local church or for a specialized ministry as a staff minister. It enables a student within a three-year period to meet the range of denominational requirements for ordination. The program is also open to the student who desires to meet the requirements for ordination but who wishes to develop simultaneously a concentration in such areas as educational ministries, family life education, youth ministries or cross-cultural ministries.

The Master of Divinity degree is designed so that it can be completed within three years to four years. However, many students pursue the program on a part-time basis for all or part of their course of study, and thereby extend their study over a longer period of time. In addition to its daytime schedule and normal ten-week quarters, the Seminary regularly offers a full range of evening courses, Saturday courses, and intensive ten-day courses, making possible a very flexible program of study.

Purpose

The Master of Divinity program prepares men and women for ministry within the Church of Jesus Christ. The curriculum is controlled by a vision of Christ’s Church as the people of God—a living, worshipping, witnessing community, within which faith is nurtured and through which Christ is served in the world. Guided by this vision, the curriculum is designed to instruct students in the study of theology in its widest sense, so that they may grow in the knowledge of God, discover and develop their God-given gifts and become more effective members of the body of Christ. This involves a deepening understanding of God and God’s world through rigorous academic discipline; but it also involves, in part as the fruit of such discipline, personal spiritual growth and maturity, and the acquiring of the relevant skills that will enable students to use their theological insights effectively in practical Christian ministry. Accordingly, the characteristics of the Master of Divinity program are determined by the marks of true Christian ministry.

1. The Christian minister should be a person who knows and delights in the Word of God, one who is able responsibly and in detail to exegete and interpret the divinely inspired Scriptures, yet one also able to see in its wholeness the story of the saving acts of God revealed through Israel and consummated in Christ. The Master of Divinity program is designed to foster ministry that is rooted in the authority of the Bible.

2. The Christian minister should understand the doctrines and traditions of the Church and be able to interpret them clearly and compellingly for our own time. The minister should also be one who empowers the people of God so that they too are enabled confidently to discern and clearly to articulate God’s Word for our world. The Master of Divinity program is designed to foster Christian ministry that is intellectually competent.

3. The Christian minister should possess special abilities, theologically informed, for leading and equipping God’s people. The tasks that demand these skills are many: preaching, public worship, teaching, evangelism, counseling, spiritual formation, and administration. The minister should be one who not only develops such skills but enables others to share them. The Master of Divinity program is designed to foster ministry that is professionally competent.

4. The Christian minister should recognize that evangelism in its widest sense is the responsibility of every Christian and is central to the apostolic nature and mission of the Church. The minister should be prepared both spiritually and intellectually to “do the work of an evangelist” and to enable others to share in that task. The Master of Divinity program is designed to foster ministry that is committed to evangelism.

5. The Christian minister should be an advocate of truth, a person able convincingly to demonstrate the credibility of the faith and, while informed of the strongest arguments that have been made against it, one able to witness to the revelation of God in Christ in the confidence of the Spirit of Truth. The Master of Divinity program is designed to foster ministry that is intellectually articulate.

6. The Christian minister is a person of deep and honest faith, a faith that is rooted in an authentic experience of God’s grace and that is expressed in a growth toward wholesome maturity in Christ. He or she is ready always to seek the will of God in the complex moral problems of personal life, and is sensitive to the even more complex ethical issues of the public arena. The Master of Divinity program seeks to foster ministry that is spiritually mature and morally sensitive.

7. The Christian minister should be a servant of the compassionate Lord, a person deeply concerned for social justice with a burden for the oppressed and the weak, a peacemaker in a world torn by war, an advocate for the hungry and homeless, a defender of all victims of oppression, and a prophet calling for justice from the rich and mercy for the wretched of the earth. The Master of Divinity program is designed to foster ministry that is socially concerned.

8. The Christian minister should be personally committed to a specific church within the Church universal, one who is loyal to the community and tradition of which he or she is a part yet who honors a wider loyalty to the Church universal. The Master of Divinity program is designed to foster ministry that is ecumenically open yet denominationally responsible.

These are some of the marks of true Christian ministry which determine the characteristics of the Master of Divinity program. By this vision of ministry, the curriculum is tested and controlled, goals are defined and teaching is motivated.

Admission Requirements

General standards of admission to the Seminary may be found in the second section of this catalog. Applicants must have earned a regular baccalaureate degree or its equivalent from an accredited institution before they can be admitted to the M.Div. program. Applicants who graduate from an unaccredited college will be considered on an individual basis.

Residence Requirements and Transfer Credit

A minimum of 72 units must be earned at Fuller Seminary. At least 48 units, not including field education or independent studies, must be taken on the Pasadena campus (except for those admitted to the special M.Div. program in Seattle). Requests for transfer of credit for approved graduate studies done elsewhere will be evaluated on an individual basis by the Academic Advising Office. This may include a maximum of 72 quarter hours of graduate theological and biblical studies or a maximum of 20 quarter hours in nonreligious studies if they are appropriate to the field of concentration, approved by the School of Theology academic affairs committee, and integrated through a 4-unit directed study.
Curriculum

The faculty at Fuller has developed a unified curriculum for the Master of Divinity degree built upon a system of core areas. These areas are distributed among the biblical studies, theology and ministry divisions.

A variety of courses is provided within each core area to maintain maximum flexibility in designing the student’s curriculum. Normally courses will stress at least one of the following features:

1. A strong language approach;
2. An emphasis on biblical content;
3. A focus on the theological perspective; or
4. A focus on ministry.

The student is required to complete successfully 144 units for the M.Div. degree as follows:

Concentrations

A variety of specific concentrations are offered within the M.Div. curriculum, enabling students to focus their studies in particular areas in order to meet their individual interests and needs. These areas of concentration are briefly described below. Further information may be obtained from the Academic Advising Office.
Christian Formation and Discipleship. The Master of Divinity concentration in Christian formation and discipleship enables students to obtain a strong foundation in biblical, historical and theological studies, while focusing on the teaching/equipping ministries of the church. Designed to prepare men and women for a general pastorate in a local congregation, or a specialized ministry as, for example, director of Christian education or minister of discipleship, the program allows students to meet the standard educational requirements for ordination while obtaining specialized preparation for educational and discipleship ministries.

There is a basic required core curriculum in the program which may be fulfilled through a number of alternatives. This provides students with a selection of courses in a specific area of interest based on a solid theological foundation.

The curriculum integrates academic course work with practical experience. The program consists of 144 quarter hours, including 20 units in Greek and Hebrew, 32 units in the area of biblical studies, 32 units in theology and church history, 36 units in practical ministry, including a supervised ministry experience, and a minimum of 24 units in Christian formation and discipleship as follows:

CF 500 Foundations for Christian Formation
CF 504 Formational Bible Study
CF 505 Teaching the Bible

Choose one from the following group:
CF 501 Leading and Teaching in the Church
CF 507 Building Christian Community Through Small Groups

Choose two from the following group:
CF 530 Christian Formation of Children
CF 540 Philosophy and Models of Youth Ministry
CF 560 Adult Formation and Discipleship
CF 565 Empowering the People of God
CF 580 Formation Seminar

Persons with a strong background in Christian education in their undergraduate work and students with particular goals for ministry may design an individualized Christian formation and discipleship program in consultation with the director of the department. The curriculum may also be adapted to include work in cross-cultural studies. Faculty Coordinator: Dr. Julie Gorman.

Cross-Cultural Studies. This area of concentration enables students to obtain a thorough knowledge of biblical, historical and theological studies as well as a foundation in the social and behavioral sciences which are basic to the task of mission. Combining the resources of the School of Theology and the School of World Mission, this degree program provides special preparation for future missionaries who will need an ordained status for overseas missionary work, as well as men and women who plan to accept short-term mission assignments and then continue afterwards in church ministry. Persons who do not plan to go overseas but are highly committed to the missionary task and want the mission component as a part of their preparation for ministry, and those who anticipate ministries in the United States among ethnic groups different from their own will also receive specialized training.

The curriculum for the Master of Divinity with a concentration in cross-cultural studies, consists of 108 quarter hours in biblical studies, theological studies and practical ministries and 36 quarter hours in missiology. Normally a student will take 32 units in the School of Theology and 16 units in the School of World Mission during each academic year. A School of Theology academic advisor will assist the student in selecting courses which will ensure a balance in theology and missiology. Faculty Coordinator: Ministry Division

Multicultural Ministries. The Master of Divinity concentration in multicultural ministries is designed to enable all students, regardless of ethnic background, to prepare for ministry in an increasingly ethnically pluralistic church and society. The basic emphasis of the M.Div. program on a strong biblical, historical, theological and ministry core of coursework is strengthened by a component of six courses with a particular ethnic emphasis. A range of curricular offerings which specialize in issues uniquely relevant to the African-American and/or Hispanic church and community is available as a resource for this concentration. Students who anticipate pastoral ministry in the African-American church or Hispanic church, or ministry in Southern California or wherever the population is richly varied in its ethnic diversity, will benefit from selection of this concentration.

Normally, four of the six courses in the multicultural component of this concentration will be taken from the offerings of the Ministry Division, and two from the offerings of the Biblical and/or Theological Divisions. Selection of appropriate coursework compatible with the interests of this concentration may be made in consultation with the appropriate academic advisor. Faculty Coordinator: Dr. Jorge J. Taylor.

Family Pastoral Care and Counseling. The family pastoral care and counseling Master of Divinity concentration enables students to obtain a strong foundation in biblical, historical and theological studies while focusing on the nurture and guidance of individuals and families. Students are prepared to meet educational requirements for ordination while developing competence in the care of those who are alienated or abandoned by families, in the alleviation of distress in marital and family conflict, in the mobilization of resources in the church for family strength and in the utilization of community resources for referral purposes. This program, which is designed primarily to equip men and women for pastoral ministry, emphasizes theological foundations for family life and the spiritual resources of prayer, Bible study and Christian character.

This program integrates academic course work with practical training. The program consists of 36 courses (144 quarter hours), including 12 units in Greek and 8 units in Hebrew, 32 units in the area of biblical studies, 32 units in theology and church history, 24 units in practical ministry, 10 units of supervised field work experience (including CPE) and a minimum of 26 units in family pastoral care and counseling from the following:

- CN 560 Pastoral Counseling Across Cultures
Field work experiences will be concentrated in local churches or pastoral counseling centers where students will work under the supervision of a pastor and the director of the family pastoral care and counseling program. Practical experience during the first year will be designed to expose students to all facets of general pastoral ministry with the second and third years focused on family ministries and pastoral counseling. Students will also take a course in clinical pastoral education in an approved mental hospital, general hospital or other facility.

The Master of Divinity with a concentration in family pastoral care and counseling is designed so that it may be completed within three to four years. However, the program may be pursued on a part-time basis and many students choose to extend course work over a greater period of time. Faculty Coordinator: Dr. David Augsburger.

Youth Ministries

Fuller Seminary offers two programs combining theological education with a concentration in youth ministries.

The first is offered on the Pasadena campus and prepares the student for ordained ministry in churches and parachurch organizations. It develops the future youth pastor or director as a missionary into the youth culture, a social worker in all types of youth crises and needs, and a nurturer for young disciples. The basic M.Div. core curriculum in languages and biblical and theological studies is combined with internships and courses in youth ministry to prepare the graduate for professional service. Faculty Coordinator: Dr. Dean Borgman.

Family Life Education

The erosion of marriage and family life is of great concern to the church and the community at large. Response to this national crisis has largely been through therapy for victims, while procedures for assisting healthy families have often been deferred. In order to reinforce and assist the church in its ministry to and for the family, Fuller Theological Seminary is offering training in family life education through the combined resources of the School of Theology and the marriage and family therapy division of the Graduate School of Psychology. The objectives of this concentration are:

1. To provide Christian leaders to work in and through the church, primarily as ordained ministers, but with additional skills in response to the needs in marriage and family life;
2. To equip those leaders with psychological, sociological and educational knowledge regarding the educational ministries of the church in addition to the broad preparation for ministry of the M.Div. curriculum;
3. To provide viable preventative strategies for the support of healthy families;
4. To assist ministers in the identification and referral process for unhealthy families.

The Master of Divinity degree concentration in family life education requires completion of

MASTER OF ARTS IN THEOLOGY

The Master of Arts in Theology degree program of the School of Theology offers an opportunity to undertake two years (96 units) of graduate theological study for a wide range of general and specialized purposes.

Purpose

The Master of Arts in Theology program in its various configurations seeks to accomplish the following purposes:

1. To cultivate competent skills in the study and interpretation of the Word of God;
2. To develop an understanding of theology and fashion a systematic theological framework, informing both the ethics of personal and social behavior and the practice of ministry;
3. To understand the origin and growth of the Christian tradition and to appreciate its richness and diversity;
4. To promote growth in Christian maturity and ministry in the church and in the world.

Students enter the Master of Arts in Theology program at Fuller with a variety of personal and career goals. A staff of academic advisors is available to aid in the selection of concentrations and courses.

Admission Requirements

Admission and academic standards are generally the same as those established for the Master of Divinity degree. General standards for admission to the Seminary may be found in the second section of this catalog.

Residence Requirements and Transfer Credit

A minimum of 48 quarter units must be earned at Fuller Seminary. By special request an applicant may be granted transfer credit for accredited graduate studies done elsewhere. This may include a maximum of 48 quarter hours of graduate theological and biblical studies, or a maximum of 20 quarter hours in nonreligious studies if they are appropriate to the field of concentration, approved by the School of Theology academic affairs committee, and integrated through a 4-unit directed study.
Degree Requirements

Flexibility marks the Master of Arts in Theology program in the School of Theology at Fuller. The degree requirements can be completed in two years of full-time study, although many elect to earn the degree over an extended period of time through part-time study. The degree may be completed over a six-year period through evening courses alone. All requirements for the Master of Arts in Theology (general program track) may be completed in several extension areas, including Seattle, the San Francisco Bay Area, Phoenix, and Orange County in Southern California. Courses offered at any Fuller Extended Education site may be counted toward the degree, but at least 24 units must be completed at the Pasadena campus or one of the areas listed above.

In general, the Master of Arts in Theology degree requires:

1. A total of at least 24 courses (96 quarter units);
2. A minimum of 12 courses (48 quarter units) earned at Fuller Theological Seminary;

Field Education. While field experience is optional for most versions of this degree, it is highly recommended in order to complete one’s preparation for service and future placement. As many as six courses may be taken in a supervised practical service and study program to be planned with the Field Education office. Students applying for academic credit must fulfill all course requirements.

Biblical Languages. Biblical languages are not required for the M.A. degree (with the exception of one track for the M.A. for psychology students and the biblical studies and theology track). Every student, however, is strongly advised to learn at least one biblical language since all theological education should be grounded on the Scriptures, the careful understanding of which is aided by a knowledge of the original languages. Also, a majority of the courses in biblical studies require the knowledge of a biblical language.

Five Tracks. The student in the Master of Arts in Theology program selects one of five curricular tracks: 1) the general program track; 2) the Biblical Studies and Theology (pre-Ph.D. or teaching) track; 3) the concentration track; 4) the children’s ministry track, or 5) the Christian higher education track. A special track also exists for students in the Ph.D. program in clinical psychology as a part of their doctoral program; see the School of Psychology section of this catalog for details.

Family Life Education. The erosion of marriage and family life is of great concern to the church and the community at large. Response to this national crisis has largely been through therapy for victims, while procedures for assisting healthy families have often been deferred. In order to reinforce and assist the church in its ministry to and for the family, Fuller Theological Seminary is offering training in family life education through the combined resources of the School of Theology and the marriage and family therapy division of the Graduate School of Psychology. The objectives of this concentration are:

1. To provide Christian leaders to work in and through the church in response to the needs in marriage and family life;
2. To equip those leaders with theological, psychological, sociological and educational knowledge regarding the educational ministries of the church;
3. To provide those leaders with viable preventative strategies for the support of healthy families;
4. To assist those leaders in the identification and referral process for unhealthy families.

Christian Higher Education Track

The Master of Arts in Theology with a concentration in Christian higher education is designed to prepare women and men for leadership in church-related and Christian colleges, universities and seminaries. It seeks to develop the competencies needed for effective ministry to students through the service units of residence life, student and academic services, admissions, administration, institutional advancement and campus ministries. Persons who are called to professional servant-leadership in Christian education will find this program to have an emphasis on understanding the theological, biblical and historical base for Christian higher education to advance the goal of integration of faith and learning. This training is provided through classroom instruction, internships and work experiences.

The curriculum is designed to meet the needs of two student profiles: (1) the professional who is currently employed in the field without the benefit of appropriate academic preparations, and (2) the recent graduate who through leadership experiences discovers gifts for the helping professions and desires to be prepared to serve in the field of Christian higher education.

In addition to a specially designed curriculum of biblical studies, church history and theology, the Master of Arts in Theology with a concentration in Christian higher education requires a minimum of 36 units in Christian higher education, as follows:

Each of the following:

- HE 501 History, Theology and Philosophy of Christian Higher Education
- HE 503 Understanding College Students
- HE 505 Leadership and Character Development
- HE 507 Leadership in Diversity: Gender, Multicultural and Ethnicity

A concentration in Christian higher education leadership development is also offered within the Master of Arts in Christian Leadership degree program. Faculty Coordinator: Ministry Division.

MASTER OF ARTS IN CHRISTIAN LEADERSHIP

The Master of Arts in Christian Leadership is a 72-unit program designed to provide a graduate theological education for women and men who are called to nonordained leadership roles. It seeks to develop lay leadership which is informed both theologically and practically. It provides an opportunity for those who are currently in service to enhance their ministry and leadership skills.

Purpose

The Master of Arts in Christian Leadership seeks to prepare women and men who are called to intentional, nonordained leadership roles within the church, parachurch organizations, Christian higher education and the marketplace. The leadership in view is that which has a primary focus on organization or administration, articulating the mission and developing strategies, rather than on instruction or teaching, though the latter may well be a dimension of it.

The program is intended for lay people who are called to specialized positions such as youth pastors or campus ministers, administrators in Christian colleges and facilitators of lay or marketplace ministry.

The program can be used as a basis for engaging in further professionally and vocationally oriented study, but is not intended as a basis for further academic study in Bible, theology and ministry.

The objectives of the M.A. in Christian Leadership incorporate and affirm the specific goals outlined in the guidelines of the Association of Theological Schools for professional master’s degrees:

- Among the goals of such programs are the development of the candidate’s ability (1) to recognize the specialized ministry within the larger context of the religious community’s mission; (2) to master the theological disciplines needed to inform specialized ministries; (3) to function professionally in the light of sound pastoral theology; (4) to communicate one’s faith so as to elicit commitment and growth from others; (5) to work effectively and harmoniously with other professionals and lay persons in the specific ministry; (6) to evaluate effectively one's performance." (Association of Theological Schools, Procedures, Standards and Criteria for Membership, Number 39, Part 3, p. 52)

Fuller Theological Seminary seeks to fulfill these goals not only through the content of the coursework, but through the methods utilized in the classes. Many of the courses for the M.A. in Christian Leadership incorporate the following components:

1. Small groups to help students work harmoniously together and see the potential for lay people equipping each other;
2. Personal exercises involving journaling and meditating to facilitate their learning greater vocational discernment;
3. Practicum opportunities where students can develop gifts and skills in a hands-on way;
4. Action-reflection assignments encouraging the application of what is being learned to specific areas of ministry.

Students who desire positions with a primary focus on teaching in a church, parachurch or Christian higher education setting (e.g. ministers of Christian formation and discipleship, faculty in Christian colleges and directors of lay education) will be strongly advised to pursue the Master of Arts in Theology program, which has a broader theological base and allows them to take more courses in their chosen area of concentration. Students who are training for the general pastorate or specialized ministry as a staff minister and completing requirements for ordination should pursue the Master of Divinity degree.

Admission Requirements

Admission and academic standards are generally the same as those established for the Master of Divinity degree. General standards for admission to the Seminary may be found in the second section of this catalog.

The Master of Arts in Christian Leadership program is designed for individuals with previous experience in the area of concentration. Applicants to the Christian higher education concentration of this degree program will be accepted only if they have prior appropriate and related work experience in the area of higher education. Those applying to the program with a concentration in the ministry of the laity will be expected to have prior work experience and activity in the church as a lay person. Those applying to the adolescent ministries concentration will be required to have prior experience working with youth in the church or a parachurch organization.

Residence Requirements and Transfer Credit

A minimum of 12 courses (48 units) must be earned at Fuller Seminary. By special request and upon approval of the director of academic advising, an applicant may be granted a maximum of 24 quarter units of transfer credit for accredited graduate studies done elsewhere if they are relevant to the degree program and area of concentration. The degree may be earned through coursework taken on the Pasadena campus, Fuller's Extended Education sites, or the Institute of Youth Ministries, the Seminary's joint program with Young Life. However, not all courses, especially those required for certain concentrations, may be readily available at all off-campus sites.

Degree Requirements

DOCTOR OF MINISTRY

The Doctor of Ministry is a professional degree. The program is designed to serve the need of ministers for an experience of continuing education which renews the personal life of faith, further develops professional competence and stimulates continued growth in biblical and theological foundations for ministry. Using the resources of the Seminary, a program of study has been developed which provides options including emphases in pastoral care, church growth, worship/preaching, renewal/evangelism, marriage and family ministries, church management, spirituality, small groups, leadership, and ministry of the laity.

Participants in the program are afforded the opportunity for continuing education while remaining active in their local ministries. The program of study combines a critical assessment of experience with a peer group learning situation under guidance of leaders who have expertise in developing and sustaining effective ministry.

The Doctor of Ministry program of the School of Theology is administered by the Continuing and Extended Education division of the Seminary. Further information on this degree program may be found in the Continuing and Extended Education section of this catalog.

THE CENTER FOR ADVANCED THEOLOGICAL STUDIES

The Graduate Studies Program at Fuller Theological Seminary traces its beginnings to a rigorous Th.M. program which was initiated in the 1950s. Later, a full doctoral program was instituted. In 1988, the Program was reconstituted as the Center for Advanced Theological Studies (CATS). Its purpose is to promote research, provide instruction in the field of theological knowledge, and to prepare future scholars and teachers. The Center is served by a Graduate Faculty of full and associate professors who have special designated responsibilities in theological research and graduate education. It is staffed administratively by its director, who has the rank of associate dean, assisted by the Center’s administrator. The Graduate Faculty consists of scholars who have distinguished themselves in research, publication, and graduate level teaching and supervision. In addition to the Full and Associate Members of the Graduate Faculty, the Center is also served by contributing Members of the resident faculty in their capacity as mentors and course supervisors, and by auxiliary members from other institutions who contribute their expertise in specialized fields. The work of the Center is supervised by a faculty committee.

The Center offers programs leading to the degrees of Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D.) and Master of Theology (Th.M.). These programs are offered in the following concentrations of Christian studies: Old Testament, New Testament, biblical studies, history, theology, ethics, philosophy of religion/apologetics, practical theology, and interdisciplinary studies (in conjunction with the Schools of Psychology and World Mission). The interdisciplinary studies concentration is available only at the Ph.D. level.

Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D.) Degree

The degree of Doctor of Philosophy is the highest academic degree awarded by the Seminary. The Ph.D. is a foundational degree program for a vocation in teaching at the university, seminary and college level. The School of Theology Ph.D. is designed to prepare its graduates for a vocation in theological teaching and scholarship by equipping them with the essential tools for high-level scholarship, by guiding them in a major research project in the area of their major concentration, and by supporting the development of skills in teaching. The Ph.D. is awarded upon successful completion of three language examinations (or their equivalent if majoring in practical theology), course work consisting of nine seminars or directed reading courses, Comprehensive Examinations, and a scholarly dissertation based on research in the area of the student’s major concentration. If an examiner of the dissertation requests an oral examination, the examination will be scheduled according to the primary mentor’s specifications.

Admission Requirements. General standards for admission to the Seminary may be found in the second section of this catalog. Graduate students who seek admission to the Ph.D. program of the Center should possess demonstrated academic gifts, and should be committed to a Christian calling in a life of scholarly research and theological reflection, leading to teaching and publication. Admission to the Ph.D. program is based on superior intellectual ability as demonstrated by the applicant’s grade point average and Graduate Record Examination scores, and a first theological degree (Master of Divinity) or its equivalent from an accredited institution.

An M.A. degree from an accredited institution, comparable to Fuller’s M.A. in theology with a concentration in biblical studies and theology, is also considered acceptable for admission except for the concentration in practical theology. If the student’s previous study has not included the study of Hebrew and Greek to the level required by the Fuller M.Div., the student must demonstrate competence by examination or coursework during the first year in order to remain in the program. Enrollment in a major concentration is contingent upon completion of coursework equivalent to the corresponding core requirements in the Fuller M.Div. curriculum. In addition, for the concentration in practical theology, a minimum of two years of prior vocational experience is also required.

An overall grade point average of 3.5 from master’s-level study is required for admission to the Ph.D. program. Native speakers of English must have taken the Graduate Record Examination (GRE) within the last five years. A combined (verbal and quantitative) GRE score of 1050 is normally considered a minimum entrance requirement, with preference given to those with verbal scores in excess of 600.

Applicants whose native language is not English must have taken the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) with a minimum score of 600. Test scores must not be more than five years old. Applicants who have completed an M.A. or M.Div. degree in the United States with an acceptable grade point average are not required to retake the TOEFL. Students who may have entered a master’s-level degree program in the United States without taking the TOEFL must take the examination before they are eligible for admission to the Ph.D. program.

Applications for admission must be received by January 15. Application files, including transcripts, references, and GRE or TOEFL scores, must be completed by February 15. Notification of a decision is sent out by April 15. During the application process applicants are encouraged to contact faculty members with whom they would like to work to discuss their interests. Decisions concerning acceptance and appointment of mentors are made by the CATS Committee.

Graduate Assistantships and Fellowships. Financial aid covering part of the tuition cost is available to graduate students in the form of research and teaching assistantships, where remuneration is given for academic assistance offered to faculty members, and teaching fellowships, where advanced students are allowed to offer courses in the Seminary curriculum. Teaching fellowships in the biblical language program are also available to qualified students.

A number of tuition fellowships are awarded annually to Ph.D. students. Awards are based on merit, with GRE scores and GPA used as a basis for evaluation for incoming students and progress and GPA in the program used as a basis for evaluation for returning students. There are several awards made each year, some requiring Teaching or Research Assistant hours. Awards are also given specifically to international students. Four Dilworth Fellowships are awarded annually to international students who intend to work in their country of origin. The George Gay Memorial Fellowships are awarded annually to Hispanic students (one Ph.D. fellowship and one Th.M. fellowship). Inquiries regarding CATS fellowships should be directed to the program administrator.
The plan to develop the present level of proficiency in the Russian language is aimed at preparing students for further study of Russian at the graduate level. All students will be required to take a comprehensive examination in Russian. The examination will consist of a written and oral test. The written test will consist of an essay and a translation of a Russian text. The oral test will consist of a conversation and a presentation of a Russian cultural topic.

Concentrations and Fields. During the first year of study, students are assigned by the CATS Committee to their primary mentor. A student’s primary mentor is a professor working in the major field of the student’s research. A second mentor, not necessarily chosen from the major field, is appointed by the CATS Committee to provide further supervision, and to serve as the second internal reader of the dissertation. Under the guidance of the primary mentor, and with the approval of the CATS Committee, the student designs a program of nine eight-unit courses. These courses consist of seminars or directed studies. Major research papers are a component in all seminars and directed studies. In some concentrations there are core courses which all students in that concentration must take in Stage One (first five seminars) of the Ph.D. program. All courses selected must contribute to the dissertation topic or the areas of the Comprehensive Examinations.

The major field of study is chosen from one of the nine concentrations offered by the Center: Old Testament, New Testament, biblical studies, history, theology, ethics, philosophy of religion/apologetics, practical theology and interdisciplinary studies. In addition to a major concentration, students also choose a minor field of study. Students are required to take no fewer than five courses in their major field and at least three courses in their minor field. Courses in the minor field are selected from one or more of the other concentrations under the guidance of the student’s primary mentor.

Biblical studies majors take all nine courses in Old Testament and New Testament, with at least three courses in each of these two fields. Students wishing to pursue the Interdisciplinary Studies concentration will take their major concentration in one of the existing CATS doctoral concentrations and the remainder of their nine courses in the School of World Mission or School of Psychology, subject to the approval of those Schools. The primary mentor will be a member of the CATS Graduate Faculty, and the secondary mentor will normally be a member of the School of World Mission or the School of Psychology.

Language Requirements. In order to engage in high level research both in their degree program and in their future careers, students must be proficient in research languages that relate to their field of study. In addition to New Testament Greek and biblical Hebrew, which are required for admission to the program, Ph.D. students must demonstrate knowledge of a modern language (normally German or French) and one ancient language (normally Latin), by the beginning of the fall quarter of their second year of study. Old Testament majors must substitute Aramaic or Syriac for Latin, and New Testament and biblical studies majors may also substitute Aramaic for Latin. Students majoring in practical theology may meet the language requirement by choosing any three of the following: one ancient language, one modern language, one seminar in empirical research methods, or one course in integrative studies. Students may take up to three graduate seminars or directed readings courses while completing their first modern language requirements and their ancient language requirements. The initial language requirements must still be satisfied by the deadline stated above. Students must also demonstrate knowledge of a second relevant modern language (or its equivalent for practical theology majors) before the fifth course is taken.

Students majoring in Old Testament must take eight units of Semitic languages as a part of their major concentration. The Semitics component of the Old Testament concentration is composed of four units of Ugaritic and four units of either Akkadian or Arabic. Old Testament majors may choose to do a Semitics minor in which they would take 24 units of Semitic languages. In this case, the curriculum for the Old Testament major would not include the additional Semitics component.

Students who have already studied any of these languages for credit may petition to have the examination waived with respect to that language. Official transcripts reflecting the language courses taken must be submitted with the petition. In cases where another language is more relevant to the field of research, students may petition to be examined in that language instead of one of the above prescribed languages.

Course Work. This phase of the Ph.D. program is divided into two stages, with the Comprehensive Examinations placed between the stages. Stage One consists of five graduate seminars or directed readings courses. In Stage One, students are required to take three courses in their major concentration and two courses in their minor concentration. Stage One must include a methods seminar or foundational course in the student’s major concentration, and preferably a methods seminar in the student’s minor concentration. Some major concentrations have additional core requirements which should be taken in Stage One.

When a graduate seminar is offered in the field of a student’s studies, the student is expected to enroll in the designated seminar. Students may select a paper topic within the general framework of the seminar which relates to their dissertation topic. Students in Stage One of the program may also take directed readings courses with the approval of their mentor and the CATS Committee.

Upon satisfactory completion of five graduate seminars or directed reading courses, the student will be subject to review by the CATS Committee and will take four Comprehensive Examinations. Failure to pass the Comprehensive Examinations will lead to retaining the ex-
Dissertation and Oral Examination. A scholarly dissertation must be presented and approved as the final requirement for graduation. The following rules apply to Ph.D. dissertations:

1. The dissertation topic, in the area of the student's major field, is normally selected at the outset of the program with consultation with the primary mentor and with the approval of the CATS Committee. The topic is subject to revision as the student's research proceeds. Changes of topic must be supported by the primary mentor and be given formal approval by the CATS Committee.

2. Dissertations are expected to make use of the required languages, where appropriate, and incorporate the results of course work and general reading.

3. The primary and secondary mentors supervise the preparation of the dissertation.

4. The length of the dissertation is limited to 90,000 words, or roughly 350 pages, including text and notes. It is understood that some topics lend themselves to shorter length. The minimum length for the dissertation is approximately 200 pages.

5. No research for which credit has already been given toward a degree either at Fuller or any other institution may qualify to be recognized for the School of Theology Ph.D.

6. There will be two internal examiners (normally the primary and secondary mentors) and an external examiner appointed by the CATS Committee upon the recommendation of the student's primary mentor.

7. Candidates must submit two copies of their dissertation to the CATS office no later than the first week of January of the year preceding the Spring graduation. These copies will then be sent for formal evaluation to the two internal examiners (normally the primary and secondary mentors). The student will have opportunity to make revisions to the dissertation based on the internal readers' comments. The dissertation will then be sent to the external examiner. No dissertation will be sent to the external examiner until cleared by the primary mentor through the CATS Committee.

8. Candidates are not required to take an oral examination unless one of the examiners requires the examination. In preparation for the oral examination candidates will be required to submit three readers' copies of the dissertation by April 15 of the year of graduation. These copies should embody any corrections and necessary alterations previously noted by the examiners. All revisions should be made in consultation with the primary mentor. The examination usually involves both mentors, the Graduate Faculty of the major field department, representatives of the CATS Committee, plus a review of examinations not passed. If no satisfactory result is forthcoming, a terminal Th.M. degree will be granted upon completion of an approved thesis. Passage of the Comprehensive Examinations and approval by the CATS Committee advances students to candidacy in the Ph.D. program.

Passage of the Comprehensive Examinations leads to Stage Two of the program. Inasmuch as dissertations frequently need some adjustment of method, revision of topic, or narrowing of scope after a student has done preliminary research, the development of this second stage will involve reflection on the dissertation project between student and mentor. All four courses of this second stage will generally be directed reading courses, designed to round out and bring closure to the student's research. Successful completion of the final course in Stage Two leads to the final gathering of material, and the writing and editing of the dissertation.

Each graduate seminar or directed reading course taken will receive a letter grade. No grade below B will count toward the Ph.D. (B− is considered below B and does not count). Students who receive three or more B grades in the first five courses (Stage One) of their program will be deemed not to have reached a sufficiently high standard to qualify for entrance to Stage Two of the program, and will be automatically transferred to the Th.M. program.

Students who are unable to complete the work for a seminar or directed reading course in the quarter in which they registered for the course may request a grade of Hold from the professor. A Hold allows a maximum of two additional quarters in which to complete their work (the summer is considered one quarter as well). In some cases, the student may not be permitted to register again until the work is completed.

Students may petition the CATS Committee to take up to three courses or the equivalent of a full school year at an accredited graduate school in the United States or another country.

Comprehensive Examinations. Comprehensive Examinations are taken following the completion of the fifth graduate seminar or directed reading course and the three language requirements (one ancient and two modern). Three examinations will cover subject matter in the student's major concentration and one examination will cover subject matter in the student's minor concentration. The examinations are normally given three times a year, during the third and fourth week of October, the first two weeks of February, and the first two weeks of April. Students are advanced to candidacy or admitted to Stage Two of their course work when they have successfully completed their Comprehensive Examinations. They may register for their sixth course while awaiting the outcome of their Examinations, but may not proceed further.

9. The program makes use of the following distinctions in the evaluation of dissertations: Pass (either as Superior or Adequate), Resubmit, and Inadequate. Candidates whose dissertations are graded as Superior are deemed to have passed "with distinction." In cases where any one of the three examiners assesses a dissertation as not showing "adequate knowledge of the field of study," or as not showing "adequate evidence of independent research and originality in making a contribution to knowledge," or as not being satisfactory in its format or literary presentation, the dissertation must be graded Resubmit or Inadequate. Dissertations which are graded Inadequate may not be resubmitted.

10. In all cases where a reader grades a dissertation Resubmit the original recommendations of the readers will be reviewed following the resubmission of the dissertation. Candidates will be required to pay an additional fee of $400.00 if the dissertation receives a Resubmit evaluation. This fee covers costs incurred by reexamination of the dissertation.

11. Three copies of the dissertation in its final form will be presented to the office of the Center for Advanced Theological Studies by May 15 of the year of graduation. Two copies must be on 100 percent rag paper for binding. The third copy will be sent to University Microfilms International for microfilming and may be reproduced on bond paper. Students may not graduate until the oral examination is passed and the three copies of the dissertation in final form have been submitted. Students are responsible for all fees related to these copies of the dissertation.

Master of Theology (Th.M.) Degree

The Master of Theology (Th.M.) degree is designed to enable qualified graduates in theology to broaden and deepen their theological knowledge and competencies beyond the M.Div. level. This goal is achieved by providing an opportunity to take a limited number of courses in areas not previously included in their degree work, and also to pursue studies at an advanced level in a field of specialization.

Admission Requirements. General standards for admission to the Seminary may be found in the second section of this catalog. Applicants should possess an M.Div. degree or its educational equivalent from an accredited school, with an overall GPA (grade point average) of at least 3.0, and a competency in at least one biblical language (or depending on the concentration chosen, two languages) to the level required by the Fuller M.Div. degree. Students who do not have a biblical language already may make this up as part of their Th.M. course work. In addition, for the practical theology concentration, a minimum of two years of prior vocational experience is also required. Applicants whose first language is not English must have passed the TOEFL (Test of English as a Foreign Language) with a minimum score of 600. International applicants to the program who have earned an M.Div. degree in the United States with an acceptable grade point average are not required to retake the TOEFL. If a student entered a degree program in the United States without having taken the TOEFL, the student must take the examination to be admitted to the Th.M. program.

Admission to the program is made on a rolling basis, with most students beginning their program in the fall quarter. Completed applications for admission, including all transcripts, references, TOEFL scores, and supporting documents, must be received no less than 30 days prior to the beginning of each quarter. Preference for fall admission will be given to those submitting complete applications, including all transcripts, references, TOEFL scores, and supporting documents, by May 15. Notification of decisions is sent out by June 15.

Areas of Concentration. The Th.M. is offered in the same areas of concentration as the Ph.D.: Old Testament, New Testament, biblical studies (combining Old Testament and New Testament), history, theology, ethics, and philosophy of religion/apologetics and practical theology. The Th.M. requires students to identify an area of concentration and to take at least half their coursework (24 units) in that area of concentration. Students are required to take an eight-unit methods seminar or foundation course in the area of concentration. The purpose of this seminar is to introduce the student to the field and methods of research in a given area. As such, it lays a foundation for the advanced work required in the thesis. A second eight-unit course, normally a seminar, in the area of concentration or a related field of study is also required. A significant function of the seminars is to provide opportunity for mutual stimulus and criticism within a community of scholars. Students are required to write a thesis (eight units) on an approved topic in their area of concentration as their final course in the program.

Program Design and Duration. The program is designed to allow students to take up to 24 of the required 48 units through four-unit (500-level) courses, and the remaining 24 units through eight-unit (800-level) courses. The four-unit courses are intended to provide opportunity for students to extend their basic theological knowledge and competencies in one or more areas. The eight-unit courses are designed to deepen knowledge and competencies in a specialized area. Students are required to take at least half of their coursework (24 units) in one of the designated fields of concentration. This may be achieved through a combination of requisite eight-unit and four-unit courses. Subject to the availability of places in seminars and directed reading courses, students may elect to take all their courses from those offered at the eight-unit level.

The 48-unit program is designed to require one calendar year of full-time study, or its equivalent. In order to allow the program to be completed within one year of full-time study, Th.M. students are permitted to take an eight-unit course concurrently with a four-unit course, but may not take two eight-unit courses concurrently.

Students may take up to six four-unit courses, drawn from the M.Div./M.A. curriculum, and the remaining three eight-unit courses from the CATS graduate studies curriculum. In the case of a student who takes the maximum number of four-unit courses, the program structure will be as follows:

Six 4-unit courses drawn from the M.Div./M.A. curriculum;
One 8-unit Methods or Foundation Seminar in the area of the student’s concentration, or both the New Testament Methods Seminar and the Old Testament Seminar at the 800-level if the student is following the Biblical Studies concentration;
One 8-unit seminar or directed study course in the area of the student’s concentration or a related field;
One 8-unit course devoted to the writing of a thesis on a topic in the student’s area of concentration.

Course Credit. Credit is given only to the approved courses which a student successfully completes as a registered student in the Th.M program. All courses must be taken for credit, and no course which receives a grade lower than B may count toward the degree (B- is considered below B, and will not count). No four-unit course for which credit has been given toward another degree program may petition the CATS Committee to substitute it for another four-unit course. Students who have taken a foreign language for credit in another degree program may petition the CATS Committee to substitute another course for the specified language course. Students who have taken a foreign language for credit in another degree program may petition the CATS Committee to substitute another course for the language course.

In order to encourage breadth and also to utilize the rich diversification of the Seminary’s course offerings, Th.M. students are permitted (subject to the needs of the student’s concentration and the overall program requirements) to take any four-unit course offered by the Seminary on campus or in extension in fulfillment of their degree requirements. All eight-unit courses must be taken on campus, and be supervised by a resident member of the Graduate Faculty.

Language Requirements. Students who wish to specialize in Old Testament, New Testament, or Biblical Studies, must have Hebrew and Greek to the level required by the Fuller M.Div. All other students must have either Hebrew or Greek to the level required by the Fuller M.Div. Students may take Hebrew or Greek for up to eight units of credit in the Th.M. program.

The Th.M. requires competence in a research language in addition to one or more of the biblical languages. In order to fulfill this requirement, students may take courses in one of the following languages for credit (up to eight units) as part of their coursework: Theological German; Theological French; Theological Latin. These courses will include the reading of theological texts, and an examination given by the teacher of the course. Fees for a four-unit language course will be the same as for other four-unit courses. It is expected that the thesis will show some knowledge of theological literature in the designated language as evidence of a student’s ability to engage in advanced study.

Students may petition the CATS Committee to be allowed to take a written examination in lieu of taking a language course. In such cases, in addition to passing the examination, the student must take another course from the curriculum instead of the language course. Students who have taken a foreign language for credit in another degree program may petition the CATS Committee to substitute another course for the theological language course. Students may also petition the CATS Committee to substitute another course for the language course.

All language study (except in the case of students specializing in Semitic languages) must be completed prior to taking the final two eight-unit courses.

Students who specialize in Old Testament with a special emphasis on Semitic languages may fulfill their eight-unit level course requirements by taking a methods seminar in Old Testament and their remaining courses in Semitic languages. In their case, a thesis is not required in order to complete their degree.

The thesis is designed to demonstrate the student’s competence in his or her area of concentration. It should deal with a specific topic in a way comparable with a paper published in a professional journal. The aim should be stated at the outset, and should be accompanied by a statement of purpose. The normal length of the thesis is 45-50 pages of double-spaced text, exclusive of notes and bibliography. The thesis must be submitted complete and ready for examination by May 1 of the year in which the student wants to participate in commencement. The thesis is examined by the student’s mentor. Theses which receive an A grade from the mentor will be examined by another resident faculty member. If that faculty member concurs with the mentor’s evaluation, the thesis will be designated as “Passed with Distinction.” Only Mentors. At the outset of a student’s program the CATS Committee will assign a member of the Graduate Faculty as the student’s mentor. The mentor, who teaches in the area of the student’s concentration, is responsible for advising the student about courses, and for supervision and examination of the thesis. The student is required to take at least the eight-unit thesis course with the mentor. All Full, Associate, and Contributing Members of the CATS Graduate Faculty are eligible to serve as mentors.

Graduation. Students must have fulfilled all course, examination and thesis requirements in order to be eligible to participate in the commencement ceremony. Students may be cleared for graduation during any quarter of the academic year provided that all degree requirements have been met.

Relation to Other School of Theology Degree Programs. The Th.M. is designed as a self-contained terminal degree. However, many students choose to pursue a Ph.D., and many students take the Th.M. as a complement to the D.Min. degree. Students are not permitted to transfer directly to the Ph.D. program. A new application for admission to the Ph.D. must be submitted. Entrance to the Ph.D. program is subject to meeting the entrance requirements in effect at the time of application and competition for available places. Only students who have earned a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.7 or better for their Th.M. work will be considered for admission to the Ph.D. program.

Students with a Th.M. from Fuller (or another accredited school) who are admitted to the Ph.D. program are granted advanced standing. The advanced standing means that they are required to take only seven Ph.D. courses instead of nine.

Students in the Ph.D. program may take the Th.M. as a terminal degree. Those students who have completed Stage One of the Ph.D. program (the first five eight-unit courses, language examinations, and comprehensive examinations) and have been informed that the level of their work and their performance in the Ph.D. does not warrant continuance in it, may present a thesis on the basis of previous coursework. Their language study is deemed sufficient to cover the outstanding units required for the Th.M. Students in the Ph.D. program who transfer to the Th.M. prior to taking the comprehensive examinations may complete coursework for the Th.M. by taking further eight-unit and four-unit courses in fulfillment of their degree requirements.

The Th.M. may be viewed as a complement to the D.Min. program, in view of the fact that the latter concentrates on competence in the practice of ministry in such areas as church growth, counseling, preaching, management, etc. The Th.M. provides an opportunity for pastors and others to pursue advanced study in Old Testament, New Testament, Biblical Studies, Theology, Ethics, Philosophy of Religion/Apologetics or Practical Theology, as well as to extend their knowledge and competence in the wide variety of courses offered by the Seminary on campus and in extension.

For more information on the Th.M. degree and its policies, please refer to the Graduate Students’ Handbook available in the CATS Office.

Time Limit for Completion of Degrees

The normal upper limit for completion of the Ph.D. is eight years and five years for the Th.M. degree, dated from the first quarter the student is enrolled in the program in any way.

Continuation Fees

Students are expected to register each Fall, Winter, and Spring Quarter. Students who do not register for course work or language study are required to pay a continuation fee as well as any applicable Seminary registration fees. Students who do not register for three successive quarters (not including summer quarter) will be automatically placed on the Inactive list. In order to reenter the program they must petition the CATS Committee in writing. Reentry is subject to availability of place, full payment of fees, and the approval of the CATS Committee.

Course Listings

Graduate seminars and directed reading courses offered in the Ph.D. and Th.M. programs are designated by 800 numbers. The four-unit courses which Th.M. students may take as a part of their curriculum are designated by 500 numbers. A list of 500-level (four-unit) courses may be found at the end of the Courses of Study section. A list of 800-level graduate seminars and graduate-level language classes may be found at the end of the Courses of Study section. A partial list of research areas covered by the directed reading courses and a list of the specific graduate seminars to be offered in the coming year are available from the office of the Center for Advanced Theological Studies.
Fuller Theological Seminary is committed to meeting the needs of churches and of those who seek to serve them. In the School of Theology, a number of special institutes, programs and cooperative relationships have been developed which seek to make the resources of theological education available to those engaged in work and ministry, and to gather educational resources to focus on specific needs of churches and of those preparing for specialized ministries. To accomplish this, these various special and cooperative programs:

1. Employ alternate systems for the delivery of education, such as extension classes, convocations, seminars, symposiums and workshops;
2. Join theology with other disciplines to address specific areas of ministry, such as ministries to youth, cross-cultural ministries and marriage and family ministries;
3. Utilize the professional expertise of para-church ministries, such as Young Life;
4. Make nondegree study available to those involved in ministry.

The histories, philosophies, aims and general curricula of these programs are described below. Specific information on degrees or concentrations offered through these programs may be found under the respective degree program sections.

Family Life Education

The erosion of marriage and family life is of great concern to the church and the community at large. Response to this national crisis has largely been through therapy for victims, while procedures for assisting healthy families have often been deferred. In order to reinforce and assist the church in its ministry to and for the family, Fuller Theological Seminary is offering training in family life education through the combined resources of the School of Theology and the marriage and family therapy division of the Graduate School of Psychology. The objectives of this concentration are:

1. To provide Christian leaders to work in and through the church in response to the needs in marriage and family life;
2. To equip those leaders with theological, psychological, sociological and educational knowledge regarding the educational ministries of the church;
3. To provide those leaders with viable preventative strategies for the support of healthy families;
4. To assist those leaders in the identification and referral process for unhealthy families.

A concentration in family life education is available in both the Master of Divinity and Master of Arts in Theology degree programs of the School of Theology.

Cross-Cultural Studies Program

The Cross-Cultural Studies Program of the School of World Mission exists to prepare men and women for ministry in cross-cultural situations. This program provides a foundation for involvement in mission through biblical, historical and theological studies as well as through the social and behavioral sciences. A curriculum in cross-cultural studies has been designed for the Master of Divinity degree program in the School of Theology, and a Master of Arts in Cross-Cultural Studies may be pursued in the School of World Mission. Combining the resources of the School of Theology and the School of World Mission, the cross-cultural studies program provides preparation for:

1. Future missionaries;
2. Men and women who plan to accept short-term missionary assignments and continue afterward in church ministry;
3. Persons who do not plan to go overseas but are highly committed to the missionary task and want the mission component as a part of their preparation;
4. People in a variety of professions who hope to share their faith cross-culturally;
5. Those who anticipate ministries in the United States among ethnic groups different from their own.

Faculty, academic advisors and the director of the Cross-Cultural Studies Program will help tailor the program to individual goals for ministry and to the specific geographic area of service.

Christian Formation and Discipleship

The Christian Formation and Discipleship Program at Fuller Theological Seminary exists to help develop persons for the educational and discipleship ministries of the church. The program affirms the importance of enabling all members of the church—adults, youth and children—to become knowledgeable, equipped and loving disciples of Jesus Christ, serving him in all of life as responsible members of his church. The program seeks to prepare pastors and teachers "to equip the saints for the work of ministry" (Ephesians 4:11-12). Because of this focus on the teaching/equipping ministries of the church, the program is designed for:

1. The pastor who wishes to develop understanding and skill as a teacher in the congregation.

2. The person who wishes to specialize in the educational and discipling ministries of the church.

3. The para-church worker or layperson who wishes to develop competencies in the area of helping persons come to Christian maturity.

A special program of faculty involvement, advising, internships and special activities is available to those in either the M.A. or the M.Div. Christian formation and discipleship concentration. Specific information on the admission requirements and curriculum for both the M.Div. and M.A. degrees with concentrations in Christian formation and discipleship can be found under the sections of these degree programs.

In addition, a special concentration in youth ministries is offered in both the M.A. and M.Div. degree programs under the direction of the Christian formation and discipleship program.

Ministry of the Laity

To underline and assist in the development of its strong commitment to the ministry of the laity, Fuller Theological Seminary has established the Homer L. Goddard Chair of the Ministry of the Laity. This professorship, coupled to the already extensive curricular commitment of the Seminary, enables students to focus on the ministry of the laity while at the Seminary.

This area covers concerns of interest to those entering pastoral, educational, parachurch or non-church vocations. Courses in this area are offered in all divisions of the School of Theology and explore ways in which the people of God can fully implement the priesthood of all believers within the church, as well as fulfill their ministry in the world. Courses aim to produce, or assist students to equip, theologically aware Christian capable of making a significant contribution in their homes, neighborhoods, churches, workplaces, places of leisure, cities and nations.

This takes place through relevant biblical, historical, theological and ethical investigations, as well as through highly focused social and cultural analyses of central aspects of contemporary life. The emphasis is both on cognitive understanding and development of an everyday spirituality and a practical response to everyday issues. Alongside study, experience and action provide some of the agenda and direction for practical theological reflection.

Upon recommendation by this committee, the applicant may be accepted as a special non-degree student. Admission to the African-American Ministers Program is only considered in the fall and spring quarters. Further information may be found in the earlier section on this degree program.

Theological Studies Programs for African-American and Hispanic Ministers

The Theological Studies Programs for African-American and Hispanic Ministers combine theological and pastoral studies designed to assist women and men in their ministry in the African-American and Hispanic communities. These programs are open to qualified persons who do not have a baccalaureate degree but have significant involvement in the church's ministry for ten or more years and are at least 31 years of age.

Students may also undertake a Master of Arts in Christian Leadership with a concentration in the ministry of the laity. This degree is specially designed for those who wish to coordinate and resource lay ministry in the church in the marketplace. Further information may be found in the earlier section on this degree program.

Theological Studies Programs for African-American and Hispanic Ministers

Theological Studies Programs for African-American and Hispanic Ministers combine theological and pastoral studies designed to assist women and men in their ministry in the African-American and Hispanic communities. These programs are open to qualified persons who do not have a baccalaureate degree but have significant involvement in the church's ministry for ten or more years and are at least 31 years of age.

Entrance into either program is coordinated by the program director and staff and an advisory committee. Upon recommendation by this committee, the applicant may be accepted as a special non-degree student. Admission to the African-American Ministers Program is only considered in the fall and spring quarters. Deadlines for applications may be found in the second section of this catalog.

El Programa de Estudios Teológicos para ministros hispanos ha sido diseñado para fortalecer y animar en su preparación teológica a cristianos maduros ya comprometidos en alguna fase significante del ministerio. Es un programa de educación continua para personas cuyos dones y llamamiento han sido comprobados por la iglesia, pero que no han completado un programa universitario.

Los solicitantes a este programa tendrán una entrevista personal con miembros del Comité Asesor Hispano. Este comité consiste de líderes hispanos de esta región, invitados por el Presidente Richard Mouw para aprobar solicitudes de admisión. Bajo la recomendación de este comité, el solicitante será aceptado como estudiante especial. Cuando este haya completado 48 unidades de crédito (o sea 12 cursos), recibirá un certificado de estudios.

Los cursos en el plan de estudios utilizan miembros de la facultad residente, y también líderes eclesiásticos de áreas locales, nacionales, e internacionales de la obra hispana. Los cursos se ofrecen en español e inglés, con énfasis en los aspectos bilingües y biculturales. El programa de estudios se divide igualmente entre cursos de Biblia y teología, y cursos orientados hacia las necesidades y hacia los recursos específicos del ministerio, de la iglesia y de las comunidades hispanas.

Fuller After Five

A comprehensive evening program is offered on the Pasadena campus. Master's-level courses in all core areas are scheduled after five p.m. on a two-year rotation plan. Occasionally, Saturday morning courses are also made available on campus.

In most cases, by attending as few as two evening courses per quarter, the Master of Arts in Christian Leadership degree can be earned in 3-4 years, the Master of Arts in Theology degree can be earned in 4-5 years, the Master of Divinity degree in 5-6 years, or a Certificate of Graduate Studies in two years. Degree programs can be accelerated by including summer courses and/or two week intensives.

Further information may be obtained from the School of Theology academic advising office.

Extended Education Program

Fuller Theological Seminary Extended Education seeks to serve local churches by providing opportunities for theological education for ministry within a local church context. Extended Education seeks to provide educational experiences in off-campus, non-traditional settings which will enable students to discover, develop and improve their gifts for service and ministry within the scope of the church's overall mission.

Extended Education:
1. Provides theological education for the development of lay persons for leadership in ministry in the local church and community.
2. Offers prospective theological students experience in church ministry and Christian community while beginning their studies and testing their callings, and
3. Extends resources to pastors for the development of local church educational programs and for personal and professional enrichment.

The process of theological education for ministry in extension is implemented by going to the student, being close to the location of ministry and being close to the life and task demands of the participants.

Fuller Theological Seminary has made these resources available in several extension areas in response to the church's need for an equipped and mobilized laity. Laypersons, future pastors and pastors learn together in this program.

Curriculum. Courses offered in extension on a quarterly basis are equivalent to those offered at the Pasadena campus. Full-time faculty and local adjunct professors provide instruction. Courses are taught on weeknights or weekends in local facilities, and library resources are arranged.

Degree Programs. A student may complete all requirements for the Master of Arts in Theology degree (general program track) in seven extension centers, including Seattle, the San Francisco Bay Area, Phoenix, and Orange County in Southern California, and up to 24 courses may be taken toward the Master of Divinity degree program. The Master of Arts in Christian Leadership degree is offered through Fuller's Extended Education program as well, although not all courses required for each concentration may be readily available in each extension area. In all locations, courses completed in extension may be applied toward an M.A. or M.Div. degree upon admission to that program.

Further information regarding the Extended Education program may be found in the Continuing and Extended Education section of this catalog.

Institute of Youth Ministries

The Institute of Youth Ministries was established in 1977 to combine the theological resources of the School of Theology with the youth ministries and field training expertise of Young Life Campaign, a leading national evangelical Christian outreach to high school youth. The purpose of the Institute is:
1. To provide an educational program in evangelistic youth ministries that integrates classroom study with extensive field training;
2. To conduct ongoing training programs for those in evangelistic youth ministries, with particular attention to preparation for ministry on the staff of Young Life; and
3. To encourage research in the field of evangelistic youth ministries.

The Institute of Youth Ministries offers a program of theological education leading to the Master of Arts in Christian Leadership, the Master of Arts in Theology or Master of Divinity degree with a concentration in youth ministries. The program integrates a foundation of biblical and theological studies with a prescribed concentration in evangelistic youth ministries, designed in cooperation with the Ministry Resources Department of Young Life.

Although the Institute is designed primarily for persons preparing to serve on the staff of Young Life, other persons preparing for ministry with youth may pursue this concentration. Institute personnel and advisors from the School of Theology will help design a curriculum to meet individual needs for preparation in this area of ministry.

Courses leading to a degree with a concentration in youth ministries may be taken at the extension sites of the Institute of Youth Ministries. Field education courses in the Los Angeles area are arranged by resident IYM staff. Biblical, theological and youth ministries courses are offered on the summer campus of the IYM in Colorado Springs. These courses are open to all Fuller students as space is available. Students on the staff of IYM may complete the field education courses in the immediate context of their staff assignments. A two-year concentration in ministry to troubled youth is offered in Colorado Springs.

A separate program for non-Young Life staff, offering a concentration in youth ministries focused on the local church, is offered on the Pasadena campus under the direction of the Christian formation and discipleship program.

Seattle Association for Theological Education

In 1991, Fuller Seminary joined with Regent College, British Columbia, Seattle Pacific University, and a number of churches in the Pacific Northwest to form the Seattle Association for Theological Education (SATE). SATE exists to enable churches and theological schools in the Seattle area to maximize each other’s unique strengths by working together to develop innovative, shared approaches to theological education. One of the results of this partnership is a unique new program, provisionally approved by the Association of Theological Schools, that enables selected students to complete the entire Master of Divinity program in the Seattle area. This program utilizes several distinctive formational and educational approaches, such as involving pastors and laypeople in mentoring relationships and learning support groups with the M.Div. students, and has attracted a great deal of attention as having significant potential as a new model for churches and schools to work together to provide theological education.

David du Plessis Center for Christian Spirituality

Inaugurated in 1985, the Center has for its aim the study of Christian spirituality over the broad range of ecumenical diversity. Included in such investigation are the literature, practices, institutions and movements of spirituality. These may include, for example, the mystical tradition in Eastern Orthodoxy, the role of women in spirituality, charismatic renewal and ministry, and the origins of the Pentecostal movement.

The Center was named for the renowned "Mr. Pentecost," whose ministry over a half-century bridged three significant Christian movements—ecumenical, charismatic and Pentecostal. Its first major project consists of the establishment of an archival collection of Pentecostal and charismatic resources based on the library and personal papers of David J. du Plessis, which have been permanently donated to the Seminary. Related materials from others are actively sought, and an archive now exists within the Seminary library.

The Du Plessis Center will sponsor selected courses and conferences designed to deepen the understanding of Christian spirituality as expressed in the various denominational families. Limited support for visiting research will be available to scholars seeking access to the archive.

Institute for Christian Organizational Development

The Institute for Christian Organizational Development was established in 1981 to address the need for management training designed specifically for the Christian leader. The Institute offers graduate-level training seminars and short-term workshop experiences in various management areas.

Further information may be found in the Continuing and Extended Education section of this catalog.
Study in Israel

Recognizing the significance of the first-hand study of the history and geography of the Holy Land, Fuller Seminary sponsors, from time to time, a summer program of travel and study in Israel. A typical program includes four weeks of lectures and field study, with an optional additional three weeks that include work in an archaeological dig and travel in Egypt and Jordan. Elective credit (four or eight units) may be arranged.

Elective credit is also available for certain courses taken at the American Institute of Holy Land Studies in Jerusalem.

Biblical Language Studies (LG)

The teaching of Hebrew and Greek is under the supervision of the Old Testament and New Testament Departments. The beginning courses are taught by resident or adjunct faculty and by Graduate Teaching Fellows—graduate students pursuing the Th.M. or Ph.D. degrees who are committed to the teaching and use of Greek and Hebrew.

Biblical Hebrew. A knowledge of biblical Hebrew that is sufficient to begin exegetical work in the Old Testament is a prerequisite for the required Old Testament book study (to be drawn from either OTB or OTC offerings). LG502 Beginning Hebrew (8 units) is designed to give a student this ability. Students who have already acquired a knowledge of biblical Hebrew, either by course work or self-study, may meet this requirement by passing a reading evaluation examination in biblical Hebrew. This exam will be arranged upon request.

Reading knowledge means a knowledge of Greek vocabulary and grammar that is sufficient to begin exegetical work in the New Testament. LG512 Beginning Greek, an intensive course (12 units), designed to give a student this ability, is offered each quarter, including the summer. It is also offered in a less intensive format over three quarters, beginning in the fall.

Students who have already acquired a knowledge of New Testament Greek, either by course work or by self-study, may meet this requirement by passing the Greek Waiver Examination, which is given at an announced time at the beginning of fall quarter and in the middle of each quarter. The examination is designed to test the student’s ability to read and translate the New Testament in Greek, to recognize and identify common words and forms, and to explain the more common syntactical constructions. Students who pass this exam receive a waiver for the triple course (12 units) requirement in New Testament Greek in the M.Div. curriculum and may substitute electives of their choice. Passing of the exam also meets the Greek prerequisite for New Testament courses requiring Greek. In any case, no credit is granted for passing the exam.

In order to help students ascertain their level of competency and areas of weakness, a trial examination comparable in scope, difficulty and format to the entrance exam is made available to the applicant for self-administration. The exam may be requested from the Theology Academic Advising office. An answer key is provided with the exam so that the student may grade the exam and determine the areas where review or further study is needed.

The Divided Course Option. Normally, LG512 Beginning Greek will also be offered as a divided course, spread over three quarters for four units per quarter. This option is provided for part-time students, students with low language aptitude, those whose schedules preclude taking the intensive course, those who wish to extend their study of Greek over a longer period of time, or those who wish to take other classes at the same time. Beginning Greek is also offered in Spanish over two quarters when there is sufficient need.

LG 502 Beginning Hebrew. The elements of Hebrew vocabulary, morphology and grammar. Offered as a two-quarter course, four units per quarter. Also offered as an intensive course. Also taught in Spanish. 8 units. M.Div. core: HEB.

Offered as a one-quarter intensive course or over three quarters; also offered in Spanish over two quarters.

Directed Readings and Independent Studies

Students in the Ph.D. and Th.M. programs design their programs in conjunction with their mentor. The student and the professor whose specialty the student desires to pursue agree together to participate in a directed readings or independent studies course and decide on the contents and requirements of the course before the quarter of study begins. The student must make arrangements for the course with the CATS program administrator before registration, and must register for academic credit within normal quarterly registration deadlines. The student is responsible to meet with the professor throughout the quarter of study to discuss his or her progress and the completion of the paper. All regular CATS policies and procedures apply to directed readings and independent studies courses.

We at the School of World Mission and Institute of Church Growth at Fuller Theological Seminary believe that we stand at a critical juncture of the missionary task. Everything in the past 185 years of modern missions has set the stage for a great harvest. Apart from some small ethnic groups in Oceania, Asia, Africa and Latin America, the “discipling of the peoples” (Matthew 28:19) remains to be done. The great populations of Earth—Marxists, Hindus, Buddhists, Muslims, secularists, animists and nominal “Christians” in the West—have yet to accept Jesus Christ as Lord and Savior and become responsible members of his body and church. Today, God calls Christians of every continent and culture to the task of making Jesus Christ known, loved and believed in throughout the world. As evidence of his call, God grants remarkable responsiveness in many populations. The main task lies ahead, but a new factor has been introduced. Because of the rapidly growing non-Western Christian missionary movement, Christian mission is now the most international, interracial and intercultural movement in history. The School of World Mission aims to be a resource for this growing movement.

Furthermore, Christian mission today is being carried on in the midst of tremendous revolutionary changes affecting every aspect of human life. The guidelines and assumptions under which our ancestors labored have been swept away. Christian mission today has radically new ground on which to operate: advances in knowledge, changed political alignments, greatly increased control of nature, rise of churches in Asia, Africa and Latin America, lessening of ecclesiastical competition and hatred, rising religious relativism, the battle for justice, accelerating religious fundamentalist movements in all of the world’s major religions and a vastly accelerated secularization of life. Education for mission must prepare believers to propagate the Christian faith in this new world being born.

In the midst of such changes, Jesus Christ is the same yesterday, today and forever. The mission is his, not ours. He remains in charge of his “co-mission.” Since no person comes to the Father but by him, propagating his gospel to the ends of the earth by multiplication of believers and churches is the supreme and controlling purpose of the Christian mission to the world.

However, in each situation the Church is to be shaped in a way that affirms and utilizes the most positive aspects of the culture. New believers should not be torn out of their cultural matrix and forced to become “foreign” in order to become followers of Christ.

Thus the School of World Mission aims to help prepare and provide leadership for the task of world mission in today’s emerging world in several ways.

Globalized Missiological Education

The School of World Mission seeks to help prepare and supply missiological leadership by providing advanced graduate-level education for midcareer missionaries and mature international church and mission leaders and by preparing missionary candidates for their ministry in a new language and culture.

In order to be effective, those called to communicate the gospel cross-culturally need insight into theology, history, anthropology, sociology, theory of mission, the biblical base of mission, elentics (knowledge of and approach to non-Christian religions), the world church (sometimes called ecumenics), church growth, evangelism, leadership development and the indigenous church. These subjects are all, therefore, to be studied as proper parts of education for mission.

The faculty seeks to accomplish its purpose by developing degree programs and delivery systems that combine academic integrity, professional training and ministry maturation. These balanced delivery approaches include both resident and extension modes that integrate research and field ministry development. The study of mission embraces a vast body of knowledge from a wide range of disciplines. The well-prepared missionary should see it as an integrated whole. In presenting this area of study through experiential learning, lectures, reading and research two dangers are avoided: a frozen intellectual regimen removed from the fast-moving contemporary scene and a smorgasbord of “hot” transient emphases. Advanced education must be validated by advanced degrees in mission, yet the degree program must remain flexible enough to equip the people of God to meet the rapidly changing conditions of the modern world.

Multilingual and Multidisciplinary Research and Publishing

The School of World Mission seeks to facilitate multilingual and multidisciplinary missiological research to support the mission of the church. The school seeks to encourage and facilitate the publication of the findings of this research not only in English, but in the languages where the research is done.

Though the discipling of the nations is a chief and continuing goal of Christian mission, much remains to be discovered about how individuals and their specific societies are disciplined and formed into reproductive, serving churches. In most lands, some churches have broken through to great growth and engaged in transformational service, but these examples are often unknown to other parts of the church. This vacuum in knowledge and training facilities handicaps the entire missionary enterprise.

To meet this need, therefore, the School of World Mission and Institute of Church Growth emphasizes multidisciplinary missiological research as an integral part of the education process. The approach to higher education emphasizes discovering and teaching new insights concerning the wholistic growth of churches in ways which remain biblically faithful and culturally appropriate.

Leadership in Missiology

The School of World Mission provides leadership in missiology by giving continuing leadership to the multiple disciplines in missiology and calling attention to the unfinished and complex task of bringing people to commitment to Jesus Christ as Lord and Savior.

A center concerned with training leaders must itself be willing, where it can, to provide leadership by challenging the church to undertake the mission to which God has called it, and by providing mission agencies with a theology and strategy of mission. The faculty of the School of World Mission seeks to do this by advocating and conducting research, writing books, speaking at conferences and encouraging the formation of mission structures that meet the demands of the missionary movement in the world. The School of World Mission also seeks to lead in providing missiological education to all who are qualified while reducing the time and place constraints. Thus the School of World Mission continues to implement new delivery systems through extended and continuing education.

ADMISSION

General standards for admission to any of the three schools of Fuller Theological Seminary may be found in the second section of this catalog.

The School of World Mission admits students to degree programs and to special courses designed for missionary candidates, missionaries and international church and mission leaders.

Those entering the Master of Arts program (both cross-cultural studies and intercultural studies) must normally hold an undergraduate degree (B.A. or equivalent) from an accredited institution.

In addition, all candidates entering a missiology or intercultural studies program must give evidence of experience in significant cross-cultural communication of the Christian faith, and must normally demonstrate fluency in a second language. A special provision may be made for experienced mission executives, missions pastors and experienced church leaders who lack cross-cultural experience (see Special and Cooperative Programs).

Applicants whose native language is not English are required to have achieved a minimum score of 550 on the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) prior to admission. Applicants to master’s-level programs with TOEFL scores between 500 and 549 who are otherwise qualified for admission may seek admission through Fuller’s English as a Second Language Program.

A limited number of students may be admitted under one of the following classifications:

Limited Enrollment Student: one who is qualified for regular admission to an M.A. program but wants to take no more than five courses (20 units).

Unclassified Student: one who is academically qualified for admission to an M.A. program, wants to take an unlimited number of courses, but does not want to pursue a degree program.

Special Student: one who does not meet the academic requirements for regular admission, unclassified or limited graduate student status, but is at least thirty-one years of age and has had at least ten years of ministry experience.
Visiting Student: one who is currently enrolled as a student in good standing in the post-bachelor’s level at another school, but wants to have transcript evidence of course work done at Fuller for transfer to another institution.

Predoctoral Program
A Doctor of Missiology or Doctor of Philosophy applicant who has had at least twenty graduate level units of missiology, who has not met the other prerequisites (writing requirement, 48 units of graduate level missiology, cross-cultural ministry experience, core competencies in understanding the church and its expansion, culture and biblical foundations of mission), and who is not seeking a Master of Arts or Master of Theology degree from the School of World Mission may upon application to a doctoral program be admitted to the predoctoral program. The predoctoral program of the School of World Mission is designed as an institutionally recognized means by which one may complete the doctoral prerequisites. Acceptance into the pre-doctoral program, however, does not guarantee acceptance nor provide an acceptance priority into a doctoral program. In any case, no degree is granted in this program. Enrollment in this program is limited to one calendar year.

DEGREE PROGRAMS

The School of World Mission offers degrees to prefield missionaries in cross-cultural studies, and missiology and intercultural studies degrees to missionaries and church and mission leaders who have had at least three years of field experience in a cross-cultural Christian ministry. International church leaders qualify through demonstrating their facility in English and evidencing significant ministry.

Residence Requirements
Students in the Master of Arts in Cross-Cultural Studies (M.A. CCS) and Master of Arts in Intercultural Studies (M.A. ICS) programs and the Master of Theology in Intercultural Studies (Th.M. ICS) program are required to take a minimum of 48 units from the School of World Mission. These units may include missiology courses on the Pasadena campus, in the School of World Mission In-Service Program, in independent studies done with School of World Mission regular or adjunct faculty, in School of World Mission extensions both in the U.S.A. and overseas, or through a writing project or thesis. Students in the Doctor of Ministry in Global Ministries program must complete at least one 12-unit seminar on the Pasadena campus. Students in the Doctor of Missiology (D.Miss.) program are expected to complete at least four tutorials and the dissertation with School of World Mission faculty. For the Ph.D. degree, a student is expected to complete at least four tutorials and the dissertation with the School of World Mission faculty.

Even with the flexible range of options for course work, possibilities to transfer credit into M.A. programs and the occasional granting of advanced standing for nontranscribed postsecondary missiological teaching, opportunities for external tutorials in both the D.Miss. and Ph.D., a physical presence on the Pasadena campus is still required for each of these programs. The M.A. and Th.M. ICS programs require that a person spend at least two quarters on campus. The D.Miss. program similarly requires two quarters on campus including the participation in 18 doctoral seminar sessions. The Ph.D. program requires two and one-half quarters of physical presence including the participation in 25 doctoral seminar sessions.

Transfer Credit
Given the requirement that one must take a minimum of 48 units of missiology from the School of World Mission in an M.A. CCS or M.A. ICS program, one may transfer a maximum of 48 units from another accredited seminary into an M.A. CCS or M.A. ICS program. A maximum of 24 units of advanced standing for post-secondary nontranscribed missiological teaching or translation may be considered. However, a maximum of 48 units of transfer credit and advanced standing may not be exceeded in an M.A. program.

Transfer credit is not accepted into the Th.M. ICS program except for the linguistics courses required in the translation concentration. Transfer credit is not accepted into either the D.Miss. or Ph.D. programs, and is normally not accepted into the D.Min. in Global Ministries.

Concentrations and Specializations
A concentration is an institutionally designed set of courses which address a given ministry arena. A specialization is a set of courses designed by the student to address his or her own ministry development needs in a sequential and Integrated way. Concentrations available in the Master of Arts curriculum in intercultural studies currently include anthropology, church growth, communication, contextualization, general missiology, history of missions, international development, Islamic studies, Judaic studies and Jewish evangelism, leadership, research in missiology, spiritual dynamics in mission, theology of mission, translation, and urban mission. Specializations may be arranged according to individual needs and interests utilizing the resources of all three schools of the Seminary. Provision is made for field research practica and internships for credit.

Master of Theology in Chinese Ministry and Mission

The School of World Mission offers a four-year program specifically designed for those who aspire to minister to the North American Chinese church. This program consists of 192 quarter units, including the M.Div. degree or M.Div. equivalence, the Missiological Integration Seminar, and a thesis. Combining the resources of the School of Theology and the School of World Mission, the curriculum emphasizes solid biblical and theological foundations, bicultural perspective, contextualized ministry, holistic discipleship training, and supervised internship.

Doctoral Programs

Four doctoral programs are offered by the School of World Mission: the Doctor of Ministry in Global Ministries (D.Min. GM), the Doctor of Missiology (D.Miss.), the Doctor of Philosophy in Intercultural Studies (Ph.D. ICS), and the Doctor of Philosophy in Missiology (Ph.D. Miss.).

The D.Min. in Global Ministries aims to equip a person for a higher level of competence than can be achieved in a foundational M.Div. program. It seeks to serve M.Div. graduates as well as those with advanced degrees, providing both with a way to upgrade and update their ministry perspectives in missiology.

The D.Miss. is the highest level of professional certification in missiology. The Ph.D. represents the highest level of academic certification, and is designed to contribute to the development of missiological scholarship and to prepare one to teach at the university and graduate level.

Applicants for a doctoral program must have completed the prerequisites before their application will be considered. Applicants for a D.Miss. or Ph.D. program must have passed a qualifying exam, mastered a field language, demonstrated research and graduate-level writing competence, completed 48 units of graduate level missiology and the prescribed course MB561 Introduction to Research Design, and satisfied the core competency requirements in the areas of the historic growth of the church, biblical foundations of mission, and cross-cultural sensitivity as developed in coursework such as cultural anthropology.

Doctor of Ministry in Global Ministries

The Doctor of Ministry in Global Ministries requires 40 units of missiology beyond the M.Div. and a ministry project (8 units) that makes a significant contribution to missiological practice. The D.Min. GM is built around three 12-unit courses conducted in two-week sessions, one 4-unit ministry philosophy course, and one 8-unit ministry project. This program is designed to be completed in a three to six year period while the candidate is involved fulltime in ministry. It is not intended to be a residential degree program. Further information about this program, including course descriptions, may be found under the Doctor of Ministry heading in the Continuing and Extended Education section of this catalog.

The Doctor of Missiology program is built around four tutorials (8 units each), two methods courses (4 units each) and a dissertation (8 units). The tutorials may be done with the approval of the student's doctoral guidance committee as either large independent studies or a combination of class work and independent studies under the supervision of a faculty tutor. A student may enroll in as many as three courses over the period of one academic year (at no additional cost and with no additional units of credit) to support each tutorial.

SPECIAL AND COOPERATIVE PROGRAMS

In the School of World Mission, a number of special institutes, programs and cooperative relationships have been developed which seek to make the resources of missiological education more available to field missionaries and national church or mission leaders, and to gather educational resources to focus on specific needs of churches, missions and those preparing to serve them.

Cross-Cultural Studies Program

The Cross-Cultural Studies Program is designed to prepare men and women for ministry in cross-cultural situations. This program combines the resources of the School of World Mission and the School of Theology to provide a foundation for involvement in mission through biblical, historical and theological studies as well as through the social and behavioral sciences. It provides special preparation for future missionaries, people in a variety of professions who hope to share their faith cross-culturally, and those who anticipate ministries in the United States among ethnic groups different from their own. A student may earn the Master of Arts in Cross-Cultural Studies from the School of World Mission, or the Master of Divinity degree, with a concentration in cross-cultural studies, from the School of Theology.
Translation Program

A concentration in translation is offered within the various programs. This program combines the resources of the School of World Mission, the School of Theology, and secular universities to equip students in biblical languages and exegesis, linguistics, translation theory, anthropology, missiology, and communication theory.

A cooperative arrangement has been made with the University of Texas at Arlington (UTA) which allows for transfer of units between the two schools so long as they are applied to the translation emphasis and students abide by the catalog requirements of the institution which grants the degree. This arrangement may also be applied to a cooperative program between the University of Texas at Arlington and the Summer Institute of Linguistics, leading to an M.A. in linguistics from UTA.

In-Service Program

The School of World Mission In-Service Program (ISP) enables those interested in cross-cultural ministry to begin graduate studies in missiology before coming to the Pasadena campus and/or to continue their studies after they leave campus.

Students who wish to pursue a program in missiology may take seven courses (a total of 28 units) at the M.A. level and five courses (a total of 20 units) at the Th.M. level through this program.

Courses available through the In-Service Program include the foundational courses and several electives. To register for courses through this program, a student must first apply and be accepted at Fuller Seminary. Payment for course materials and a minimum of $200 towards tuition must be submitted at the time of registration. A deferred payment plan is available for the remainder of the tuition.

Course materials include class lectures (recorded on cassette tapes), the course syllabus (outline and assignments), and required textbooks. Students are to complete all the assignments for the course and return the packet to the coordinator of the In-Service Program for evaluation and grading by the professor. All coursework must be submitted within six months of registration if the student resides in the United States or Canada, or 12 months if the student resides outside North America.

Program for Mission Executives

This special program enables mission executives without significant cross-cultural experience to study missiology at Fuller. Those who have been professionally involved in mission administration for a minimum of seven years may apply for a degree program without cross-cultural experience. Busy executives are encouraged to take advantage of the intensive courses taught throughout the summer as well as during the other three quarters.

CURRICULUM

In a wider sense, the School of World Mission curriculum consists of a combination of course work, reading and directed research tailored to fit an individual’s problems and opportunities. In a narrower sense, it consists of courses of study which develop a part of one of the following branches of learning which together make up the discipline of missiology:

- Anthropology, language learning, communication and sociology (MB)
- Church growth foundations and case studies (MC)
- Development (MD)
- History of missions and church expansion (MH)
- Integration (MI)
- Leadership selection and training (ML)
- Ministry (MM)
- Urban Mission (MN)
- The Christian mission vis-à-vis non-Christian religions (MR)
- Translation (MS)
- Theory and theology of mission (MT)

Great emphasis is placed on reading in all programs. Students at the graduate level are expected to glean the essence of many contributions to mission through books and other library and archival materials. The function of the professor is to guide, stimulate and provide supplementary summaries of knowledge particularly germane to the situation in one’s field of service. School of World Mission students come from such varied segments of the world’s vast population that only through wide reading in their field can they become truly educated.

Missiological Integration Seminar

Students in M.A. and Th.M. degree programs are required to take the Missiological Integration Seminar. This seminar is divided into two sections (2 units each). The first section is required during the first quarter on campus. This section of the seminar aims at facilitating the design of an integrated academic missiological program. The second section, which is normally taken in the last quarter of one’s program, seeks to provide the means by which the student can demonstrate the achievement of an integrated set of competencies related both to his or her ministry and to the foundational missiological disciplines.

COURSES OF STUDY

In any given quarter, courses will be offered from among the following, depending on the availability of faculty and the composition of the student body. Course offerings and course descriptions are subject to change through normal academic processes.

The courses are numbered according to the following guidelines:

MB Behavioral Sciences
MC Church Growth
MD International Development
MH Mission History
MI Mission Integration
ML Leadership Training
MM Ministry
MN Urban Mission
MR Religions
MS Translation
MT Mission Theology

The 500-level courses are for students in the M.A. programs, and are open to students in any program. Courses listed at the 500 level may be taken at the 600 or 700 level with the approval of the academic advising office. Students in the Th.M. in Intercultural Studies program register for courses at the 600 level. The 700-level courses are for students in the Doctor of Missiology program. Most of the 500-level courses are also offered at the 600 and 700 levels. The 800-level courses are for Ph.D. students only.

Course with the label Foundational Course serve as the recommended basic courses for their respective School of World Mission concentrations. They should be taken for a given concentration unless the faculty member who supervises the concentration allows a substitution. Courses with the label Core Competency serve to meet the core competency requirement for that area in the various degree programs.

Courses for the Doctor of Ministry in Global Ministries are listed and described in the Doctor of Ministry section of the Continuing and Extended Education section of this catalog.

The Graduate School of Psychology comprises two divisions, the Division of Clinical Psychology and the Division of Marriage and Family. The Division of Clinical Psychology offers two degree programs, the Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D.) and the Doctor of Psychology (Psy.D.). Both are approved (professionally accredited) by the American Psychological Association (APA).

The Division of Marriage and Family offers several degrees: the Master of Science (M.S.) in marital and family therapy, the Doctor of Marriage and Family Therapy (D.MFT.), the Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D.) in marital and family therapy, and the Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D.) in marriage and family studies. The M.S. in marital and family therapy is accredited by the Commission on Accreditation for Marriage and Family Therapy Education. In addition, the Division of Marriage and Family offers the Master of Arts (M.A.) in marital and family therapy as part of the Seminary's extension program in Northern California (Menlo Park).

Mission Statement

The Graduate School of Psychology, in embracing the broader mission of the Christian church to minister to the spiritual, moral, emotional, relational, and health needs of people throughout the world, seeks to prepare men and women as distinctive scholars and practitioners whose scientific and therapeutic endeavors are formed by a deep understanding of both the human sciences and the Christian faith.

Goals

The primary goals of the Graduate School of Psychology are:

1. To train qualified Christian persons to function as competent practitioners in the field of mental health.
2. To foster the formation of a theological understanding of the human condition and to provide an educational environment for the study of the integration of the human sciences and the Christian faith.
3. To provide opportunities for faculty and students to engage in scholarship and research into the biopsychosocial and spiritual bases of human behavior and to apply this research and scholarship wherever they may serve.
4. To strengthen marriage and family life by researching and developing strategies for family life education, and the treatment and prevention of marital and family dysfunction, at a time when the erosion of these components of society is of great concern to the church and community at large.
5. To assist the Seminary in fulfilling its mission to the church throughout the world by seeking to supplement the theological education of all its students and graduates and other Christian leaders with appropriate psychological, sociological, and educational knowledge that can alleviate human suffering and build healthier families, churches, and communities.
6. To offer continuing and extended education to professionals in various health fields that will aid in improving the spiritual, moral, and mental health of society.

Student Life

Close bonds develop between students as they progress through the program. Informal gatherings are opportunities for developing relationships and for taking advantage of the many recreational and cultural opportunities to be found in Pasadena and the greater Los Angeles area. Small fellowship groups are formed each fall for incoming students who wish to participate. Students represent a diversity of geographical, denominational, ethnic and educational backgrounds. Opportunities are provided for spouses to participate in many of the activities of their partner's graduate education. This may include small groups, lectures and social activities.

Students are strongly encouraged (but not required) to take advantage of opportunities for personal, psychological and spiritual growth while progressing through the program. A list of clinical psychologists in the area who are willing to see students at a reduced rate is available at the front desk of the Division of Clinical Psychology offices.

Psychology Graduate Union

Students in the School of Psychology have an opportunity to become actively involved in decision-making and administrative processes. All students in the School are members of the Psychology Graduate Union. The purpose of this organization is to represent members in all matters affecting student life, and to afford members the experience of serving their peers and the school in the area of academic and professional concerns.

Responsible for all affairs related to the Graduate Union is an executive cabinet composed of the cabinets of the Clinical Psychology Division and the Marriage and Family Division. The Clinical Psychology Division cabinet is composed of a president, secretary, chaplain, ethnic resource coordinator, women’s resource coordinator, Theology Graduate Union representative, professional liaison, social events coordinator, two student representatives to the faculty, as well as a representative from each year in each degree program in the division. The Marriage and Family Division cabinet is composed of a president, the secretary-treasurer (who serves both cabinets), a representative from each year in each degree program in the division, as well as the ethnic resource coordinator, women’s resource coordinator, professional liaison, and social events coordinator. A Clinical Psychology/Marriage and Family liaison sits on both cabinets.

The Clinical Psychology Division cabinet publishes a newsletter. It sponsors a short-term emergency loan fund and the annual Travis Awards for Predissertation Study of Issues Relating to the Integration of Psychology and Religion. The Marriage and Family Division cabinet publishes a monthly newsletter, and the Marriage and Family Division president publishes a periodic newsletter. The executive cabinet (combined divisions) provides students making professional presentations with small honoraria. It also holds quarterly social events for the membership, and plans the annual Gene Pfriimmer Memorial Softball Game.

Psychology Graduate Union members also have an opportunity to serve as members of various planning, administrative and evaluation committees. Such involvement gives students experience in administrative work and the chance to share in policy-making. The two faculty representatives and the president are members of the faculty policy-making body, with full responsibilities and privileges. Two students represent psychology students on the general Seminary student council. Other students serve on the library, clinical psychology curriculum, admissions, and spiritual life committees, as well as on numerous ad hoc committees. In every instance students serving on committees in the program have full voting rights. Students may serve without vote on dissertation committees for other students; it is the student’s option to serve and the candidate’s option to select.

The active participation of the Psychology Graduate Union in the decision-making processes of the program means that students are deeply involved in the recruitment, evaluation, retention and release of faculty. Students complete extensive course evaluations of the professor’s sensitivity to issues related to women, ethnic minorities and religious dimensions.

Women

The Graduate School of Psychology follows an “equal opportunity” admissions policy, with about 50% of its students being women. The faculty endorses the nonsexist language guidelines of the American Psychological Association and the American Association of Marriage and Family Therapy. Faculty are encouraged to incorporate research and theory on women from the social and behavioral sciences into all courses, and this issue is included in all course evaluations. In the Division of Clinical Psychology, seminars on The Psychology of Gender and Women in Therapy are offered every other year, and there is an ongoing research group for persons interested in research on women. Persons interested in integrating feminism, social and behavioral sciences and their Christian faith will find support for this in the larger Fuller community.

One student in each division is appointed each year as Women’s Issues Resource Coordinator. The persons in these stipended positions are responsible for providing bibliographic and other resources to students and faculty in the program, sensitizing the community to issues pertinent to therapy with women, and the educational process for women students. These persons also plan regular social events for students and faculty and keep them informed of local workshops, meetings, speakers, and other events focused on women’s issues.

Ethnic Minorities

The Graduate School of Psychology is committed to the recruitment and training of students with ethnic American backgrounds—Asian, African-American, Hispanic and Native American. It follows a proactive admissions policy and is part of the GRE Minority Student Locator program. All Graduate School of Psychology faculty are encouraged to address ethnic and cross-cultural issues in their teaching, research and practice. For all students, a seminar on multicultural issues is offered every year, and a number of faculty and students conduct research in this area. Clinical experience with relevant groups is encouraged in the diverse population which surrounds Pasadena and the Los Angeles area.

Two minority students (one in each division) are appointed each year as Ethnic Issues Resource Coordinators. The persons in these stipended positions are responsible for sensitizing students, faculty and staff of the psychology programs and the Seminary as a whole to issues related to minorities. This includes identifying the unique needs of students, addressing issues pertinent to therapy with ethnic-Americans, and providing resources for students and faculty. In the Clinical Psychology Division, this person also serves on the admissions committee as a full member.

Social events and workshops are conducted each year to increase awareness and facilitate a sense of community among all the Graduate School of Psychology students. In addition, students are encouraged to participate in the related activities in this area offered by the Schools of Theology and World Mission.

Financial Assistance

Financial assistance for these programs is limited. Students are strongly encouraged to finance their education through parental and other private support, personal savings, veterans or state disability benefits, outside scholarships, church care, etc.

For students who are not able to support their education in one of the above ways, limited grant-in-aid is available. It should be stressed that this assistance is minimal, and students are required to provide for the greater portion of their own living expenses and educational costs. Financial aid application forms may be obtained from the Office of the Dean following admission.

For eligible students, loans through government and commercial sources are available in amounts up to $18,500 per year, and may be applied for through the Seminary’s Financial Aid Office. Applicants are encouraged to explore opportunities for financial aid available in their states of residence prior to matriculation.

Administrative, clinical, research and teaching assistantships are provided to the extent they are available. The Psychological Center provides the largest number of assistantships; it provided partial support for 45 students during 1993-94. The Travis Institute provided partial support for 8 students during this same year.

The Seminary’s Office of Career Services aids students and spouses in finding part-time positions in Pasadena and the surrounding areas. A large percentage of these jobs are in the mental health fields (clinics, counseling centers, etc.) or in residential homes, state or private hospitals, colleges, churches, etc. Some jobs are available in the areas of teaching and research as well as counseling, and involve service to all age groups. Typically, salaries range from $6 per hour to $10 per hour, and hours vary from eight to 20 per week for students and up to full time for spouses. Many of these positions supplement the learning process for students. Students should be aware that graduate study is demanding and those working over 20 hours per week will severely compromise the quality of their educational experience.

Students should be aware that the clinical settings often have no commitment to coordinate their work opportunities with the student’s clinical training needs. The most serious problem present in many situations is the lack of regularly scheduled supervision provided by the setting. In order to ensure that students not engage in employment which is incompatible with the degree training program, the faculty has established the policy outlined below:

Students must obtain the approval of their director of clinical training before accepting employment in any setting in which the student will be carrying out any of the functions which are normally performed by clinical psychologists or marital and family therapists and for which the student is in training within Fuller's degree programs.

The clinical psychology student must obtain a written commitment from the prospective employer stating that the employer will provide not less than one hour a week of individual supervision from a licensed clinical psychologist throughout the student’s term of employment.

The marital and family therapy student must also obtain a written commitment from the prospective employer stating that the employer will provide not less than one hour a week of individual supervision from a licensed marriage, family, child counselor, a licensed clinical psychologist or a board-certified psychiatrist throughout the student’s term of employment.

In either case, the employer will pay for this supervision. This written agreement must be accepted by the appropriate director of clinical training prior to the job’s beginning.

Community Resources

Because of Fuller's fortunate location in a major metropolitan area, students have continuous access to a wide variety of lectures, symposia and workshops presented by nationally and internationally renowned figures in the fields of psychology and marriage and family. Extensive library holdings and major research and clinical facilities in the area provide resources which supplement those provided in the School of Psychology. Distinguished psychologists, family therapists and other leaders in the mental health professions speak on an occasional basis to students and faculty. In addition, students are encouraged to join professional organizations and attend their conventions.
DIVISION OF

Character and Purpose

The Division of Clinical Psychology of Fuller's Graduate School of Psychology is a unique venture in higher education. Its purpose is to prepare a distinctive kind of clinical psychologist: women and men whose understandings and actions are deeply informed by both psychology and the Christian faith. It is based on the conviction that the coupling of Christian understanding of women and men with refined clinical and research skills will produce Christian clinical psychologists with a special ability to help persons on their journeys to wholeness and salvation.

Toward these goals, an attempt is made to avoid reducing human beings to the descriptive data of psychology, and theology to a set of propositions about God. Instead, both disciplines are accorded mutual respect in an effort to impart to the student a genuine appreciation for the contributions of each. The models of training which emerge from this perspective have been termed the Scientist/Practitioner/Christian model and the Practitioner/Evaluator/Christian model. This reflects the School's commitment to clinical training grounded in scientific psychology and Christian theology.

At its simplest, theology may be defined as conceptualizing God and God's relationship with humankind in ways that are relevant to this day. In a sense, everyone is a theologian, holding views about God. But not everyone is a good and profitable theologian. For this higher purpose a serious study of theology is imperative.

The data of theology consist primarily of the self-revealing acts and words of God contained in the prophetic and apostolic Scriptures. Yet it is not enough simply to quote what Scripture itself contains. Theology must encounter and speak to each new generation and situation. Its task is to state the message of the Bible, making clear the relevance of this message to every person's current need.

On the other hand, psychology may be defined as the study of human behavior. It emphasizes the scientific approach, but it does not rule out the several other ways by which we have come to an understanding of human nature. Some of these impressions have come through self-reflective consciousness, creative and artistic expression, religious experience and philosophical thought.

The distinctiveness of the School of Psychology lies in its attempt to integrate these fields in theory, research and practice. Through a series of didactic, experiential and reflective endeavors, theology and psychology are related. Students are encouraged to reflect on their own appropriation of faith (intrapersonal integration) and to determine how the data of both disciplines can be combined (conceptual integration). Further, support is given to research efforts to assess the interconnections of faith and behavior (experimental integration) and to the mutual sharing of insights with others in related vocations such as the ministry (interprofessional integration). Most importantly, students are trained in the melding of psychology and theology in clinical practice (professional integration).

Faculty members hold the view that integration at any level is a profitable endeavor. They communicate a view of people as having been created in the image of God, with an abiding concern for their relationship to Jesus Christ. They convey the conviction that resources exist which transcend their own. They attempt to model in teaching and living the unique combination of sincere faith and clinical excellence which the School espouses.

The needs of contemporary society are creating new and challenging roles for clinical psychologists. The School of Psychology believes it is both the opportunity and the responsibility of the church and society to be involved in this training. Graduates of this program are qualified to serve in both the church and the wider community. As clinical psychologists they serve on hospital staffs, in private practice, in church-sponsored counseling centers, and as faculty members in higher education.

Admission

General standards for admission to any of the three schools of Fuller Theological Seminary are described in the second section of this catalog. Admission to the Ph.D. or Psy.D. programs in clinical psychology of the School of Psychology requires that a student have earned the B.A. degree from an academically accredited institution. Admission to these programs is very competitive. The entering student in the fall of 1994 had a median grade point average of 3.82, and the median score on the Graduate Record Examination was 1170 (verbal and quantitative). Applicants whose GRE scores (verbal and quantitative combined) are below 1000, or whose psychology GPA is less than 3.0, are seldom competitive unless their background suggests a nonacademic reason for the low scores.

The undergraduate major is most useful when it is in the social and behavioral sciences. A minimum of six courses in basic psychology (including subjects such as abnormal, developmental, experimental, physiological and social psychology, statistics, tests and measures, learning and motivation, and personality) is a requirement for entry into either program. Equally important for admission to the program are commitment to the historic Christian faith and life, personal qualities of high integrity, strong motivation for service, empathy for others, ability in relationships, spiritual sensitivity and an abiding love for scholarship. These qualities will be evaluated through letters of recommendation from those who know the candidate well, as well as the applicant’s statement of purpose.

The completed application form and the $50 application fee must be received by January 1. In addition, the applicant must have the following materials sent to the Office of Admissions: 1) transcripts from all colleges and graduate schools attended, 2) the results of the general test of the Graduate Record Examination taken within the past five years (required) and 3) the results of the Advanced Test in Psychology of the Graduate Record Examination (optional). These supporting materials must be received by February 1. Applicants should be aware that the GRE must be taken far enough in advance (usually November or December) for scores to reach the Office of Admissions by February 1. An application request card is included in this catalog. Application forms can be obtained either by contacting the Office of Admissions, or by contacting the Office of Admissions.

In addition to the general test of the Graduate Record Examination, applicants whose native language is not English must have the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) within the past five years with a minimum score of 600. Score reports for this exam must also be received by February 1.

The Division of Psychology uses an individualized admissions procedure for the Ph.D. program. All applicants are reviewed by an admissions committee consisting of faculty members and graduate students. The admissions committee selects semifinalists who are highly qualified to do doctoral work in clinical psychology, and a personal interview is required of these persons. Interviews are held in Pasadena, usually the first two Fridays of March, and in major metropolitan areas in the United States usually during the first half of March. No interview fee is charged, but personal transportation costs are borne by the applicant. In instances of financial hardships, a telephone interview may be substituted for a personal interview. The admissions committee then selects a group of finalists. The names of these persons are submitted to the assembled faculty. Each faculty member normally admits one or two Ph.D. students a year. The individual professor usually makes his or her selections based on common areas of research and clinical interest.

Each year some students are admitted by the school at large. Such students usually do not receive notice of their academic advisor assignment until they arrive on campus.

Doctor of Psychology applicants are reviewed in the same way as Ph.D. applicants, including personal interviews. The selection process differs slightly in that normally they are admitted as a class by approval of the entire faculty.

Faculty Advisors

The professor/student relationship is viewed as a mutual commitment. The professor makes a commitment to train the student to the doctoral level and expects a reciprocal commitment from the student to work hard and long enough to reach what is considered to be doctoral quality.

Each Ph.D. student will be assigned individually to a faculty advisor, to facilitate the research mentoring necessary for the master’s level research as well as the Ph.D. dissertation. The Psy.D. students are usually assigned in a group (or groups), following a cohort model, to one faculty advisor, thus facilitating better opportunities for team efforts in the Psy.D. dissertation process.

CURRICULUM

The Division of Clinical Psychology has adopted the scientist-practitioner model for its Ph.D. program, and the practitioner/evaluator model for its Psy.D. program. These models assume that training in clinical psychology includes a broad and up-to-date knowledge of general psychology, experiences and supervision in research, psychological assessment (interviewing, observation, testing), psychological intervention, personal growth and integration, and communication of information. The faculty represent a wide range of clinical approaches, which are represented throughout the curriculum.

The graduate course of study normally spans a period of six years for the Ph.D. program and five years for the Psy.D. program. Students may select up to but no more than 16 units of course work per quarter, with the core of the curriculum scheduled during Fall, Winter, and Spring Quarters. Each curriculum is divided into four parts: general psychology, research and evaluation, clinical psychology, and theology/integration.
Part I: General Psychology

The core curriculum of general psychology provides the student with a solid grounding in the literature of general psychology. These specific courses are numbered PG800-859. Ph.D. students take 38 units of general psychology; Psy.D. students take 36 units. This total includes the following required first- and second-year courses:

- PG 800 History and Systems of Psychology (4)
- PG 843 Psychopathology (4)
- PG 855 Introduction to Assessment and Psychometrics (4)
- PG 834 Multicultural Issues in Clinical Psychology (2)

Ph.D. students must select an additional 24 units of general psychology. Psy.D. students must select an additional 22 units of general psychology. These units can be selected from courses numbered PG800-859.

Each student must demonstrate competence in four content areas of general psychology: biological bases of behavior, the cognitive-affective bases of behavior, the social bases of behavior, and individual bases of behavior. Such competence can be established by taking clinical seminars (PC830-839) specifically designated at the time of registration to fall into one of these areas, or by taking general psychology courses which fall into these four areas listed below. Each student is responsible to ensure his or her compliance with this requirement.

- Biological bases of behavior: PG810-819
- Cognitive-affective bases of behavior: PG820-829
- Social bases of behavior: PG830-839
- Individual behavior: PG840-849

Comprehensive Examination. One of the assumptions underlying these programs is that a person earning a doctoral degree in clinical psychology should have a broadly based foundation in the concepts, theories, data, and methods of general psychology. Students are expected to reach a superior level of mastery of general psychology, which is operationally defined by the faculty as a score of 650 on the Psychology Subject Test of the Graduate Record Examination (GRE). This requirement must be met before a student may apply for an internship. After this score is earned, students may substitute clinical psychology seminars (PC830-838) for general psychology electives. Students may substitute only clinical seminars actually taken after passing the comprehensive examination requirement.

Students who take the GRE prior to admission to the program may submit their previous scores of 650 or higher as long as these are valid. Transcripts of such scores must be sent directly from the Educational Testing Service to the Dean. In recognition of the fact that the literature of general psychology changes rapidly, the validity of a 650 score on the Psychology Subject Test of the GRE will only be recognized for seven years. Students who have not graduated by that time must retake the GRE Psychology Subject Test and obtain a score of 650 or higher.

Students are encouraged to take the GRE at the earliest possible date after completing their basic general psychology coursework. A student may take the examination at any of the national testing centers designated by the Educational Testing Service. All costs of this examination are the responsibility of the student. Although students may take the examination as often as necessary to obtain a passing score, any failing performance will be reviewed by the faculty in order to recommend better strategies of preparation for the exam. Repeated failures may lead to a faculty recommendation that the student terminate graduate studies.

Part II: Research and Evaluation

The curricula for both degree programs include a series of foundational courses and team experiences in research and evaluation. These consist of:

- PG 850 Research/Evaluation Methods I (4)
- PG 851 Research/Evaluation Methods II (4)
- PG 852 Research Methods III (4) (Ph.D. only)
- PG 853 Program Evaluation (4) (Psy.D. only)
- PG 854 Research Methods IV (4) (Ph.D. only)
- PG 856 Research Colloquium (2)
- PG 861 Ph.D. Research Team (2-2-2)
- PG 862 Psy.D. Research/Evaluation Team (2-2)

Research training involves three overlapping components: classroom instruction, apprenticeship, and faculty modeling. First, a thorough program of classroom instruction (PG850-PG854) lays a foundation of knowledge. For Ph.D. students, this introduction culminates in the planning and execution of a master’s-level research project under the supervision of the faculty advisor. The Psy.D. student learns to critique research methods and to conduct program evaluations. All students are exposed to research through the Research Colloquia. Second, students are continually involved with research as apprentices, through participation in research teams and close supervision of the master’s research project, and the independent research involved with the dissertation. Third, students are expected to benefit from faculty models and colloquium speakers. Each faculty member is engaged in an ongoing program of research and strives through the association with students to communicate the model of the scientist-practitioner or practitioner-evaluator.

Master's Research Project. Each Ph.D. student must complete a master's research project prior to beginning the dissertation. Credit for the master's project may be earned by registering for PG861 Ph.D. Research Team, PG857 Individual Research, or PG808 Independent Readings. The amount of credit earned is based directly on the amount of time spent working on the research project.

Dissertation. Each Ph.D. student earns 30 quarter hours of dissertation units (PC900) in completing the dissertation. Each Psy.D. student earns 16 quarter hours of dissertation units (PC902). Dissertations are prepared in accordance with the dissertation guidelines adopted by the faculty and available from the campus bookstore.

Research Teams and Research Colloquia. All doctoral students are required to participate in research teams. Ph.D. students are enrolled in the team for the first three years, earning six units of credit for PG861 Ph.D. Research Team. Psy.D. students are enrolled during the second and third year, earning four units of credit for PG862 Psy.D. Research/Evaluation Team.

Psychology research colloquia, involving lectures by distinguished research psychologists, are presented three times each quarter. Each student in the Ph.D. and Psy.D. programs is required to attend 18 of the 27 colloquia offered during the student's first three years in the program. Students will be asked to sign in at each colloquium, and the student will receive 2 units of credit by registering for PG860 Research Colloquium during the Spring or Summer Quarter of the third year.

Part III: Clinical Psychology

The clinical psychology curriculum follows the guidelines set by the Committee on Accreditation of the American Psychological Association, and also makes available courses required for licensure in California. The curriculum introduces each student to a broad sweep of target populations through clinical coursework, practicum placements, and supervised field training (clerkship and internship) in various approved settings. Target groups for assessment and intervention include normals, psychiatric inpatients and outpatients, the physically handicapped, the developmentally disabled, the economically and socially deprived, minority groups, and other populations. Students also gain experience with a wide range of major assessment techniques, including behavioral observation and description, diagnostic interviewing, objective and projective testing, and specialized testing techniques such as neuropsychological assessment.

Each Ph.D. student will complete 130 units in clinical psychology. Each Psy.D. student will complete 158 units in clinical psychology. The required curriculum is summarized below. The remaining quarter hours must be selected from elective clinical seminars (course numbers PC830-838).

- PC 800 Clinical Foundations I (2)
- PC 801 Clinical Foundations II (2)
- PC 803 Legal and Ethical Issues (2)
- PC 806 Intelligence and Achievement Testing (2)
- PC 807 Objective Personality Assessment (2)
- PC 808 Projective Personality Assessment (2)
- PC 809 Differential Diagnosis/Report Writing (2)
- PC 826 Clinical Psychology A—Child/Adolescent (4)
- PC 827 Clinical Psychology B—Adult (4)
- PC 828 Clinical Psychology C—Family (4)
- PC 829 Clinical Psychology D—Consultation (4)
- PC 816 Program Administration (4) (Psy.D. only)
- PC 817 Marketing Professional Services (2) (Psy.D. only)
- PC 820 Ph.D. Practicum (4-4-4)
- PC 822 Psy.D. Practicum (4-4-4-4)
- PC 824 Ph.D. Clerkship (4-4-4-4)
- PC 825 Psy.D. Clerkship (4-4-4-4)
- PC 841 Ph.D. Internship (16-16-16-16)
- PC 842 Psy.D. Internship (16-16-16-16)

Clinical Psychology Sequence (PC800-PC825). All doctoral students, regardless of their background, are required to complete the designated clinical sequence. During the second and third years, four assessment seminars are added, focusing on intelligence and achievement testing, projective personality assessment, objective personality assessment, and differential diagnosis and report writing. During these same two years, all students are required to take a clinical sequence of four courses covering common target populations: child/adolescent, adult, family, and consultation. In addition, third-year Psy.D. students are required to take the course on program administration and the seminar on marketing professional services. These courses are to be taken in the order listed, with the final quarter to be completed before the student begins a clerkship. The only exception is for students who have been granted advanced standing by the Faculty based on an advanced degree in theology or psychology and demonstrated competence.

Students must select their remaining clinical units from elective clinical seminars (PC830-839). Psy.D. students may also select PG844 Psychopathology Seminar.

Field Training. The Psychological Center of the Graduate School of Psychology offers clinical training opportunities to many students in clinical psychology, especially during the early years of training. Students are also placed in other clinical facilities throughout the Los Angeles area for their clerkships, and internship placements are made throughout the country, especially for those students who have finished their dissertation research.

Practicum. Practicum training takes place during the third year of the program, and introduces the student to the wide array of professional activities basic to the practice of clinical psychology. Psy.D. students have a twelve-month placement, divided into six-month rotations. Ph.D. students have a nine-month placement. Students spend six hours per week in client contact, supervision groups, staff meetings, and paperwork.

Clerkship. Students enroll in and contract for 12 hours of clerkship per week for twelve months, for a total of 600 hours for the year, to earn 4 units of credit per quarter. This usually begins Summer Quarter following the third year. Prior to the clerkship, students must have completed 72 quarter units of psychology at the graduate level and must have completed the clinical sequence with no holds.

Internship. The internship consists of a minimum of 40 hours per week for twelve months, for a total of at least 2,000 hours for the year, earning 16 units per quarter for a total of 64 units. Psy.D. students take the internship their fifth year. Ph.D. students take the internship during their sixth year. An optional pre-internship is available to Ph.D. students during the fifth year.

Before being allowed to apply for an internship, students must have advanced to doctoral candidacy and have completed the dissertation proposal colloquium. Before commencing the internship, a student must have successfully completed the clerkship. It is the student’s responsibility to ensure that their field training meets the requirements of the state in which they wish to be licensed.

Clinical Evaluation. The evaluation of a student’s clinical competency is a continuing process which extends to the end of the internship year. The evaluation process is designed to ensure that the student is thoroughly prepared to: 1) practice as a skilled clinical psychologist and 2) pass crucial post-doctoral examinations such as those required for licensure and certification. Facility in the integration of psychology and theology and awareness of gender, ethnic and sociocultural issues are to be evaluated in all four phases described below. Further details may be found in the Psychology Division Student Handbook. The clinical curriculum is designed so that all clinical evaluation requirements may be met by satisfactory completion of required courses, practica, clerkship, and internship. The student will be provided with a checklist of items to be signed off by course instructors and clinical supervisors.

Phase I: Assessment Evaluation. This phase involves a standardized contract which includes 1) demonstration of competency in administration and interpretation of a list of selected psychological tests; 2) demonstration of the ability to conduct an in-depth mental status examination and arrive at a diagnosis; and 3) submission of written reports demonstrating of the student’s ability to delineate the client’s clinically relevant history and level of current functioning, to integrate clinical interview and psychometric test data, to formulate diagnostic impressions on the five axes of the current Diagnostic and Statistical Manual (DSM), and to develop an appropriate treatment plan. These requirements can be met by satisfactory completion of the assessment sequence (PG835 and PC806-809), practicum (PC820 or PC822), the clinical sequence (PC826-829), and clerkship (PC824 or PC825). This phase is completed by the end of the clerkship year.

Phase II: Professional Issues Evaluation. This phase includes a standardized contract designed to demonstrate that the student is knowledgeable in the professional areas of 1) ethics, 2) law, 3) professional literature, and 4) current professional problems and issues. Competency will be determined by obtaining passing grades in the relevant required courses (PC800 and PC801 Clinical Foundations I and II, PC803 Legal and Ethical Issues, and PC834 Multicultural Issues in Clinical Psychology) and relevant components of the clinical sequence and field training. This phase should be completed by the end of the clerkship year (prior to commencing the internship).

Phase III: Clinical Intervention Evaluation. In this phase, the student must demonstrate ability to 1) understand presenting problems; 2) gather information regarding personal history, interpersonal relationships, and present functioning; 3) summarize and synthesize psychodiagnostic data; 4) state diagnostic impressions; 5) formulate treatment goals; 6) apply relevant research to treatment planning and therapeutic process; 7) engage in effective interventions; and 8) evaluate the progress made in therapy. These elements are included in the clinical sequence, the assessment sequence, practicum, and clerkship. This phase is to be completed prior to the internship year.
Phase IV: Final Clinical Examination. In this phase, the student must demonstrate clinical competency appropriate for an entry-level professional. Satisfactory completion of an APA-approved internship satisfies this requirement. A student whose internship is not approved must register for PC845 Clinical Evaluation and design an individual contract. A brief written report of the student’s understanding of integration issues is also required.

Personal Growth of Students. Two components of the training program focus on enhancing the sensitivity of the future clinical psychologist. First, there is intensive supervision of all clinical work, which includes a focus on the student’s personality as it interacts with the personality of the client. Second, doctoral students are encouraged to participate in individual, marital, group, or family therapy. Students interested in psychotherapy are provided a list of therapists willing to see students at a reduced fee. Psychotherapy may also be recommended by the faculty after its annual evaluation of students.

Part IV: Theology and Integration

The uniqueness of Fuller’s doctoral programs lies in their emphasis on relationships between psychology and theology.

Ph.D. Program. Each Ph.D. student must complete a minimum of 96 quarter hours in theology and integration. The following theology units have been determined jointly by the School of Psychology and the School of Theology, and may be fulfilled in one of two alternative tracks.

Track A
- Biblical studies courses (7)
- Theology/church history courses (7)
- Ministry courses (2)
- Integration seminars (4)
- Elective courses (4)

Track B
- Biblical studies courses (7)
- Theology/church history courses (7)
- Biblical language courses (3)
- Integration Seminars (4)
- Elective courses (3)

Only designated courses may be used to meet Track A requirements. Three variations of Track B are available, allowing the student to concentrate in Christian formation and discipleship, cross-cultural studies or family pastoral care and counseling. Further details on both tracks are available from the School of Theology academic advising office.

Most Ph.D. students earn an M.A. in theology, since the fulfillment of the above requirements satisfies School of Theology requirements for the M.A. degree. Other students choose to take additional courses and earn the Master of Divinity (M.Div.) degree.

Psy.D. Program. Each Psy.D. student must complete a minimum of 64 quarter hours in theology and integration. The following theology units have been determined jointly by the School of Psychology and the School of Theology:

- Biblical studies courses (4)
- Theology/church history courses (4)
- Ministry courses (2)
- Integration seminars (4)
- Elective courses (2)

General Integration Curriculum. Students are encouraged to take integration seminars for their electives, but may choose electives from the School of Theology curriculum or School of World Mission courses that are available to the Seminary at large. In addition, for those Ph.D. students following Track B, selected courses which are cross-listed between the Schools of Theology and Psychology which have a definite theological perspective are designated as such and may be taken as elective courses.

The integration curriculum includes three types of courses, which are generally team-taught by faculty of the Schools of Psychology and Theology or World Mission.

The Introductory Seminar (PI800) must be taken prior to any other integration seminar. It lays the theoretical and philosophical foundations for contemporary expressions of integration.

The Integration Symposium (PI801) is offered in conjunction with the annual Integration Symposium lecture series.

Topical Integration Seminars (PI802) are offered regularly. These focus on current topics of special interest to the field of integration.

Typical Progress

The following table lists program requirements, the number of required units each year, units available each year to be used for electives, and a recommended schedule for completing discretionary components of the program. Individual courses required each year are identified in the course descriptions. Considerable variation within this scheme is possible. ### GENERAL ACADEMIC ISSUES

Registration

Registration is the student’s responsibility. If in a given quarter a student fails to register, that student will receive a letter from the Dean. Failure to respond to the letter within two weeks will be understood as the student’s resignation from the program. Special fees will be assessed for late registration for nonclassroom experiences such as internships, dissertation, etc.

Student Handbook

In addition to the information contained in the Seminary student handbook, essential policies, procedures and information concerning students in the program are contained in the Division of Clinical Psychology Student Handbook. This handbook contains not only basic academic policies, but also guidelines for personal and professional behavior and procedures for processing grievances against students and faculty. Students are expected to comply with the regulations in both handbooks.

Academic and Clinical Reviews

Students are reviewed formally and informally at least once each year. All students are required to consent to academic and clinical reviews of their performance by faculty and/or appropriate clinical supervisors. The policy and procedures used for these reviews are detailed in the Division of Clinical Psychology Student Handbook.

Transfer of Credit

Students who have completed graduate work in psychology at other institutions and desire a reduction in the number of psychology credit hours required to fulfill Fuller’s degree requirements should contact the Office of the Dean after admission. Approval of the student's advisor and the dean is required. Only courses taken for a letter grade will qualify for transfer. Transfer of credit does not necessarily mean that a course requirement will be waived, and waiver of a course requirement does not necessarily mean that graduate credits are being transferred. Waiver of particular course requirements is a separate matter handled by a petition, also available from the Office of the Dean.

Students who have completed graduate work in theology and desire a reduction in the number of theology credit hours required to earn a Fuller degree should contact the Theology Academic Advising Office.

The clinical sequence, including Clinical Foundations, is required for all doctoral students. Due to this requirement, a minimum of four years is required for Psy.D. students to complete the program, and five years for Ph.D. students. Students entering with graduate-level coursework in theology and/or psychology must have a minimum of 48 units of transferable credit to qualify to apply for advanced standing, which involves “collapsing” the third and fourth years of the program. Application for this advanced standing takes place in the second year, and is subject to faculty approval.

Doctoral Candidacy

A student shall formally be considered a doctoral candidate when the following criteria have been met:

1. Passing the comprehensive examination (650 or higher on the Advanced Test in Psychology of the Graduate Record Examination).
2. Satisfactory completion of the clinical sequence.
3. Satisfactory acceptance of the master's research project, or its equivalent (Ph.D. only).
4. Formal faculty approval.

The transcripts of students who have met these criteria will include a notation that they have advanced to candidacy status. A letter will be sent to students informing them of their candidacy.

Terminal Master's Degree

A Master of Arts degree in psychology is granted only when a student has formally terminated from the program, and when the following requirements are met:

1. Completion of 48 hours of psychology courses, including the sequence on statistics and research methods, with a minimum grade point average of 3.0.
2. Completion of a master's level research project under the direction of a faculty advisor (Ph.D. students), or the passing of the comprehensive examination (a score of 650 on the Advanced Test in Psychology of the Graduate Record Examination).
3. Residency of at least three quarters.

Students who receive a terminal master’s degree are not subsequently readmitted to the doctoral program in clinical psychology at Fuller without full consideration by the faculty and surrender of the M.A. degree.

Graduation and Commencement

A student may graduate at the end of any quarter after all requirements are met. In order to participate in the June Commencement exercises, a student must have 1) completed all coursework, 2) completed the clinical evaluation and all dissertation requirements by the dates specified, and 3) contracted to complete the Internship at an APPIC-approved internship site by no later than the fall quarter graduation date of the same year. Participation in Commencement does not constitute graduation, which occurs only at the end of the quarter within which the Registrar's Office has determined that all requirements for the degree have been completed.

An updated schedule of deadlines for each requirement leading to graduation is included in the Division of Clinical Psychology Student Handbook.

Courses of Study

For any course title including the word “seminar” either students or faculty may suggest areas for study. The particular topic covered is indicated on the student's transcript. A seminar may be repeated for credit as new topics are offered. The unit credit for each course offering is listed at the end of the course description. In assigning the number of credits, the following guidelines are used: 4 units = 100-120 hours; 2 units = 50-60 hours; 25 pages of reading = 1 hour; research papers = 1 hour per page; 1 class contact hour = 1 hour. Designations such as "First year" indicate scheduling for required courses.

Selected courses are also offered at the 500-level for students in master's degree programs in the Marriage and Family division of the School of Psychology and the Schools of Theology and World Mission.

DIVISION OF MARRIAGE AND FAMILY

Character and Purpose

The degree programs of the Division of Marriage and Family at Fuller's School of Psychology are designed to prepare persons for careers in marital and family therapy or marriage and family studies. We seek to offer an educational environment that fosters Christian vision and the development of the highest quality professional competence, both at beginning and advanced levels.

After more than a decade of training marital and family therapists at the master's level, and after its move from the School of Theology to the School of Psychology in 1987, the Division of Marriage and Family launched doctoral programs in family therapy and family studies. As a result, the Division continues to prepare students to assume traditional master's level positions as well as to move into the expanding frontiers in research, teaching, and clinical practice available to those trained at the doctoral level. All marriage and family degree programs are identified by six characteristics.
The Fuller Tradition. Consistent with the Fuller tradition, the marriage and family faculty are representative of denominational diversity and distinguished service in their particular specialties. Also consistent with the Fuller tradition, the marriage and family faculty stand united in their evangelical commitment, their pursuit of academic excellence, and their promotion of social concerns. The heritage of the Fuller tradition provides a solid foundation for developing a redemptive vision for marriages and families.

Redemptive Vision. Each member of the marriage and family faculty is committed to training persons who are capable of addressing the full scope of the contemporary challenge confronting the family and the family mental health profession. Moreover, they are committed to graduate training that is undergirded by a redemptive vision. The redemptive vision for the family is Christ-centered, and integrates Christian values with marriage and family relationships, and theological studies with the disciplines of the social and behavioral sciences.

Care for Families. Christ called for laborers who could respond in care and vision to a field ready for harvest. In similar manner, the marriage and family faculty seeks to select and train leaders who can respond with care and vision to the myriad of needs confronting troubled couples and families and a burgeoning profession. The goal of the faculty is to prepare persons who are thoroughly equipped in theory and practice who, because of their own care and vision, become ministers of God’s grace and exhorters of God’s ways.

Spiritual and Moral Guidance. Preparing persons for professions in marriage and family who can share God’s grace and exhortation, requires training persons to view spiritual and moral guidance as a part of their professional task and identity. This is a major goal of the marriage and family faculty who believe the task of helping marriages and families is at the heart of God’s love for persons.

Christian Scholarship. At Fuller, the marriage and family faculty train Christian scholars to translate their care and vision into the highest quality of marital therapy, research and writing. Since the task of developing a redemptive vision requires theological and integrative studies beyond the standard graduate curriculum in marital and family therapy, and since the task of developing integrative theory and therapy strategies involves complex interdisciplinary studies, Fuller students engage in the rigorous challenge of Christian scholarship.

Integrative Strategies. The Fuller Graduate School of Psychology has long been committed to integrating the Christian faith and clinical psychology through the programs offered in the Division of Clinical Psychology. Today, the Division of Marriage and Family proudly stands in that tradition, seeking to honor and expand that commitment. It is a commitment that spans theory and praxis, involving interdisciplinary studies in theology, ethics, and marriage and family studies and therapy and the development of integrative therapy strategies that help couples and families become whole. During the 1990s, as the next generation of interdisciplinary and integrative studies evolves, the marriage and family division faculty will be on the cutting edge.

Program Distinctives

The above six characteristics are foundational to the degree programs developed by the Division as it seeks to train persons who will provide leadership in addressing such contemporary challenges as troubled marriages, single parenting, divorce, blended families, and the expanding clinical and research needs of the marriage and family professions.

The purpose of the Master of Science and Master of Arts degrees in marital and family therapy (M.S. MFT and M.A. MFT) is to prepare Christian individuals with entry level clinical skills for licensure or certification as marital and family therapists. The curricula are designed to meet the academic requirements of Section 4980.37 of the State of California Business and Professions Code, and the M.S. MFT is accredited by the Commission on Accreditation of Family Therapy Education. The theoretical perspective is systems-oriented, and requires 15 months of supervised practicum with a minimum of one hour of individual supervision per week.

The purpose of the Doctor of Marital and Family Therapy (D.MFT.) degree program is to prepare Christian individuals for professional practice with the highest quality clinical skills, fully competent in the assessment and treatment of marital and family dysfunction. The curriculum is designed to meet the academic requirements of Section 4980.37 of the State of California Business and Professions Code. The theoretical perspective and clinical skills incorporate both systems and psychodynamic approaches.

The purpose of the Ph.D. in marriage and family studies (Ph.D. MFS) is to prepare Christian individuals for careers in research, writing and teaching in the university or seminary setting.

The purpose of the Ph.D. in marital and family therapy (Ph.D. MFT) is to prepare Christian individuals with both the highest quality clinical and research skills. The curriculum is designed to meet the academic requirements of Section 4980.37 of the State of California Business and Professions Code. The theoretical perspective and clinical skills incorporate both systems and psychodynamic approaches.
Program Locations

The Master of Science in marital and family therapy (M.S. MFT) and all of the doctoral programs of the Division of Marriage and Family are offered only on the Pasadena campus. The Master of Arts in marital and family therapy (M.A. MFT) is offered only in the San Francisco Bay Area (Menlo Park) as part of Fuller in Northern California.

Admission

General standards for admission to any of the three schools of Fuller Theological Seminary are described in the second section of this catalog.

Admission to the Master of Science or Master of Arts in marital and family therapy requires that a student have earned a bachelor's degree from a regionally accredited institution. Admission to the D.MFT, or the Ph.D. program in marriage and family studies or marital and family therapy requires that a student have earned a master's and a bachelor's degree from a regionally accredited institution. New students are admitted to the following master's, doctoral, or combined programs primarily in the fall quarter, but exceptional students may be admitted in any quarter.

1. M.S. MFT
2. M.A. MFT
3. M.S./M.A. MFT and D.MFT.
4. M.S./M.A. MFT and Ph.D. MFS
5. M.S./M.A. MFT and Ph.D. MFT
6. D.MFT.
7. Ph.D. MFS
8. Ph.D. MFT

Students beginning their degree program other than the fall quarter will be limited to enrollment in marriage and family courses for which they have satisfied the prerequisites. Also, priority for financial aid is given to those entering in the fall quarter.

Application deadlines and dates for notification of admission decisions for fall quarter are listed in the second section of this catalog. Exceptional applicants seeking admission for other than the fall quarter must have a completed application on file two months prior to the beginning of the quarter. Admission to each of these programs is competitive and is based upon five criteria.

Personal Maturity. Applicants must possess the emotional, spiritual, and intellectual maturity, and the vocational suitability to engage in a career in either marital and family therapy or family studies. These qualities are evaluated through letters of recommendation, a psychosocial history (i.e., family of origin information, marital history), the applicant's statement of purpose, prior experience in counseling, and an interview when appropriate for M.S. applicants and all doctoral applicants.

Grade Point Average. Applicants to the master's degree normally have a minimum 3.0 GPA in their undergraduate coursework, while applicants to the doctoral or combined master's and doctoral degree programs (i.e. options 2-7 above) normally have a minimum 3.5 GPA in both undergraduate and graduate coursework. Exceptions to this policy require satisfactory scores on aptitude testing (see below).

Prerequisite Coursework. Persons applying to the M.S. MFT, the M.A. MFT, or to one of the combined master's and doctoral degree programs should have at least one year of study (36 quarter hours or 24 semester hours) in the social and behavioral sciences prior to admission. Admission to the program is contingent upon the committee's evaluation of the appropriateness of an applicant's academic preparation. In particular, applicants are strongly advised to have completed basic coursework in individual development, abnormal psychology, personality theory, and social science research. Even if admitted, applicants who are lacking coursework in these areas are advised to familiarize themselves with each subject, since this background will be assumed in the structure and content of the curriculum. A reading list can be obtained from the Office of the Associate Dean for Marriage and Family.

Applicants to a doctoral degree program must meet appropriate master's-level requirements, equivalent to holding the M.S. or M.A. MFT from Fuller Seminary. Beginning with Fall Quarter 1995, doctoral applicants without the M.S. or M.A. MFT will be required to demonstrate equivalency in one of two ways: 1) registering for and successfully completing the specified prerequisite courses at Fuller, or 2) passing an equivalency examination. The applicant selects which method is most appropriate to each of the equivalency requirements. Applicants may be admitted to the program provisionally, with full regular status to be granted upon the completion of equivalency requirements. Equivalency must be established within one year of provisional admission to retain enrollment in the program. Details on prerequisites for each degree program may be found in the application packet, or may be obtained from the Office of the Associate Dean for Marriage and Family.

Aptitude Testing. In addition to the achievement of academic excellence in previous undergraduate and/or graduate coursework, applicants are expected to demonstrate the aptitude required to succeed in graduate level work at Fuller Seminary. Applicants fulfill this requirement by submitting their scores from the Graduate Record Examination taken within the past five years. Normally applicants to the M.S. de-
Marriage and Family Student Handbook

In addition to the information contained in the Seminary Student Handbook, certain policies, procedures and information concerning students in the program are contained in the Marriage and Family Student Handbook. Of particular importance are documents drawn up by faculty-student committees which outline guidelines for personal and professional behavior, as well as policies and procedures for processing grievances regarding students and faculty. It is an implied contract that all students will comply with regulations in both handbooks while they are students under the jurisdiction of the Division of Marriage and Family and the Seminary.

The Training Experience

The scope of the training experience in marital and family therapy or studies at Fuller is integrative in nature and encompasses a three-fold focus: 1) theoretical training in a variety of subject areas (i.e., family studies, marital therapy and family therapy, theology and integration, research); 2) clinical training (i.e., lab training, live team observation, practicum); and 3) personal growth experiences. Throughout these training experiences, faculty strive to integrate theology and ethics with the social and behavioral sciences.

Integration Studies

Each of the degree programs of the Division of Marriage and Family incorporates an integrative distinctive into the theoretical, clinical and personal growth components of the curriculum.

The distinctiveness of the Marriage and Family Division goes beyond its commitment to excellence in training and scholarship. The faculty believe that the moral context of a Christian seminary is uniquely suited to the training of practitioners and academicians who will be committed to the viability of family life. In this vein, the task of integrating faith with academic and clinical training is of central importance.

The Marriage and Family faculty view this integration as a life-long process. Coursework is intended to provide a foundation of experience, knowledge and skills, taught from a Christian perspective. Faculty encourage the integration of biblical, theological and philosophical perspectives as they communicate course material that reflects their own integrative efforts. They also seek to challenge students to begin to deal with the full range of human experience, to articulate a coherent system of values and beliefs, and to be agents of spiritual transformation in the healing of persons and families. It is expected that such foundations will guide graduates as they continue to develop in their various vocations as Christian family professionals.

Curriculum

In its Ph.D. programs in family studies and marital and family therapy, the Division of Marriage and Family has adopted the professional-scientist model as most appropriate to its purpose, and in the M.S., M.A., and D.MFT. programs, the practitioner-evaluator model. These ideals are reflected in the curriculum of each degree program.

Students select up to four full-time courses (4 units each) during each of the three quarters.
Students in the M.S. program must take a minimum of 12 units of marriage and family coursework per quarter, while doctoral students must take a minimum of 8 units of marriage and family coursework per quarter until all marriage and family curricular requirements have been met. Theology courses, practicum courses and a limited number of marriage and family courses are available during the summer quarter. The following period of time estimates presuppose a full-time course of study. Reduction in time and coursework may be allowed for prior graduate work.

The course of study for an M.S. or M.A. in marital and family therapy normally spans a three year period, but may be completed in an accelerated two year track.

The post-M.S./M.A. doctoral courses of study normally span a period of three to four years for the D.MFT.; a three-year period for the Ph.D. in marriage and family studies; and four-year period for the Ph.D. in marital and family therapy. The estimated time periods for the Ph.D. degree programs include the M.A. degree in theology.

The duration of study for the combined M.S. MFT or M.A. MFT and doctoral programs may be calculated by adding the estimated time for the M.S. MFT and the desired doctoral degree. The number of units taken quarterly determine the length of time required to complete the individual course of study.

The curriculum is divided into five parts: family studies, family life education, theology and integration, marital and family therapy, and family research. The curriculum for the various degrees differs in terms of some of the course content, the practicum experience, and the nature of the dissertation. The master’s degree does not require a dissertation, and the doctoral degree in marriage and family studies does not require practicum experiences or coursework in family therapy.

Marriage and family courses are prefixed by the subject area designations listed below, and are distinguished as master or doctoral courses by the respective designation of a 500 or 800 series:

FS Family Studies
FL Family Life Education
FI Family Integration
FR Family Research
FT Family Therapy

The specific unit requirement of each degree program is delineated according to the subject area.

III. Theology and Integration. As indicated above, training therapists and researchers with a Christian perspective on spiritual, moral, emotional, and relational wholeness, is a central objective of the marriage and family faculty. Therefore, all degree programs require coursework in bible, theology, and integration to equip future therapists with both the conceptual skill necessary to engage in interdisciplinary dialogue and the clinical skill necessary to foster integration in individuals, couples and families.

All Marriage and Family students complete the following 32 units of theology. The following theology units have been determined jointly by the Division of Marriage and Family and the School of Theology:

Biblical Studies (8 units):
1. Any Old Testament core course designated OTA, or OT508 Old Testament Literature, and
2. Any New Testament core course designated NT1 or NT2, or NT512 New Testament Literature

Systematic Theology (12 units):

3. Any theology core course designated STC

Ethics (4 units)
- Any ethics core course (ETH)

Philosophy (4 units)
- Any ethics core course (ETH)

Church History (4 units)
- Any church history core course designated CHC

Each M.S. or M.A. student also completes 8 units of integration coursework in addition to the above 32 units of theology required of all marriage and family students:

- OT Elective (4)
- NT Elective (4)
- Bible or Theology electives (4-4)
- Family Integration (FI prefix) electives (4-4)

IV. Family Therapy. The master's-level family therapy curriculum introduces each student to a broad spectrum of theoretical approaches and clinical training experiences. Fifty-six units of coursework and clinical training is required (FT 500-550). An additional two to four units in elective credit may be selected. D.MFT. and Ph.D. MFT students complete an additional 63 units of coursework and clinical training (FT 801-890). Doctoral students in marriage and family studies are not required to complete doctoral coursework in family therapy. Marital and family therapy doctoral students are expected to master the literature in the assessment and treatment of marital and family dysfunction.

Clinical Training

Students in the master's or doctoral programs in marital and family therapy engage in clinical training throughout their studies, beginning with the first quarter. The various combinations of laboratory training, live observation, practicum, and internship in which master and doctoral students participate are established upon the following eight assumptions.

1. Marital and family therapy is a discipline that is rapidly growing and changing;
2. Marital and family therapists should be encouraged to critically assess and research MFT theories in order to foster the development of effective methods of treatment;
3. Marital and family therapists need high quality competence in the diagnosis, prognosis and treatment of a broad spectrum of marital, family, and relationship problems;
4. Marital and family therapists must be able to consult with a variety of professionals, including clergypersons, internists, psychiatrists, psychologists, and family law specialists;
5. Marital and family therapists need competence in counseling ethnic families;
6. Marital and family therapists need skill in the identification and treatment of the moral and spiritual dimensions of marital and family dysfunction;
7. Core clinical faculty should have an integral role in clinical training, demonstrating the application of theory to clinical practice; and
8. Mental health facilities must be utilized in training marital and family therapists to ensure a broad range of exposure to family dysfunction.

Clinical Foundations. All students in the M.S. and M.A. MFT programs engage in a peer laboratory training experience during their first two quarters of study. This training is condensed into one quarter of study for MFT doctoral stuents. These weekly labs provide an initial practice experience where students can develop basic counseling skills through role-play, audio-video taped feedback and participation in a weekly triad.

Live Team. Students in the master’s degree program are required to enroll in a minimum of two quarters of practice counseling in a live team setting, while doctoral students are required to enroll in three quarters of practice counseling in a live team setting. Under the direction of a faculty member, and through the medium of a specially equipped observation room with a one-way mirror, students learn various assessment and intervention skills by participating as a cotherapist or team member in live marital or family therapy sessions.

M.S. Practicum. M.S. MFT students must have a minimum of 500 hours of direct client contact experience, with 250 of these hours devoted exclusively to couple or family work. The student must receive a minimum of 100 hours of supervision to maintain the ratio of one hour of supervision for every five hours of client contact. A student is required to have at least 52 hours of individual supervision. In addition, fifty percent of the time spent in supervision must involve interaction with “live” material, that is, audio, video or observation. These AAMFT requirements must be satisfied prior to graduation.

M.A. Practicum. During the twelve months of practicum training, M.A. MFT students will complete a minimum of 250 hours of direct client contact experience and a minimum of 50 hours of supervision. Supervision must occur weekly, with a minimum of one hour of supervision for every five hours of client contact. In addition, students must receive at least one hour of individual supervision per week. Practicum begins in the Spring Quarter of the second year in the program and continues until the end of the third year. Continuous enrollment for five consecutive quarters is required, including the Summer Quarter.

Doctoral Practicum. Doctoral students must have successfully completed Clinical Foundations, the ethics examination, and 500 hours of master’s-level practicum prior to entering doctoral practicum. Doctoral practicum students are required to engage in a minimum of 500 hours of supervision prior to admission to doctoral internship. They are to have one hour of supervision for each ten hours of client contact at their practicum site. In addition, they will attend weekly supervision on campus. Fifty percent of the supervision received must be in the “live” mode, that is, audio, video or observation, with a minimum of one hour of supervision per week. Students will work in a practicum site a minimum of nine consecutive months. Doctoral students must work under a licensed psycholigist, board certified psychiatrist, or licensed MFCC who holds an earned doctoral degree. All supervisors must have held their license for at least three years and be approved by the director of clinical training prior to commencing supervision.

Internship. In addition to the practicum experience for marital and family therapy doctoral students, a one-year internship is required during the third year of study. Including the M.S. practicum, and the doctoral practicum and internship, Ph.D. MFT and D.MFT. students must complete a minimum of 1,500 hours of clinical training. While not required, the Division strongly recommends that students complete 1,500 hours in their internship in addition to master’s and doctoral practica.

The internship training experience, in a family mental health training facility, is designed to expand the marital and family therapist’s skill in the areas of assessment, treatment, and cooperative work with psychiatrists and clinical psychologists.

During the doctoral internship, the student must engage in 1,000 hours of training in their agency, including a minimum of 500 hours of client contact in marital and family therapy, 100 hours of assessment and 100 hours of supervision. Of the 500 marital and family hours, a minimum of 250 of the client contact hours must include more than one family member participating in the session. Students may complete this training concurrently while engaged or employed in other counseling experiences.

Clinical Evaluation of M.S. Students. To ensure basic competence in clinical skills, students in the M.S. MFT program are evaluated during the Clinical Foundations and practicum. During Clinical Foundations, basic counseling skills and personal readiness for practicum are assessed. This occurs during the first two quarters of their studies. During practicum, evaluation of clinical and professional progress is conducted on a quarterly basis. The entire evaluation process is coordinated by the director of clinical training, in consultation with the Clinical Foundations instructors, agency directors and supervisors. As a result of their evaluation students are counseled about concerns or questions regarding their clinical ability and progress.

Clinical Evaluation of Doctoral Students. To ensure the mastery of clinical skills, MFT doctoral students are required to demonstrate their clinical competence through the fulfillment of a series of individually designed contracts.

Phase I: Professional Issues Evaluation. Near the end of the first quarter of doctoral studies, MFT students will demonstrate their knowledge in professional concerns such as 1) ethics, is necessary for the student to develop and demonstrate mastery of doctoral level marital and family therapy practice. Students needing remediation must satisfy the requirements of the committee before graduation.

Personal Growth

Personal maturity and growth are foundational to training in marital and family therapy. Therefore, it is expected that persons training to be marital and family therapists possess characteristics such as personal integrity, empathy, emotional stamina and stability, an ability to manage transference and countertransference, a commitment to the historic Christian faith, and a commitment to one’s own individual, marital, and family growth.

The Division assists students in facilitating the development and utilization of these characteristics through two means. First, the faculty provide each student with opportunities to evaluate her or his personality strengths and weaknesses through classroom experiences and intense clinical supervision. Secondly, the faculty encourage all marriage and family students to participate in individual, marital and family therapy. Students are usually free to decide whether they will enter therapy; however, in some cases, students may be required to enter therapy for a specified period of time or to take a leave of absence to remediate personal, marital, or family problems.

Students who do enter therapy receive incentive credit toward the 3,000 hours of experience required for MFCC licensure in the state of California. The MFCC licensing board allows the licensure applicant to triple count up to 100 actual hours of therapy (i.e., 100 x 3 = 300) as long as: 1) the therapy was obtained after entering training; 2) law, 3) professional problems and issues. Competency will be determined by an objective test and a case study, and must be established before beginning practicum.

Phase II: Marital and Family Therapy Evaluation. During the last quarter of doctoral level practicum (800 series), a clinical evaluation committee is convened for each MFT doctoral student. The committee is composed of a professor of marital and family therapy, a clinical supervisor, and an optional third member. At this first meeting, the student presents a history of clinical experience, a written case report, a videotaped counseling session, and responds to oral interviewing. The committee provides feedback to the student regarding strengths and areas for improvement to be addressed during internship training.

Phase III: Assessment Evaluation. This phase involves a standardized contract which includes: 1) demonstration of competency in administration and interpretation of a list of tests; 2) demonstration of ability to conduct indepth marital and family assessment interviewing; and 3) submission of written reports which give evidence of the student’s ability to delineate the individual, couple or family’s clinically relevant history and level of current functioning, to integrate clinical interview, psychodiagnostic and relationship test data for the purpose of formulating diagnostic impressions on the five axes of the DSM-III-R and for the purpose of developing appropriate interventions. This phase is completed by the end of the Winter Quarter of the final year of internship.

Phase IV: Marital and Family Therapy Evaluation. At the completion of the internship, each marital and family therapy doctoral student must be evaluated to determine her or his level of competency in the diagnosis, prognosis and treatment of marital and family dysfunction. The purpose of this phase is to evaluate the student’s level of competency in 1) understanding presenting problems; 2) gathering information regarding personal history, interpersonal relationships, and present functioning; 3) identifying the moral and spiritual aspects of dysfunction; 4) summarizing and synthesizing assessment data; 5) stating diagnostic impressions; 6) formulating treatment goals; 7) applying relevant research to both treatment planning and actual therapy; 8) engaging in effective therapeutic intervention; and 9) evaluating the progress made in therapy.

Competency will be assessed in an oral examination, part of which will include observation of a videotape of the student in a therapy session. A written case summary must be submitted.

Based upon this evaluation, the clinical evaluation committee will either certify the student’s competence or prescribe whatever remediation
The doctoral student, in consultation with her or his mentor, should choose between the comprehensive exam and the journal article and successfully complete this evaluation process at the conclusion of all coursework and prior to completion of the dissertation or project.

Students admitted to doctoral study in the Fall Quarter 1995 or later will be required to complete both the comprehensive examination and the journal article. Both requirements are to be completed prior to the final approval for the dissertation. Details on the nature of the comprehensive examination may be obtained from the Office of the Associate Dean for Marriage and Family.

Graduation and Commencement

A student may graduate at the end of any quarter after all requirements have been met. However, in order to participate in June Commencement exercises, a master’s student must have completed all coursework and practicum hours.

Doctoral students also may graduate at the end of any quarter having 1) completed all coursework, 2) completed the clinical evaluation and all dissertation requirements by the date specified, and 3) completed the internship. Participation in June Commencement exercises requires that the first two requirements be met prior to Commencement, and that the internship be contracted for completion by no later than August 31 following the June Commencement exercises.

Transfer of Credit

Students who have completed graduate work in marriage and family at other accredited institutions and desire a reduction in the number of marriage and family credit hours required at Fuller should contact the Assistant to the Associate Dean after admission. Approval of the Associate Dean for Marriage and Family is required.

Students who have completed graduate work in theology and desire a reduction in the number of theology credit hours required at Fuller should contact the Theology Academic Advising Office. In most cases the theology requirement can be waived if the student possesses equivalent graduate theological training accredited by the Association of Theological Schools (ATS).

Cooperative Programs

In conjunction with the School of Theology, a Master of Arts (M.A.) and Master of Divinity (M.Div.) with a concentration in family life education are offered. Details may be found in the School of Theology section of this catalog. Also, the Doctor of Ministry degree (D.Min.) may be pursued with a concentration in marriage and family. See the Continuing and Extended Education section of this catalog for further details.

THE PSYCHOLOGICAL CENTER

This Center is a novel complex, the purpose of which is to support the work of the faculty of the School of Psychology. The primary tasks of the faculty are 1) to teach and train Christian persons as future clinical psychologists and marital and family therapists, 2) to conduct and supervise research on finding more effective ways to alleviate human suffering, and 3) to model the best of contemporary practice of clinical psychology and marital and family therapy.

The Psychological Center provides training for approximately 100 clinical psychology doctoral students each year, as well as training for master’s- and doctoral-level students in marriage and family.

Psychology is a relatively young science and profession, but it is one of the most frequently chosen academic majors in colleges and universities throughout the country. Psychology and marital and family therapy have produced a large body of knowledge and techniques which have great relevance for solving human problems and for promoting optimal functioning. Facilities are needed which encourage our future therapists to apply the knowledge and techniques of their discipline to the solution of significant problems. Research conducted by creative clinical investigators is badly needed. The Psychological Center sponsors such research.

The Graduate School of Psychology began the expansion of The Psychological Center in 1976. This initial phase of expansion was made possible by a grant from the James Irvine Foundation. Since 1976 several other funding sources have assisted in the development of new facilities and programs. These sources include the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, the Jameson Foundation, the Pasadena Foundation, the California State Department of Health, the Pasadena Child Health Foundation, the United States Department of Health and Human Services, the Pfaffinger Foundation, the Peppers Foundation, the Times Mirror Corporation, the Avery Corporation, the City of Pasadena, the Los Angeles County Department of Mental Health, and many individual donors.

In 1986, the Center moved its headquarters and many clinical facilities into an outstanding new 55,000 square-foot building. In 1989, a generous donation equipped the clinics with state-of-the-art video facilities to ensure high standards of teaching, supervision and feedback.

The faculty developed at the outset a basic plan for Ph.D. clinical training. This plan was later enlarged to embrace the concept of The Psychological Center. Subsequently, students in the marriage and family programs and Psy.D. programs were added to the training functions of the Center. The Psychological Center currently consists of three major administrative entities, with fifteen distinct clinical programs, covering a wide range of psychological interventions, utilizing various theoretical frameworks. The Center has been described as “the largest psychological training center run by psychologists” and in an accreditation visit in 1990 was identified as a “national prototype” for training in clinical psychology.

Students in the Graduate School of Psychology share in the excitement and challenge of developing the services, facilities, programs and projects which constitute the model for The Psychological Center. During their doctoral studies, most students spend several years of field training in The Psychological Center.

The Director of Training for The Psychological Center is primarily responsible for internship training, participates in the selection of predoctoral interns for The Psychological Center facilities, and coordinates supervision and training events for clerks, pre-interns and interns. The internship program of The Psychological Center is accredited by the American Psychological Association.

The Associate Director of Training for the Psychological Center is primarily responsible for practicum training as well as coordinating the supervision of clinical trainees, either within the Center or in other nearby agencies working in association with the Director to maintain the same supervision standards.

The Psychological Center consists of the following programs:

Fuller Psychological and Family Services. This combined outpatient service provides assistance to individuals, couples and families, including specific services to children and adolescents. Psychological services are offered for adjustment disorders, anxiety and depression, stress management, abuse and domestic violence and physical conditions affected by psychological factors. For young people, we provide psychological testing and treatment for attention deficit disorders, behavior problems, school difficulties, social skills, and parent/child issues.

Our marriage and family therapy division offers counseling and educational services designed to help people resolve a variety of relational, emotional, spiritual, and cultural problems that arise in family life. Specifically, this includes relationship counseling, premarital counseling, marital enrichment and therapy, couples group therapy, divorce counseling and family therapy.

Pasadena Christian School. The provision of counseling services for the students of Pasadena Christian School began in September of 1993. Funded initially with a grant from the Weingart Foundation, the program provides drop-in counseling, therapeutic group interventions and seminars, and communication with school administration and faculty regarding high risk students. It is the desire of The Psychological Center administration to replicate this program in other Christian schools.

Inter-Community Alternatives Network. I-CAN is a research and training facility developed by The Psychological Center in 1980. It is a day treatment program for chronically mentally ill adults. I-CAN offers an alternative to hospitalization. A support system for participants is developed, and skills essential for independent living are taught by students, staff and volunteers. The program has recently evolved to become a multidisciplinary treatment team based on a rehabilitation model of service delivery, as well as becoming a Medi-Cal provider. In addition to these components of service, including aftercare, creating a seven day a week facility, significant psychosocial research is undertaken. I-CAN is a nonprofit program funded through the Short-Doyle Plan of the County of Los Angeles.

Center for Aging Resources. The Center for Aging Resources is a gerontology service consisting of several clinics: Heritage House, Elder Abuse Prevention Intervention Program (EAPIP), Community Assistance Program for Seniors (CAPS), and Gero-Net.

Heritage House. Heritage House is an outpatient clinic offering services to older adults. Located in a spacious home, reflecting Pasadena’s rich cultural and architectural heritage, Heritage House serves persons at all income levels, regardless of race, national origin, creed or religion. Services include individual and group counseling, neuropsychological assessment, support groups, intergenerational family consultation, and community education and training. The goals of Heritage House include growth, life enhancement and support of older adults and their families, the training of professionals and volunteers in gerontology, and community education.

Community Assistance Program for Seniors (CAPS). A program designed to prevent premature institutionalization of the frail elderly, suffering from Alzheimer’s disease and other related disorders, such as stroke and Parkinson’s disease. Services include group activities, psychological services and transportation. Opened in 1981, the program provides holistic, multidisciplinary treatment by a professional staff and is an Alzheimer’s Day Care Resource Center.

Gero-Net. Some seniors who live alone become mentally confused and may engage in disturbing behaviors which trigger calls for police or a psychiatric emergency team. Such persons would usually be hurt more than helped by being taken to a psychiatric hospital. Fortunately, regular face-to-face and telephone contacts by another person can often stabilize the mentally frail senior and allow the elderly person to continue living in his or her own home within the community. The program attempts to maintain personal integrity by promoting maximal functioning in a secure environment. The trainees and volunteers of Gero-Net provide such contacts. Gero-Net is funded through the Short-Doyle Plan of the County of Los Angeles.

Crime Resistance Involvement Council (CRIC). This complex of services is jointly sponsored by the Pasadena Police Department and partially supported by the City of Pasadena. Senior volunteers from the community play an important role in providing assistance to victims of crime and in training older adults to lower their risk of becoming a victim. Another component of CRIC deals with elderly victims of abuse or neglect. CRIC became a part of The Psychological Center in 1976, and has been recognized as a model program.

Project IV Family Outreach. Project IV Family Outreach is a novel program involving cooperation between The Psychological Center, the Pasadena Mental Health Center, Foothill Family Service and Pacific Clinics. These four agencies provide staff for a common project, established in 1981, which has been housed in the central offices of the Pasadena Unified School District. The primary purpose of the program is to identify and evaluate persons who are at high risk for educational, psychological and social problems, but who tend to underutilize traditional forms of mental health services. The staff works to link clients with the most appropriate services in the community. This program is funded through the Short-Doyle Plan of the County of Los Angeles.

Catalina House. This is a newly developed program to provide independent living skills for young adults in a residential setting. Funded primarily by the Los Angeles County Department of Children's Services, it is a collaborative venture with Pasadena City College. Residential and program supervision together with counseling services are provided by The Psychological Center for emancipated foster youth (ages 18-21) while they pursue educational/vocational courses provided by PCC.

OTHER TRAINING AND RESEARCH FACILITIES

Lee Edward Travis Institute for Biopsychosocial Research. This institute is committed to fostering interdisciplinary research into the relationships between social systems, religious beliefs, mental and affective states, biological responses and health. The Institute provides a distinctive research unit within the Fuller Graduate School of Psychology in which interested faculty, research collaborators and students can engage in regular and ongoing activities with a common focus. It also fosters collaborative research in the broad areas of health psychology, behavioral medicine, neuropsychology, psychoneuroimmunology, psychophysiology, and others. The ongoing biopsychosocial research efforts of the Fuller faculty have led to the creation of a significant network of collaborative relationships with individual researchers and experts from other disciplines working in surrounding institutions.

Institute for Marriage and Family. This institute supports the production and dissemination of basic and applied research on marriage and family issues that informs and supports positive marriage and family relationships that express Christian faith perspectives. The Institute for Marriage and Family seeks to develop prevention and intervention strategies to reach families in trouble, provide information exchange that increases the effectiveness of Christians who are in professions that serve marriages and families and develop outreach programs to families with chronic difficulties. It also encourages continuing cross-cultural, interdisciplinary and international dialogues among practitioners and researchers concerning marriage and family issues. The goal of the institute is to strengthen the effectiveness of marriage and family ministries in the worldwide church by utilizing research to develop materials, technologies, media and other practical applications that support Christian marriage and family living.

Psychophysiological Laboratory. This laboratory is equipped with the modern electronic instruments used in the study of psychophysiological phenomena. The action of the central and autonomic nervous systems is studied in relationship to such factors as perceptions, problem solving, memory, language, motor responses, and emotion. The equipment available for research include recording instruments, signal processing equipment, and a computer for signal averaging and statistical analysis.

Stress and Biofeedback Laboratory. This laboratory is equipped to measure a variety of stress indicators and provide stress management and relaxation training through biofeedback training. Students supplement coursework with encouragement to personally train themselves in these modalities.

Computer Facilities. The School of Psychology has a personal computer installation which gives access to up-to-date research statistics packages. This system is made available to students for research purposes at no charge. Students are encouraged to develop skills in computer use. Computerized test scoring and interactive computerized test feedback are also being developed.

HISTORY AND PHILOSOPHY

In 1985, the administrative structure of the Seminary was reorganized to include a fourth academic unit concentrating on continuing education for those already involved in ministry. This new academic division, officially designated Continuing and Extended Education (CEE), includes the Extended Education program, the Doctor of Ministry program, the Lowell W. Berry Institute for Continuing Education in Ministry, and the Institute for Christian Organizational Development.

The goal of Continuing and Extended Education is to make available to those engaged in work and ministry the opportunity to further their education, and to bring together resources to focus on the special needs of the church and its ministry, as well as the needs of Christian organizations. Through Continuing and Extended Education, work leading to a degree, as well as nondegree and continuing education, is available. Seminars, conferences, workshops, and off-campus graduate-level coursework are among the alternative forms of training provided. Continuing and Extended Education utilizes the expertise of those already involved in areas such as church growth, the management of Christian organizations, and marriage and family ministries. The philosophies, aims, curriculum and opportunities of the various programs of Continuing and Extended Education are described in this section. Further information regarding a particular program may be obtained from the office of that program.

EXTENDED EDUCATION PROGRAM

History

Extended Education, now entering its twenty-second year, began offering courses in September 1973 in Seattle, Washington, and Los Angeles, Fresno and Bakersfield, California, with the purpose of bringing graduate theological education to lay people. The Extended Education Program was developed as a response to the need for training laypersons in the context of the local church. A local committee of Christian leaders and students in the program determined the local character and helped to shape the local program.

More than one hundred students were enrolled in the first Extension student body in those four cities. In its first fifteen years, besides its current Extension areas, Extended Education held courses in Boulder, Colorado; Honolulu, Hawaii; Eastern Washington; and in Sacramento and Los Angeles County, California. The program now offers courses in five established Extension areas: southern California (Orange County, San Diego County, Palm Desert, Santa Barbara/Ventura and Bakersfield); northern California (Menlo Park, Oakland and Sacramento); Washington (Seattle); Arizona (Phoenix and Tucson); and Colorado (Colorado Springs). The Master of Arts in Theology degree (General Program Track) is available entirely in Extension through five of the Extended Education locations (Orange County, Menlo Park, Seattle, Phoenix and Colorado Springs), and the new Master of Arts in Christian Leadership degree program is being inaugurated in all Extension areas. The M.A. in Marital and Family Therapy is available in Menlo Park. The School of World Mission offers courses in several locations from time to time.

From the outset, the Extended Education program has been characterized by the desire to provide theological education with a high degree of academic excellence to students in their ministry and work settings. The courses offered during the 1994-95 year reflect Fuller Theological Seminary’s commitment to offering graduate courses off campus, in the context of the local church and other local ministries.

Philosophy

Fuller Theological Seminary Extended Education seeks to serve local churches by providing opportunities for theological education for ministry within a local church context. Extended Education seeks to provide educational experiences in off-campus, non-traditional settings which will enable students to discover, develop and improve their gifts for service and ministry within the scope of the church’s overall mission. By offering fully accredited graduate courses off-campus on weekends and evenings, Extended Education makes theological education possible for many church leaders, church staff members, Bible study leaders, business people, homemakers, professionals and others whose careers or circumstances preclude full-time study. Extended Education:

1. Provides theological education for the development of lay persons for leadership in ministry within the local church context.
2. Offers prospective theological students experience in church ministry and Christian community while beginning their studies and testing their callings; and
3. Extends resources to pastors for the development of local church educational programs.
and for personal and professional enrichment.

The process of theological education for ministry in extension is implemented by going to the student, being close to the location of ministry and being close to the life and task demands of the participants.

In short, Extended Education is a community of learners-practitioners-scholars in ministry who seek to know God better, to understand God’s revelation more fully and to do God’s ministry more effectively. Fuller’s Extended Education provides theological education of academic excellence in off-campus settings on nontraditional schedules. Through course work in Extension, students encounter a concept of ministry which takes seriously the charge to "equip the saints for the work of ministry."

Coordinating/Steering Committees

Within guidelines determined by the administration and faculty of the Seminary, each area’s Coordinating or Steering Committee provides contextualized leadership for the local program. Members represent various denominations and occupations in the Christian community of the Extension area. All members of these committees sign the Fuller Theological Seminary Statement of Faith and are formally appointed by the Seminary.

Faculty

Fuller Theological Seminary faculty members and adjunct faculty travel to the Extension class sites to teach Extended Education courses. The adjunct faculty are qualified professors, pastors, Christian psychologists and leaders in national and international Christian organizations. These persons join Seminary faculty members in offering courses in biblical studies, church history, theology, ministry, missions, languages, field education and counseling. All resident and adjunct faculty sign the Fuller Theological Seminary Statement of Faith.

Admission Requirements and Procedures

The general standards for admission to the Seminary may be found in the second section of this catalog. Admission to the School of Theology through the Extended Education Program normally requires a bachelor’s degree from an accredited institution. Applications may be obtained from the local Extended Education office, and all application materials, including transcripts, must be in the local Extended Education office by the application deadline for the quarter. Application deadlines for the various quarters may be found in the second section of this catalog. The local Extended Education office will forward the completed application to the Admissions office on the Pasadena campus, which will inform the student of the decision of the Admissions Committee. Notification of the committee’s decision is generally made within four weeks after receiving the completed application.

Late applications may be submitted after the regular application deadline. Applications received after the deadline are subject to special fees and restrictions. A late admission is tentative, subject to confirmation by the Admissions Office, and is valid only for that quarter.

Update and Reaplication. Students who have not registered for classes at Fuller for more than two years but less than three years must submit an update form, available from the local Extended Education office. Students who have not registered for classes at Fuller in more than three years must reapply for admission, updating certain parts of their application. Contact the local Extended Education office for details.

Curriculum

Courses offered in extension on a quarterly basis are equivalent to those offered at the Pasadena campus. Full-time faculty and local adjunct professors provide instruction. Courses are taught primarily on weeknights or weekends in local facilities, and library resources are arranged with local institutions. Each Extended Education area publishes its own quarterly listing of class offerings. Expanded course descriptions, which include course objectives, required reading, assignments and other information, are available from the local Extended Education office. Contact the local Extended Education office for further information on registration and the purchase of textbooks. Fuller Theological Seminary reserves the right to cancel a class due to insufficient enrollment.

Admission to the Seminary through the Extended Education program permits students to enroll in courses through any of the Seminary’s locations or programs, including the Pasadena campus and the In-Service Program. For information on registration for a Pasadena campus course or on courses available through the In-Service Program, contact the School of Theology academic advising office.

The Fuller Extended Education program also offers supervised field experiences for credit to those students desiring opportunities for practical application of academic information. Courses may be taken in a practical setting as outlined by Extended Education publications.
Registration and Course Changes

Registration (including appropriate payment) must be received in the local Extended Education office before the second class meeting. Registration for courses with no formal meetings (such as independent studies and field education) must be received by the end of the first week of the quarter.

Students may add or drop courses through the local Extended Education office with a service charge of $5.00 for each change or set of changes made at the same time. Courses may be added, and grade, pass/fail, or audit status changed prior to the second class meeting. Courses may be dropped before the fourth class meeting if the class meets five to seven times, or before the fifth class meeting if the class meets eight to ten times. There is a refund schedule for classes dropped prior to the third class meeting (see below).

For courses meeting on Friday nights and Saturdays for several weekends, each weekend is considered a separate class meeting for purposes of registration and course change deadlines.

Academic Policies

Students in Extended Education are subject to the same academic policies that apply to other students in the Seminary. These policies are described in the second section of this catalog, as well as in the Extended Education Student Handbook.

Library Facilities

Each Extension Area has borrowing arrangements with local libraries. Extension students may use the libraries listed for their area. Some libraries require a user's fee. Use of these facilities requires proof of current registration. Books may be obtained from the Seminary’s McAlister library through the interlibrary loan (ILL) departments of these libraries. Students may make full use of McAlister Library when they are in the southern California area and can make regular visits.

Seattle: University of Washington, Seattle Pacific University, Lutheran Bible Institute, Northwest College, Puget Sound Christian College, and the libraries of local churches.

Northern California: Graduate Theological Union, Berkeley; St. Patrick’s Seminary, Menlo Park; San Jose Bible College, San Jose; University of California, Davis; and Sacramento State University, Sacramento.

Orange County: O. Cope Budge Library of Southern California College, University of California at Irvine, Orange Coast College, Library of the School of Theology at Claremont.

Phoenix: Grand Canyon University, Arizona State University, Arizona State University West, KINO Institute, University of Arizona, Southwestern Bible College and Arizona College of the Bible.

San Diego: University of California at San Diego, Point Loma College, California State University at San Diego.

Santa Barbara: Westmont College.

Bakersfield: Bakersfield City College. Also, two former seminary presidents have opened up their personal libraries for Bakersfield students.

Colorado Springs: The Institute for Youth Ministries has a library of approximately 6,000 volumes. Arrangements are also being made with a local Christian college library.

Program Opportunities

Master of Arts in Christian Leadership Degree. The Master of Arts in Christian Leadership degree program seeks to prepare women and men who are called to intentional, nonordained leadership roles within the church, parachurch organizations, Christian higher education and the marketplace. The leadership in view is that which has a primary focus on organization or administration, articulating the mission and developing strategies, rather than on instruction or teaching, though the latter may well be a dimension of it.

Three concentrations are offered at the present time: adolescent ministries, Christian higher education and ministry of the laity. The program is intended for lay people who are called to specialized positions such as youth pastors or campus ministers, administrators in Christian colleges and facilitators of lay or marketplace ministry.

The program can be used as a basis for engaging in further professionally and vocationally oriented study, but is not intended as a basis for further academic study in Bible, theology and ministry.

The degree may be earned through coursework taken at any Fuller Seminary location. However, not all courses, especially those required for certain concentrations, may be readily available at all off-campus sites. The requirements for this degree may be found in the School of Theology section of this catalog.

Master of Arts in Theology Degree. The Master of Arts in Theology degree is designed for students who desire graduate work in theological education along with greater flexibility in the design of their educational experience. Personal enrichment is often the aim of M.A. students. The degree also has been pursued by those intending church-related vocations in denominations not requiring the M.Div. degree.

Because of the great variation in student goals and previous studies, each person has the opportunity to construct an individual curriculum in consultation with an academic advisor.

Students may earn the Master of Arts degree by completing 24 courses, following the curriculum outlined in the School of Theology section of this catalog.

The M.A. in Theology (general track) is currently available in Seattle, Menlo Park, Phoenix, Orange County and Colorado Springs. There are no language, thesis or Pasadena residency requirements. Students in San Diego County, Santa Barbara/Ventura, Bakersfield, Sacramento, Oakland and Tucson may take 18 courses toward the degree in their area and must complete six courses in Pasadena or through a primary Extended Education area which is approved to offer the M.A.

Master of Divinity Degree. The Master of Divinity program prepares the student for full-time service in the Church of Jesus Christ. It allows the student to train either for the general pastorate of a local church or for a specialized ministry as a staff minister. It enables the student to meet the range of denominational requirements for ordination.

Candidates for the Master of Divinity degree may fulfill their requirements, including core courses, by taking up to 24 courses in Extension areas and completing 12 courses in Pasadena to fulfill the M.Div. residency requirement. A specially designed program, provisionally approved by the Association of Theological Schools, enables selected students to complete the entire Master of Divinity program in Seattle. Details may be obtained from the Seattle Extended Education office.

The requirements for the Master of Divinity degree may be found in the School of Theology section of this catalog.

Master of Arts in Marital and Family Therapy Degree. Fuller Theological Seminary is committed to training marriage and family therapists who are grounded in a biblical worldview. In order to make it possible for more Christian men and women to equip themselves for this kind of service, the M.A. in Marital and Family Therapy is now being offered by the Marriage and Family Division of the School of Psychology in Menlo Park in connection with Fuller in Northern California. The purpose of the M.A. MFT is to prepare Christian individuals with entry-level clinical skills for licensure as marital and family therapists. The curriculum is designed to meet the academic requirements of Section 4980.37 of the State of California Business and Professional Code.

The Master of Arts in Marital and Family Therapy offered through Fuller in Northern California is designed as an evening and weekend program (with one mandatory intensive summer session) for people who have other commitments during their weekdays. The entire program can be completed in the Bay area; there are no Pasadena campus residency requirements.

Information on admission, transfer credit, degree requirements, and course descriptions may be found under the Marriage and Family Division in the School of Psychology section of this catalog.

Transfer Credit. Requests for transfer of credit for School of Theology students for accredited graduate studies done elsewhere will be evaluated on an individual basis by the School of Theology academic advising office. A maximum of 24 units of transfer credit may be applied toward the M.A. in Christian Leadership degree, or 48 units toward the M.A. in Theology degree, or 72 units toward the M.Div. degree. These courses must be appropriate to the student's vocational objectives and relevant to the degree program and concentration. These figures may include a maximum of 20 quarter hours in nonreligious studies if they are appropriate to the field of concentration, approved by the School of Theology academic affairs committee, and integrated through a 4-unit directed study.

Certificate of Graduate Studies. Students may receive the certificate by completing 12 selected courses, which represent the equivalent of one year of seminary study. Six courses must be in biblical studies, theology and church history, and six must be in ministry and mission studies. It may be taken for credit or noncredit.

Nondegree Applicants. Students with no particular degree or certificate objectives are welcomed and encouraged to enroll. Of the following categories, the Limited Enrollment, Special Student and Unclassified Student categories are master's-level credit classifications from which students may later apply to a degree program.

Limited Enrollment Student: One who is qualified for regular admission but wishes to take no more than five courses (20 units).

Unclassified. One who is qualified for regular admission, but wishes to take an unlimited number of courses, but does not want to pursue a degree program at this time.

Special Student: One who does not meet academic requirements for regular admission, limited enrollment or unclassified student status.
but is at least thirty-one years of age and has had at least ten years of ministry experience;

Visiting Student: One who is currently enrolled as a student in good standing in the post-bachelor’s level at another graduate institution, but wants to have transcript evidence of course work done at Fuller for transfer to the school of primary enrollment.

Audit: Courses may be audited on a space available basis at 50 percent of regular tuition; there are special rates available for active pastors and missionaries, Fuller graduates and current students and their spouses (see the second section of this catalog for details). There is an audit application and application fee. No permanent record is kept of audit enrollments, and no transcript will be issued for audit-only students. Audits are not recorded on the transcripts of students in degree programs.

Continuing Education Units. Students may earn Continuing Education Units (noncredit units) for courses offered through Extended Education. One Continuing Education Unit (CEU) is defined as ten contact hours of satisfactory participation in an approved course. The CEU system provides a uniform measurement and record of noncredit postsecondary-level study. Professionals in a variety of fields, such as pastors, Christian school teachers, nurses, denominational executives and leaders of parachurch organizations, can use the CEU records to verify or improve their skills. Students may apply for CEUs only if they are not taking the course or seminar in question for academic credit. Under no circumstances will CEUs be transferred as or converted to academic credit.

Refund Policy. There is a 100% refund for classes dropped prior to the second class meeting. The refund is 50% for classes dropped prior to the third class meeting. There is no refund for classes dropped after this point. There is no refund of audit charges at any time. For courses with no formal class meetings, such as independent studies and field education, there is a 100% refund through Tuesday of the second week of the Seminary quarter; 75% through Friday of the second week; 50% through Friday of the third week; and 25% through Friday of the fourth week. There is no refund after this point.

Financial Aid. Limited financial aid may be available to those with demonstrated need. Contact the local Extended Education office for information.

Veterans Benefits. All primary Extended Education areas have been approved for veterans benefits. For further information, contact the local Extended Education office regarding sites in Washington, Arizona and Colorado, or the Registrar’s Office (on the Pasadena campus) regarding sites in California.

Fuller Seminary in Seattle

The Seattle Extension is the oldest and largest Extension area in the Extended Education program at Fuller. Begun in 1973, it has experienced significant growth over the past 21 years. Now, with nearly 500 enrollments by 250 students in over 35 courses it plays a significant role in theological education in the Seattle area. The continued viability of the Extension program is reflective of the area’s desire to equip the people of God in Seattle for the work of the ministry.

Seattle Extension was one of the first Extension programs to enable students to earn their Master of Arts in Theology degree without a Pasadena campus residency requirement. A specially designed program, provisionally approved by the Association of Theological Schools, enables selected students to complete the entire Master of Divinity program in Seattle. This program is offered in cooperation with the Seattle Association for Theological Education, a partnership of Fuller Seminary, Regent College, Seattle Pacific University, and a number of Pacific Northwest churches. Other students may complete two-thirds of the Master of Divinity degree in Seattle. Coursework may also be applied to the Master of Arts in Christian Leadership.

Fuller Seminary in Northern California

Fuller Seminary opened its off-campus center in the San Francisco Bay Area at Menlo Park in 1974. Over the past 20 years it has grown significantly, and has expanded its outreach to include classes in Oakland and Sacramento. Now with over 500 enrollments by nearly 250 students in more than 30 courses each year, it plays a significant role in theological education in northern California.

The entire Master of Arts in Theology degree can be completed in the Bay Area, with no Pasadena residency requirement. Sacramento is not approved to offer the M.A. degree in its entirety. However, students in this area may earn the degree by taking 18 courses locally and then six courses either in Pasadena or through a primary Extension area which is approved for the M.A. in Theology, such as the Bay Area. Students in the Master of Divinity degree program can meet two-thirds of their requirements through Fuller Seminary in Northern California. Coursework may also be applied to the Master of Arts in Christian Leadership.

Fuller Seminary opened a new chapter in theological education in the Bay Area with the inauguration of the Master of Arts in Marital and Family Therapy program in the Fall of 1994. Offered by Fuller’s School of Psychology, the program can be completed entirely in Menlo Park, with courses primarily on evenings and weekends.

San Francisco Bay Area Extension classes are held at Menlo Park Presbyterian Church and St. Patrick’s Seminary. Classes in Sacramento are held at First Covenant Church, and classes in Oakland are held at Fatten College.

Fuller Seminary in Southern California

Classes are offered in Orange County, San Diego County, Santa Barbara/Ventura, Palm Desert and Bakersfield through the Fuller Seminary in Southern California Extended Education office.

Orange County Extension began in 1973 as a part of the Southern California Extension program. Over the past 21 years, Orange County Extension has experienced significant growth. It currently has more than 275 enrollments by over 150 students in 21 courses. Classes were held in San Diego County for the first time in the fall of 1983. San Diego County Extension has been drawing interested students for the past nine years and continues to be a vital center for theological education, with more than 50 enrollments by 25 students in nine classes last year. Orange County was one of the first Extension areas where students could earn the Master of Arts in Theology degree without a Pasadena campus residency requirement. San Diego County, Santa Barbara/Ventura, Palm Desert and Bakersfield are not approved to offer the Master of Arts in Theology degree in its entirety. However, students in these areas may earn the degree by taking 18 courses locally and then six courses either in Pasadena or through a primary Extension area which is approved for the M.A. in Theology, such as Orange County. Two-thirds of the M.Div. degree may be completed through Fuller Seminary in Southern California. Coursework may also be applied to the Master of Arts in Christian Leadership.

Orange County classes are held at Southern California College in Costa Mesa and Vineyard Christian Fellowship in Anaheim. Classes in San Diego County are held at First Assembly of God in San Diego and at Solana Beach Presbyterian Church. Classes in Palm Desert are held at Saint Margaret’s Episcopal Church, and classes in the Santa Barbara/Ventura area are held at Westmont College in Santa Barbara, Ventura Community Presbyterian Church, and Calvary Community Church in Westlake Village.

Fuller Seminary in Arizona

The Arizona Extension began in Phoenix in 1977, with 37 enrollments in three courses. Seventeen years later it has over 350 enrollments by more than 100 students in over 20 courses. This growth is reflective of the area’s desire to equip the people of God in Phoenix for the work of the ministry. Fuller Seminary in Arizona recently began offering several courses each year in Tucson as well.

Beginning in the spring of 1985, Arizona Extension was able to offer the Master of Arts in Theology degree in Phoenix without a Pasadena campus residency requirement. This means that students in Phoenix may earn the M.A. in Theology by taking courses solely through the Phoenix Extension site. Tucson is not approved to offer the Master of Arts in Theology degree in its entirety. However, students in this area may earn the degree by taking 18 courses locally and then six courses either in Pasadena or through a primary Extension area which is approved for the M.A. in Theology, such as Phoenix. Two-thirds of the M.Div. degree may be completed through Fuller Seminary in Arizona. Coursework may also be applied to the Master of Arts in Christian Leadership.

Fuller Seminary in Colorado

The influence of Fuller Theological Seminar in Colorado Springs goes back to the mid-1950s. Now Fuller in Colorado, the newest of the Seminary’s off-campus sites, brings graduate-level education to Christians seeking professional theological training in the Rocky Mountain region.

In 1954, Young Life, a nondenominational Christian outreach to high school students, began a training institute in Colorado Springs. Under the leadership of the late Dr. Paul King Jewett, professor of systematic theology at Fuller Theological Seminary, the Young Life Institute provided a high standard of nondegree theological education for youth ministry professionals. In 1977, the Seminary joined with Young Life in founding the Institute of Youth Ministries. IYM is unique as the only formal partnership between a seminary and a parachurch organization.

Building on this unique foundation and curriculum, Fuller in Colorado is designed to offer accredited graduate training to professional and volunteer staff of the more than forty Christian organizations in the Colorado Springs area, as well as area laity. The Colorado site offers the degree curriculum for Fuller’s new Master of Arts in Christian Leadership. Coursework may also be applied to the Master of Arts in Theology or the Master of Divinity.

Classes are held at the Fuller Seminary in Colorado Office and First Presbyterian Church in Colorado Springs and at Greenwood Community Church in Denver. Summer classes are held at Fountain Valley School in Colorado Springs.

DOCTOR OF MINISTRY PROGRAM

Purpose

“The purpose of this degree program is to equip one for a higher level of competence in the practice of ministry than that achieved in the foundational work normally issuing in an M.Div. degree.” (Association of Theological Schools, Procedures, Standards and Criteria for Membership, p. 25.)

The Doctor of Ministry is a professional degree granted by the School of Theology or the School of World Mission (Doctor of Ministry in Global Ministries). These programs are designed to serve the need of pastors, missionaries, mission executives, international church leaders, and other ministry professionals for an experience of continuing education which renews the personal life of faith, further develops professional competence and stimulates continued growth in ministry. Using the resources of the Seminary, a program of study has been developed which provides course work in a wide variety of areas. School of Theology courses are offered in such areas as church growth and evangelism, spirituality and renewal, pastoral care and counseling, small groups and Christian community, leadership and management, preaching and worship, and Bible and theology. The School of World Mission provides courses in church growth, leadership, contextualization, cross-cultural communication, anthropology, theology of mission, critical issues in today’s mission trends, Islamic studies, urban studies, developing leaders for short-term missions, Chinese studies, and area studies. A special emphasis in Chinese Ministry in the D.Min. in Global Ministries is designed for those who wish to enhance their skills for the unique challenges of ministering in the Chinese community.

Participants in the Doctor of Ministry program are afforded the opportunity for continuing education while remaining active in their ministries. The program of study combines a critical assessment of experience with a peer group learning situation with the guidance of leaders who have expertise in developing and sustaining effective ministry. The philosophy and goals of the program are to combine theoretical knowledge with a suitable full-time ministry which results in a demonstrable competence.

Program Distinctives

The Doctor of Ministry degrees offered by the School of Theology and the School of World Mission are essentially the same in overall purpose and structure. The difference is primarily one of focus, with the Doctor of Ministry in Global Ministries designed primarily for those involved in ministry in non-Western or intercultural contexts. References to the Doctor of Ministry degree may be understood to apply to both programs. Specific references to the School of World Mission program will be identified by the title "Global Ministries."

Admission Requirements

General standards of admission to the Seminary may be found in the second section of this catalog.

Admission to the Doctor of Ministry program is on the basis of competence in theology and commitment to ministry, as well as motivation to pursue further study in a recognized area of ministry. Admission to the Doctor of Ministry in Global Ministries is based on commitment to a cross-cultural or missional ministry.

Foundational ministry training leading to competence in theology normally will be demonstrated by having received a Master of Divinity degree or its equivalent from an accredited school with a balanced curriculum, including the recognized disciplines of biblical studies (with one year of one original language, either Greek or Hebrew), the history of the Christian church, systematic theology and ethics, and studies in ministry. A grade point average of at least 3.0 (4.0 equals A) is required for admission as a regular student.

Commitment to ministry will be evaluated on the basis of at least three years in full-time ministry after receiving the Master of Divinity degree. The applicant must be currently involved in some form of full-time ministry; for the Global Ministries program, current involvement in some form of full-time cross-cultural or missional ministry is required. Continuation in the D.Min. program requires continued full-time involvement in ministry.

The Admissions Committee evaluates applicants on the basis of transcript evidence, references and two statements by the applicant—one describing his or her experience in ministry, and one defining goals for participation in the degree program. The applicant must show growth and competence in church or parachurch leadership and ministry skills.

Applicants who are not native speakers of English must pass a written and oral English examination (TOEFL) with a score of 550 before admission is granted. Further information on this examination may be found in the second section of this catalog.

Degree Requirements

The in-ministry/continuing education model of the Doctor of Ministry Program builds on the biblical, theological and professional foundations of an accredited M.Div. degree, providing advanced study in theology and ministry or missiology within the context of the candidate's ministry.

The Doctor of Ministry degree requires the completion of 48 units of credit. Eight units of credit are assigned for completion of the ministry focus paper (or for School of Theology students, the supervised ministry project or dissertation). The remaining 40 units are chosen from a schedule of specially designed courses, some of which earn four units of credit, some eight units, and some 12 units. Students may enroll for up to 24 units in any twelve month period, completing the degree requirements in three to seven years. However, it is recommended that no more than 12 units be taken in one academic year. Only B work and above will count toward satisfying graduation requirements (except that one B- grade is allowed).

Each course has three major components:

1. Preparation which must be completed prior to the class, which may consist of various combinations of reading (up to 1,500 pages for a 4-unit course, 3,000 pages for an 8-unit course, or 4,500 pages for a 12-unit course) and working with audio or video tapes;
2. A one or two-week intensive period of classroom interaction; and
3. An extensive postsession project which synthesizes reading and class work and applies...
Final Project

The Doctor of Ministry program culminates with the completion of a ministry focus paper, or for students in the School of Theology program, a supervised ministry project or dissertation. A student may begin work on this final phase after completing the following requirements: 1) 24 academic units of course work with satisfactory evaluation and grade reports; 2) for Global Ministries students, completion of the 4-unit integration and research design course; 3) faculty approval of a ministry focus paper, supervised ministry project, or dissertation proposal; and 4) completion of any admission deficiencies. Students initiate the final project process by submitting a formal proposal to the Doctor of Ministry office according to program guidelines.

Final Project Mentoring. The mentoring process for the development and writing of the final project, whether it is a ministry focus paper, supervised ministry project, or dissertation, is under the supervision of the theological or missiological mentor of the student’s program. For School of Theology students, this mentoring process involves two stages: 1) a tutorial in theology of ministry (normally offered to all participants during any two-week session on campus) that involves interaction and discussion based on selected texts, and 2) a tutorial on constructing and writing a ministry focus paper, supervised ministry project or dissertation (open to all students). Both tutorials are offered in conjunction with most courses and are provided as part of the final project fee. For Global Ministries students, a 4-unit integration and research design course is required and is offered during whenever a School of World Mission D.Min. course is in session in Pasadena.

Ministry Focus Paper. The ministry focus paper incorporates the reading and class work done in connection with the seminars and courses, and aims at designing a specific strategy for ministry. It must include: 1) an analysis of the student’s present field or placement in ministry, utilizing theoretical components of the Doctor of Ministry curriculum which provide tools for such an analysis; 2) theological reflection upon the ministry focus, interacting with the assumptions, methods and goals of the particular ministry strategy to be used, from a biblical perspective; and 3) a specific strategy and plan for ministry, drawing upon the theoretical components of the Doctor of Ministry program, relating the design and strategy to the ministry field analysis and the theological reflection, resulting in a set of goals and objectives which are measurable and related to a timeline for implementation and evaluation. Proposals for a ministry focus paper are to be submitted at the final ministry project tutorial session (or for Global Ministries students, after the integration and research design course). The proposal will then be submitted to the Faculty Final Project Committee for approval. The ministry focus paper will be bound and placed in the library after acceptance, with a copy sent to University Microfilms.

Supervised Ministry Project. As an alternative to the ministry focus paper, students in the School of Theology D.Min. program may elect to complete a supervised on-site ministry project, or dissertation (open to all students). Both tutorials are offered in conjunction with most courses and are provided as part of the final project fee. For Global Ministries students, a 4-unit integration and research design course is required and is offered during whenever a School of World Mission D.Min. course is in session in Pasadena.

A proposal for the project should clearly identify the nature of the ministry project. Minimal objectives incorporated into the project proposal include: 1) a rationale for the project, iden-Identifying specific ministry needs to which the project relates, as well as the Doctor of Ministry course work on which the project is based; 2) a description of the ministry site in which the project will take place (i.e., geographical location, ecclesiastical setting, student's position or role, etc.); 3) a design for the project, including strategy for implementation and time schedule (ordinarily from three months to one year in length); 4) an explicit strategy for parish involvement in the project; 5) criteria for evaluation of the project after its completion.

The foundation for the ministry project is the course Theology for Ministry (4 units), which is an exercise in theological reflection designed to assist the Doctor of Ministry participants in the development of their own theology of ministry. The course includes a tutorial of four class hours and must be attended during one of the sessions on campus. This course must be taken for credit by those doing a supervised ministry project for the D.Min. from the School of Theology.

Dissertation. Students in the School of Theology D.Min. program may prepare a dissertation as the final project. The dissertation incorporates significant research, reading and class work done in connection with the coursework, and aims at producing a publishable manuscript in the area of theology and ministry. The dissertation is written under the supervision of an assigned faculty mentor, and is written in a style and format appropriate to doctoral level scholarship through use of extensive research and critical footnotes or endnotes. The dissertation will be bound and placed in the library after acceptance, with a copy sent to University Microfilms as one means of publication. Students who have approval to write a dissertation may register for a directed study for up to eight units of credit with their faculty mentor or another professor in order to do research and writing for the dissertation in areas not covered by the regular Doctor of Ministry curriculum. Dissertation proposals are first submitted to the Doctor of Ministry Faculty Committee, at which time a faculty mentor will be assigned.

Purpose

The Institute for Christian Organizational Development was established in 1981 to address the need for management training designed specifically for the Christian leader. The Institute offers training seminars and short-term workshop experiences in various management areas.

Admission

Participants in the Institute training events must be already engaged in a leadership role in ministry. Executives of Christian organizations, leaders of Christian colleges, universities, and seminaries, pastors, denominational and mission executives, and Christian men and women carrying executive responsibilities in the corporate world form the primary constituency of the Institute. Special workshops and courses are developed for seminary students preparing for their leadership role in the Church and its varied ministries. These courses are offered on campus and in cities across the nation.

Faculty

The faculty for the Institute are drawn from the ranks of faculty and administration of the Seminary as well as from the ranks of Christian leaders in ministry and business around the country. Each seminar is led by a faculty team of at least one practicing management expert and a theologian or minister.
Purpose

The purpose of the Lowell W. Berry Institute is to provide continuing education events for church professionals and lay leaders. These events provide a unique resource to the church and the community in specialized areas of theology and ministry.

Curriculum

The Institute participates each year as a sponsor of major national conferences, regional conferences and local workshops. These have included:

- The Keys to Christian Leadership and Management
- The Oak Brook Conference on Ministry
- Clergy Liability Seminars
- Women in the Ministry of the Church
- The Ministry of Reconciliation
- Recovery Strategies and the Ministry of the Church
- Helping Pastors in Crisis
- Shame and Grace

Further information on these and other conferences and workshops sponsored by the Lowell W. Berry Institute for Continuing Education in Ministry may be obtained by writing the Institute in care of Fuller Theological Seminary.

Continuing Education Units. The events sponsored by the Institute may earn Continuing Education Units (noncredit units). One Continuing Education Unit (CEU) is defined as ten contact hours of satisfactory participation in an approved course or seminar. The CEU system provides a uniform measurement and record of noncredit postsecondary-level study. Professionals in a variety of fields, such as pastors, Christian school teachers, nurses, denominational executives and leaders of parachurch organizations, can use the CEU records to verify an educational experience that has helped them maintain or improve their skills. CEU recognition may be granted to any Seminary-sponsored event which meets CEU guidelines.

Participants in an approved Seminary-sponsored event may apply for CEUs only if they are not taking the course or seminar in question for academic credit (that is, they must be course auditors or participants in a noncredit special event). Under no circumstances will CEUs be transferred as or converted to academic credit.

Preamble

Men and women of God are suited for Christian service by moral character as well as by academic achievement and spiritual gifts. Among their qualifications should be compassion for individual persons, sensitivity to the needs of the communities of which they are a part, a commitment to justice, a burden that the whole of God’s will be obeyed on earth, personal integrity, a desire for moral growth, and mutual accountability. Candidates for a degree from Fuller Theological Seminary are expected to exhibit these moral characteristics.

The ethical standards of Fuller Theological Seminary are guided by an understanding of Scripture and a commitment to its authority regarding all matters of Christian faith and living. The Seminary community also desires to honor and respect the moral tradition of the churches who entrust students to us for education. These moral standards encompass every area of life, but prevailing confusion about specific areas leads the community to speak clearly about them. Students receiving training in a discipline for which there are professional ethical standards are subject to those as well.

Five statements of community standards are affirmed by all trustees, faculty, administrators, staff, and students of the Seminary. These are:

1. Academic integrity: students shall maintain the highest standards of ethical conduct in their academic work.
2. Professional integrity: students shall maintain the highest standards of ethical conduct in their professional work.
3. Moral integrity: students shall maintain the highest standards of ethical conduct in their personal lives.
4. Institutional integrity: students shall maintain the highest standards of ethical conduct in their relationships with the Seminary.
5. Community integrity: students shall maintain the highest standards of ethical conduct in their relationships with each other.

These statements are not a complete list of ethical standards, but rather a framework for the development of other ethical standards as may be necessary.
Statement on Academic Integrity

Truthfulness is of the very nature of God, who is Truth itself. Truth is a prominent theme in Scripture, and God's faithfulness and dependability rest in truthfulness. The biblical admonitions against false witness, lying, and dishonesty are also prominent.

Fuller Theological Seminary is committed to intellectual and moral growth. Upholding the standard of academic integrity with its reliance on honesty is a responsibility of both faculty and students. In addition to maintaining integrity in their own academic pursuits, the faculty have the right and obligation to set and clarify academic requirements for the work of students. Academic integrity is a personal responsibility of students to represent as their own work in reports, papers, or examinations only what they are entitled to honestly so present. It includes a collective responsibility to assure that all uphold the spirit and letter of academic integrity.

Conduct regarded as violating academic integrity includes (but is not limited to):
- plagiarism, which is the passing off of another's ideas or writings as one's own. It involves failure to acknowledge material which is copied from others or failure to acknowledge one's indebtedness to another for the gist of important thoughts in a formal statement, written or oral.
- cheating, which is the use of Seminary disciplinary procedures should always be viewed as a last resort. In no way do they exempt the Seminary from making every possible effort to guide the honest pursuit of truth, to encourage wholesome approaches to sexuality, to support stable family life, or to model community relationships that convey respect for people and property.

The Seminary is committed to providing education and counseling to those of its community who are in special need; to extending Christian charity to those involved in strife, marital conflict or the struggle for sexual identity; and to demonstrating the personal forgiveness available through Christ for all human failure.

Statement on Sexual Harassment

Preamble. The two great commands are these: "You shall love the Lord your God with all your heart...soul ...and mind" and, "You shall love your neighbor as yourself" (Mt. 22:37,39). As man and woman are made in the image of God (Gen. 1:27), so in Christ there is neither male nor female (Gal. 3:28). Followers of Jesus are not to lord it over one another (Mt. 20:25-27), but are to be in mutual submission (Eph. 5:21). Christians manifest these truths by their mutual service and love in the Body of Christ.

Sexual harassment is a violation of Christ's commandment to love our neighbor as ourselves; it denies the image of God in the other; and it negates our oneness in Christ. Sexual harassment regularly involves an abuse of power; it invariably interferes with shared ministry and rends the Body of Christ.

With these things in mind, together with the realization that when one member suffers, all suffer together (1 Cor. 12:26), Fuller Theological Seminary establishes the following policy with regard to sexual harassment.

Policy. Fuller Theological Seminary expects that the dignity of all people, female and male, will be revered and celebrated in behavior, attitude, and the use of language by each member of the seminary community. This expectation is grounded in the belief that Scripture affirms mutuality and care for the other, explicitly forbids behavior which arises from the abuse of power, and teaches that men and women together are created in God's image and for God's glory. The seminary is therefore committed to creating and maintaining a community in which students, faculty and administrative and academic staff can work together in an atmosphere free of all forms of harassment, exploitation or intimidation, including sexual harassment. Every member of the Fuller community should be aware that the seminary is strongly opposed to sexual harassment and that such behavior is prohibited both by Seminary policy and by law (cf. Title VII of the Civil Rights Act, 1964, 42 U.S.C. Sections 2000e et seq. (1992); Title IX of the Educational Amendments, 1972, 20 U.S.C. Sections 1681 et seq. (1990)). Sexual harassment is a barrier to learning in the classroom and to productivity in the workplace. It is the intention of the seminary to take whatever action may be needed to prevent, correct and, if necessary, discipline behavior which violates this policy. Faculty, administrators and supervisors have the responsibility for participation in the creation of a campus environment free from sexual harassment, an environment that bears joyful witness to the God-given worth of all persons.

Definition Of Sexual Harassment. Unwelcome sexual advances, requests for sexual favors, and other verbal or physical conduct of a sexual nature up to and including sexual assault constitute sexual harassment when:

1. submission to such conduct is made either explicitly or implicitly a condition of instruction, employment, or participation in other Seminary activity
2. submission to or rejection of such conduct by an individual is used as a basis for evaluation in making any academic or personnel decision affecting that individual; or
3. such conduct has the purpose or effect of unreasonably interfering with an individual’s performance or participation in instructional, employment-related, or other Seminary activity.

Both men and women may be victims of sexual harassment. One person may be sexually harassing another person and not be aware of it. In determining whether the alleged conduct constitutes sexual harassment, consideration shall be given to the record as a whole and to the totality of the circumstances, including the context in which the alleged conduct occurred.

Procedures for Filing and Resolving Complaints. Detailed procedures for dealing with concerns and complaints which may involve sexual harassment, both informally and formally, may be found in the Student Handbook.

Statement on Sexual Standards and Marriage and Divorce

Sexual Standards. Fuller Theological Seminary believes that heterosexual union must be revered for marriage and insists on sexual abstinence for the unmarried. The Seminary believes premarital, extramarital, and homosexual forms of explicit sexual conduct to be inconsistent with the teaching of Scripture.

Consequently, the Seminary expects all members of its community—trustees, faculty members, students, administrators, and restricted staff members—to abstain from what it holds to be unbiblical sexual practices.

If any member of the community, as defined above, is charged with failure to abide by this sexual standard, the Seminary will invoke the procedures for investigation and, when necessary, discipline as outlined in the relevant faculty, student, or staff manual or handbook.

Marriage and Divorce. The Seminary’s biblical convictions and churchly responsibilities call us to make clear our commitment to Scripture’s teachings on the nature of marriage as a covenant. These teachings view marriage as a witness to the permanent relationship between Christ and His Church, and do not condone divorce as an acceptable way of solving marital differences.

The Seminary community’s concern for the sanctity of marriage is manifested in attitudes and programs that foster marital harmony and in support and compassion for those who struggle to keep their marriages stable, under the almost relentless destructive pressures of our society. At the same time, spiritual commitment requires fidelity within marriage and sexual continence outside of it for participation in the official life of the Seminary, whether as trustee, faculty member, student, administrator, or restricted staff member (whose position is classified as central to the religious goals and activities of Fuller). The Seminary’s role in serving a multidenominational constituency and in encouraging Christian ethical conduct among the leadership of the churches requires that the members of the Seminary community be exemplary in these and all other ethical matters.

The full seriousness of the apostolic pattern that sets up special qualifications in character and conduct for Christian leaders (e.g., 1 Timothy 3:1-13) is recognized, including stability of marriage and family life. These qualifications are carefully considered in the selection of trustees, faculty members, administrators, and staff members for restricted positions. No divorced person will be called to any of these offices without a thorough review of the circumstances of the divorce by the Trustee Affairs Committee in the case of trustees, the Faculty Senate in the case of faculty members or academic administrators, and under the supervision of the Administrative Council in the case of other administrators and staff members. Where the recommendation of the appropriate committee is to proceed with the appointment, the recommendation concerning trustees and nonacademic officers shall be submitted to the Board for final approval; recommendations concerning faculty members and academic administrators shall be reviewed by the Joint Faculty before submitting them to the Board for the final approval. Upon appropriate recommendation, appointments of administrators and restricted staff members will proceed in the normal way.

When divorce occurs in the life of any trustee, faculty member, administrator, or restricted staff member while officially related to the Seminary, the person is to notify the administrator to whom he or she is directly responsible. Normally that administrator would be, in the case of trustees, the chairperson of the Board; in the case of a faculty member, the appropriate Dean. In the case of administrators or restricted staff members, notification should be made to their cabinet-level supervisor. The divorcing person is to submit a letter explaining the circumstances at the time of the judgment of dissolution. The responsible cabinet-level administrator will submit a report and recommendation to the President in the case of Seminary personnel, or to the Trustee Affairs Committee in the case of trustees.

When a student undergoes the tragedy of divorce while in any program of the Seminary, that student shall, by the time of the judgment of dissolution, submit a letter explaining the circumstances to the Dean of the school in which he or she is enrolled. The Dean will submit a report and recommendation to the Provost. If further investigation is necessary, the process shall be carried out in accordance with the Procedures for Processing Grievances Regarding Students.

In any of these cases, failure to report the divorce within 30 days after the judgment of dissolution shall be grounds for discipline.

Statement on Respect for People and Property

As a community of Christians with special commitment to acting out love to one another, the Seminary expects community behavior that demonstrates the highest standard of respect for people and property. Scripture is replete with exhortations to look out for the welfare of others and build up each other, to be good protectors and stewards of the possessions God has given us and to be honest and keep one's word. The Seminary is committed to fostering respectful interpersonal relationships regardless of gender, race, age, handicap, or national origin.

Basic standards for respectful conduct at Fuller are similar to those of other institutions of higher education in societies with the legal foundation of respect for people and property. Because occasions may arise when specific standards relevant to this community are not fully recognized, examples of behaviors that are not acceptable are presented in the Appendix to this statement.

Appendix to the Statement on Respect for People and Property

The following are examples of behaviors that are not acceptable according to the Statement on Respect for People and Property. When willfully engaged in, repeated or having serious consequences, they may be cause for disciplinary action. When appropriate, these may be reported to civil authorities for legal or other action.

Dishonesty: The Seminary regards as unacceptable any lying, misrepresentation, or deception in representations an individual makes about self or others in any phase of Seminary life, especially in formal statements.

Injurious or Offensive Action: Physical assault, infliction of psychological injury, and the spreading of malicious rumors are unacceptable. Prejudicial treatment based on gender, race, age, physical challenge, or national origin is both offensive and injurious. Persistent profane or obscene language that gives offense is subject to disciplinary action.

Disruption: Acts by individuals or groups which substantially interfere with the rights of others or interfere with the normal activities of the Seminary are unacceptable. Disruptive activities in classrooms, libraries, offices, other campus meeting or assembly areas, or in student residences are included.

Stealing or Destruction of Property: Theft of or damage to the property of another person or of the Seminary is unacceptable. Defacing or rendering library material unusable shows little respect for people or property. Unauthorized possession or use of Seminary materials or equipment is a form of stealing.

Purposeful Violation of Institutional Policies: Purposeful violations include refusal to comply with contractual arrangements with Seminary offices or services, and unwillingness to abide by established policies in Fuller Housing.

Statement on Substance Abuse Policy

In accordance with the Drug-Free Schools and Communities Act Amendments of 1989, Fuller Seminary is committed to maintaining a drug-free working environment, one conducive to the promotion of wellness and positive self-development of all members of its community. In keeping with this objective, the Seminary will ensure that all of its workplaces are safe and free from the problems and risks associated with the unauthorized use and abuse of alcohol and the illegal use and abuse of drugs.

Standards of Conduct. Out of respect for our bodies as temples of the Holy Spirit, as good stewards of our relationships with one another, and in relation to our individual and communal fitness for ministry, the unlawful possession, use, or distribution of illicit drugs or alcohol by students and employees on Fuller property or at Fuller activities is prohibited. The Seminary also reserves the right to discipline students and employees for off-campus conduct not in keeping with these community standards.

Facts about Drug and Alcohol Abuse. Drug abuse has spread to every level of society in the United States. All drugs are toxic or poisonous if abused. Health risks of drug abuse include, but are not limited to, sleep disorders, confusion, hallucinations, paranoia, depression, impotence, liver damage, cardiac irregularities, hepatitis, and neurological damage. Abuse of either alcohol or drugs during pregnancy increase the risk of birth defects, spontaneous abortion, and stillbirths.

Alcohol is a depressant. It depresses the central nervous system and can cause serious, irreparable physical damage. Excessive drinking damages the liver, resulting in cirrhosis. Chronic alcohol abuse also causes hypertension, cardiac irregularities, ulcers, pancreatitis, kidney disease, cancer of the esophagus, liver, bladder, and lungs.

Available Assistance. The good news is that alcoholism and drug abuse and addiction are treatable. Generally, a recovering alcoholic or drug abuser may never safely drink or use drugs again, but can lead a normal, productive life as long as he or she maintains total abstinence. Confidential counseling and treatment programs in the Fuller Psychological Center, available to Fuller students and employees, include:

- Adult Children of Alcoholics
- Addictive States
- Step Teen
- Bridge to Sobriety

The costs of these programs are dependent upon the treatment necessary, with the individual’s economic situation a recognized factor on a sliding payment scale.

Students and employees should consult with their insurance carriers with individual questions regarding coverage of treatment.

Disciplinary Sanctions. For violations of Seminary rules of conduct, members of the community are subject to several kinds of penalties. The applicability and exact nature of each penalty varies for faculty, students, professional staff, employees and guests. In general, however, the penalties, depending upon the seriousness of the violation, include the following in ascending order of severity:

1. Warning: a formal admonition that does not become part of an individual’s permanent record, but may be taken into account in judging the seriousness of any future violation.

2. Disciplinary Probation: A more serious admonition assigned for a definite amount of time. It implies that any future violation during that time, of whatever kind, may be grounds for suspension, or in especially serious cases, for dismissal from the Seminary.

3. Suspension for a Definite Period: Removal from membership in, or employment by, the Seminary for a specified period of time.

4. Indefinite Suspension: Removal from membership in, or employment by, the Seminary for at least the period of time specified by the suspension, with the suspension to continue until certain conditions stipulated by the appropriate community are fulfilled. These conditions may include, but are not limited to, restitution of damages or formal apology.

5. Dismissal: Permanent removal from membership in, or employment by, the Seminary without hope of readmission to the community.

The recommendation, and/or the requirement of completing an appropriate rehabilitation program may accompany any of the five disciplinary actions listed above.

Legal Sanction. Pending the outcome of investigations, local, state, and federal laws establish severe penalties for the unlawful possession of illicit drugs and alcohol. These legal sanctions, upon conviction, may range from the payment of a small fine and probation to imprisonment for up to one year or a $5,000 fine, or both. Recent federal laws have increased the penalties for the illegal distribution of drugs to include life imprisonment and fines in excess of $1,000,000.

Purposeful Violation of Institutional Policies: Purposeful violations include refusal to comply with contractual arrangements with Seminary offices or services, and unwillingness to abide by established policies in Fuller Housing.

Incidents on the Fuller campus or incidents involving members of the Fuller community may be reported to civil authorities for legal action.

Procedures for Processing Grievances Regarding Students

Due process is a central concern in any procedure implemented to respond to conduct within the Seminary community that is in apparent conflict with a Seminary standard.

Due process procedures may be presented in greater detail for specialized areas of Seminary activity with their own appropriate professional standards, such as for clinical work in the School of Psychology.

For student conduct, the procedures for processing grievances shall be as follows. (Procedures for faculty may be found in the Faculty Handbook and for staff in the Personnel Policy Manual.) When any steps of this process discover that no wrongful conduct has taken place, the matter will be terminated informally or in writing at the discretion of the accused.

1. Personal Encounter: Following the precept of Matthew 18:15, anyone who is concerned with the conduct of a student should, wherever possible, personally confront that individual for the purpose of either clarifying the facts or resolving the issue. This informal discussion stage might, when appropriate, be expanded to include perspectives and advice of several others who can contribute to resolution.

2a. Lodging a Complaint: The formal process begins with the lodging of a written complaint or concern about a student’s conduct. The complaint may come from another student, from a staff member, from an administrative office, from faculty, or from a person outside the Fuller community. The person lodging the complaint must be willing to be identified. The complaint shall be registered with the dean or the appropriate academic officer of the student’s school.

2b. Clarification of Complaint: Promptly (usually within two weeks), but before further steps, the complaint will be explored and clarified privately and informally with the parties involved by an administrator of the dean’s choosing. Clarification may include consultation with others to determine whether the situation places the person in conflict with a stated Seminary standard. Such data gathering will seek to determine steps already taken, resources available, the person’s commitment to community standards, and desire or need for referral to additional professional resources. If the initial exploration concludes that no further action is necessary, formal notice of that decision will be given to the accused at her or his request.

3a. Formal Notice of Complaint: If the initial exploration shows that the situation needs further attention, formal notice of the complaint will be given in writing to the student. That notice will present the options a student may choose for a formal hearing. The student’s preference shall be declared thereafter in writing within one week.

3b. Formal Hearing: Within three weeks of the formal notice, a formal hearing according to Option A or Option B will be held.

Option A: Hearing with a Faculty/Student Group. If the accused prefers a hearing with peers present, he or she may ask for a Hearing Committee. This committee will be convened by the dean and include, in addition to the dean, a faculty member from another school appointed by the provost, the president of the All-Seminary Council, a student appointed by the graduation union of the accused’s school, and a student invited by the accused. The accused shall have the right to bring counsel to the hearing as well as the right to confront her or his accuser. The Hearing Committee’s conclusion regarding adherence to standards will be presented as a recommendation to the dean, who will forward it to the provost along with the dean’s own recommendation.

Option B: Hearing with the Dean. If the accused prefers not to have the matter brought before a group, she or he may choose a private hearing with the dean. Here the situation will be presented by the administrator who did the clarification. The accused shall have the right to confront the accuser, if desired. The dean’s conclusion regarding adherence to standards will be forwarded as a recommendation to the provost.

3c. Recommendation for Action: If a student is found in violation of a Seminary standard, the Hearing Committee, according to Option A, may recommend a disciplinary action to the dean. On the basis of that recommendation, or by her or his own conclusion in Option B, the dean shall...

3d. Decision and Disciplinary Action: The final decision on whether the accused's conduct is in violation of a Seminary standard will be made by the provost. If the conclusion is that the conduct is not in violation of Seminary standards, the provost will so notify the accused and the dean in writing. If the conclusion is that the conduct warrants disciplinary action, the provost will determine that action and communicate it in writing to the dean and the accused.

Possible Student Disciplinary Actions

The following disciplinary actions may be taken when a student is found not to be in accord with a Seminary standard. Enforcement progression may be modified to fit individual circumstances.

Limited Actions:

1. Admonition: An oral statement to a student that she or he has violated institutional regulations.

2. Warning: Oral or written notice that continuation or repetition of certain conduct may be cause for more severe disciplinary action.

Actions Affecting Student Status:

3. Probation: A written reprimand stating violation of Seminary standards. Further violation would normally lead to suspension.

4. Suspension: Exclusion from classes for a specified period of time not to exceed two years. Conditions, if any, shall be stated in the letter of suspension.

5. Expulsion: Termination from student status for an indefinite period of time. Conditions for readmission, if any, shall be stated in the order of expulsion.

Routine Administrative Actions:

6. Fine and Penalties: Penalties may be assigned for violation of Seminary regulations, when notice has been previously given for what penalties apply to specified violation.

7. Withholding Services, such as Registration or Certification: The Seminary reserves the right to withhold student services, including specifically registration or the issuance of transcripts or diplomas, for a student who has not satisfied financial or other formal commitments from a previous or current registration.

8. Eviction: The Seminary reserves the right to evict residents of Seminary housing, following procedures of the state of California, for violation of contractual agreements (i.e., for failure to pay rent) or for violation of established rules and guidelines (i.e., supervision of children, quiet hours, etc.).

Procedure for Appealing a Student Disciplinary Action

Appeal. A student shall have the right of appeal beyond the provost to the president. The appeal and basis therefore shall be presented in writing no later than two weeks after the provost's decision. The president shall render a decision usually within a month of the appeal. The final level of appeal, again in writing within two weeks by the student, is the chairperson of the Board of Trustees, who will determine how the appeal is heard, if the chairperson desires a hearing. The decision announced by the chairperson is final.

Statement on Inclusive Education

Fuller Theological Seminary is committed to the admission and education of students without discrimination on the basis of gender. In welcoming women into all of its programs, the Seminary thereby incurs an obligation to make all of its resources available to them as they pursue the professions and ministries—ordained or nonordained—to which the Lord has called them. The Fuller community is aware of the fact that the role of women is a matter of controversy in many denominations, churches, and parachurch movements. The Seminary seeks to nurture its ties with the whole Body of Christ, including those Christian individuals and groups who presently hold alternative views on the role and ministries of women. While the Seminary encourages discussion and study of this issue, under no conditions may the authority of the classroom be used to challenge the calling of any student on the basis of gender. The Seminary expects all who teach in its programs to honor its commitment to this point.
Statement on Nondiscriminatory Language

The Joint Faculty and Board of Trustees of Fuller Theological Seminary has adopted the following statement recommending the use of nondiscriminatory language by all members of the Seminary community. Fuller has adopted the statement to be consistent with the Seminary’s clear commitment to the full equality of women and men and to the training of women as equal partners with men in all areas of Christian ministry.

Statement. As members of the Joint Faculty of Fuller Theological Seminary, we are committed to the use of nondiscriminatory language in all areas of the community’s life. We recognize that many women and men no longer find ‘man,’ ‘men,’ and ‘mankind’ acceptable as generic terms. We understand that such exclusive language, though once normative in our speaking and writing, now tends increasingly to alienate a substantial group of people. We wish to challenge patterns of language that may be doing harm even when harm is inflicted unconsciously and without intention. As Christians desiring to support human equality, we intend to avoid exclusive language which might express or encourage discrimination within the church or society. We pledge ourselves as faculty and encourage students, staff members, and administrators to use language which includes women and men in all our teaching, writing, witness, and worship.

Policies Governing Classroom Procedures. We expect students to use horizontally nondiscriminatory language in all of their work, both in oral presentations and written assignments.

As the faculty of an interdenominational institution, we recognize that the fact that various communities differ in their views on the matter of language used in reference to God. We affirm the use of the classical trinitarian formula and biblically faithful language for God. We encourage students to reflect in their writing the full breadth of the Bible’s masculine and feminine imagery for God. We also encourage students to demonstrate sensitivity concerning the constellation of issues related to gender-specific language for God.

We leave to the discretion of the individual faculty member the formulation and implementation of specific requirements governing the use of nondiscriminatory language in the classroom. It is imperative that these specific expectations with respect to language be spelled out in the syllabus for the course.

Policies with respect to language, and especially language for God, should manifest pedagogical sensitivity so that openness and not hostility is fostered in our students. Course requirements should prepare students to minister in a variety of cultural contexts and teach them to articulate and to deal pastorally and theologically with issues raised by questions of nondiscriminatory language.

Additional Policies Governing Theses, Dissertations, and D.Min Projects. Students writing theses or dissertations need to take into consideration the guidelines on nondiscriminatory language as formulated by their appropriate professional societies (e.g., APA, AAR, etc.).

For reasons of audience or cultural context, a faculty person who is mentoring a doctoral student may request that a particular doctoral dissertation be exempted from some aspects of the above policy, with a disclaimer inserted at the beginning of the work. However, the burden of proof for such an exemption rests on the student, subject to approval by the mentor and the appropriate committee of the appropriate school.

Policies Governing Faculty Speaking and Writing. We pledge ourselves to model our commitment to the partnership of women and men in the church and society by the language we use in speaking of and to other human beings. We will endeavor to be consistent and creative in using nondiscriminatory language in all our writing, public speaking, preaching and teaching.

We will also strive to enrich our ways of thinking and speaking about God as we explore the variety and fullness of Biblical imagery, including both masculine and feminine metaphors for God. In our affirmation of trinitarian orthodoxy, we intend to challenge those assumptions which diminish God’s authority and majesty, and to show how the Bible’s use of masculine imagery for God is not meant to reinforce patterns of thought and practice which deny women their rightful place in the body of Jesus Christ.

Policies Governing Language in Worship. Worship leaders are urged to demonstrate sensitivity in the language of worship in the following areas: (a) using nondiscriminatory language (people, humankind versus men, mankind), (b) using examples and references that encompass women as well as men, and (c) using a rich variety of biblical imagery for God in order to expand our concept of God beyond exclusive masculine terms. The selection and use of hymns, scripture readings, prayers, and liturgies in our public worship should reflect wherever possible this basic concern for inclusivity.
Statement on Academic Freedom

In the pursuit of truth before God, faculty members are free to express, in their writing, speaking, teaching, and activities, their individual positions. While free to develop, change, and accept any academic position, the unique task of the community as set forth in the Statement of Faith and other official statements derived from it and approved by vote of the faculty and Board. Fuller recognizes that as its faculty members pursue their respective disciplines, scholarship will create a healthy and dynamic tension which Fuller must encourage. Therefore:

Faculty members are entitled to full freedom in research and in the publication of the results within their fields of academic competence. Faculty members are entitled to freedom in their classrooms to address matters within the general subject area implied by the course title and description.

Faculty members are free as individuals and as citizens to speak and write about matters, whether or not the matters are directly related to theology. While Fuller will not limit individual expression in any respect, faculty members should avoid the impression that they are speaking for the Seminary.

Faculty members have the freedom to entertain positions which stand in an uncertain relationship to our community’s Statement of Faith, but each member must realize that the faculty as a whole, and not its individual faculty members, has the task of interpreting the Statement of Faith.

If the community finds that a given position is consonant with the Statement of Faith, the community has a responsibility to protect the academic freedom of the individuals involved against any attacks from the public or from some segment of the Seminary constituency. If a faculty member believes that a peer has separated from the theological community at Fuller by publicly advocating a position clearly at variance with the Statement of Faith and Fuller’s unique academic task, the faculty member should first approach that colleague directly and privately for clarification. If this attempt is not successful, then the two faculty members should request the aid of their Dean(s) within the community to attempt such clarification. If after faculty discussion a faculty member remains convinced that a position is correct, even though it is at variance with Fuller’s theological stance, that member has the right to attempt to change the Statement of Faith. The process of change must follow the procedures established for that purpose in the Seminary’s Articles of Incorporation and Bylaws.

If attempts for such changes do not receive the community’s support, however, Fuller expects that a faculty member will act with integrity and leave the community rather than act in opposition to the community’s confessional stance. Any faculty colleague, however, does have the right to a full hearing and investigation by the Board of Trustees, according to the procedures stated in the Seminary’s Bylaws and Faculty Handbook, with the understanding that the outcome of such a process may still require a severance of the relationship for the sake and interest of both parties.

Students are not required to subscribe to the Statement of Faith and are free to learn and to take reasoned exception to the data or views offered in the Fuller community. In their public expressions students and student organizations should make clear that they speak only for themselves.

Faculty members are responsible for safeguarding the academic freedom of their students to learn by encouraging free inquiry into controversial issues, presenting alternative viewpoints, refraining from undue influence of the process of learning, taking dissenting student opinion seriously, and offering a forum for discussion.

GLOSSARY OF TERMS

The following terms have proved consistently difficult to understand for students coming to Fuller from other educational systems. This difficulty is experienced by students from European educational systems as well as Third World students.

Audit: an enrollment status that permits a person to attend a class, without earning any credit or receiving a grade for the class. No record of an audit is kept on the transcript.

Comprehensives: an examination or series of examinations to be taken as required parts of a degree program or for admittance to a higher degree program. These may be based on knowledge gathered from all the course offerings, or from a specific set of core courses, in which case they should be scheduled shortly after the completion of the core courses.

Core Courses: basic required courses which form a necessary foundation for all other coursework in a specific degree program and, if possible, should be taken at the beginning of the program.

Course: a specific field of study undertaken with a professor for a set period of time and for a specific number of units.

Credit: acknowledgement that a specific course has been satisfactorily completed and is registered on the student’s official record. Credit is received for any passing grade. Another meaning of “credit” is that of a measure of credit, for example, “four credits” or “four units of credit” for a course. Normally a minimum of 25-30 hours of class time, research and study is required for each unit of credit that is earned for a class.

Cumulative Grade Point Average: a single decimal grade which is a numerical score representing the average of all letter grades received by a student for all courses completed. The cumulative grade point average is recorded on the grade card which reports the results of each quarter’s work. See also “grade point average.”

Dissertation: the final written work submitted by a student as part of the higher degree requirements of a doctoral program.

Elective: a nonrequired course, which may be chosen by the student for inclusion in his or her degree program alongside those courses required by the program. A number of elective courses must be taken to complete the total number of units in most degree programs.

Grade Point Average: the grade point average (GPA) designates the estimated merit of a student’s work in the form of a decimal which represents a specific letter grade. Letter grades and their numerical values are listed in the second section of this catalog. The GPA for a single quarter will be the grade point which results from the averaging of letter grades received in all courses for that quarter. See also “cumulative grade point average” above.

Intensive Course: a course offered over a one- or two-week period of time within a quarter, instead of the entire ten weeks of the quarter. Such a course is scheduled to meet every weekday of the one- or two-week period, for three to six hours or more each day, so that the class meets the same number of hours as it would if it were scheduled for the ten-week period. Courses are offered on this basis every quarter, and especially in the summer.

Matriculation: the beginning of a course of studies. A “matriculation fee,” which is applied against tuition, is required of students in some programs before they begin a course of studies. The date of matriculation is the time at which you register for your first classes toward a particular degree program. Deadlines for completion of degree requirements in some programs are measured from the date of matriculation.

Pass/Fail: In certain programs, a student may choose not to receive a letter grade for a course completed. A student’s work is then recorded as “P” for pass and “F” for fail. The Pass grade does not affect the grade point average, but the Fail grade will lower the grade point average. All coursework is required and graded as it would be for a course which would receive a letter grade. This option is limited to certain degree programs, and in each program there is a limit as to how many courses a student may take in this manner.

Priority Registration Day/Time: a day and time assigned to each student prior to registration for the next quarter which designates the earliest time that the student may register. This allows students who are closer to graduation, and need particular courses to complete their requirements, to register first.

Quarter: an academic term comprising a period of ten weeks. It is followed by one week for exams. Three quarters—fall, winter and spring—comprise the normal academic year. Courses are also offered during the summer quarter. Most courses last for one quarter.

Thesis: a written work generally shorter in length than the dissertation, which may be required of certain master’s programs.

GIFT OPPORTUNITIES

The expenses at Fuller Theological Seminary are comparable to those of similar institutions and are kept so by the regular giving of interested Christian people. No student pays the complete cost of his or her education. Substantial sums are sought annually by the seminary to make up the difference between what the seminarian pays and the actual cost of education.

There are many ways in which one can give to Fuller Theological Seminary. Appreciated securities or property, as well as life insurance, may be given to the seminary with considerable tax savings to the donor. Contributions may also be made with a retained life income through trusts or annuity agreements. Wise estate planning may also provide opportunities for conservation of wealth, as well as income and estate tax savings to the donor.

Investments in the lives of men and women who are training for Christian service at Fuller Theological Seminary may also be made by leaving funds for this purpose in one’s will. The legal form for a bequest to Fuller Theological Seminary should read as follows:

I give, devise and bequeath to Fuller Theological Seminary, a California nonprofit corporation located at Pasadena, California, the sum of $__________ (or property herein described) to be used by its Board of Trustees as it may deem advisable for the benefit of the students of Fuller Theological Seminary.
