STATEMENT

The provisions of this publication are not to be regarded as the irrevocable terms of the contract between the student and Fuller Theological Seminary. Changes are effected from time to time in the general regulations and in the academic requirements. There are established procedures for making changes, procedures which protect the Seminary’s integrity and the individual student’s interest and welfare. A curriculum or graduation requirement, when altered, is not made retroactive unless the alteration is to the student’s advantage and can be accommodated within the span of years normally required for graduation. When the actions of a student are judged by competent authority, using established procedure, to be detrimental to the interest of the Seminary community, that person may be required to withdraw from the Seminary.

Fuller Theological Seminary actively subscribes to a policy of equal education and employment opportunity for all people regardless of race, age, color, national origin, or political affiliation.

Fuller Theological Seminary, in compliance with Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, does not discriminate on the basis of sex in admissions, treatment of students, or employment.

Fuller Theological Seminary, in line with Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, does not discriminate on the basis of handicap in admission or access to, or treatment or employment in, its programs and activities.

The drawings and etchings published in this catalog are by the great Dutch Master Rembrandt. Rembrandt’s relation to the biblical narrative was so intense that he repeatedly felt impelled to depict what he read there. His drawings are self-revelations of Rembrandt the Christian. In the history of piety they are documents of the highest order for Rembrandt offers the ultimate that an artist as a Christian can—he makes present and gives testimony to the word of the Holy Scriptures.

The Ministry of Fuller Theological Seminary

PURPOSE OF FULLER THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY

Fuller Theological Seminary, embracing the Schools of Theology, Psychology and World Mission, is an evangelical, multidenominational, international and multiethnic community dedicated to the preparation of men and women for the manifold ministries of Christ and his Church. Under the authority of Scripture it seeks to fulfill its commitment to ministry through graduate education, professional development and spiritual formation. In all of its activities, including instruction, nurture, worship, service, research and publication, Fuller Theological Seminary strives for excellence in the service of Jesus Christ, under the guidance and power of the Holy Spirit, to the glory of the Father.

THE MISSION BEYOND THE MISSION

Beyond the immediate purpose of the nurture and training of students for the ministries of Christ, the faculty and Board of Trustees of Fuller Theological Seminary see a further mission. In 1983, they adopted a statement entitled "The Mission Beyond The Mission," which sets forth the vision that will give further direction to the Seminary’s planning and priorities. The statement is organized around five imperatives:

Imperative One: Go and make disciples
Imperative Two: Call the church of Christ to renewal
Imperative Three: Work for the moral health of society
Imperative Four: Seek peace and justice in the world
Imperative Five: Uphold the truth of God’s revelation

Committees composed of faculty, trustees, and student representatives are in the process of working out some of the ways in which Fuller’s responses to these imperatives can be implemented in the life and ministry of the Seminary.

CHARACTERISTICS OF FULLER THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY

Fuller Theological Seminary’s unique contribution to the church is reflected in the union of its three faculties. In this union, psychology and world mission join with theology to effect the biblical mandate of bringing persons throughout the world to maturity in Christ through every language and culture. As an educational arm of the church, Fuller’s three graduate schools seek to serve the body of Christ in its worldwide ministry combining these emphases in the type of training they provide.

Evangelical Commitment

The Fuller Theological Seminary community—trustees, faculty, staff and students—believe that Jesus Christ, as revealed in the Holy Scripture and proclaimed in the power of the Holy Spirit, is the only ground for a person’s reconciliation to God. The Statement of Faith on page 9 elaborates this commitment. The Seminary assumes, then, a commitment to:

- an evangelical fervor which flows out of an emphasis on the character of God himself
- the practice of evangelism in every culture of the world
- a constant engagement with Scripture, testing all things by it
- engagement in responsible Christian community through corporate worship and mutual supporting love in the bonds of the grace of Christ
- Godly living; Christlikeness in word and deed
- confidence in the unity of God’s truth in its application to the spiritual, psychological and cultural development of men and women.

Academic Excellence

The trustees and faculty of Fuller are committed to achieving and maintaining the highest academic standards in teaching, research and writing. In the quest for academic quality, we assume that there will exist:

- a commitment to increase and strengthen the quality of teaching in the classroom
- through funding and supporting innovative programs
- through varied teaching models
- through careful evaluation and feedback
- a rigorous program of research and writing to provide literary leadership for the church
- interaction with non-evangelical viewpoints
- a commitment to maintain the highest possible standards of responsible academic freedom
- a commitment to flexibility in curriculum design
- to allow room for innovation and growth to recognize individual needs and specialized ministries
- a commitment to the best of theological traditions
- an academic program which will encourage and foster the spiritual formation of the individual
- recognition by regional and professional accrediting agencies
  - Western Association of Schools and Colleges
  - Association of Theological Schools
  - American Psychological Association

Professional Competence

The Seminary is committed to an academically and professionally qualified faculty whose appointments and advancements are dependent upon potential and acknowledged competence in teaching, writing and professional practice. These standards assume:

- a willingness to invest in the growth of persons both in the context of the Seminary and outside its walls
  - personally
  - professionally
  - spiritually
- a commitment to relate productively with local congregations
  - in support of local pastors by offering workshops and other services to enhance their ministry
  - in a continued and expanded use of local churches for field work experience in keeping local churches informed of Fuller ministries
  - in listening to the local churches’ articulation of their ministry and needs
- an ability to serve the church in the area of research
  - by keeping abreast of the times
  - by initiating new programs in order to meet present and future needs
  - by coordinating efforts within the three schools to optimize the application of their unique resources
- a commitment to provide professional training of the highest quality for the varied ministries within the church
  - incorporating practical “in-ministry” experience
  - stressing the importance of preaching and other means of communication
  - recognizing the effect of culture on the ministry of the church
- a concern for the highest standards of professional competence for men and women engaged in ministry outside the organized church
  - in the healing ministry of clinical psychology
  - in the caring ministry of social agencies
  - in the teaching ministry of educational institutions

Multidenominational Breadth

The trustees and faculty of Fuller Theological Seminary are pledged to serve the entire church of Jesus Christ in its various expressions whether congregational, denominational or multidenominational. While maintaining a multidenominational structure, Fuller encourages its students to work within existing church organizations. In reflecting this approach, the Seminary assumes the following:

- strong denominational participation by individual trustees and faculty members
- encouragement for students to serve the church organization that nurtured them
- the preparation of men and women for ministry in their own church organizations, recognizing the distinctives of each denomination or organization
- a commitment to be ecumenical in church relationships
- an emphasis on preaching, evangelism, Christian nurture and church discipline through which unity is expressed.

Vocational Diversity

In order to meet the demands of the church today, the trustees and faculty of Fuller Theological Seminary take seriously the apostolic description of the church’s nature—one body, many members. For this reason, the programs of the three schools are designed to provide training for a wide range of Christian service. This attitude toward diversity assumes the following:

- a diversity of gifts and ministries to be exercised with awareness of the unity of the body and dependence upon the head, Jesus Christ
- a variety of programs designed to prepare men and women for the general and specialized ministries identified by the church
  - pastors
  - staff ministers
  - missionaries
  - clinical psychologists
  - youth ministers
  - administrators
  - research psychologists
  - professors
  - chaplains
  - campus ministers
  - Christian educators
  - counselors
  - evangelists
  - social workers
- a correspondence between the enrollment in each program and placement opportunities
  - responding to the church’s request for ministers with specifically defined training (e.g. preaching, Christian education, family ministries, administration)
  - observing the growing needs for mission training, particularly at the professional level
  - addressing the continued need for clinical psychologists
- the offering of extension courses in theological education to allow laitypersons, many of whom are already involved in vocational service, to strengthen skills in Christian ministry
- the opportunity for in-service training which provides both academic stimulus and spiritual growth.

Personal Maturity

The trustees and faculty of Fuller Theological Seminary believe that the church of Christ must minister to the whole person. Emotional healing in Christian perspective is the particular goal of the Graduate School of Psychology, but the aim is shared by the two other faculties as well. The ultimate objective is that every Fuller graduate be equipped to model as well as foster an investment by the Seminary in the personal, the professional and the spiritual development of each of its members
  • in time and availability
  • in resources
  • in services provided
  • in participatory governance
  • the opportunity for all students to participate in supportive community
    • for social development
    • for spiritual formation
  • easy accessibility to the counseling services offered on campus
  • a commitment to strengthen marriage and family life while affirming the value of singleness.

Social Concern

The trustees and faculty of Fuller Theological Seminary have a deep-seated concern to demonstrate and to evoke a quality of discipleship which applies the biblical norms of love and justice in all human relationships. This regard for social justice assumes that the following will be evident:
  • a biblically-shaped perspective in the question of the relationship between evangelism, social concern and the Christian’s mission in the world
  • course offerings which encompass cross-cultural studies, problems of church and state and aspects of social ethics, as well as social work, family guidance and mental health services
  • opportunities in internships and field that confront students with the massive problems thrust upon them by our urban society
  • a reflection in all areas of Seminary organization of a significant minority involvement
    • in the Black, Hispanic and Asian Ministries programs within the School of Theology
    • supported through a central office organized specifically for women’s concerns.

Local and International Perspective

The Seminary community is dedicated to the task of proclaiming the gospel both in its local setting in Pasadena and throughout the world. This commitment assumes that there exists:
  • a need for an evangelical, multidenominational seminary on the West Coast
    • with a continued location in Pasadena
    • ministering in the changing multicultural population of Southern California
  • a concern not only to share the gospel with those outside the Seminary but also to implant a missionary vision within the life every Fuller student
  • a dedication to the growth of the church in every culture of the world confronted with rapid change and unrest.

Interdisciplinary Endeavor

The faculty of Fuller is committed to an integration of ideas, research and programming in the areas of theology, missiology and psychology. The faculty assumes that there will be:
  • a need to strengthen the theological foundations of such an integration to give it an enduring viability
  • a need to strengthen the social science foundation upon which integration rests to give it greater scientific credibility
  • a growing recognition that the resources of psychology and theology may, if combined, provide new and more effective remedies for many human problems that exist
  • a commitment to the integration of theological and social science insights in the development of missiology
  • a need for academic, professional and personal preparation for training in these new disciplines
  • a requirement for an academic community in which scholars from all three disciplines can generate, through research and theorizing, a new body of literature to promote integration.

Responsible Stewardship

The Seminary community is committed to a responsible stewardship of its intraorganizational processes, facilities and financial resource. This assumes that there will be:
  • an endeavor toward development into an organization that accomplishes its mission while it fulfills the lives of its members
  • continued leadership training by the Seminary to meet the needs of the church
  • a periodic reconsideration and refining of the Seminary’s intraorganizational processes to ensure greater efficiency and fulfillment of its goals
  • a recognition that all planning for facilities should take into consideration that
    • our needs will change
    • the scale of our operation will change
    • the situation in which we work and live will change
    • we will change
    • there will be an intermingling of user functions on campus.

THE DISTINGUISHING CHARACTERISTICS OF EACH SCHOOL

In addition to sharing in and contributing to these characteristics, each school has its own distinguishing characteristics which describe the specific nature of its ministry:

School of Theology

Preparing men and women academically, vocationally and spiritually for the ministries of the church.
Engaging in the research and publication essential to the increase of theological insight.
School of Psychology

Training Christian men and women to serve in the areas of teaching, research and clinical practice;
Exploring the interrelationship between theology and psychology;
Pursuing and publishing research in the areas of clinical, general and experimental psychology and the psychology of religion.

School of World Mission

Engaging in research and publication concerning mission with special emphasis on:
Communication of the gospel;
Planting and developing churches throughout the world;
Teaching missionaries and other leaders of the church what can be learned from research;
Stressing the biblical basis, authority and norm of mission and church growth.

STATEMENT OF FAITH

Doctrinally the institution stands for the fundamentals of the faith as taught in Holy Scripture and handed down by the Church. Consistent with this purpose, the faculty and trustees of the Seminary acknowledge the creeds of the early church and the confessions of the Protestant communions to which they severally belong, and among recent evangelical statements, the Lausanne Covenant (1974). Under God, and subject to biblical authority, they also bear concerted witness to the following articles, to which they subscribe, and which they hold to be essential to their ministry.

I. God has revealed himself to be the living and true God, perfect in love and righteous in all his ways; one in essence, existing eternally in the three persons of the Trinity: Father, Son and Holy Spirit.

II. God, who discloses himself through his creation, has sparingly spoken in the words and events of redemptive history. This history is fulfilled in Jesus Christ, the incarnate Word, who is made known to us by the Holy Spirit in sacred Scripture.

III. Scripture is an essential part and trustworthy record of this divine self-disclosure. All the books of the Old and New Testaments, given by divine inspiration, are the written word of God, the only infallible rule of faith and practice. They are to be interpreted according to their context and purpose and in reverent obedience to the Lord who speaks through them in living power.

IV. God, by his word and for his glory, freely created the world of nothing. He made man and woman in his own image, as the crown of creation, that they might have fellowship with him. Tempted by Satan, they rebelled against God. Being estranged from their Maker, yet responsible to him, they became subject to divine wrath, inwardly depraved, and, apart from grace, incapable of returning to God.

V. The only Mediator between God and humankind is Christ Jesus our Lord, God's eternal Son, who being conceived by the Holy Spirit and born of the Virgin Mary, fully shared and fulfilled our humanity in a life of perfect obedience. By his death in our stead, he revealed the divine love and upheld divine justice, removing our guilt and reconciling us to God. Having redeemed us from sin, the third day he rose bodily from the grave, victorious over death and the powers of darkness. He ascended into heaven where at God's right hand, he intercedes for his people and rules as Lord over all.

VI. The Holy Spirit, through the proclamation of the gospel, renews our hearts, persuading us to repent of our sins and confess Jesus as Lord. By the same Spirit we are led to trust in divine mercy, whereby we are forgiven all our sins, justified by faith alone through the merit of Christ our Savior and granted the free gift of eternal life.

VII. God graciously adopts us into his family and enables us to call him Father. As we are led by the Spirit, we grow in the knowledge of the Lord, freely keeping his commandments and endeavoring so to live in the world that all may see our good works and glorify our Father who is in heaven.

VIII. God by his word and Spirit creates the holy catholic and apostolic church, calling sinners out of the whole human race into the fellowship of Christ's body. By the same word and Spirit, he guides and preserves for eternity that new, redeemed humanity, which, being formed in every culture, is spiritually one with the people of God in all ages.

IX. The church is summoned by Christ to offer acceptable worship to God and to serve him by preaching the gospel and making disciples of all nations, by tending the flock through the ministry of the word and sacraments and through daily pastoral care, by striving for social justice and by relieving human distress and need.

X. God's redemptive purpose will be consummated by the return of Christ to raise the dead, to judge all people according to the deeds done in the body and to establish his glorious kingdom. The wicked shall be separated from God's presence, but the righteous, in glorious bodies, shall live and reign with him forever. Then shall the eager expectation of creation be fulfilled and the whole earth shall proclaim the glory of God who makes all things new.

THE HISTORY OF FULLER THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY

The Founding. The founding of Fuller Theological Seminary resulted from the combination of the dreams of two well-known evangelical leaders, Charles E. Fuller, famous radio evangelist, and Harold John Ockenga, pastor of the Park Street Church, Boston. In Dr. Ockenga, Dr. Fuller found one who not only shared his zeal for evangelism and mission, but whose academic achievements suited him well for a role in founding a theological seminary.

In May, 1947, the two men and four other evangelical scholars met in downtown Chicago for a time of seeking God's will concerning the feasibility of launching a new theological seminary. So strong was the spirit of prayer that the participants were convinced that God was indeed leading them into this venture of faith, and Fuller Theological Seminary was launched. As the result of announcements made on the “Old Fashioned Revival Hour” that summer, 39 students enrolled in the first entering class in the fall of 1947. Charter members of the faculty were Drs. Everett F. Harrison, Carl F. H. Henry, Harold Lindsell and Wilbur M. Smith. Trustees Herbert J. Taylor of Chicago, Arnold Grunigen of San Francisco, Dr. R. C. Logefelt of Minneapolis, together with Drs. Ockenga and Fuller (chairperson), formed the founding Board of Trustees.

The Seminary was named after Henry Fuller, a devout Christian layman who actively supported many Christian causes in this country and overseas.

The Early Years. For the next six years, the Seminary was housed in the buildings of the Lake Avenue Congregational Church of Pasadena. During this time, it grew to a student body of 250 and a faculty of 15, with 152 graduates. In the fall of 1953, the Seminary moved to its present location and a suitable building which had been constructed specifically for its use.

The Presidents. By making frequent flights from Boston to Pasadena, Dr. Ockenga served as President until 1954, when Edward John Carnell was appointed the first resident presiding officer. Dr. Ockenga became the chairman of the Board of Trustees, and Dr. Fuller, honorary chairman. A number of notable advances were made during Dr. Carnell’s five years as president, among which were receiving full accreditation by the American Association of Theological Schools in December, 1975, the addition of several key faculty and board members, and an increase in student enrollment to over 300, with 524 graduates.

President Carnell resigned his position in 1959 to give himself fully to teaching and writing, and Dr. Ockenga again became president. During his second term (1959-1963) the McAlister Library was completed.

In 1963 the Board of Trustees appointed David Allan Hubbard to the office of president. A Fuller graduate (B.D., Th.M.), Dr. Hubbard had proved his potential for Christian leadership through doctoral studies at St. Andrews University in Scotland, a professorship at Westmont College, Santa Barbara, and a widespread college conference ministry. Major advancements under President Hubbard’s guidance include the introduction of the core curriculum, the inauguration of the doctorate in ministry (D.Min.) and the doctorate in theology (Ph.D.) programs, and the founding of the School of Psychology and the School of World Mission.

The School of Psychology. In May, 1961, Dr. John G. Finch, consulting psychologist from Tacoma, Washington, delivered a series of lectures at the Seminary on the theological and psychological dimensions of man. Dr. Finch’s vision sparked the idea for a School of Psychology parallel in theory and training to the School of Theology.

Through the interest and generosity of a trustee of Fuller Theological Seminary, Mr. C. Davis Weyerhaeuser, and Mrs. Weyerhaeuser, further study and planning for the school was made possible. A steering committee, consisting of distinguished psychiatrists, psychologists and theologians, was formed in 1962 to work with nationally-known authorities in psychology.

In November, 1964, the opening of the Pasadena Community Counseling Center, under the direction of Dr. Donald F. Tweedie, Jr., initiated the first phase of the new program. A strategic three-year grant totaling $125,000 from Lilly Endowment, Inc., in 1964 enabled Fuller to plan on accepting students for the 1965-66 school year.

Dr. Lee Edward Travis was appointed dean of the School of Psychology in the fall of 1964 and assumed his duties in January, 1965. That September, 25 full-time and four part-time students, a faculty of six, a visiting faculty of five and one post-doctoral fellow initiated the program of the new school. In 1974, the American Psychological Association granted approval to the doctoral program in clinical psychology (Ph.D.) of the Graduate School of Psychology.

The School of World Mission. In 1961, Dr. Donald McGavran founded at Eugene, Oregon, a graduate research and teaching center based on the belief that the growth of the church is the chief and irreplaceable function of Christian mission. The Institute of Church Growth flourished, supported by Northwest Christian College.

In 1964, under the leadership of President Hubbard, a faculty committee was appointed to explore the founding of a school of world evangelism. It thoroughly canvassed the field and reviewed programs of seminaries and missionary training schools across the nation. A steering committee of 24 noted missionary leaders was appointed to guide the formation of the school and the choice of the faculty.

In the Spring of 1965, the Seminary’s plan having matured, Dr. McGavran was invited to become dean of its School of World Mission and to bring to it his colleague, Dr. Alan R. Tippett. Northwest Christian College cordially agreed to the proposal, and on September 1, 1965, the School of World Mission and Institute of Church Growth became the third in the Fuller complex of schools, offering master’s degrees in missiology.

In 1970, the professional doctorate (D.Miss.) was launched, and in 1976, the Ph.D. program in missiology. Accreditation. Accreditation for the three schools by the Western Association of Schools and Colleges was received in 1969.

The School of Theology. The 1970s have seen several innovative programs developed by the School of Theology. In 1970, the Seminary introduced a new emphasis on the ministry of lay persons, inaugurating a Master of Arts program to help them assume a larger role in the leadership of the church. In 1975, Fuller opened extension centers in other cities for the training of lay persons in the context of the local church. By the fall of 1979, extension programs were operating in six cities in the western United States, with the M.A. available through the Seattle, San Francisco Bay and the Southern California Extensions. The theological studies program for minority ministers began in 1973. Mature Black and Hispanic pastors who had not had the opportunity to complete a standard baccalaureate degree were invited to enroll in an M.A. program designed to strengthen their performance as community and church leaders. By fall, 1979, approximately 112 Black and Hispanic pastors were studying in this program, both at the Pasadena campus and in the extension centers. At this time a program for Asian pastors was inaugurated, with 11 students enrolled in the M.A. program and 34 students in the D.Min. program within six months.

Continuing Education. The School of Theology began a continuing education program for professional ministers in the fall of 1974. A specially-planned model of the Doctor of Ministry offered the resources of the three schools of the Seminary in intensive instructional modules designed to develop the minister's professional skills in the context of his or her ministry. In 1978, a new phase of Fuller's ongoing concern for the continuing education of pastors and lay leaders was inaugurated with the National Convocation of Christian Leaders at Stanford University.

Special Programs: Theology and Psychology. In October, 1977, ninety Young Life staff trainees entered the Institute of Youth Ministries, a cooperative program between the School of Theology and Young Life. The Institute combines the theological resources of the Seminary with the field training expertise of Young Life to offer the Master of Arts and the Master of Divinity in youth ministries. The School of Psychology also expanded its community service/training/research programs by opening the Church Consultation Service in 1969, the Victim Assistance Program in 1976, Covenant House (a residential treatment facility for children) in 1979, Heritage House for Gerontology Services in 1979, the Inter-Community Alternatives Network (I-CAN) in 1980, the Stop Abusive Family Environments (SAFE) Program and the Community Assistance Program for Seniors (CAPS) In-Home Services in 1981, the Project IV Family Outreach (developed in cooperation with several other community agencies) in 1981, the CAPS Day Treatment Program for Seniors in 1983, and since late 1981 the development of the Network of Church-Based Human Services, in cooperation with the Charles E. Fuller Institute of Evangelism and Church Growth. This partnership provides training, research and service to churches in evangelism and church growth.

Continued Growth. The Seminary continues to grow in programs, facilities, faculty and students. In 1983, over 2,700 students were instructed by over 150 resident and adjunct faculty persons in six Western cities. In Pasadena alone, over 1,800 students studied in class-rooms on the Seminary campus and in the nearby facilities of Pasadena Presbyterian Church, First United Methodist Church and First Congregational Church.

A Christian Community

Spiritual Guidance and Formation

The Seminary has committed itself to the principle that the spiritual development of every student is a matter of prime importance in theological education. To foster and implement this awareness the Spiritual Life Committee has formed an office and a program of spiritual formation. Under the leadership of the director of the Office of Christian Community, student interns from the three schools provide resources, encouragement and programs for all types of activity designed to enrich the spiritual life and faith of all members of the Seminary community. Retreats, special services, small groups, informal contacts and personal counseling situations are used to foster spiritual growth. A program of spiritual direction for individuals has also been instituted, and new ways of encouraging serious approaches to spiritual growth are being explored.

Spiritual Formation Programs. This is a carefully designed two or three-year program to help students grow spiritually through small groups, classes, seminars, retreats, and individual spiritual direction with faculty members, pastors, and laypersons. This program is open to students in any Seminary degree program. Spouses are also encouraged to participate.
Pre-Sem Program. This is a unique ten-day pre-orientation wilderness experience in the High Sierras, sponsored by the Office of Christian Community and designed especially for incoming students (open to currently enrolled students as well). It offers a spectacular setting for a special time of building relationships with the Creator and with other students.

Retreat Program. This program seeks to provide students, faculty and staff with the opportunity to go away from campus to a setting conducive to community, silence and prayer, in order to participate in a focused experience of Christian community and growth.

Small-Group Program. This program seeks to make available to the students and their spouses in each of the three schools the opportunity to participate in a meaningful experience of Christian community in small groups of four to twelve persons.

Chapel Services. The Seminary family—faculty, staff and student body—meets at mid-morning three days a week for a half-hour chapel service. Since worship is, in a real sense, the life-giving center of the Seminary community, the service each day is carefully planned to embrace the essential elements of a meaningful worship experience, which includes an exposition of Scripture. Speakers are chosen from faculty, alumni/ae, students and visiting guests. Both traditional and informal forms of Christian worship are explored.

Prayer and Fellowship Groups. Groups representing various affiliations and areas of concern meet every Monday morning for prayer and fellowship. Groups which met regularly in recent years have included:

- American Baptists
- Assemblies of God
- Christian and Missionary Alliance
- Episcopal
- Foursquare
- Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship
- Lutheran
- Nazarene
- Presbyterians
- Reformed and Christian Reformed
- United Methodists
- Bible Translation
- Hidden Peoples
- Human Concerns
- Mission Concerns

Multidenominational Representation

Fuller Theological Seminary trains and counsels its students to return to the denominations that nurtured them. Education for ministry at Fuller Theological Seminary is accepted by every major denomination. Denominational distinctives, such as church government, are dealt with by pastors who represent the various denominations. Furthermore, the Seminary faculty comprises such a cross-section of church affiliation that most of the greater traditions of the church are represented. The student body at Fuller is composed of men and women from more than 80 denominations and church bodies. This opportunity for contact with a wide variety of ecclesiastical backgrounds is a broadening and enriching experience.

The following affiliations were represented on campus by five or more students in the fall quarter, 1983:

- Advent Christian Church

Office of Ecclesiastical Concerns

To serve its multidenominational constituency, the Seminary has established an Office of Ecclesiastical Services, a branch of the Office of Career Services. This office serves as coordinator between denominations and students by acting as a center for placement processing, by encouraging denominational fellowship meetings and by ensuring that Fuller provides the opportunities necessary for students to meet the requirements for ordination in their respective denominations. The office seeks to facilitate and focus communication and interaction between students, the Seminary and the various denominations.

Opportunities for Worship and Service

In the Los Angeles and Orange County areas, there are thousands of congregations representing nearly every denomination or affiliation, providing everyone at Fuller with the opportunity to be involved in the life of the church. Every student is encouraged to unite with one of these communities of Christians.

In addition, there are many specialized church and parachurch ministries in the area which offer students varied opportunities for training, witness and service.

AN ACADEMIC COMMUNITY

Faculty

The resident faculty of Fuller Theological Seminary is comprised of over 50 men and women who are committed to the highest standards of teaching, research and writing in the various fields of theological, psychological and missiological study. In recent years, members of the Seminary faculty have published more than 60 books, as well as numerous chapters or articles in books, periodicals and professional journals. Fuller professors serve as officers of professional societies and organizations and as editors of theological and professional journals and series. In addition to their teaching ministries at the Seminary, they are actively involved in various kinds of ministry with area churches.

Fuller's full-time faculty is supplemented by six part-time professors, 40 visiting professors and 125 adjunct faculty members, who enrich the curriculum of the three schools.

Academic Programs

Fuller Theological Seminary has programs of study leading to a variety of professional and academic degrees. The School of Theology grants the M.A., M.Div., Th.M., D.Min. and Ph.D. degrees. A variety of concentrations are offered within the M.Div. program, enabling students to focus their studies in particular areas of individual need and interest. The School of World Mission offers the M.A. in missiology, the M.A. in cross-cultural studies, Th.M. in missiology, D. Miss., Ph.D. in missiology and Ph.D. in intercultural studies degrees. The Ph.D. in clinical psychology is granted by the School of Psychology.

In support of its degree programs, over 350 courses are offered each year on the Pasadena campus, with nearly 100 more classes taught each year in Fuller's Extension Education Program. In addition to its day time schedule and normal ten-week quarters, the Seminary regularly offers evening courses and intensive ten-day courses, making possible a very flexible program of study.

In order to gather educational resources to focus on specific needs and specialized ministries, and to make the resources of theological and missiological education available to those engaged in work and ministry, the Seminary has established a number of special institutes, programs and cooperative relationships. These include:

- Extended Education Program
- Theological Studies Program for Black and Hispanic Pastors
- Institute of Youth Ministries (in cooperation with Young Life)
- Lowell W. Berry Institute for Continuing Education in Ministry
- In-Service Program (School of World Mission)
- Summer Institute of World Mission
- Charles E. Fuller Institute of Evangelism and Church Growth
- Institute for Christian Organizational Development
- The Psychological Center

Extended Programs

Through its extended programs Fuller Theological Seminary seeks to bring theological and missiological education to laypersons, pastors and field missionaries in the context of their own ministries.

The Doctor of Ministry program of the School of Theology is designed to provide continuing education for ministers and laypersons who seek to enhance their work and ministry.

Interdisciplinarity

Fuller Theological Seminary is one of the largest and most diverse theological institutions in the United States. The School of Theology is a part of the University of Southern California, which includes 17 schools and colleges offering a wide range of undergraduate, graduate and professional programs. The Seminary benefits from the resources of the university, including its libraries, research centers and faculty.

The Seminary is committed to the development of new programs and initiatives that will expand the reach of theological education and make Fuller an even more effective tool for ministry.

For more information, please visit the Seminary's website or contact the Office of Admissions.
for ministers while they remain active in their local ministries. An emphasis in pastoral care, church growth, worship/preaching, renewal/evangelism, or marriage and family ministries may be pursued. The program of study combines intensive two-week classroom sessions on the Pasadena campus with pre-session preparation and post-session projects completed off-campus.

The In-Service Program of the School of World Mission enables missionaries, national church and mission leaders, mission executives and others to begin graduate studies in missiology before coming to the Pasadena campus and/or to continue their studies after they leave campus. Course syllabi, textbooks, class lecture tapes or notes and other materials are sent to the student, and completed assignments are returned for evaluation by a member of the School of World Mission faculty.

The Extended Education Program of the School of Theology was developed as a response to the need for training laypersons in the context of the local church. Currently the Extended Education Program offers courses in eight areas: Seattle, Washington; Portland, Oregon; Phoenix, Arizona; and San Francisco Bay Area, Monterey County, Santa Barbara/Ventura, Orange County, and San Diego County, California. Extended Education seeks to provide educational resources and experiences which will enable students to discover and develop their gifts for service and ministry. By offering fully-accredited graduate courses off-campus on weekends and evenings, Extended Education makes theological education possible for many church leaders, church staff members, Bible study leaders, business people, homemakers, professionals and others whose careers or circumstances preclude full-time study. Courses are taught by resident Fuller Theological Seminary faculty members and local adjunct faculty in local churches and colleges. The Master of Arts in theology may be earned through extension programs in Seattle, San Francisco, and Orange County. A special program enables a student to complete a major portion of the Master of Divinity degree program in the Seattle extension. In all locations, courses completed in extension may be applied to the M.A. or M.Div. degrees upon admission to that program on the Fuller campus.

Interdisciplinary Studies

Fuller Theological Seminary is committed to integration in the areas of theology, missiology and psychology in the curriculum and programs of its three schools.

The Graduate School of Psychology is distinctive in its attempt to integrate psychology and theology in theory, research and practice. Students in the Ph.D. program in clinical psychology also earn the M.A. or M.Div. degree from the School of Theology.

The Marriage and Family Ministries Program of the School of Theology combines selected faculty from the School of Psychology with the resources of the School of Theology.

Degree programs of the School of World Mission utilize the resources of the School of Theology in providing a foundation for missiological theory and practice that combines biblical, historical and theological studies with the social and behavioral sciences. The same combination is available in the form of a cross-cultural studies concentration in the M.Div. program of the School of Theology. In addition, most School of World Mission courses are available as electives to students in the School of Theology.

Library Facilities

The library contains the bibliographic resources which support the degree programs of Fuller Theological Seminary and independent faculty research. Through the generosity of the McAlister Fund, many loyal alumni, trustees and friends of the Seminary, the McAlister Library was completed in 1963. Extensive remodeling was done in 1978, including the addition of two more floors. The five floors of the library now house a collection of over 141,000 catalogued volumes, including the libraries of Professors Everett Harrison, Robert Bower, and George Eldon Ladd, which were donated to the Seminary. The library of Dr. Wilbur Smith is still in the process of being catalogued.

The library subscribes to over 850 national and international journals and more than 700 monographic serials in the fields of religion, theology, philosophy, psychology and missiology. An unusually fine collection of theological bibliography and reference material is also available.

Students have open stack privileges. The reference collection of the library is located in the main reading room where there is immediate access to the books desired. Additional study space is located throughout the library, and students may reserve individual study carrels. The Media Services Department, located in the library, provides a variety of resources for student use, including language study tapes, tapes of various classes, chapel services and lectureships, records, filmstrips and audiovisual equipment. Phonograph recordings of the "Old Fashioned Revival Hour" with Dr. David Allan Hubbard are housed in the archives along with the Fuller Theological Seminary Bulletin, catalogs and memorabilia. The Christian Formation and Discipleship Resource Center contains a wide selection of curriculum materials from many denominations and publishing houses, as well as other resources for activities and programs. Special resources in Women's Studies are also being developed. Five photocopiers, two microform readers and a microform reader/printer are available. The rare book room housed in the former office of Wilbur M. Smith contains leather bound books from the sixteenth through the nineteenth centuries, which are available for scholarly research.

The theological holdings of other libraries in the greater Los Angeles area total over a quarter of a million volumes. Students at Fuller have borrowing privileges at the library of the School of Theology at Claremont. In addition, McAlister Library has the printed and/or microform catalogs of the Graduate Theological Union at Berkeley, the Missionary Research Library and the library of Union Theological Seminary, New York. These resources and the OCLC bibliographic network aid in the search for interlibrary loan materials for students and faculty. A computer-assisted literature searching service is being introduced in limited fields of study.

Lectureships

Fuller Theological Seminary is fortunate to be able to bring to its campus from time to time as special lecturers men and women who have distinguished themselves by their scholarship and their service to the church.

Payton Lectures. In 1949 Fuller Theological Seminary instituted the Payton Lectures in memory of Dr. and Mrs. John E. Payton, parents of the late Mrs. Charles Fuller. The theme of the lectures must fall within one of these areas: the uniqueness or confirmation of the historic Christian faith, the confutation of non-Christian or sub-Christian views, or the formulation of biblical doctrines.

- Lewis Spitz, 1983, “Images of Luther”
- Peter Stuhlmacher, 1983, “The Purpose of Romans”

John G. Finch Symposium on Psychology and Religion. Sponsored by the psychology faculty, this series of addresses was established to deepen the understanding of religious behavior as seen in the light of the social and behavioral sciences. Prominent leaders in the field of religious behavior conduct lectures and seminars in the general area of the correlation between theology and psychology.

The symposium is named for John G. Finch, Ph.D., a psychologist from Tacoma, Washington, whose inspiration and efforts led to the establishment of the School of Psychology at Fuller Theological Seminary, and who is making an ongoing contribution to our understanding of the relationships between psychology and the Christian faith.

The Jayne Lectures in Christian Education. These lectures were inaugurated in 1975 and are given biennially. Each year Fuller invites a prominent leader in the church world who is concerned with leadership and education in the Church of Jesus Christ to conduct a series of addresses on a current education-related topic. In addition, the Jayne Lectures are devoted to the problem of the relationship of church leaders to the other institutions of the society in which they are engaged.

Faculty Leadership Series. While the Seminary is dedicated to the defense and propagation of classical orthodoxy, it does not carry out this task in isolation from other contemporary theologies but in dialogue with them. To this end, scholars of other theological traditions, as well as our own, are invited to the campus from time to time as visiting lecturers. Fuller students may then have opportunity to gain a firsthand acquaintance with some of the chief spokespersons in the contemporary debate of the church at large, and thus acquire a better understanding of the distinctiveness of their own theological stance. These lectures are sometimes followed by lively discussion as students interact with the lecturers. This experience moves the study of modern theological trends out of the realm of abstract theoretical discussion into the sphere of living theology and provides a more intelligent understanding and appreciation of the theological world of which we are a part.

Lecturers in recent years have included Helmut Thielicke, Bo Reiske, Raymond Brown, G. D. Kilpatrick, and James Barr.

Faculty-Student Forum. This forum is arranged by the students, with faculty individuals or panels participating, and is directed towards the discussion of the thought-provoking and sometimes controversial themes and tasks of our time.

Scholarships and Awards

A number of awards and scholarships are given to Fuller students in recognition of achievement in various areas.

David Allan Hubbard Achievement Awards. These awards come from an initial endowment fund created by Homer and Margaret Surbeck who, as laypersons, are active in Christian organizations. Their gift was given to signify their appreciation for the work of the Seminary and for the outstanding leadership provided by Dr. David Allan Hubbard. The award is given to one student in each of the three schools, and is intended to recognize students whose accomplishments clearly reflect the academic, spiritual and professional goals of their respective schools and who show promise for their future ministries.

Faculty and Administration Wives’ Memorial Award. This award is presented in memory of Virginia Archer, Margaret Barker, Jerel Bush, Grace Fuller, Winifred Ladd, Mar Jane Smith and Frances Southard. The award is given annually to a woman student entering her third year of study in one of the three Schools, who exemplifies the Christian commitment and qualities of the women in whose memory the award is given and also shows promise of making a significant contribution to the ministries of Jesus Christ.

Parsonage Fellowship Award. Given by Mr. and Mrs. Carl A. Holvick to assist in the training of talented pastors who, in addition to being trained in theology, develop outstanding skills in verbal communication, this award is presented annually to two graduating students who are selected by the department of preaching for their potential and outstanding performance in preaching. This award funds a year of extended study in Europe.

F. Carlton Booth Evangelism Award. This award is given in recognition of outstanding involvement in some form of ministry in evangelism through fields experience and for the purpose of making a contribution in the literature on evangelism from a theological perspective.

Everett F. Harrison, Jr. Award in New Testament. In memory of Everett F. Harrison, Jr., son of Professor Emeritus and Mrs. Everett F. Harrison, an annual award is offered to a graduating student of Fuller Theological Seminary who is accepted for a doctoral program in New Testament.

William Semford LaSor Award in Old Testament. A fund was established in 1967 by Professor Emeritus and Mrs. William S. LaSor, a portion of which may be granted each year to a member of the graduating class, or a graduate student, who is considered by the faculty of Old Testament to be the outstanding student in Old Testament and Semitic studies.

- New Testament Department Award. This scholarship fund was established in 1977 by the faculty of the New Testament department. This award is given annually to the student considered by the faculty of the New Testament department to be the most promising applicant in the New Testament Ph.D. program.

- Clarence S. Roddy Preaching Prize. Each year a senior is selected by the faculty of the Ministry Division as the outstanding preacher of the graduating class. This award is made possible by an alumnus, and recognizes the great contribution Dr. Roddy made to the Seminary as professor of homiletics and practical theology from 1951 to 1967.

- John P. Davis, Jr. Memorial Scholarship Award. This award is given in memory of John Paschall Davis, Jr., a graduate from the School of Psychology in 1974. This scholarship is given annually to a student in the School of Psychology who is deeply committed to the idea that it is one’s person which is primary in being a psychologist. The scholarship honors an individual who has been deeply involved in personal growth either through therapy, marriage encounter workshops or other such efforts and who is also committed to the deepening of one’s spiritual life.

- Delano M. Goehner Memorial Award. This award is given annually to that graduating student who, in the judgment of the faculty of the School of Psychology, has made the greatest contribution to the integration of psychology and theology through research, practice, and teaching. This award was established in 1969 by the faculty of the School of Psychology in memory of Delano M. Goehner, a beloved student who died while in his last year of the program.

- Clare M. Headington Memorial Scholarship. The Clare M. Headington Memorial Scholarship award has been designated by his family and friends to honor his deep commitment to the training of Christian men and women in the Graduate School of Psychology as they prepare to serve as clinical psychologists. The award is presented annually to a second or third year student for demonstrating competence in relating Christian faith and psychology principles to the emotional problems of individuals and families.

- Gene Wesley Pfrimmer Memorial Award. This award is given annually to a pre-internship student in the School of Psychology who actively promotes a sense of cooperation and unity among the members of the student body and who pursues these goals with a strong sense of justice and fairness.

- John Stauffer Memorial Merit Fellowship. This award is given annually to a student who, in the judgment of the faculty of the Graduate School of Psychology, shows exceptional promise of becoming a leader in the field of clinical psychology. This fellowship was made possible through a generous grant from the John Stauffer Charitable Trust.

- Travis Awards of Predissertation Study of Issues Relating to the Integration of Psychology and Religion. This award was established in 1974 by the Psychology Graduate Union and named after the founding dean of the School of Psychology. Awards are given annually to students considered by a faculty, alumni and student committee to have submitted the best integrative papers in theoretical and experimental categories.

- Donald Anderson McGavran Award in Church Growth. This annual award is granted to the missionary associate who, in the judgment of the School of World Mission faculty, has made the most significant contribution to research in church growth overseas. This award was made possible by the 1972-73 class.

- School of World Mission Dean’s Award. This award is given annually to the School of World Mission student who produces the best thesis or dissertation on a missiological subject in a language other than English.

- School of World Mission Contextualization, Folk Religion, History, Leadership, and Missiology Awards. These awards are given annually to the graduates whose theses or dissertations best deal with contextualization, the relationship of Christianity to folk religion, the historical development of the Christian movement, leadership theory, or a missiological topic.

Student Services

Most student services at Fuller are organized under two areas, Academic Services and Student Concerns. Academic Services includes Student Recruitment, Admissions and Records, Academic Advising, Financial Aid, Career Services and Ecclesiastical Services. The Office of Student Concerns is responsible for Health Services and International Student Services, and serves as liaison with the All-Seminary Council and the Office of Christian Community.

Academic Advising

Fuller Theological Seminary offers a unique program of academic advising to students in the School of Theology. Advisors are current students specially trained to assist students with the structuring of a program of study and the quarterly selection of classes. The Advising Office also actively advises the Office of the Dean regarding the curricular and scheduling needs of the students. In addition, the advisors work throughout the year to serve students in such areas as evaluation of transfer credit, clarification of academic policies, assistance with petitions and other special needs and exploration of vocational and academic goals. These advisors are also available to help prospective students with information regarding degree programs, transfer credit, and other questions.

Students in the School of World Mission and the School of Psychology are advised by faculty members in their respective schools. Students in the School of Psychology are also advised by a specially trained stustudent advisor with regard to the theology portion of their curriculum.

Financial Aid

Fuller Theological Seminary is committed to the policy that no worthy student should be left in a position of financial need without the Seminary having first done everything possible to help. The Financial Aid Office, part of the Academic Services Division, provides year-round counseling and assistance in obtaining financial aid of various kinds. The Seminary offers limited direct financial assistance in several forms. Grant-in-aid funds are available each year to qualified students in the three schools. Special funds are available to assist ethnic-Americans and minority pastors with their tuition. A special "team ministry" tuition benefit is available to married couples when both are students in master's-level programs in all three schools. The Financial Aid Office also provides assistance to students in obtaining loan and grant funds from a variety of outside sources.

Housing

Fuller Theological Seminary is committed to providing Fuller-owned or Fuller managed housing for as many students as possible. The Seminary maintains dormitory rooms on campus for nearly 90 men and women. Over 300 apartments in several complexes convenient to campus and owned or managed by the Seminary provide single, married and family housing. The Student Housing Office also offers assistance in locating and acquiring appropriate housing in the area. The Housing Office maintains contact with many property owners who prefer to rent houses or apartments to Fuller students, and coordinates information regarding students seeking roommates, houses shared in "Christian Community" living, housing employment offers, and rooms in private homes.

Health Services

The Health Services Office, part of the Office of Student Concerns, exists to help students make the best use of their Fuller health insurance, to monitor claims, and to refer students to local physicians and medical services. The goal of Health Services is to seek out quality health care at prices students can afford. It serves as an advocate for the health needs of Fuller students and their dependents.

Fuller offers a student insurance plan for students and their families through Mutual Security Life Insurance of Irvine, California. Insurance can be purchased quarterly or annually with the cost added to the student's tuition. The Health Services Office will also provide students with referrals to general practitioners, orthopedists and optometrists, dentists, chiropractors, specialists of various kinds, pharmacists, and other health care professionals, many of whom care for Fuller families at reduced rates.

Career Services

Fuller seeks to provide special assistance to students as they face career decisions. Career planning which recognizes differing gifts and calls is an important focus on campus. The Seminary provides assistance in career planning through the Office of Placement and Career Services, a part of the Academic Services Division. Services include career planning workshops, assistance in job search planning, vocational assessment and individual career counseling. Information on a variety of non-traditional ministries is available, and Seminary graduates who serve in the community in business, law, medicine, education and a variety of other fields are an ongoing resource.

Counseling Resources

Fuller Theological Seminary seeks to concern itself with each student as an individual. Faculty members are available at stated times during the week for conferences, as is the director of Student Services and the pastor-in-residence. Academic advisors are also available for help and counsel.

Professional help is available to students with problems of an emotional, social, or interpersonal nature. The Pasadena Community Counseling Clinic, sponsored by the faculty of the Graduate School of Psychology at Fuller, provides such services as psychological evaluation. The broadest possible approach is used in an effort to treat the whole person. Recognizing the financial needs of students and their families, the Clinic offers subsidized services for qualified Fuller students. Students may also be referred to Christian psychotherapists in private practice in the area.

Field Education

An internship in a church or related setting is an integral part of the Seminary curriculum. Its purpose is to provide an educational opportunity to apply what is learned in the classroom in a practical area of ministry under qualified supervision. The Office of Field Education helps students arrange approved internships and provides counsel relating to internships and other field experiences.

Placement

The Placement Office provides a range of services to graduating M.Div. students seeking opportunities for ministry in churches and parachurch organizations. Through regular contact with churches and Christian organizations, it maintains an up-to-date file of placement opportunities, and also offers assistance with the preparation of resumes and helps arrange interviews. In addition, the Office of Ecclesiastical Services maintains a list of denominational ordination requirements and acts as a center for placement processing.

Women's Concerns

The Office of Women's Concerns exists to provide... professional, personal, and academic support for women at Fuller, and to serve as an advocate for women on campus at all levels. A variety of speakers, programs and learning opportunities provide training and role models for students. A national reprint service disseminates articles which discuss pertinent women’s issues from an evangelical perspective, and ongoing research in these areas is encouraged and funded. Personal and career counseling are available to all women at Fuller, and opportunities for support come through planned retreats and social events as well. Women students are encouraged to prepare for whatever form of ministry for which they are gifted and called. Graduates are now ministering as pastors, teachers, counselors, psychologists and missionaries, and in a wide variety of other ministries around the world.

Representatives from each school and each program serve on the Women Students’ Committee, which works with the Office of Women’s Concerns to plan programs and events to meet the needs of women students at Fuller. It is chaired by the Women’s Representative, and All-Seminary Council position. This committee in turn meets with other groups of women on campus to provide a wide representation of needs and interests.

Ethnic Students

The Fuller community includes many students with ethnic-American backgrounds—Asian, Black, Hispanic and native-Americans. The Seminary seeks to provide assistance for the special needs of such students. The Office of Ethnic Concerns serves as a resource center and as an advocate for ethnic interests in the Seminary at large, and an ethnic-American representative serves as their advocate on the All-Seminary Council. An ethnic-American grant fund, supported by contributions by Seminary students, faculty and staff and administered by the All-Seminary Council, provides financial aid for ethnic-Americans in all three schools. A separate scholarship fund provides tuition assistance for Black students in the M.Div. program of the School of Theology. The School of Theology also sponsors the Theological Studies Program for Black and Hispanic Pastors, which makes theological education available to minority pastors while they continue in their ministries, and provides tuition assistance for their studies.

International Students

International Student Services, a branch of the Office of Student Concerns, provides a wide range of assistance to international students who come to Fuller on visas, as well as to resident aliens studying at the Seminary. Services include orientation to American culture, personal and financial counseling, help with furnishings, utensils, and other needed household items (for students from overseas), and social activities for international students and families. An international student orientation manual gives information on a variety of aspects of life in this country and at the Seminary. Every effort is made to assist international students as they prepare to come to Fuller and as they adjust to American life.

Student Organizations and Activities

All-Seminary Council and Graduate Unions

The student body is constitutionally organized as the “Associated Students of Fuller Theological Seminary.” This organization reflects the structure of the institution. Students from the Schools of Theology, Psychology and World Mission elect representatives to their particular Graduate Union. Each GraduateUnion represents needs, interests and opinions which are of concern to the students it represents. Graduate Unions have their own constitutions and elect representatives annually.

Whereas the Graduate Unions represent the academic, professional and social needs of students within their respective schools, the All-Seminary Council responds to issues and needs that concern the entire student community. The entire student body annually elects the three members of the All-Seminary Council Cabinet. Two representatives from each Graduate Union serve on the Council, as well as a women’s representative and an ethnic-American representative elected from among their respective constituencies. The All-Seminary Council and the Graduate Unions work closely with the administrative processes of the Seminary. Student representatives appointed by the Council or Graduate Unions serve on Seminary committees, such as the Spiritual Life Committee, and on faculty committees in each of the three schools. In addition, All-Seminary Council representatives serve on Board of Trustees committees, such as Facilities, Student Affairs (with Graduate Union representatives as well), Trustee Affairs and Long Range Planning.

Mission Concerns Committee

The Mission Concerns Committee, sponsored by the All-Seminary Council and composed of students from all three schools, seeks to promote awareness of mission on the Fuller campus. The Mission Concerns Committee seeks to help each student identify his or her part in the cause of worldwide evangelization. The Committee sponsors mission prayer groups and organizes a number of events to stimulate the interest of the Fuller Community in cross-cultural ministries, including an annual campus-wide Mission Conference. The Mission Concerns Committee also sponsors short-term overseas mission internships, with the assistance of the Fuller Fund.

Human Concerns Committee

The Human Concerns Committee seeks to encourage the Fuller Community to become more sensitive to and aware of the social and ethical problems facing contemporary society. The Committee stimulates campus awareness by sponsoring and directing campus forums, convocations, study groups, outside speakers and information displays. It acts as a resource where every student may be better informed of areas of acute human need, be assisted in his or her own struggle to work through the implications of the gospel for contemporary social issues, and become actively engaged in meeting human needs and addressing social and ethical issues. The Human Concerns Committee sponsors scholarships for students to engage in a variety of summer internships relating to social justice.

International Students Committee

The International Students Committee, sponsored by the All-Seminary Council, provides a forum for the expression of international students' concerns. It is designed especially to assist those students in dealing with American culture, educational systems, social and economic needs and situations.

Student Publications

Studia Biblica et Theologica is a semi-annual publication sponsored by the Associated Students of Fuller Theological Seminary. It is designed to exhibit excellence in writing and thinking by students of Fuller and other theological institutions in the areas of biblical, historical, systematic and practical theology. It is indexed in Elenchus Bibliographicus Bibliarum, Internationale Zeitschriftenschauch für Bibliwissenschaft und Grenzgebiete, and Old Testament Abstracts.

The Stimuli is a quarterly publication sponsored by the School of Psychology Graduate Union. It is both a newsletter and discussion forum for professional concerns relating to clinical psychology and the integration of psychology and theology. Both students and faculty contribute articles for information and discussion.

Athletic Program

In an effort to aid in building and strengthening community as well as physical well-being, the All-Seminary Council sponsors an intramural sports program, offering a wide range of both team and individual sports for men and women. Team sports include volleyball, basketball and softball, and tournaments are arranged at various times throughout the year for such sports as golf, tennis, badminton, handball, racquetball and squash. The Council has negotiated low membership fees for students and their families at the nearby Pasadena YMCA and YWCA, which provide excellent recreational facilities. In addition, limited use of the Pasadena Athletic Club has been arranged on a quarterly basis at a substantially reduced membership cost.

The Catalyst

Established by the students in 1977, the Catalyst offers sandwiches, coffee and other foods in a pleasant, informal setting. It is a non-profit organization staffed and managed entirely by students, and all proceeds above costs go directly to pay student salaries and to improve the quality of services and facilities.

Spouses at Fuller

Spouses of a number of Fuller students have formed a steering committee to link student wives to the Seminary community and to give support to one another. They seek to help student wives work toward a definition of their own ministry through Bible studies, courses and programs directed to their specific needs. Social events and other support programs are also planned.

Campus Facilities and Services

Fuller Theological Seminary is located in the heart of downtown Pasadena at Oakland Avenue and Ford Place. The campus is situated in the center of a large metropolitan area with outstanding schools, libraries, cultural interests, recreational and employment opportunities.

- Administrative and Classroom Facilities. Payton Hall houses the administrative offices of the president and the provost, faculty offices for the School of Theology, a number of classrooms, the mailroom and refectory. The administration and faculty of the School of Theology also occupy a building complex on the Arol Burns Mall and Ford Place, as well as offices in the nearby Walnut Professional Building, owned by the Seminary. Classes are also scheduled in several churches within walking distance of the Seminary.

- McAlister Library. The McAlister Library with Payton Hall joins the McAlister Library with Payton Hall, houses the Registrar's Office. The School of Psychology operates in a seven-building complex that houses office for administration, faculty and student interns, The Psychological Center and a psychophysiological laboratory. These facilities will soon be consolidated in a new three-story building, which will also contain classrooms and an auditorium for the Seminary at large.

- Student Services. The office of Academic Services (Admissions and Records, Academic Advising, Student Recruitment, Career Services, Eclesiastical Services, and Financial Aid) and Student Concerns (including Health Services and International Student Services), as well as the offices of Women's Concerns, Ethnic Concerns, the All-Seminary Council and Graduate Union offices, and the Student Housing Office, are all located in a collection of buildings facing the central mall in the heart of campus.

- Housing. Dormitories are provided on campus for nearly 90 single students. Over 300 apartments in several complexes convenient to campus and owned or managed by the Seminary provide housing for single students, couples and families. Other housing facilities and services are described above under "Student Services."

- Refectory. The refectory, located in Payton Hall, provides breakfast, lunch and dinner Monday through Friday (except holidays) during the fall, winter and spring quarters. Meal tickets are available, or meals can be purchased individually.

- Bookstore. The Seminary operates a well-stocked bookstore for the benefit of students, alumni/ae, faculty and the general public. Quality theological publications of value for all aspects of ministry are available at a discount, and students have limited charge privileges.

- Handicapped Students. The Seminary makes every effort to respond to the special needs of handicapped students. Ramps provide access to the major campus buildings, and elevators give access to the various rooms, and the McAllister Library. Special efforts are made to schedule classes in facilities which provide access for handicapped students, and parking places are reserved on campus.

Standards for Admission

In general, applicants must have earned a regular baccalaureate degree or its equivalent from an accredited institution before they can be admitted to master’s programs at Fuller Theological Seminary. Specific prerequisites for admission are described under each degree program in the various sections of this catalog.

It should be understood that admission to Fuller depends on factors beyond the applicant’s academic record. These include theological development, Christian experience, spiritual growth, call to service and ministry, by faith, moral character, experience and academic achievement. Such people are characterized by compassion for individual persons, by sensitivity to the needs of the total community, by a readiness to accept correction, by a desire that God’s will be obeyed on earth, by a maturity to accept responsibility, by a burden that God’s will be obeyed on earth, by a readiness to accept responsibility.

Fuller Theological Seminary admits students of any race, sex, color, national or ethnic origin to all the rights, privileges, programs and activities generally accorded or made available to students at the Seminary. It does not discriminate on the basis of race, sex, color, national or ethnic origin in administration of its educational policies, scholarships and loan programs, and athletic and other Seminary-administered programs.

Categories of Admission

In addition to full admission to regular degree programs, a limited number of students may also be admitted under one of the following classifications:

- Limited Graduate Student: one who is qualified for regular admission but wants to take no more than five courses (20 units);
- Unclassified Student: one who is academically qualified for admission, wants to take an unlimited number of courses, but does not want to pursue a degree program;
- Special Student: one who does not meet the academic requirements for regular admission, unclassified or limited graduate student status;
- Transient Student: one who is currently enrolled as a student in good standing in the post-bachelor’s level at another graduate institution, but wants to have transcript evidence of course work done at Fuller for transfer to the school of primary enrollment.

Application for Admission

A request for application is included in the back of this catalog. Application forms may be obtained by returning this request or by writing the Admissions Office. Applications are given for specific programs only, and admission is granted to a specific program and not to the school at large.

All forms should be completed and returned to the Admissions Office as soon as possible, and no later than 30 days prior to the anticipated date of matriculation (see below for exceptions). The application fee is $25.00 and is non-refundable. Transcripts should be sent directly from all colleges attended to the Admissions Office. Complete application instructions are included with the application packet.

The School of Psychology and all competitive programs in the School of Theology require scores from the aptitude portion of the Graduate Record Examination (GRE). GRE information is available from most colleges or from GRE, Box 955, Princeton, NJ 08541.

Application Deadlines and Notification of Acceptance

Certain programs have deadlines for receipt of applications and admit students only in the fall quarter of each year.

SCHOOL OF THEOLOGY

Marriage and Family Ministries concentrations in the M.A. and M.Div.:

- Application deadline January 1
- Files to be completed by February 1
- Notification of decision by April 1

Ph.D./Th.M.:

- Application deadline January 1
- Files to be completed by February 1
- Notification of decision by April 1

SCHOOL OF PSYCHOLOGY (Ph.D.)

- Application deadline January 1
- Files to be completed by February 1
- Notification of decision by April 1

For all other programs applications are expected at least 30 days prior to the beginning of the quarter for which admission is sought (applications received within one week of the first day of class are considered late applications and will be subject to special fees and restrictions). Decisions of the Admissions Committee will be announced within four weeks of the completion of an application file.

Within 30 days of notification of acceptance, the student must pay the matriculation fee, which will be applied against his or her tuition. Failure to pay this fee within the stated time may result in a cancellation of the student’s acceptance.

Financial aid applications are not considered until admission is granted.

International Students

The term “international students” is used at Fuller to denote both international students who are already legal permanent residents of the United States and those who are already legal permanent residents of the United States.

As a general rule, international students with dependents will be considered for admission to Fuller Theological Seminary only if they can meet the requirements of a financial guarantee for themselves as well as their family. This can be done by (a) showing that they are sponsored by a responsible Christian organization which will commit itself either to guarantee the support and care of the dependents at home during the student's entire stay abroad, or to provide round-trip transportation and the entire support for the dependents if they are to accompany the student to the Seminary, or (b) demonstrating by a letter from a bank or savings institution that the student has on deposit sufficient funds to cover tuition, other school fees, living expenses for the student and family, and roundtrip airfare, or (c) providing the same proof from other individuals or organizations who wish to contribute to the student's support that there are sufficient funds available to cover their financial commitment.

All international student applicants should submit their applications at least six months in advance of the quarter in which they intend to enroll, and must complete the application file (including transcripts, financial aid guarantees, etc.) at least 60 days in advance of the planned date of arrival in order to allow time for the student to receive the visa application papers. A catalog of the school from which the student received the baccalaureate degree (B.A. or B.S.) should be submitted with the application. The Th.B. is not considered adequate for admission to Fuller. International applicants may be required to submit official documentation of secondary as well as post-secondary education.

Once accepted, appropriate visa forms will be sent to the student. Questions regarding visas should be addressed to the Immigration Counselor in the Admissions Office.

Expenses

All expenses are payable in U.S. currency. The Seminary reserves the right to change rates and policies when necessary.

FOOTNOTES

1. Chargeable only when no formal application is submitted.
2. A student or student’s spouse is permitted to audit 8 units for every 12 units taken at Fuller. See page 33 for a complete statement of audit policy.
3. Charged each year beginning the year after course work is completed until degree is awarded.
4. Payable quarterly or annually.
5. Reduced tuition is available only to students who have completed certain requirements. Consult School of Psychology student handbook for details.
6. Not required if a student is registered for 8 units or less or has existing insurance with comparable coverage. Coverage for spouse, children and maternity benefits optional. Can be paid quarterly. Extended benefits are also available.
7. Purchase of meal ticket required.
8. Prices quoted are for five-day week, varying according to the meal plan selected. Required of all Seminary dorm residents.

REFUND POLICY

School of Theology and School of World Mission

For classes dropped between registration and the end of the second day of the second week of classes, the refund is 100 percent. In case of complete withdrawal from the Seminary in any one quarter during the 100 percent refund period, a 10 percent service charge of the tuition charged for that quarter (to the maximum of $50.00) will be added to the student account. For those classes dropped by the end of the second week of classes, the refund is 75 percent; for those dropped the third week of classes the refund is 50 percent; for those dropped the fourth week of classes the refund is 25 percent. No refund is made for courses dropped after the fourth week of classes. Courses are added at the full rate. There is no refund of audit charges.

School of Psychology

In instances where a psychology student withdraws, there is no refund of tuition for that particular quarter if the withdrawal occurs after the second week of the quarter.

DEFERRED PAYMENT POLICY

This plan is available for those who are not able to pay the total charges at the time of registration. A $10 deferred payment service fee allows the student to pay one-third during the first week of classes, one-third prior to the end of the fourth week of classes, and the remainder prior to the end of the eighth week of classes. Interest is calculated at the end of each month on all student account balances over 60 days old at the current interest rate set by the Seminary.

Students whose accounts are not current may not be able to register for the next quarter, and cannot receive grades or have transcripts issued.

FINANCIAL AID

Fuller Theological Seminary is committed to the policy that no worthy student should be left in a position of financial need without the school first having done everything possible to help.

Through employment, long and short-term loans, and grants, the Seminary seeks to alleviate financial need. Before grants are considered, it is expected that a student will provide a reasonable part of the total amount required to meet expenses by seeking employment and/or loan funds.

The Seminary provides limited assistance in finding employment for students and spouses. There are generally a number of openings for on-campus employment (including college work-study positions for eligible students), and employers in the area frequently contact the Seminary to report employment opportunities for students and their spouses. There are also numerous church-related jobs available in the area, although many of these involve internships and are generally not recommended for first-year students. In accepting employment of any kind, however, it is understood that the student will not exceed the number of hours commensurate with the demands of his or her academic load, family responsibilities, etc.

In many instances, the parents of students cannot or should not be expected to be of financial assistance. However, parental financial information is required on applications for federal or state-funded programs unless certain independency criteria are met. It is anticipated that the student will seek and obtain help from the family when it is feasible. In some cases, assistance can be expected and should be sought from the home church, denominational headquarters and other interested groups.

Financial Aid Application

Any student desiring a loan or grant is required to complete the proper forms for student aid, which include a detailed copy of his or her estimated budget for the year. These forms are sent to interested students and may be obtained at any time from the Financial Aid Office. Students in the School of World Mission or the School of Psychology should apply directly to those schools for grant assistance. Ph.D. and Th.M students in the School of Theology should apply for graduate assistantships through the Theology Graduate Office. Loan applications for students in all degree programs of all three schools are processed through the Financial Aid Office.

Grants-In-Aid

In general, the Seminary does not offer scholarships in the usual sense of that term, i.e. grants made on the basis of outstanding academic achievement. The Seminary does have limited funds available for grants made primarily on the basis of need, with proper consideration of future promise and academic standing.

Students desiring and receiving grants must be full-time in a regular degree program, and must make satisfactory progress in their educational pursuits. In addition, if a student has received a grant from Fuller and does not subsequently earn a degree from the Seminary, the grant is converted to a loan, subject to satisfactory progress in their educational pursuits. In many instances, the parents of students cannot or should not be expected to be of financial assistance. However, parental financial information is required on applications for federal or state-funded programs unless certain independency criteria are met. It is anticipated that the student will seek and obtain help from the family when it is feasible. In addition, the following special funds have been established to provide financial aid to students at Fuller. Most of these funds are endowed by benefactors of the Seminary, the balance are usually funded on an annual basis.

- Margaret and Glenn Barker Memorial Scholarship Fund. This fund was established by Glenn W. Barker, first Provost of the Seminary, in loving memory of his wife Margaret. After his death the fund was expanded and is provided as an investment in seminarians to assist in financing their education for future ministers.
- The Burr/Roth Scholarship Award. This award, established by Mr. and Mrs. Albert L. Roth in honor of Larry Burr and in recognition of his faithful service to others and to the Seminary, is given annually to a worthy and needy student.
- Ethnic American Grant Fund. Supported by contributions to the Fuller Fund by Seminary students, faculty and staff, and administered by the All-Seminary Council, this fund provides assistance for Black Americans, native Americans, Hispanic Americans, and Asian American in all three schools.
- Faculty Scholarship Awards. Each year a number of scholarships are given in the name of faculty members who have served Fuller Theological Seminary for twenty years or more. Faculty who are honored in this way now include Dr. Geoffrey Bromiley, Dr. Daniel Fuller, Dr. Everett Harrison, Dr. David Allan Hubbard, Dr. William S. LAsor, Dr. George Ladd, and Dr. Paul K. Jewett.
- Fuller Seminary Auxiliary Scholarships. The Seminary Auxiliary grants a limited number of scholarships to Seminary students in all three schools each year.
- Ganfield Scholarship. Given by Mr. and Mrs. Boardman Ganfield, this grant is awarded to a student pursuing the ministry.
- Homer and Isabelle Goddard Lay Ministry Scholarship Award. Given by Wallace and Margaret Larson, this scholarship fund was established in honor of Homer and Isabelle Goddard in recognition of and appreciation for their lifelong commitment to lay ministry.
- Headington Scholarship for Black Ministerial Training. This fund, established by Mr. and Mrs. J. Edward Headington and Mr. Greg Headington, provides financial aid, based on need, for Black students in the M.Div. program of the School of Theology.
- Headington Scholarship for Hispanic Students. Established by Mr. and Mrs. J. Edward Headington and Mr. Greg Headington, this fund provides financial aid, based on need, for Hispanic students in the School of Theology.
- International Student Scholarship. Given by Frank... and Janet Matz, who are concerned about developing Christian leadership among nationals in Third World countries, this grant is awarded to a non-U.S. student who plans to return to his or her home country upon graduation.

- Johnston/Yinger Scholarship Fund. Given by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Johnston and Mr. and Mrs. William Yinger in honor of their parents, this grant is awarded to School of Theology students who are interested in evangelism and social action expressed in church planting, cross-cultural and inner-city ministries.

- Mildred C. McCrossan Memorial Scholarship. Given by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McCrossan and Mr. David McCrossan in honor of their mother and wife in recognition of her concerns for the local church and its leaders, this grant is awarded to a student who plans to work with a frontier mission in evangelism and church planting.

- Howard C. and Martha M. Miller Student Aid Fund. Established by Mr. and Mrs. Howard C. Miller to help students in the School of Theology who have great future promise, but who are struggling with financial burdens, these awards are made to worthy and needy students.

- Joe Nunziato Scholarship. Established by Mr. and Mrs. R. Thomas Barber in honor of Joseph S. Nunziato and his ministry in the pastorate, this award is given to a senior in the School of Theology who intends to go into full-time ministry.

- John D. Snyder, Jr. Scholarship Award. Awarded primarily on the basis of financial need, this grant is funded by a Christian couple in the Philadelphia, Pennsylvania area who wish to establish and maintain personal and spiritual relationships by support of students throughout their educational programs at Fuller.

- L. and C. Song Scholarship. Given by Mr. and Mrs. Leonard S. Song, this award is provided to worthy students preparing for the ministry.

- Gary Weisiger Award. Given by the congregation of Menlo Park Presbyterian Church as an expression of love in honor of Dr. Weisiger for his twelve years of faithful service by support of students through their courses at Fuller.

Team Ministry

To support a future "team ministry" of married couples, special benefits are available to students in master's-level programs in all three schools.

- Spouses of School of Psychology students enrolled in School of World Mission. Similar benefits are available to married couples if both are students in the School of World Mission. Under this program, students enrolled in the same master's program (M.A. or M.Div.) pay full rate for the first 16 units of their combined tuition in any given quarter, and are eligible to apply for a 75 percent tuition scholarship for the remainder of their tuition that quarter. If they are not in the same master's program, of if one spouse is in a doctoral program, a similar benefit is available but different conditions apply. Details are available from the Office of the Dean of the School of World Mission.

- Spouses of School of Psychology students enrolled in School of Theology courses. Courses may be eligible for a team ministry benefit in the School of Theology.

In most cases, a team ministry benefit is available during the summer quarter to a spouse whose partner has paid full tuition for 16 units in each of the previous three quarters.

This team ministry scholarship represents the maximum grant-in-aid available to a married couple studying in the School of Theology or the School of World Mission.

Loans

The following are among the sources for loan funds presently available to eligible Fuller students. Applicants for federally funded loan or grant programs must be U.S. citizens, permanent residents or residents of the Trust Territories. The terms of federally funded programs change frequently, and the Financial Aid Office can supply the most recent information upon request.

- National Direct Student Loans. These loans are jointly funded by the Federal government and the Seminary. No interest accrues while the student is enrolled at least half-time, and payment does not begin until six or nine months following graduation or withdrawal. Funds are limited in this program, and are therefore available only to those persons with extreme need.

- Federally Insured Student Loans. Students who have previously received funds from this program may apply through the California Guaranteed Student Loan program or the loan programs of their home states.

- California Guaranteed Student Loans. These loans may be obtained through banks, savings and loan associations, credit unions, United Student Aid Funds, Inc., and other sources, and are guaranteed by the State of California. Payment is deferred and interest is paid by the government while the student is enrolled at least half-time and for six to nine months following graduation or withdrawal.

- Fuller Seminary Short Term Loans. These are designed to meet temporary needs and are without interest if repaid within 60 days. They are not designed to pay tuition or bookstore accounts, and depend upon funds available. Application may be made to the financial aid officer or the director of Business Affairs.

Other Sources

- California Graduate Fellowship. The California Graduate Fellowship offers up to full tuition and required fees. Application is made annually, before February. Some awards are for one year only, and some up to four years. Applicants must be California residents who will not have completed more than the equivalent of four quarters of master's level studies since earning the bachelor's degree (Fuller Seminary determines this to be 64 quarter units). Qualification is based on grade point average, family income, ethnic origin, Graduate Record Exam scores and other factors.

- Veteran's Benefits. Students eligible for veteran's benefits may receive those benefits for training at Fuller. Information is available from the veterans affairs advisor in the Registrar's Office for students who will be studying at the Pasadena campus. This includes students in the Doctor of Ministry program. Students who will be enrolled in extension may request information from their area directors.

- Scholarship and Awards. There are a limited number of scholarships and awards given to Fuller students in recognition of achievement in various areas. These are described more fully in the first section of this catalog, and include the following:
  - David Allan Hubbard Achievement Awards
  - Faculty and Administration Wives' Memorial Award
  - Parsonage Fellowship Award
  - F. Carlton Booth Evangelism Award
  - Everett F. Harrison, Jr. Award in New Testament
  - William Sanford La Sor Award in Old Testament
  - New Testament Department Award
  - Clarence S. Roddy Preaching Prize
  - John P. Davis, Jr. Memorial Scholarship Award
  - Delano M. Goehner Memorial Award
  - Claire M. Headington Memorial Award
  - Gene Wesley Pfrimmer Memorial Award
  - John Stauffer Memorial Merit Fellowship Award
  - Travis Awards for Predissertation Study of Issues Relating to the Integration of Psychology and Religion
  - Donald Anderson McGavran Award in Church Growth
  - School of World Mission Dean's Award
  - School of World Mission Contextualization Award
  - School of World Mission Folk Religion Award
  - School of World Mission History Award
  - School of World Mission Missiology Award

Orientation

For students entering in the fall quarter, the course of study at Fuller begins with orientation, which is held the week before regular classes begin (see calendar). Entering students in all three schools are expected to attend. The orientation program introduces the student to seminary life and theological training and provides an experience of Christian community.

Winter, spring and summer orientation programs are normally scheduled on one day prior to the first day of classes. All students entering these quarters are expected to attend. Students who enter in the winter or spring quarters may attend the week-long orientation in the fall. Students who enter in the summer quarter are expected to attend the fall orientation.

Registration for Classes

Fall registration is held during the week immediately preceding the first day of classes (see calendar) for all students. For new students, this is a part of the orientation program. Registration for new students for winter, spring or summer quarters takes place on the scheduled orientation day. For returning students, registration for these quarters is scheduled near the end of the previous quarter.

Registration priority times are assigned each quarter on the basis of each student's accumulated credits. Students may not register in advance of their assigned times. Students whose accounts are not current will not be permitted to register for classes unless special arrangements have been made with the coordinator of student accounts prior to the week of registration. Students are required to pay all fees at the time of registration; tuition charges may be deferred.

All students must meet with their academic advisor prior to their scheduled registration. An academic advisor will be assigned to each incoming student during orientation. Students in the School of Theology are assigned academic advisors in the Student Services Division, while students in the School of World Mission and the School of Psychology are advised by assigned faculty members. A completed and approved class request card, provided by the academic advisor, is required for registration. Any course change must be approved in writing by the academic advisor before the change can be made in the Registrar's Office.

Late Registration

Students may register late in the Registrar's Office during the first week of classes. A service charge is added to the student's account for late registration. Students who cannot register during the regular registration or late registration periods may petition the Academic Affairs Committee of the appropriate school for permission to register during the second week. Under no circumstances may students register after the close of the second week of a quarter, except by special action of the Academic Cabinet.

Course Changes

After registration has been completed, courses are added or dropped through the Registrar's Office with a service charge of $5.00 for each change or set of changes made at the same time. Course changes must be approved in writing by the student’s academic advisor before the change can be made in the Registrar’s Office. No course has been officially added or dropped until the change has been recorded on the student’s permanent record.

Students are permitted to add courses during the first five days of each quarter only. Courses added after the fifth day of classes must be approved by petition to the Academic Affairs Committee of the respective school. After the second week of classes, courses may be added only by petitioning the Academic Cabinet, which serves all three schools. In a two-week intensive session, courses may be added through the end of the second day of classes.

Students are permitted to drop courses without grade penalty through the end of the fifth week of the quarter. Any course dropped thereafter will be entered as no credit (NC) on the student’s permanent record. In a two-week intensive session, courses may be dropped through the end of the first week of classes. In no case is a student ever dropped automatically from any class. The student must initiate the drop process.

Auditing

Master’s level students in the Schools of Theology and World Mission, or their spouses, are permitted to audit eight units without charge for every 12 units taken at Fuller. These hours may accumulate for one academic year, from fall through summer. Fuller graduates are invited to audit two master’s level courses per year without charge. Pastors and missionaries are invited to audit any master’s level course in the School of Theology or School of World Mission without charge for the first course. Subsequent courses may be audited for one-fourth of the current credit tuition fee. Other persons will be charged one-half of the current credit tuition fee.

Any person who is not a current student must apply to audit. Forms are available in the Admissions Office. There is an audit application fee. Audits are not recorded for audit-only students, nor is any permanent record kept. Persons not enrolled as students at the Seminary who wish to audit classes must normally hold a B.A. degree or its equivalent. Those seeking exemption from their academic requirements to audit one continuing education special event must apply for Continuing Education Units (CEU) only if they are not taking the course or seminar in question for academic credit (that is, they must be course auditors or participants in a non-credit special event). A one-time fee will be charged to set up a Continuing Education Unit file in the Registrar’s Office. Under no circumstances will CEU’s be transferred as academic credit.

Academic Policies

Current and detailed information concerning academic policies is provided by the IsaGoge, the official student handbook for Fuller Theological Seminary. Further information is provided by special handbooks prepared for students in the School of Psychology, the School of World Mission, the Theology Graduate Program, and the Extension Program.

Changes are effected from time to time in the general regulations and academic policies. There are established procedures for making changes and for making such changes known to the students of the Seminary. A curriculum or graduation requirement, when altered, is not made retroactive unless the alteration is to the student’s advantage and can be accommodated within the span of years normally required for graduation.

Each student is responsible for knowing and understanding current academic policies. Ignorance of a policy which appears in a student handbook or in the catalog is not a valid reason for granting an exception to any policy.

Residence Requirements and Transfer Credit

Residence requirements vary by degree program and are described in the appropriate sections of this catalog and in the student handbooks of the three schools. Subject to these limitations, Fuller normally accepts appropriate transfer credit from graduate institutions accredited by the Association of Theological Schools or regional accrediting associations. The Academic Advising Office is responsible for all transfer credit granted in the School of Theology. Students in the School of World Mission and the School of Psychology should consult their academic advisor concerning transfer credit.
Satisfactory Academic Progress

Satisfactory academic progress is defined as “reasonable progress towards completion of an educational goal.” The guidelines which follow (see especially Academic Standing and Academic Probation) have been established to define the minimum standards for satisfactory academic progress at Fuller Theological Seminary. Individual schools or programs may impose additional or more stringent standards. Details may be found in the various students or program handbooks.

Enrollment Status

Student enrollment status may be defined on a quarterly basis or an annual basis. Enrollment status which is defined and calculated on an annual basis includes all units completed during the academic year from fall through summer.

One unit of credit is defined as an academic designation denoting a minimum of 25-30 hours of classroom experience, academic preparation and research.

Full-time Study. For School of Theology and School of World Mission students in master’s level programs, the minimum full-time study load is twelve units (12) units per quarter or thirty-six (36) units per academic year with the recommended full-time study load being sixteen (16) units per quarter or forty-eight (48) units per academic year. The maximum study load is twenty (20) units in any quarter.

At the doctoral level (including the Master of Theology degree in the School of Theology), eight (8) units per quarter or twenty-four (24) units per academic year is considered a full-time study load. For Doctor of Ministry students, the maximum study load is twenty-four (24) units in any academic year.

For students in the School of Psychology, the maximum academic load is sixteen (16) units in any given quarter (including the summer quarter), except during the clinical sequence and clerkship, when the maximum load is seventeen (17) units per quarter. In either case, courses in any of the three schools (including School of Theology Extension Education) are counted toward the maximum load.

Half-Time Study. Six to ten (6-10) units per quarter or eighteen (18) units per academic year constitutes half-time status at the master’s level. Half-time status at the doctoral level is defined as four to seven (4-7) units per quarter or twelve (12) units per academic year.

Part-Time Study. At the master’s level, less than six (6) units per quarter or less than eighteen (18) units per academic year constitutes part-time (i.e. less than half-time) study. Part-time status at the doctoral level is defined as less than four (4) units per quarter or less than twelve (12) units per academic year.

Absences and Withdrawal

In the event of absence, it is the student’s responsibility to make necessary arrangements with the instructor. Faculty members decide their own policies concerning class attendance.

Whenever possible, students are expected to report to their academic advisor any anticipated extended absences. Students who do not expect to register for a given quarter (except summer) should consult with their academic advisor. In some cases of extended absence, it may be necessary for the student to reapply for admission.

Students who expect to discontinue their work at the Seminary are expected to complete withdrawal forms to be signed by the academic advisor, the registrar, and the coordinator of student accounts. Students who drop all courses during the quarter will be charged a severance fee.

Academic Standing

To remain in good academic standing, students must successfully complete 75% of the courses in which they enroll with a cumulative grade point average (GPA) of 2.5.

Grades which represent successful completion are A, A—, B+, B, B—, C+, C, C—, CR (Credit), or SAT (Satisfactory). Grades which do not represent successful completion are I (Incomplete), H (Hold), NC (No Credit), and W (Withdrawal).

Review of Student Progress. Review of student records will occur quarterly (after the grading period) for all students with regular admission status who have enrolled in at least four (4) courses or sixteen (16) units subsequent to matriculation (for students admitted on probation and special students, see below).

Academic Probation

In the event that a student fails to meet the above standards for good academic standing, he or she will be notified in writing and counseled toward re-establishment of good standing. If, within twelve (12) units after receiving such notification, the student has been unable to re-establish good academic standing, he or she will be placed on academic probation and notified in writing of this status. Students placed on probation may be subject to dismissal if they are unable to establish good academic standing within twenty (20) units after being placed on probation. In either case, students may request an exception to his policy by presenting a written description of their extenuating circumstances to the Academic Affairs Committee of the school involved.

Students Admitted on Probation and Special Students. Students who are admitted with probationary status, including special students, must establish good academic standing. Their records will be reviewed quarterly. If, within twelve (12) units of work at Fuller, students are unable to establish good academic standing after twenty-four (24) units of work at Fuller, this decision may be appealed by presenting written description of extenuating circumstances to the Academic Affairs Committee of the school involved.

Students admitted with Special or Probationary status may be eligible for regular admission following the successful completion of forty-eight (48) units of study at Fuller. During this period, they may register for courses on a Credit/No Credit (CR/NC) basis, but the course grade submitted by the professor will be used when evaluating their progress toward regular admission status.

Appeal Process

Students may request exceptions to this policy, as noted above, by presenting a written description of their extenuating circumstances and their plan for establishment of good academic standing to the Academic Affairs Committee of their school for consideration. The student will be advised in writing of the decision after review by the committee.

Satisfactory Academic Progress and Financial Aid

Students must meet the Seminary’s minimum standards for satisfactory academic progress in order to qualify for financial aid. Students placed on academic probation are ineligible for Seminary or Federal financial aid.

Various lending institutions and sources of financial aid may impose additional or more stringent requirements. Students seeking financial aid should contact the appropriate financial aid office for further details.

Time Limits for Completion of Degrees

The time limit for completing the M.A., M.Div., or Ph.D. degree in the School of Theology is set at seven years from the date of matriculation. The time limit for the Th.M. degree is three years, and for the D.Min. degree five years. There is a ten year time limit for completion of degrees in the School of World Mission (master’s or doctoral level) and the School of Psychology. In all instances, the time limit is based on the date of matriculation.

Examinations

Final examinations are scheduled at specific hours during the last week of each quarter. These times are announced as part of the course schedule published at the beginning of each quarter. Students are expected to take final exams at the scheduled hours. In the case of serious illness, emergency, or when a student has three exams scheduled on the same day, arrangements may be made to take an exam at another time. Changes in exam time for any reason must be approved by petition through the Academic Services Division. A service charge is assessed, except when the rescheduling is due to hospitalization or three exams on the same day.

Grading

Grades have been assigned the following numerical values for the purpose of computing the grade point average:

Grades of Credit, No Credit or Withdrawal are not computed in the student’s grade point average. All grades as recorded become a permanent part of the student’s academic history. If a student receives a grade of No Credit, that grade will remain on the record. If such a course is retaken, the new registration and grade will also be recorded on the student’s permanent record.

A student whose work in a master’s-level course in the School of Theology is not completed at the end of the quarter may request a grade of Incomplete by submitting the proper form (available from the Academic Advising Office) to the professor involved by the last day of the tenth week of the quarter. Each faculty member decides whether work not finished at the end of the quarter warrants an incomplete grade for the course or simply a reduction in the grade. If the incomplete grade is granted, the completed course work is due to the professor by the end of the last day of the tenth week of the following quarter. If the work is not completed within this time, the grade will become a permanent incomplete. Extensions are not normally granted.

A student enrolled in a School of World Mission course whose work is not complete may request grade of Incomplete from the professor. Up to two years is allowed for the completion of the coursework.

A student in the Theology Graduate program (Th.M/Ph.D.) whose work is not completed at the end of the quarter may receive a “hold” grade which allows up to two additional quarters in which to complete the work.

A student in the School of Psychology whose work in a psychology class is not completed at the end of a quarter may, at the discretion of the professor, receive an incomplete or a hold. The details of the administration of this policy are described in the School of Psychology student handbook.

Credit/No Credit Option

Master’s level students in the School of Theology and School of World Mission may choose to take up to one-fourth of the coursework done at Fuller on a credit/no credit basis. This normally is a maximum of nine courses for M.Div. students and six courses for M.A. students; no more than one-third of this total may be in any one division (Biblical, Theology or Ministry). Psychology students may exercise this option in their regular M.A. Theology courses. In the School of Psychology curriculum, only the internship and clerkship may be taken CR/NC. Students not enrolled in a degree program may exercise the CR/NC option at a rate of one course in four.

The student’s transcript is marked with either a CR (credit) or NC (no credit) for the course, and the grade is not computed in the student’s grade point average.

The exercising of the credit/no credit option is normally indicated at registration time on the class request card issued by the student’s academic advisor. Changes in status may be made through the end of the second day of the second week of classes for ten-week courses, and through the end of the second day of classes in two-week intensive sessions. Changes must be made through the Registrar’s Office.

CHRISTIAN STANDARDS

Fuller Theological Seminary expects all members of its community to live in accord with standards of wholesome Christian character. With the exception of the areas of sexual standards and marriage and divorce (see below), the Seminary has generally not attempted to define conduct that is not in accord with these Christian standards. The variety of lifestyle in the traditions represented at the school has precluded such a definition. This does not mean that there is not a common understanding of “Christian standards.” Flagrant disregard for such standards is the proper concern of both students and faculty.

Disciplinary Procedures

When any member of the Seminary community feels that another member is living in violation of what the Bible teaches about Christian conduct, it is recommended that, where feasible, the steps of loving confrontation and dialogue described in Matthew 18:15-22 be followed. Where these steps either discover that no wrongful conduct has taken place, or where they prompt repentance and change of conduct on the part of the one who has violated the biblical standards, the matter may be dropped. Where circumstances warrant, however, it is the prerogative of students or faculty to bring the matter to the attention of the Seminary administration or to the All-Seminary Council. It is assumed that the person involved will then be privately counseled and given opportunity to clarify the implicating circumstances. The goal of such counsel is clarification and reformation, not prosecution.

If, however, the situation does appear critical and in need of disciplinary action, there are established procedures for further action, described in detail in the student, staff and faculty handbooks, which are designed to assure a fair hearing to the individual while protecting the integrity of the Seminary community.

Sexual Standards and Marriage and Divorce

In order to clarify their understanding of Christian standards in two areas of special concern, the Seminary faculty and board of trustees have adopted statements on sexual standards and marriage and divorce. These statements may be found on pages 142-143 of this catalog, as well as in the various student handbooks.

GRADUATION

The prescribed course of study as outlined in the curriculum for each degree program must be satisfactorily completed.

There is a minimum grade point average set for graduation in some degree programs. These are announced in the appropriate sections of this catalog and in the student handbooks for the three schools and the various degree programs.

Students are responsible for meeting the graduation requirements set forth in the catalog published at the time of their matriculation. Students who take extended leaves of absence of more than one year are subject to the graduation requirements set forth in the catalog published at the time of their reinstatement unless written permission was obtained prior to their extended leave.

In addition to academic requirements for graduation, students must receive the endorsement of the faculty responsible for the degree program in which they are enrolled that they have acted responsibly in attempting to live in accord with standards of wholesome Christian character and with the general standards of the institution, as well as those of the particular program in which they are involved.

It is also necessary for students to present a satisfactory clearance of accounts prior to graduation. Students who have not made satisfactory financial arrangements will not have access to any student services, including transcripts, degree checks, diploma, transfer, or enrollment for another degree.

Students anticipating graduation must make written application for graduation through their academic advisor at the time of registration for their final quarter of enrollment.

Degrees are recorded quarterly. The last day of the quarter as indicated by the academic calendar is considered to be the official date of graduation in summer, fall and winter quarters. The date of Commencement is the graduation date for the spring quarter. Baccalaureate and Commencement exercises are held only at the end of the spring quarter. Participation in Commencement exercises is not equivalent to the conferral of the degree, which is official only when the student has completed all academic requirements and made satisfactory financial arrangements.

Students who expect to complete course requirements during the summer quarter may petition the faculty of their respective schools to be permitted to participate in the June Commencement exercises. A number of stipulations apply. Details are available from the Academic Advising office.

Admission to the School of Theology

Requirements

It should be understood that admission to Fuller depends on factors beyond the applicant's academic record. These include theological development, Christian experience, spiritual growth, call to service and gifts for ministry. Men and women of God are qualified for Christian ministry by faith, moral character, experience and academic achievement. Such people are characterized by compassion for individual persons, by sensitivity to the needs of the total community, by a burden that the whole of God's will be obeyed on earth, by a readiness to accept correction, by a desire for moral growth, by personal integrity, and, above all, by a mature trust in Jesus Christ as the foundation of life and ministry.

Specific requirements for entering degree programs are given within each degree program section. In addition, applicants for whom English is a second language must take a written and oral language examination (TOEFL).

Unclassified Students.

Those individuals who desire Christian training, but who do not wish to study in a regular degree program, are welcomed. Men and women who are not certain of a definite call to the ministry and desire a time of seminary study to help them in determining God's will for their lives may want to study as unclassified students.

The Theological Curriculum

The theological curriculum which aims at excellence must combine breadth, depth and balance. It must include the basic areas which contain materials everyone engaged in Christian ministry should know and yet provide courses of special interest and concern to the individual student. It must be grounded in the Scriptures, the sure and solid authority of our faith, and be concerned for efforts to express faith in a coherent system of truth. It must reflect understanding of the traditions of the past, and show awareness of the needs of the present and the future. It must preserve what is genuine within the historic experience of the church while being open to what may be new by Christ's Spirit.

Fuller approaches its task of theological training by way of the great Protestant tradition of biblical studies in the languages in which God was pleased to reveal his word. Greek and Hebrew are prerequisites for many courses in Bible and are constantly used in instruction. Courses in the theology and history division give the student a close acquaintance with the classical thinking of the church in its effort through the ages to express this revelation and to apply it as a guide through the perplexities and ambiguitities of life. This background sets the stage for the ministry courses in which the various approaches to teaching God's word are shaped from the perspective of theology.

A curriculum cannot include everything a servant of God will need for the rapidly changing world of these last decades of the 20th century, but it should not omit that which is essential. Furthermore, it must supply the basic content and skills which will enable one to feed God's flock and to maintain personal growth with increasing responsibilities.

Degree Programs

The School of Theology offers programs leading to the Master of Divinity degree, the Master of Arts degree, the Doctor of Ministry degree, the Master of Theology degree, and the Doctor of Philosophy degree. In each case, it is possible to develop an area of concentration within the overall curriculum for the degree.

Field Education.

The Seminary recognizes that the preparation of men and women for ministry can only be accomplished when students are given the opportunity to make practical applications of the academic information gained in the classroom. The Office of Field Education connects the Seminary and the Christian community, acting to assist students in making a transition from one to the other. The Field Education program of the Seminary places student interns in churches or related organizations, where under supervision they can develop practical competency in ministry. In addition to the Field Education internship program, students may enroll in a variety of practicums in their field of concentration under the direction of a faculty advisor.

Multidenominational Representation.

As a multidenominational institution, the Seminary has established the Office for Ecclesiastical Services, which serves as coordinator between denominations and their respective students by being a center for placement processing, by encouraging denominational fellowship meetings and by ensuring that the opportunities necessary for students to meet the requirements for ordination in their denominations are provided. The office seeks to facilitate and focus communication and interaction between students and denominations.

MASTER OF DIVINITY

The Master of Divinity degree program prepares the student for full-time service in the church of Jesus Christ. It allows the student to train either for the general
The Master of Divinity program prepares men and women for ministry within the Church of Jesus Christ. The curriculum is controlled by a vision of Christ’s Church as the people of God—a living, worshipping, witnessing community, within which faith is nurtured and through which Christ is served in the world. Guided by this vision, the curriculum is designed to instruct students in the study of theology in its widest sense, so that they may grow in the knowledge of God, discover and develop their God-given gifts and become more effective members of the body of Christ. This involves a deepening understanding of God and his world through rigorous academic discipline; but it also involves, in part as the fruit of such discipline, personal spiritual growth and maturity, and the acquiring of the relevant skills that will enable students effectively to use their theological insights in practical Christian ministry.

Accordingly, the characteristics of the Master of Divinity program are determined by the marks of true Christian ministry.

- The Christian minister should be a person who knows and delights in the Word of God, one who is able responsibly and in detail to execute and interpret the divinely inspired Scriptures, yet one also able to see in its wholeness the story of the saving acts of God revealed through Israel and consummated in Christ. The Master of Divinity program is designed to foster ministry that is rooted in the authority of the Bible.

- The Christian minister should understand the doctrines and traditions of the Church and be able to interpret them clearly and compellingly for our own time. The minister should also be one who empowers the people of God so that they too are enabled confidently to discern and clearly to articulate God’s Word for our world. The Master of Divinity program is designed to foster Christian ministry that is theologically responsible.

- The Christian minister should possess special abilities, theologically informed, for leading and equipping God’s people. The tasks that demand these skills are many: preaching, public worship, teaching, evangelism, counseling, spiritual formation, and administration. The minister should be one who not only develops such skills but enables others to share them. The Master of Divinity program is designed to foster ministry that is professionally competent.

- The Christian minister should recognize that evangelism in its widest sense is the responsibility of every Christian and is central to the apostolic nature and mission of the Church. The minister should be prepared both spiritually and intellectually to “do the work of an evangelist” and to enable others to share in that task. The Master of Divinity program is designed to foster ministry that is committed to evangelism.

- The Christian minister should be an advocate of truth, a person able convincingly to demonstrate the credibility of the faith and, while informed of the strongest arguments that have been made against it, one able to witness to the revelation of God in Christ in the confidence of the Spirit of Truth. The Master of Divinity program is designed to foster ministry that is intellectually articulate.

- The Christian minister is a person of deep and honest faith, a faith that is rooted in an authentic experience of God’s grace and that is expressed in a growth toward wholesome maturity in Christ. He or she is ready always to seek the will of God in the complex moral problems of personal life, and is sensitive to the even more complex ethical issues of the public arena. The Master of Divinity program seeks to foster ministry that is spiritually mature and morally sensitive.

- The Christian minister should be a servant of the compassionate Lord, a person deeply concerned for social justice with a burden for the oppressed and the weak, a peacemaker in a world torn by war, an advocate for the hungry and homeless, a defender of all victims of oppression, and a prophet calling for justice from the rich and mercy for the wretched of the earth. The Master of Divinity program is designed to foster ministry that is socially concerned.

- The Christian minister should be personally committed to a specific church within the Church universal, one who is loyal to the community and tradition of which he or she is a part yet who honors a wider loyalty to the Church universal. The Master of Divinity program is designed to foster ministry that is ecumenically open yet denominationally responsible.

These are some of the marks of true Christian ministry which determine the characteristics of the Master of Divinity program. By this vision of ministry, the curriculum is tested and controlled, goals are defined and teaching is motivated.

Admission Requirements.

Applicants must have earned a regular baccalaureate degree or its equivalent before they can be admitted to the M.Div. program. This degree should be conferred by an accredited institution. Any applicant who graduates from an unaccredited college must have a minimum grade average of B and a minimum of one year (45 quarter hours/30 semester hours) of liberal arts course work to be considered for admission. In addition, all applicants to competitive programs in the School of Theology (Marriage and Family Ministries Program and Graduate Program) are expected to take the Graduate Record Examination and have their scores on file with the Office of Admissions.

- Transfer of Credit. Requests may be made for transfer of credit for approved graduate studies done elsewhere. These will be evaluated on an individual basis by the director of Academic Services.

Curriculum

The faculty at Fuller has developed a unified curriculum for the Master of Divinity degree built upon a system of core areas. These areas are distributed among the biblical studies, theology and ministry divisions.

A variety of courses is provided within each core area to maintain maximum flexibility in designing the student’s curriculum. Normally courses will stress at least one of the following features:

- A strong language approach
- An emphasis on biblical contents; or
- A focus on the theological perspective.

The student is required to complete successfully 36 courses (144 units) for the M.Div. degree as follows:

Any course in Denominational Polity

Field Education. A minimum of two courses in supervised field education is required to earn the M.Div. degree. One course is met by service in a church for three quarters as a student intern. Four units of core credit are granted for this course. The second course requirement may be met by service as a student intern in a church, hospital, special community program, or parachurch organization, or in significant, related experiences approved by the Field Education Office. Four units of elective credit may be granted, if desired, for this requirement. Additional courses may be taken for elective credit. M.Div. students enrolled in concentrations such as MFM or IVM are expected to complete concentration practicum requirements as alternatives to the Field Education requirement.

II. ELECTIVES (8 courses)

The remaining eight courses may be drawn from the core, language or elective offerings. A student may use any course offered to satisfy the elective component of the M.Div. curriculum.

FOOTNOTES
1. The abbreviations in this column are used to designate their corresponding M.Div. core area groups. Such abbreviations are employed in the catalog "Courses of Study" section, on quarterly schedules, and in Expanded Course Descriptions.
2. Additional courses or seminars may be designated by the department to satisfy this requirement.
3. A student who wishes to concentrate in any area may modify the above pattern of ministry courses in accordance with the policy of the ministry division.
4. School of World Mission course.

Course Descriptions. The description of courses offered in support of the Master of Divinity degree program may be found in the "Courses of Study" section beginning on page 62.

Concentrations

A variety of specific concentrations are offered within the M.Div. curriculum enabling students to focus their studies in particular areas in order to meet their individual interests and needs. These areas of concentration are briefly described below. Further information may be obtained from the Academic Advising Office.

Christian Formation and Discipleship. The Master of Divinity concentration in Christian formation and discipleship enables students to obtain a strong foundation in biblical, historical and theological studies, while focusing on the teaching/equipping ministries of the church. Designed to prepare men and women for a general pastorate in a local congregation, or a specialized ministry as, for example, director of Christian education or minister of discipleship, the program allows students to meet the standard educational requirements for ordination while obtaining specialized training in educational and discipleship ministries.

Though there is a basic required core curriculum in the program, most requirements may be fulfilled through a number of alternatives which allow students to select courses of specific interest while still receiving a basic theological foundation.

The curriculum integrates academic course work with practical training. The program consists of 36 courses (144 quarter hours), including four courses in Greek and Hebrew, eight courses in the area of biblical studies, eight courses in theology and church history, seven courses in practical ministry (including two courses of supervised ministry), three electives and a minimum of six courses in Christian formation and discipleship as follows:

- Basic (at least 3 courses)
  - CF 500 Foundations for Christian Formation
  - CF 501 The Educational Ministry of the Church
  - CF 502 The Equipping Pastor
  - CF 505 Teaching the Bible
  - CF 507 Building Christian Community Through Small Groups
  - CF 509 Introduction to Human Development
  - CF 510 Ecology of Faith Development
  - CF 560 Adult Formation and Discipleship
  - GM 531 Women and Men in Ministry

- Specialized:
  - CF 504 Inductive Bible Study
  - CF 511 Moral Development and Education
  - CF 520 Curriculum Design and Development
  - CF 530 Basic Children's Ministry
  - CF 531 Children's Ministry Practicum
  - CF 536 Family and the Church
  - CF 537 Family and Church Practicum
  - CF 540 Youth Ministry
  - CF 544 Youth Outreach
  - CF 545 Campus Ministries
  - CF 561 Foundations for Lay Ministry
  - CF 566 Ministry to Single Adults
  - CF 580 Formation Seminar
  - CF 590 Directed Study in Christian Formation and Discipleship

Persons with a strong background in Christian education in their undergraduate work and students with particular goals for ministry may design an individualized Christian formation and discipleship program in consultation with department faculty members.

Cross-Cultural Studies. This area of concentration enables students to obtain a thorough knowledge of biblical, historical and theological studies as well as a foundation in the social and behavioral sciences which are basic to the task of mission. Combining the resources of the School of Theology and the School of World Mission, this degree program provides special preparation for future missionaries who will need an ordained status for overseas missionary work, as well as men and women who plan to accept short-term missionary assignments and then continue afterwards in church ministry. Persons who do not plan to go overseas but are highly committed to the missionary task and want the mission component as a part of their preparation for ministry, and those who anticipate ministries in the United States among ethnic groups different from their own will also receive specialized training.

The curriculum for the Master of Divinity, cross-cultural studies, consists of 25 courses (100 quarter hours) in biblical studies, theological studies and practical ministries, and 11 courses (44 quarter hours) in missiology. Normally a student will take eight courses in the School of Theology and four courses in the School of World Mission during each academic year.

The director of the Cross-Cultural Studies Program and a theology advisor will assist the student in selecting courses which will ensure a balance in theology and missiology.

The Master of Divinity, family pastoral care and counseling concentration is designed primarily to equip men and women for pastoral ministry, emphasizing theological foundations for family life and the spiritual resources of prayer, Bible study and Christian character.

This program integrates academic course work with practical training. The program consists of 36 courses (144 quarter hours), including four courses in Greek and Hebrew, eight courses in the area of biblical studies, eight courses in theology and church history, courses in practical ministry, three courses of supervised field work and a minimum of seven courses in family pastoral care and counseling from the following:

School of Theology (25 courses):
- Greek (3)
- Hebrew (1)
- Hermeneutics (1)
- New Testament (2)
- New Testament Theology (2)
- Old Testament (2)
- Church History (3)
- Systematic Theology (3)
- Ethics (1)
- Communications (2)
- Christian Formation (1)
- Counseling (1)
- Field Education (2)
- Pastoral Theology/Policy (1)

School of World Mission (11 courses):
- Theology of Mission (2)
- Anthropology (2)
- Evangelism and Church Growth (1)
- Language and Communication (2)
- Religions (2)
- History of the Expansion of Christianity (1)
- General Elective in Mission (1)

Family Pastoral Care and Counseling. The family pastoral care and counseling Master of Divinity concentration is designed primarily to equip men and women for pastoral ministry, emphasizing theological foundations for family life and the spiritual resources of prayer, Bible study and Christian character.

This program integrates academic course work with practical training. The program consists of 36 courses (144 quarter hours), including four courses in Greek and Hebrew, eight courses in the area of biblical studies, eight courses in theology and church history, courses in practical ministry, three courses of supervised field work and a minimum of seven courses in family pastoral care and counseling from the following:

- CN 500 Marriage and Family Counseling
- CN 520 Pastoral Counseling
- CN 522 Basic Counseling Skills
- CN 523 Intervention Counseling
- CF 536 Family and Church
- CF 509 Introduction to Human Development
- CF 510 Ecology of Christian Formation
- MF 540 Introduction to Marriage and Family Ministries
- PM 501 Theology of Pastoral Care
- PS 525 Psychology of the Family

Field work experiences will be concentrated in local churches or pastoral counseling centers where students will work under the supervision of a pastor and the director of the Family Pastoral Care and Counseling Program. Practical experience during the first year will be designed to expose students to all facets of general pastoral ministry with the second and third years focused on family ministries and pastoral counseling. Students will also take a course in clinical pastoral education in an approved mental hospital, general hospital or other facility.

The Master of Divinity, family pastoral care and counseling, is designed to be completed within three years. However, the program may be pursued on a part-time basis and students may choose to extend course work over a greater period of time.

Youth Ministries. The Institute of Youth Ministries offers a program of theological education with a concentration in youth ministries. The program of study integrates a foundation of biblical and theological studies with a prescribed concentration in evangelistic youth ministries, designed in cooperation with the Ministry Resources Department of Young Life. With the assistance of Institute personnel and theology advisors, this concentration may be incorporated into the Master of Divinity curriculum.

Although the Institute is designed primarily for persons preparing to serve on the staff of Young Life, other persons preparing for ministry with youth may pursue this concentration. A curriculum may be designed to meet individual needs for preparation in this area of ministry.

The curriculum for the Master of Divinity degree with a concentration in youth ministries will normally include the basic youth ministries courses and field education courses of the Institute of Youth Ministries within the framework of the Master of Divinity core and elective courses.

Courses toward the M.Div. with a concentration in youth ministries may be taken at the Pasadena campus and at the extension sites of the Institute of Youth Ministries. Field education courses in the Los Angeles area are arranged by resident IYM staff. Biblical-theological courses and youth ministry courses are offered on the summer and winter campuses of the IYM. In addition, students on the staff of Young Life may complete the field education courses in the context of their staff assignment.

Marriage and Family Ministries. The Master of Divinity degree concentration in marriage and family ministries prepares the student to meet the strictest requirements for ordination and simultaneously provides a concentration in ministry to the family. Flexibility within the curriculum allows one to prepare for a general pastorate in a local congregation, or a specialized ministry as a staff minister in the area of marriage and the family. The program, offered by the faculty of the School of Theology with the participation of selected faculty members from the School of Psychology, focuses on the preventive dimension of this ministry, and the growth and development of skilled marriage and family counselors.

Admission to the Master of Divinity program in marriage and family ministries requires, in addition to the established admission requirements for the M.Div. degree, a 3.0 grade point average and at least one year of work (36 quarter hours or 24 semester hours) in the behavioral sciences. Previous background or experience in counseling-related fields is highly recommended. When appropriate, a personal interview is included in the requirements for admission.

Advancement to the second year of the MFM program is granted in the spring quarter of the first year or when the student has completed the first year clinical sequence. This advancement is granted by the MFM
The Master of Arts degree in theological studies is designed for men and women who desire graduate work in theological education along with greater flexibility in the design of their educational experience. The Master of Arts degree is considered a first professional degree. Personal enrichment is often an aim of M.A. students. The degree also has flexibility in the design of their educational experience.

MASTER OF ARTS

The Master of Arts degree in theological studies is designed for men and women who desire graduate work in theological education along with greater flexibility in the design of their educational experience. The Master of Arts degree is considered a first professional degree. Personal enrichment is often an aim of M.A. students. The degree also has flexibility in the design of their educational experience.

Admission Requirements

- Transfer of Credit. By special request an applicant may be granted transfer credit for approved graduate study done elsewhere. This may include a maximum of 12 courses (48 quarter hours) of graduate theological and biblical studies or a maximum of six courses (24 quarter hours) in non-religious studies if they are appropriate to the field of concentration and are approved by the director of Academic Services.

- A two-year plan of study approved by an academic advisor.

- Field Education. While field experience is optional for this degree, it is highly recommended in order to complete one's preparation for service and future placement. For this degree, as many as six courses may be taken in a supervised practical service and study program to be planned with the field education department. Students applying for academic credit must fulfill all course requirements established by this department.

- Biblical Languages. Biblical languages are not required for the M.A. degree (with the exception of one track for the M.A. for psychology students and the pre-Ph.D. M.A.). Every student, however, is strongly advised to learn at least one biblical language since all theological education should be grounded on the Scriptures, the careful understanding of which is aided by a knowledge of the original languages. Also, a majority of the courses in biblical studies requires the knowledge of a biblical language.

Concentrations

Students may plan a general program of study for the Master of Arts degree that draws from the many components of theological education or they may elect to concentrate their studies in a specific area of the curriculum to meet their individual interests and needs. A concentration of studies may be planned in any area of the curriculum. For some areas, a prescribed concentration has been designed by the faculty. In other areas, students may design personalized concentra-
Christian Formation and Discipleship. The Master of Arts degree, Christian formation and discipleship is designed to prepare men and women for the educational and discipleship ministries of the church. Persons who desire graduate work in theological education but who do not wish to undertake the extended program ordinarily considered as essential background for ordination have the opportunity to complete a special concentration of courses designed for students with particular goals for ministry who may design an individualized program in consultation with faculty members in the CFD department. Practical learning experiences have been built into this program to provide opportunity to apply academic information to ministry settings.

Cross-Cultural Studies. This area of concentration is designed to prepare students for Christian ministry in cross-cultural situations. It provides a foundation for involvement in mission through biblical, historical and theological studies as well as through the social and behavioral sciences. Combining the resources of the School of Theology and the School of World Mission, this degree program provides special preparation for future missionaries; people in a variety of professions who hope to share their faith cross-culturally (e.g., educators, community development specialists, doctors, etc.); and those who anticipate ministries in the United States among ethnic groups different from their own.

The curriculum for the Master of Arts in cross-cultural studies consists of 24 courses divided evenly between the School of Theology and the School of World Mission as follows:

School of Theology (12 courses):
- Old Testament (2)
- New Testament (2)
- Church History (2)
- Theology and Ethics (2)
- Ministry (1)
- Electives (3)

School of World Mission (12 Courses):
- Theology of Mission (2)
- Anthropology (2)
- Evangelism and Church Growth (2)
- Language and Communication (2)
- Religions (1)
- History of the Expansion of Christianity (1)
- Electives (2)

The student may elect to acquire a specialization within the Master of Arts in cross-cultural studies. This option requires nine theology courses, nine missiology courses and six courses in the area of specialization. The area of specialization may be from either theology or missiology. Current specializations include church planting, anthropology, Christian Formation and Discipleship, language and culture learning, Bible translation, Asian Studies and Muslim Studies. Others may be arranged according to individual needs and interests.

Youth Ministries. The Institute of Youth Ministries offers a program of theological education leading to the professional Master of Arts degree with a concentration in youth ministries. The program of study integrates a foundation of biblical and theological studies with a prescribed concentration in evangelistic youth ministries, designed in cooperation with the Ministry Resources Department of Young Life.

Although the Institute is designed primarily for persons preparing to serve on the staff of Young Life, other persons preparing for ministry with youth may pursue this concentration. Institute personnel and theology advisors will help design a curriculum to meet individual needs for preparation in this area of ministry.

The curriculum for the Master of Arts degree with a concentration in evangelistic youth ministries consists of 12 courses in biblical and theological studies, and 12 specialized courses in youth ministries, including three to four field education courses under qualified supervision.

Fourteen specialized courses relating to ministry with youth have been designed in cooperation with Young Life, including such courses as:

- CF 507 Building Christian Community Through Small Groups
- CF 541 Adolescent Growth and Nature
- CF 543 Adolescent Culture and Psychology
- CF 544 Youth Outreach
- CN 522 Basic Counseling Skills
- CO 500 Communication
- EV 501 Theology of Incarnational Evangelism
- GM 547 Christianity and Urban Culture
- PM 521 Management Skills

Five field education courses are offered as practicums under the immediate supervision of the Institute of Youth Ministries. The courses are as follows:

- FE 514 Practicum: Contact and Club Work
- FE 515 Practicum: Area Strategy and Adult Ministry
- FE 516 Practicum: Discipleship
- FE 518 Practicum: Volunteer Leadership
- FE 519 Practicum: Troubled Youth

Courses toward the M.A. with a concentration in youth ministries may be taken at the Pasadena campus or at the extension sites of the Institute of Youth Ministries. The 24 courses required for the M.A. degree are offered at the Pasadena campus. Field education courses in the Los Angeles area are offered by resident IYM staff.

Biblical-theological courses and youth ministries are offered on the summer and winter campuses of the IYM. In addition, students on the staff of Young Life may complete the field education requirements in the immediate context of their staff assignment. A two-year concentration in ministry to troubled youth is offered in Colorado Springs and in Pasadena.

Marriage and Family Ministries. The Master of Arts degree concentration in marriage and family ministries is designed to equip men and women for ministry to the family. The program, offered by the faculty of the School of Theology with the participation of selected faculty from the School of Psychology, focuses on the preventive dimension of this ministry and the growth and development of skilled marriage and family counselors. Designed to be an extension of Christian ministry at both the church and the para-church levels, the program trains graduates for a vocation which is intended to be exercised within a responsible community of Christian service.

In addition to the established admission requirements, admission to the M.A. program in marriage and family ministries also requires a 3.0 grade point average and a least one year of work (36 quarter hours or 24 semester hours) in the behavioral sciences. Previous background or experience in counseling-related fields is highly recommended. When appropriate, a personal interview is included in the requirements for admission.

Advancement to the second year of the MFM program is granted in the spring quarter of the first year or when the student has completed the first year clinical sequence. This advancement is granted by the MFM faculty and is based on the candidate's appropriate personal and relational characteristics, demonstrated clinical competency and readiness, and academic performance as measured by overall grade-point average in courses taken at Fuller.

The curriculum of 28 courses (112 quarter hours) must be completed successfully for this degree. Six of these courses are in the area of biblical studies, six in theology and church history (three of which are specifically designed to integrate the disciplines of theology and marriage and family studies), one ministry elective, and 15 service courses in marriage and family ministries.

Of the 15 marriage and family courses, five are preventive, teaching the enhancement of positive family structure and function; five are correction courses, providing instruction in the treatment of marriage and family dysfunctions; one is a research course, which trains students in research design and methodologies; and four are practicum courses, designed to provide opportunity for observation and supervised direct client contact in clinical and church settings.

Semitic Languages and Literature. The faculty of the Old Testament Department has designed a prescribed concentration in Semitics for students who wish to pursue a career in Semitic scholarship. This concentration provides a general foundation for study of the Old Testament. Training in Biblical and theological disciplines is indispensable for the Semitic scholar to teach Old Testament in a university, college or seminary.

The general requirements for completion of the MA with this concentration include 24 courses as described... below. At least eight courses in Semitic studies must be taken in residence. The balance may be transferred from another institution, subject to examination in the courses to be transferred when appropriate.

In addition to the basic admission requirements for the M.A. degree, a basic course in Hebrew (three quarters or two semesters) and reading knowledge of one modern language (preferably German or French) are prerequisites for admission to this program. The modern language prerequisite may be met during the first quarter of residency. Students with an M.Div. degree may receive the M.A. with this concentration by completing 12 additional courses. This combined work must meet the above prerequisites and must include the required courses in Semitic languages.

The course requirements for the degree are as follows:

- Semitic Languages and Literature (12 courses)
  - Akkadian (2)
  - Arabic (2)
  - Advanced Hebrew Grammar and Reading (1)
  - Aramaic/Syriac (2)
  - Ugaritic (2)
  - Comparative Semitic Grammar (1)
  - Semitic electives (2)

- Biblical and Theological Studies (12 courses)
  - Students completing the M.A. in Semitics concentration who plan to apply for admission to the Seminary’s Ph.D. program in Old Testament should note that all required courses in Semitic languages.

Admission Requirements

Admission to the Doctor of Ministry Program is on the basis of high competence in theology and ministry, as well as motivation to do research in a recognized area of ministry.

Competence in theology may be demonstrated in having received a Master of Divinity degree (from an ATS-accredited school) with a balanced curriculum, including the recognized disciplines of biblical studies (normally with the original languages, Greek and Hebrew), the history of the Christian church, systematic theology and ethics, and studies in ministry. Normally a grade point average of at least 3.0 (4.0 equals A) is required.

Competence in ministry will be evaluated on the basis of at least two years in ministry after receiving the Master of Divinity degree. The candidate must have completed at least five years in ministry before being awarded the Doctor of Ministry degree.

The committee on admission evaluates applicants on the basis of transcript evidence, references and two statements by the applicant—one describing his or her experience in ministry, and one defining goals for participation in the degree program. The applicant must show growth and competence in church leadership and ministry skills.

Degree Requirements

The in-ministry/continuing education model of the Doctor of Ministry Program builds on the biblical, theological and professional foundations of an accredited M.Div. degree, providing advanced research in theology and ministry within the context of the candidate’s ministry.

The Doctor of Ministry degree requires the completion of 48 units of credit. Eight units of credit are assigned for completion of the dissertation or ministry project. The remaining 40 units are chosen from a schedule of specially designed seminars (eight units each) and courses (four units each). One four-unit course with a biblical or theological emphasis must be included, and each student’s program must include at least three seminars. Students may enroll for up to 24 units in one academic year. Completing the degree requirements in two to five years. Only B work and above will count toward satisfying graduation requirements (except that one B grade is allowed).

Each seminar or course has three components:

- A reading assignment which must be completed prior to classroom interaction (3,000 pages for a seminar and 1,500 pages for a course);

- A two-week intensive period of classroom interaction;

- An extensive post-session project which synthesizes reading and class work and applies them to the ministry situation.

Classroom activity is scheduled in two-week sessions during each of the four academic quarters to allow students to utilize their study and vacation leave for this continuing education program. Each applicant may design a program of study which best meets personal needs and vocational interests. Seminars meet for four hours each morning (8:00 a.m. - 12 noon, Monday through Friday) of the two-week session; courses meet for two hours each afternoon or evening. Students normally take both a seminar and a course (a total of 12 units) during one session.

Course Descriptions. The description of courses offered in support of the Doctor of Ministry degree program may be found in the "Courses of Study" section beginning on page 82.

Concentrations

The Doctor of Ministry degree is normally a generalist degree. However, in some cases, a student may wish to design a program of study with one primary focus of ministry. In several areas of study, it is possible to take up to 60 percent of the class work required—that is, 24 units or two seminars and two courses—in a given area. No more than 32 units may be concentrated in any one area of study. The remaining class work is chosen from the general curriculum according to individual needs and goals. Areas of concentration presently available include:

Church Growth. Courses available include Church Growth I: Principles and Procedures of Church Growth (8 units), American Church Growth: Research and Case Studies (4 units), Church Growth II: Anthropological and Historical Dimensions of Church Growth (8 units) and Theological Foundations of Church Growth (4 units). Emphasis is placed on both the practical methodologies and the theoretical base of church growth applied to the North American milieu.

Pastoral Care. Courses available include New Approaches to Pastoral Care and Counseling (8 units), The Laity as Counselors (4 units), and The Minister's Personal Growth and Skill Development (12 units) comprise this concentration. Focus in this area is on counselling on a practical level in a relational style, discerning the dynamic processes in life situations, planning effective therapeutic intervention within the church and handling some of the personal hazards that can arise.

Renewal/Evangelism. Classes and seminars available in this area include The Renewal of the Life and Mission of the Church (8 units), The Training of the Laity for Ministry (4 units), Building Christian Community Through Small Groups (8 units), Community Issues in First Corinthians (4 units), and Spirituality and Ministry (12 units).

Preaching/Worship. Coursework available includes Theology and Practice of Preaching (12 units).

Marriage and Family Ministries. Classes and seminars available in this area include Marriage and Family Ministries in the Local Church (12 units), New Approaches to Pastoral Care and Counseling (8 units), Training of the Laity as Counselors (4 units) and The Minister's Personal Growth and Skill Development (12 units). The coursework in this area includes an emphasis upon both the preventive (i.e., strengthening family life) and the corrective (i.e., counseling troubled families).

In addition, concentrations in Church Management and Christian Organizational Development are possible in cooperation with Fuller's Institute for Christian Organizational Development (see the section on Institutes in this catalog).

Dissertation or Ministry Project

Dissertation. The dissertation incorporates significant research, reading and class work done in connection with the seminars and courses, and builds a bridge between theological and practical understandings and a specific plan for the local church or other areas of ministry. The mentoring process for the development and writing of a dissertation involves tutoring in the basic principles of a theology of ministry as well as guided formulation of a dissertation topic and outline. This process is divided into two phases: 1) a tutorial in theology of ministry (open to first seminar students) that involves interaction and discussion based on the text, Theological Foundations for Ministry, edited by Ray S. Anderson, and 2) a tutorial on constructing and writing a dissertation project (open to students who have completed three seminars). Both tutorials of four class hours each are offered in conjunction with each two-week component and are provided as part of the dissertation fee.

Ministry Project. Doctor of Ministry students may elect to complete a supervised ministry project as an alternative to writing a dissertation. The project involves a plan of action which arises from the course of study in relationship to the needs of a person's congregation or organization and which is designed to yield results which can be measured and evaluated. Students who elect this option should declare their intentions by the end of the first 24 units of study, and submit a proposal in accordance with the guidelines established by the Doctor of Ministry Committee. They will work under the supervision of a resident faculty member.

Off-Campus Locations

In addition to the sessions on campus, classes and seminars are offered in Atlanta, Georgia; Cleveland, Ohio; Oklahoma City, Oklahoma; Seattle, Washington; and Honolulu, Hawaii. Twenty-four units may be taken at these off-campus locations; the remaining 24 units (including the dissertation or ministry project) must be taken on the Pasadena campus.

GRADUATE DEGREES

The Graduate Studies Program is intended to equip students for teaching and research in theological seminaries, colleges and universities throughout the world. Applicants should have a demonstrable academic gift and a Christian calling for a life of scholarly research, theological reflection and communication.

Working in close collaboration with a faculty mentor, participants must demonstrate facility in scholarly research and writing in the form of a dissertation, mas-
Admission Requirements

Required of all applicants to the Graduate Studies Program are the M.Div. degree or its equivalent (with a 3.0 overall grade point average for Th.M. applicants and a 3.5 grade point average in biblical and theological subjects for Ph.D. applicants), satisfactory qualifications in Hebrew and Greek (the equivalent of 12 quarter units each), and completion of the Graduate Record Examination (GRE) Aptitude Test—or, for students whose native language is not English, the Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL). For purposes of admission to this program, an M.A. degree is normally considered acceptable if it includes the basic Fuller M.Div. core requirements in biblical languages, biblical studies, church history and theology (as outlined on pages 42-45 of this catalog). A combined (verbal and quantitative) GRE score of 1050 is normally considered a minimum for entrance in this program, with first preference given to those with verbal scores in excess of 600. A TOEFL score of 600 is normally considered a minimum for admission for those who must take that exam.

Application for admission must be received by January 15. Application files, including transcripts, references and GRE or TOEFL scores, must be completed by February 15, and notification of a decision is given by April 15. During the application process, applicants are encouraged to make contact with faculty members with whom they would like to work, to discuss their interests, although the final appointment is made by the Graduate Studies Committee.

Financial aid covering part of the tuition cost is available to graduate students in the form of graduate assistantships, where remuneration is given for academic assistance offered to faculty members, and teaching fellowships, where advanced students are allowed to offer courses in the Seminary curriculum. Teaching fellowships in the biblical language program are also available to qualified students.

Doctor of Philosophy (Ph.D.) Degree

The degree is offered in the fields of Old Testament, New Testament, biblical studies, hermeneutics, historical theology, systematic theology, philosophical theology, and marriage and family ministries. The following sections apply to those majoring in the biblical and theological disciplines; the major in marriage and family ministries is described separately below.

Graduate Seminars. Under the guidance of the primary mentor, who is a professor appointed from the major field, and with the approval of the Graduate Studies Committee, the student designs a program of nine eight-unit graduate seminars.

In all majors except biblical studies and hermeneutics, five seminars are to be selected from the major field and normally two seminars from each of the two minors. Biblical studies majors take all none seminars in Old and New Testament, with at least three seminars in each of these two fields. Hermeneutics majors take three seminars in the major field and three seminars in each of the two minors.

Minor fields of study, in addition to those listed above, may include Semitics (for students who have a special interest in this field or need work in this area to meet the Old Testament requirement), intertestamental period, and, by permission of the Graduate Studies Committee, missiology.

All seminars selected must contribute to the dissertation topic or the areas of the comprehensive examination.
A second mentor, not necessarily chosen from the major field, is appointed to provide further supervision. When four seminars have been completed, the Graduate Studies Committee will evaluate the student’s progress to see whether he or she should continue in the program or seek an alternative course of study.

Language Requirements. Students must demonstrate knowledge of Latin and a pertinent modern foreign language (normally German or French) by examination within one calendar year of acceptance and prior to beginning course work. Evidence of competence in a second modern foreign language must be shown before the fifth seminar is taken. Students majoring in Old Testament must also demonstrate competence in biblical Aramaic (as a prerequisite; it may be substituted for Latin, if Latin is not needed for dissertation research), and in Akkadian and either Ugaritic or Arabic (which may be achieved through a Semitics minor as part of the doctoral program).

Comprehensive Examinations. After all course work is completed and before the final writing of the dissertation, students are required to take five comprehensive examinations, the successful completion of which admits them to candidacy. In all majors except biblical studies and hermeneutics, students must select three examinations in their major and one examination in each of the two minors. Biblical studies majors take three examinations in the biblical field in which the majority of seminars is taken, and two examinations in the other biblical field. Hermeneutics majors take at least two examinations in their major and divide the remaining examinations between the two minors. The examinations are normally given twice a year—during the third and fourth weeks of October and the first two weeks of April. The areas of examination are listed in the Graduate Student Handbook.

Dissertation. A scholarly dissertation must be presented and approved as the final requirement for graduation.

- The dissertation topic should normally be selected at the outset of the program in consultation with the primary mentor and with the approval of the Graduate Studies Committee.
- Where necessary, the dissertation should involve the use of the required languages, as well as incorporate the results of the intensive course work and the more general reading for the comprehensive examinations.
- The primary and second mentors will act as supervisors in the preparation of the dissertation.
- The length of the dissertation is limited to 90,000 words, or roughly 350 pages, including text and notes.
- There will be three examiners: the primary mentor, the second mentor and an external examiner appointed by the Graduate Studies Committee with the assent of the School of Theology faculty.
- Three copies of the dissertation, prepared in as presentable a form as possible and approved by the primary mentor, are to be made available for examination no later than January 31 of the year of graduation.
- The candidate must submit to an oral examination of the dissertation if any examiner so requests.
- Extensive changes or rewriting may be demanded as a condition of acceptance.
- By May 15 of the year of graduation, one final copy (on 100 percent rag paper) is to be presented to the Graduate Office for binding, and one additional copy which will be sent to University Microfilms International.

Additional information may be found in the Graduate Student Handbook.

Normally eight years are allowed for completion of the degree. Students may transfer to the Th.M. program without loss of credit.

Ph.D. Program in Marriage and Family Ministries

The Ph.D. in marriage and family ministries is an academic degree designed to prepare persons to conduct research, write, and teach in the area of marriage and family ministry. The program aims to provide an understanding of family and social systems from a theological and sociological perspective.

Admission to the program requires that a student have earned the Master of Divinity degree with a concentration in marriage and family ministries from Fuller Theological Seminary, or an equivalent degree, with a 3.5 overall grade-point average. Applicants with other degrees or lacking the concentration in marriage and family ministries must satisfy equivalency requirements (see the core course listing for the M.Div. degree, pages 42-43, and the requirements for the marriage and family ministries concentration in the M.Div., pages 46-47).

The program requires the completion of a core curriculum of six eight-unit graduate seminars in marriage and family, and 24 units from a minor area concentration. Flexibility is allowed for each student to create a minor area concentration by taking graduate level seminars, courses, or tutorials in any of Fuller’s three graduate schools or qualified graduate level programs at other colleges, seminaries or universities. The creation of such minor areas is dependent upon the availability of suitable graduate instruction in the proposed minor area, relevance to the dissertation topic, and the approval of the student’s Ph.D. committee and the Graduate Studies Committee. Proficiency must be demonstrated in Greek and Hebrew and two or more research languages, including modern languages, statistics, or computer languages, as appropriate to the candidate’s academic goals. Further requirements include written comprehensive exams, a preliminary oral exam, the completion of a scholarly dissertation, and the final defense of the dissertation before two faculty members and an external examiner.

Further details concerning this degree program are available from the Marriage and Family Ministries Program or the Graduate Studies Office.

Special and Cooperative Programs

Fuller Theological Seminary is committed to meeting the needs of churches and of those who seek to serve them. In the School of Theology, a number of special institutes, programs and cooperative relationships have been developed which seek to make the resources of theological education available to those engaged in work and ministry, and to gather educational resources to focus on specific needs of churches and of those preparing for specialized ministries. To accomplish this, these various special and cooperative programs:

- Employ alternate systems for the delivery of education, such as extension classes, convocations, seminars, symposiums and workshops;
- Join theology with other disciplines to address specific areas of ministry, such as ministry to youth, cross-cultural ministries and marriage and family ministries;
- Utilize the professional expertise of para-church ministries, such as Young Life;
- Make non-degree study available to those involved in ministry.

The marriage and family ministries concentration is devoted to the growth and development of skilled marriage and family counselors.

The Marriage and Family Ministries Program is an expression of the function of theological education to train persons for ministry to the family. The program affirms the importance of the institution of the family in the Kingdom of God and commits itself to a ministry of building the church through strengthening its families. Consonant with this concern, the primary focus of the program is upon the preventive dimension of ministry to families which is shaped by the authority of God's Word and the insights of the social and behavioral sciences.

The program also combines the resources of the School of Theology and selected faculty from the School of Psychology into a secondary focus on the counseling or corrective phase of ministry to the family. This aspect is devoted to the growth and development of skilled marriage and family counselors.

The marriage and family ministries concentration may be accomplished within the Master of Divinity degree program as well as the Master of Arts degree program. A Ph.D. degree in the field is also offered through the Graduate Studies program of the School of Theology.

This program is designed to be an extension of Christian ministry at both the church and the parachurch levels. Graduates receive training for a vocation which is intended to be exercised within a responsible community of Christian service.

It should be noted that the Marriage and Family Ministries Program emphasizes a "ministry" or "community" model. The program does not seek primarily to train counselors who will function independently as private practitioners. The curriculum does, however, follow the suggested model curriculum of the American Association for Marriage and Family Therapy (AAMFT) for a graduate degree in marriage and family therapy.

In some states, such as California, either a Master of Arts degree in marriage and family ministries or the Master of Divinity degree with a concentration in marriage and family ministries is acceptable as an equivalent academic degree applicable toward the professional Marriage, Family and Child Counseling License. The practicum training in the program applies toward the necessary directed training required for that license.

Admission to the Master of Arts or Master of Divinity with a concentration in marriage and family ministries requires, in addition to the established admission standards for these degree programs, a 3.0 grade point average and at least one year of work (36 quarter hours or 24 semester hours) in social and behavioral sciences.

Students should apply to the program by February 15 of the year preceding fall matriculation. Application files are reviewed after March 15 of each year, with decisions announced by April 15. Students applying after these dates will be considered for the program only when space permits. Entrance into the program is in the fall quarter of each year.

Specific curricular information on the marriage and family ministries concentration in both M.Div. and M.A. degrees can be found under the sections of these degree programs.

MARRIAGE AND FAMILY MINISTRIES PROGRAM

The Cross-Cultural Studies Program exists to prepare men and women for ministry in cross-cultural situations. This program provides a foundation for involvement in mission through biblical, historical and theological studies as well as through the social and behavioral sciences. A curriculum in cross-cultural studies has been designed for both the Master of Arts and the Master of Divinity degree programs. Combining the resources of the School of Theology and the School of World Mission, this program provides preparation for:

- Future missionaries;
- Men and women who plan to accept short-term missionary assignments and continue afterwards in church ministry;
- Persons who do not plan to go overseas but are highly committed to the missionary task and want the mission component as a part of their preparation;
- People in a variety of professions who hope to share their faith cross-culturally;
- Those who anticipate ministries in the United States among ethnic groups different from their own.

CROSS-CULTURAL STUDIES PROGRAM

The Cross-Cultural Studies Program at Fuller Theological Seminary is designed to meet the needs of those involved in cross-cultural ministry. The program provides an interdisciplinary approach to the study of the Bible and provides an awareness of the cultural and historical contexts for the development of theology and the insights of the biblical text. The program is designed to equip Christians for ministry in diverse cultural settings, enabling them to understand and communicate effectively in multicultural situations. This program is intended to be exercised within a responsible community of Christian service.

It should be noted that the Cross-Cultural Studies Program emphasizes a "ministry" or "community" model. The program does not seek primarily to train counselors who will function independently as private practitioners. The curriculum does, however, follow the suggested model curriculum of the American Association for Marriage and Family Therapy (AAMFT) for a graduate degree in marriage and family therapy.

Specific curricular information on the marriage and family ministries concentration in both M.Div. and M.A. degrees can be found under the sections of these degree programs.
Faculty, academic advisors and the director of the Cross-Cultural Studies Program will help tailor the program to individual goals for ministry and to the specific geographic area of service. To facilitate this, specializations may be developed within the Master of Arts curriculum in cross-cultural studies as needed. The area of specialization may be from either theology or missiology.

CHRISTIAN FORMATION AND DISCIPLESHIP PROGRAM

The Christian Formation and Discipleship Program at Fuller Theological Seminary exists to help develop persons for the educational and discipleship ministries of the church. The program affirms the importance of enabling all members of the church—adults, youth and children—to become knowledgeable, equipped and loving disciples of Jesus Christ, serving him in all of life as responsible members of his church. The program seeks to prepare pastors and teachers “to equip the saints for the work of ministry” (Ephesians 4:11-12). Because of this focus on the teaching/equipping ministries of the church, the program is designed for:

- The pastor who wishes to develop understanding and skill as a teacher in the congregation.
- The person who wishes to specialize in the educational and discipleship ministries of the church.
- The para-church worker or layperson who wishes to develop competencies in the area of helping persons come to Christian maturity.

Admission into full participation in the Christian Formation and Discipleship Program is possible in both the M.A. and M.Div. degree programs. The M.A. in theology with a concentration in Christian formation and discipleship involves eight courses in CFD taken in a specified pattern, four additional ministry courses, and 12 courses in theology and Bible. The concentration within the M.Div. program involves at least six courses in CFD, in addition to a specified pattern of courses in ministry, languages, theology and Bible. The concentration in CFD, in addition to a specified pattern of courses in ministry, languages, theology and Bible.

FAMILY PASTORAL CARE AND COUNSELING PROGRAM

The Master of Divinity, family pastoral care and counseling, enables students to obtain a strong foundation in biblical, historical and theological studies while focusing on the nurture and guidance of individuals and families. Students are prepared to meet educational requirements for ordination while developing competence in the care of those who are alienated or abandoned by families, in the alleviation of distress in marital and family conflict, in the mobilization of resources in the church for family strength and in the utilization of community resources for referral purposes. This program, which is designed primarily to equip men and women for pastoral ministry, emphasizes theological foundations for family life and the spiritual resources of prayer, Bible study and Christian character.

Competency-based education and supervision in a clinical setting will guide the concentration of courses for each student. Through consultation with an academic advisor and the director of the Family Pastoral Care Program each student will determine the courses which best prepare him or her for ministry.

Information on the curriculum for this program can be found under the Master of Divinity degree program section.

THEOLOGICAL STUDIES PROGRAM FOR BLACK AND HISPANIC MINISTERS

In 1972 a new Theological Studies Program for Black Ministers was begun for those who had not had the opportunity to earn a baccalaureate degree. Entrance into this program requires significant involvement in the church’s ministry for five or more years and the applicant has to be at least 35 years of age.

In 1974 an Hispanic Committee, founded and initially sponsored by the Association of Theological Schools, recommended the establishment of a similar program for Hispanic ministers.

Each of these programs has an ethnic admissions committee. Upon recommendation of this committee, the applicant is accepted as a special non-degree student, and upon satisfactory completion of 12 courses, he or she is eligible to receive a Certificate of Achievement. At this time the respective advisory committee determines whether the student is to be recommended for official admission into the M.A. program.

A special concentration in community leadership is an integral part of the M.A. program for ethnic pastors. Ministers studying in the program take 12 courses in biblical and theological areas and 12 courses related to their roles as community leaders. This community leadership concentration draws upon the skills of both resident faculty and leadership resources in urban settings.

El Programa de Estudios Teológicos para ministros hispánnos ha sido diseñado para fortalecer y animar en su preparación teológica a cristianos maduros ya comprometidos en alguna fase significante del ministerio. Es un programa de educación continua para personas cuyos dones y llamamiento han sido comprobados por la iglesia, pero que no han completado un programa universitario.

Los solicitantes a este programa tendrán una entrevista personal con miembros del Comité Asesor Hispano. Este comité consiste de líderes hispanos de esta región, invitados por el Presidente David Allan Hubbard para aprobar solicitudes de admisión, y resources available in several extension areas in response to the church's need for an equipped and mobilized laity. Laypersons, future pastors and pastors learn together in this graduate program.

Admission Requirements. The School of Theology Extended Education Program requires of degree candidates a baccalaureate degree from an accredited college/university, or its equivalent, official transcripts from all post-secondary institutions attended, completed reference forms, and a non-refundable application fee.

It should be understood that admission to Fuller depends on factors beyond the applicant's academic record. These include theological development, Christian experience, spiritual growth, call to service and gifts for ministry. Men and women of God are qualified for Christian ministry by faith, moral character, experience and academic achievement. Such people are characterized by compassion for individual persons, by sensitivity to the needs of the total community, by a burden that the whole of God's will be obeyed on earth, by a readiness to accept correction, by a desire for moral growth, by personal integrity, and, above all, by a mature trust in Jesus Christ as the foundation of life and ministry.

Specific requirements for entering degree programs are given within each degree program section in this catalog.

Curriculum. Courses offered in extension on a quarterly basis are equivalent to those offered at the Pasadena campus. Full-time faculty and local adjunct professors provide instruction. Courses are taught on weeknights or weekends in local facilities, and library resources are arranged.

Field Education. The Fuller Extended program offers supervised field experiences for credit to those students desiring opportunities for practical application of academic information. Courses may be taken in a practical setting as outlined by Extended Education publications and administrated by the area director.

Program Opportunities

Students with no particular degree or certificate objectives are welcomed and encouraged to enroll. Full-time students on the Pasadena campus may find it helpful to take courses through Extended Education.

Degree Programs. A student may earn the Master of Arts degree in extension centers in Seattle, Washington; San Francisco, California; and Orange County, California. This degree requires the successful completion of 24 courses in the areas of ministry, theological, biblical studies and field education. All requirements for the Master of Arts degree may be met in the above locations. Extension courses are also offered in Portland, Oregon; Phoenix, Arizona; and Monterey; Santa Barbara/Ventura and San Diego Counties, California. In all locations, courses completed in extension may be applied toward the M.A. or M.Div. degree upon admission to that program on the Fuller campus.

The Master of Divinity degree program is available
The School of Divinity offers a wide range of degree programs designed to equip theologically trained professionals for ministry in the local context. The ambition is to form leaders of moral integrity and deep spiritual experience, inspired by the reality of God's presence in Christ as the foundational experience for entering the degree programs.

For entering degree programs each degree program offers a unique set of requirements and a distinct trajectory leading to ordination. The Fuller Seminary program includes experiences in cultural immersion, community for ministry formation, and project work. Courses are offered in a variety of formats, including online, hybrid, and in-person. The Fuller Seminary experience is designed to prepare students for leadership in a variety of contexts.

The Seattle M.Div. program has the following distinctive:

- It requires a person to be in at least a part-time ministry, thereby facilitating integration of theological education.
- It provides for a continuing community of peers, pastors and professors who meet regularly (participation is required of students in the M.Div. program).
- It allows a person to take as few as four courses per year while in ministry. A student may also pursue this program full-time in Seattle.
- It provides for local advising by the director of Seattle extension, thereby giving students valuable and official on-site assistance in developing their M. Div. programs.
- It requires a person to be in at least a part-time ministry, thereby facilitating integration of theological education.

Additional information is available from the Seattle Extended Education Office.

Certificate of Graduate Studies. The Certificate of Graduate Studies signifies the successful completion of 12 courses in extension in the areas of ministry, theology, biblical studies and field education.

Administration

The assistant dean for Extended Education has offices on the Pasadena campus. A local coordinating board assists in providing leadership for each extension center. Requests for further information may be addressed to the area director in the following extension centers.

INSTITUTE OF YOUTH MINISTRIES

The Institute of Youth Ministries was established in 1977 to combine the theological resources of the School of Theology with the youth ministries and field training expertise of Young Life Campaign, a leading national evangelical Christian outreach to high school youth. The purposes of the Institute are:

- To provide an educational program in evangelistic youth ministries that integrates classroom study with extensive field training;
- To conduct ongoing training programs for those in evangelistic youth ministries, with particular attention to preparation for ministry on the staff of Young Life; and
- To encourage research in the field of evangelistic youth ministries.

The Institute of Youth Ministries offers a program of theological education leading to the professional Master of Arts degree or the Master of Divinity degree with a concentration in youth ministries. The program of study integrates a foundation of biblical and theological studies with a prescribed concentration in evangelistic youth ministries, designed in cooperation with the Ministry Resources Department of Young Life.

Although the Institute is designed primarily for persons preparing to serve on the staff of Young Life, other persons preparing for ministry with youth may pursue this concentration. Institute personnel and theology advisors will help design a curriculum to meet individual needs for preparation in this area of ministry.

Courses leading to a degree with a concentration in youth ministries may be taken at the Pasadena campus or at the extension sites of the Institute of Youth Ministries. Field education courses in the Los Angeles area are arranged by resident IYM staff. Biblical-theological courses and youth ministries courses are offered in Pasadena and on the summer campus of the IYM in Holland, Michigan. These courses are open to all Fuller students as space is available. In addition, students on the staff of IYM may complete the field education courses in the immediate context of their staff assignments. A two-year concentration in ministry to troubled youth is offered in Colorado Springs and Pasadena.

INSTITUTE FOR CHRISTIAN ORGANIZATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

The Institute for Christian Organizational Development was established in 1981 to address the need for management training designed specifically for the Christian leader. The Institute offers graduate level training seminars and short-term workshop experiences in various management areas. The basic Institute curriculum is offered on two tracks, one for pastors leading to a concentration in church management within the Doctor of Ministry program, and one for executives, leading to a concentration in Christian Organizational Development in the M.A. or D.Min. degrees.

Further information may be found in the Institutes section of this catalog.
STUDY IN ISRAEL

Recognizing the significance of the first-hand study of the history and geography of the Holy Land, Fuller sponsors from time to time a summer program of travel and study in Israel. A typical program includes four weeks of lectures and field study, with an optional additional three weeks that includes work in an archaeological dig and travel in Egypt and Jordan. Elective credit (four or eight credits) may be arranged.

Elective credit is also available for certain courses taken at the American Institute of Holy Land Studies in Jerusalem.

The Westwood Christian Foundation sponsors a flexible program of biblical and theological studies in cooperation with Fuller Theological Seminary, Emmanuel School of Religion, Milligan College, Pacific Christian College and the University of California at Los Angeles (UCLA). Classes meet at the Westwood Hills Christian Church across from the UCLA campus. Fuller students may arrange through their academic advisor to take courses for credit through the Foundation.

Courses of Study

This section contains descriptions of the courses which constitute the curriculum of the School of Theology. This curriculum is subject to change through normal academic channels. Changes in course offerings and course content are initiated by the appropriate departments, divisions or programs and approved by the academic dean. A schedule of courses and expanded course descriptions are published in advance of each quarter. The information in these publications supersedes the information in this catalog.

The following key designates the departmental prefixes, course numbering system and common abbreviations used in the School of Theology.

Prefix indicates:

CF Christian Formation and Discipleship
CH Church History and Historical Theology

Master of Divinity and Master of Arts

The following courses are offered in support of the Master of Divinity and Master of Arts programs in the School of Theology.

LANGUAGE STUDIES

The teaching of Hebrew and Greek is under the supervision of the Old Testament and New Testament Departments. The beginning courses are taught by Graduate Teaching Fellows—graduate students pursuing the Th.M. or Ph.D. degrees who are committed to the teaching and use of Greek and Hebrew. Further assistance is provided each quarter by tutors.

Biblical Hebrew. A reading knowledge of biblical Hebrew is a prerequisite for many of the Old Testament core courses for the M.Div. degree. Reading knowledge means a knowledge of Hebrew vocabulary and grammar that is sufficient to begin exegetical work in the Old Testament. LG502 Beginning Hebrew, an intensive course (12 units) designed to give a student this ability through an inductive study of the text of Esther, is offered most quarters including the summer. It is also offered in a less intensive format over three quarters, beginning in the fall. Students who have already acquired a knowledge of biblical Hebrew, either by course work or self-study, may meet this requirement by passing a reading evaluation examination in biblical Hebrew. This exam will be arranged upon request.
Students in the M.Div. program with a low to moderate language aptitude may be counseled to meet the M.Div. core Hebrew requirement through a less intensive course. A four-unit course, LG500, is offered every quarter (including the summer). This course is designed to provide a basic understanding of the Hebrew language and an ability to use exegetical tools. This course alone is sufficient to meet the M.Div. core requirement in Hebrew, and will meet the requirement for most core courses and core equivalents that have a Hebrew prerequisite. It should be noted, however, that a significant number of the Old Testament core courses, core equivalents and elective courses do have the 12-unit course LG502 as a prerequisite.

New Testament Greek. A reading knowledge of New Testament Greek is a prerequisite for most of the New Testament courses in the M.Div. and D.Min. programs.

Reading knowledge means a knowledge of Greek vocabulary and grammar that is sufficient to begin exegetical work in the New Testament. LG512 Beginning Greek, an intensive course (12 units), designed to give a student this ability, is offered each quarter, including the summer. It is also offered in a less intensive format over three quarters, beginning in the fall.

A four-hour course, LG510 An Introduction to Greek, will be offered each year for students in the M.A. program. This course is designed to introduce the student to the Greek language and to give an ability to use important exegetical resources. This course will not meet the requirements for graduation in the M.Div. or D.Min. programs.

Students who have already acquired a knowledge of New Testament Greek, either by course work or by self-study, may meet this requirement by passing the Greek Entrance Examination, which is given at an announced time at the beginning of each quarter. The examination is designed to test the student’s ability to read and translate the New Testament in Greek, to recognize and identify common words and forms, and to explain the more common syntactical constructions. Students who pass this exam receive a waiver for the triple course (12 units) requirement in New Testament Greek in the M.Div. curriculum and may substitute electives of their choice. Passing of the exam also meets the Greek prerequisite for New Testament courses requiring Greek. In any case, no credit is granted for passing the exam.

In order to help students ascertain their level of competency and areas of weakness, a trial examination comparable in scope, difficulty and format to the entrance exam is made available to the applicant for self-administration. Upon acceptance by the admissions committee, the student will receive instructions concerning this exam. The exam will be mailed when requested by the student. An answer key is provided with the exam so that the student may grade the exam and determine the areas where review or further study is needed.

The Divided Course Option. Normally, LG502 and LG512 will also be offered as divided courses, spread over three quarters for four units per quarter. This option is provided for part-time students, students with low language aptitude, those whose schedules preclude taking the intensive course, those who wish to extend their study of Greek or Hebrew over a longer period of time, or those who wish to take other classes at the same time. Beginning Greek is also offered in Spanish over two quarters (LG514 and LG515, six units each).

LG 500 Introduction to Hebrew I. A four-unit course designed to provide a basic understanding of the Hebrew language and an ability to use exegetical resources. Although LG500 satisfies the Hebrew requirement (HEB) for the M.Div. degree, it may not be sufficient for Old Testament courses that have a Hebrew prerequisite.

LG 502 Beginning Hebrew. The elements of the Hebrew language taught inductively from the text of Esther, together with a brief introduction to the principles of exegesis using other biblical texts. LG502 is a triple course (12 units) and will satisfy the Hebrew requirement (HEB) for both the M.Div. and D.Min. degrees. Offered as a one-quarter intensive course or over three quarters.

LG 506 Advanced Hebrew. A study of Hebrew grammar or exegesis. May be repeated once for credit. Prerequisite: LG502. Elective. Bush

LG 507 Hebrew Reading. Readings from Old Testament narrative passages and poetry designed to enable students to read extended passages with facility and understanding. Prerequisite: LG502. Elective. Gaebelein

LG 510 Introduction to Greek. An introduction to the Greek language designed to provide a basic understanding of New Testament Greek. This course will not satisfy the Greek requirement (GRK) for the M.Div. or D.Min. program.

LG 512 Beginning Greek. The elements of New Testament Greek vocabulary, morphology and grammar, along with concentrated experience in reading from the Greek New Testament. LG512 is a triple course (12 units) and will satisfy the Greek requirement (GRK) for both M.Div. and D.Min. degrees. Offered as a one-quarter intensive course or over three quarters.

LG 514 Griego I. The content of LG512, offered in a two-quarter sequence in the form of LG514 and LG515 (six units each), taught in Spanish. The two courses together (12 units total) will satisfy the Greek requirement (GRK) for both M.Div. and D.Min. degrees. Prerequisite: Spanish Canals

LG 515 Griego II. See LG514.

LG 516 Advanced Greek. A study of the exegetically significant categories of Greek grammar and the resources available for understanding these categories. Attention is given to significant New Testament texts involving grammatical questions, and to the place of grammar in exegesis. Prerequisite: LG512. Elective. Kiefer

LG 517 Greek Reading. Selected readings in biblical Greek designed to enable students to read extended passages with facility. Course can be repeated one time for credit as LG518. Prerequisite: LG512. Elective.

LG 518 Greek Reading. Same course as LG517 but with a different selection of readings. Course can be repeated one time for credit as LG517. Elective.

FIELD EDUCATION

Students desiring to receive credit for field education must complete a preparatory workshop and enroll with the Office of Field Education, which coordinates approved positions in churches or other organizations. Completion of nine months of supervised field service in a church setting, as well as seminars designated for the course, yields four units of core credit. A second course, either nine months part-time or ten weeks full-time in a setting approved by the Office of Field Education is required for the M.Div. degree, and may be taken for four units of elective credit or for zero units credit. Students and their respective pastors and/or supervisors must complete quarterly evaluation reports and submit them to the Office of Field Education. These are not only essential for credit, but they also provide a balanced picture of the student’s service nd become a part of the student’s permanent seminary file. At the request of the student, these reports will be forwarded to designated authorities to meet the requirements of certain denominations.

NOTE: All of the following Field Education courses are graded only on a “Credit/No Credit” basis.

FE 501 Nine-Month Church Internship. A planned, supervised and evaluated practical experience for nine months in a church setting with pastoral supervision leading to the development of competency in all areas of ministry. Prerequisite: Any five M.Div. core courses. M.Div.: Core: MIN 7.

FE 502 Full-time Church Internship. Full-time, planned, supervised and evaluated practical experience with a pastor in a church. Elective

FE 503 Church Internship. A part-time or full-time advanced, practical experience in a church under supervision of a pastor. Prerequisite: FE 501. Elective

FE 504 Community Internship. A directed, supervised and evaluated practical experience in a specialized area of ministry outside the parish ministry of the local church. Elective

FE 505 Campus Internship. A directed, supervised and evaluated practical experience in ministry on a high school or college campus or in summer camp. This experience may or may not be directly connected to the local church. Elective

FE 506 On-Campus Internship. A directed, supervised and evaluated practical experience in ministry centered on the Fuller campus. This course includes credit for internships in the Office of Christian Community and the Office of Student Concerns. Elective.
Doctor of Ministry

The following seminars and courses, offered in support of the Doctor of Ministry program, are held both on the Pasadena campus and in off-campus locations (Atlanta, Georgia; Cleveland, Ohio; Oklahoma City, Oklahoma; Honolulu, Hawaii; and Seattle, Washington).

CF 711 Building Christian Community Through Small Groups (8 units). This seminar focuses on the birth, care and feeding of Christian small groups, particularly as they function in the life of a local congregation. A variety of types of groups will be studied including neighborhood Bible studies, personal support and sharing groups, task action groups including committees, and accountability groups. Philosophies of small group ministry will be explored, along with strategies for beginning groups and maintaining them in a church, training leaders and the dynamics of small group interaction. Hestenes

CF 720 Spirituality and Ministry (12 units). This session seeks to explore the dynamics of the spiritual life both as related to the pastor’s own life of faith and prayer and to the pastor’s role of spiritual leadership in the congregation. Emphasis will be given to the participant’s own spiritual pilgrimage, leading others in their spiritual pilgrimage, spiritual issues in a ministry context, and the development of spiritual disciplines personally and congregationally. Includes small groups, giving and receiving spiritual direction, research and reading. Involves assignments in the ministry setting in addition to work on campus. Hestenes

NOTE: With the exception of FE506, all the above courses are also offered in the Extended Education Program.

FE 507 Mission Internship. A directed, supervised and evaluated practical experience on the local or foreign mission field or in other cross-cultural situations. Elective.

FE 508 Teaching-Counseling Internship. A directed, supervised, practical experience in ministry in a school setting or a counseling service. Elective.

FE 509 Clinical Pastoral Internship. A directed, supervised, practical experience with a chaplain in a hospital. Elective.

FE 511 Part-Time Church Internship. A planned, supervised and evaluated part-time practical experience within a church setting. Elective.

FE 514 Practicum: Contact and Club Work. Practicum in the basic methods of evangelistic youth outreach emphasizing the development of personal relationships with young people and the relevant forms of group ministry in the “neutral setting” of the Young Life Club. Elective.

FE 515 Practicum: Area Strategy and Adult Ministry. Practicum in the development and implementation of a strategy for Young Life ministry in an area including contact with relevant institutions and agencies, committee development and establishment of a support base. Elective.

FE 516 Practicum: Discipleship. A supervised practical training with adolescents, emphasizing nurture of new Christians, basic methods of Bible study and spiritual formation. Elective.

FE 518 Practicum: Volunteer Leadership. Practicum with seminars in the recruitment, training and ongoing enabling of adult volunteers for outreach ministries to youth. Elective.

FE 523 Church Leadership Development. A directed study connected with a student's work in a congregation in development of leadership skills in lay ministry under supervision. Offered only in extension. Elective.

FE 546 Clinical Pastoral Training. Orientation and experience in a general or mental hospital under the supervision of a hospital chaplain. Elective. Southard

FE 590 Directed Study in Field Education.

CN 703 New Approaches to Pastoral Care and Counseling (8 units). This seminar will help the minister to discern the dynamic processes in life situations; to deal creatively and constructively with conflict and change; and to preach, teach and counsel prior to and during crisis experiences. W. Becker

CN 705 The Minister's Personal Growth and Skill Development (12 units). This seminar will examine these skills as they pertain to the mental health of the minister. It is designed to assist the minister in identifying the areas of personal potential weakness and to provide resources for dealing with these problems. Emphasis will be given to aspects of the minister’s personal and family life, roles and role conflicts, problems of anger, depression, assertiveness and relationships, as well as techniques for self-modifying behavior. A. Hart

CN 728 The Laity as Counselor (4 units). This course will present the history, theory and practice of a youth fellow program in which laity share with church staff in all phases of pastoral care and counseling. The pastor is presented as a player-coach who trains and directs church officers in pastoral ministries. A church participation index for the evaluation of spiritual development and church participation will also be presented. Southard

EV 706 The Renewal of the Life and Mission of the Church (8 units). This seminar will deal with some of the biblical aspects of the nature of the church and forms of congregational life which appear to be conducive to renewal and missions. Among the subjects considered will be the personal renewal of the pastor, renewal through the mutuality of the members of Christ’s body for growth and ministry, the Holy Spirit as divine Enabler, and mobilizing the local congregation for ministry. Finney

EV 715 The Training of the Laity for Ministry (4 units). This course presents the biblical and theological basis for the enlisting and training of lay people for outreach. The minister will be helped to design a program for training and equipping the members of the body of Christ in identifying their gifts for ministry. Finney, Machales

LG 712 Fundamentals of Biblical Exegesis (8 units). This seminar is offered in a two-week intensive model. Pre-seminar assignments and a post-seminar project are required. The exegetical component will be based on the use of Greek language skills and will fulfill the Master of Divinity equivalency requirement for New Testament Greek for D.Min. students. Provence

MF 722 Marriage and Family Ministries in the Local Church (12 units). This session is designed to provide religious leaders with both a philosophy and methodology for a ministry to families in the local church. Relevant Scripture and current theory and research in the social and behavioral sciences are combined into a comprehensive approach to the family as it develops through its life cycle from the premarital stage to retirement and aging; includes discussion of the issues pertaining to the single person and the single parent as they relate to the local church. Guernsey

MF 724 Building Strong Families Through the Local Church (12 units). This session will focus on the factors which are important in developing strong family life. Topics addressed will be communication and expressiveness in family interaction, family problem solving and decision making, family power issues, parenting issues, stress and crises management in the family, issues of the divorced, single parent and step-families, flexibility in sex roles, and maintaining healthy regard for each member's sexuality. The development of the parent-child bond from infancy through adolescence will be understood in the light of the dual need for family closeness and individual separateness. The seminar format will consist of lecture and experiential kinds of learning. J. O. and J. K. Balaswick

NT 702 Community Issues in 1 Corinthians (4 units). This course presents first century principles for 20th century problems in Christian community. Among issues in the urban, socially mixed, charismatic, five-year-old congregation at Corinth: cliqueshiness and superspirituality, church discipline and church authority, love and liberty, sexual behavior among Christians, feminism, "charismatian" and doctrinal deviance. Splittler

PM 705/PM 716 Church Growth I (12 units). This course combines a seminar (PM 705 Principles And Procedures of Church Growth, 8 units) and a course (PM 716 American Church Growth: Research And Case Studies, 4 units). This component applies principles of church growth to the American church. It will present the theological factors active in church growth so that the minister can make a diagnostic study of his or her own church. Participants are involved in supervised field case studies of successful churches, analyzing factors encouraging or inhibiting growth. Wagner, George

PM 707 Organizational Management and Church Planning (8 units). This seminar relates organizational psychology to the life of the church. It helps the church become a place where mission is accomplished and persons are fulfilled. Malony

PM 708 Theology and Practice of Preaching (12 units). This course offers a sessions on preaching on teaching and dealing with both a theology of preaching as well as the art of preaching, including the drafting of a sermon. Additional resource faculty will discuss the place of scholarship, biblical exposition and prayer in preaching and worship. Videotaped sermons of representative preachers will be presented with opportunity to engage the preachers in discussion. Pitt-Watson, Schaper, Holland

PM 710/PM 714 Church Growth II (12 units). This session combines a seminar (PM 710 Anthropological And Historical Dimensions of Church Growth, 8 units) and a course (PM 714 Theological Foundations of Church Growth, 4 units) to comprise a special module for advanced students of church growth. This in-depth analysis of the cultural, historical and theological presuppositions of the church growth movement is by faculty members of the School of World Mission. Prerequisite: PM 705. Wagner, Gibbs, Wimber

TH 711 Theology of Ministry (4 units). A reexamination of divine revelation as constitutive for both the nature and the strategy of ministry. Through critical analysis of selected theological literature, written analysis of life situation cases and a position paper, students will work out their own theology of ministry. The course is an independent study project which requires attendance at one Theology of Ministry tutorial on campus. Anderson

PM 713 Conflict Management in The Local Church (4 units). This is a course designed to equip religious leaders with understandings of conflicts in the local church and skills to deal with them. Recognizing that individual differences are the essence of vitality and enthusiasm, the course is based on the proposition that conflict is to be welcomed, encouraged and managed. The goals to be taught are interpersonal acceptance and group effectiveness. Malony

Higher Education for Cross-Cultural Mission: Its Character and Purpose

Nothing is more important in providing higher education for missionaries than a correct assessment of whether the enterprise of missions is beginning or ending. The School of World Mission and Institute of Church Growth at Fuller Theological Seminary believes that we stand at the beginning of the missionary task. Everything that has gone before in 175 years of modern missions is introduction. Apart from certain small ethnic groups in Oceania, Asia, Africa and Latin America, there has been little comprehensive "discipling of the peoples" (Matthew 28:19). The great populations of Earth—Marxists, Hindus, Buddhists, Muslims, secularists, animists and nominal "Christians" in the West—have yet to accept Jesus Christ as Lord and Savior and become responsible members of his body and church. Today God calls Christians of every continent and culture to the task of making Jesus Christ known, loved and believed in throughout the world. As evidence of his call, God grants remarkable responsiveness in many populations. The main task lies ahead. But a new factor has been introduced. Because of the rapidly growing non-Western Christian missionary movement, Christian mission is now the most international, interracial and intercultural movement in history. The goal of the School of World Mission is to be a resource to this growing movement.

Furthermore, Christian mission today is being carried on in the midst of tremendous revolutionary changes affecting every aspect of human life. The guidelines and assumptions under which our ancestors labored have been swept away. Christian mission today has radically new ground on which to operate: advances in knowledge, changed political alignments, greatly increased control of nature, rise of churches in Asia, Africa and Latin America, lessening of ecclesiastical competition and hatred, rising religious relativism, the battle for brotherhood and a vastly accelerated secularization of life. Education for mission must prepare missionaries to understand better the changes affecting every aspect of human life. The School of World Mission is to be a resource to this growing movement.

In the midst of such changes, Jesus Christ is the same yesterday, today and forever. The mission is his, not ours. He remains in charge. Since no person comes to the Father but by him, propagating his gospel to the ends of the earth by multiplication of believers and churches is the supreme and controlling purpose of the Christian mission to the world.

In the course of mission, the church will and should do many good things. The fruits of the Christian life will inevitably bless and heal humanity. Forms of society more pleasing to God will certainly be produced. Deliberate effort toward these good ends is also a part of Christian mission, but must never be substituted for propagating the faith. Proclaiming Christ as God and Savior and persuading men and women to become his disciples and responsible members of his church must remain a chief and irreplaceable purpose of Christian mission. Education for mission operates, therefore, in a changing periphery with an unchanging center.

The aim of the School of World Mission is to help prepare and provide leadership for the task of world mission that challenges the church today. It seeks to do this in several ways:

- By providing advanced graduate level education for mid-career missionaries and mature international church and mission leaders, and by preparing missionary candidates for their ministry in a new language and culture.

In order to be effective, those called to communicate the gospel cross-culturally need insight into many areas such as theology, history, anthropology, sociology, theory of mission, the biblical base of mission, eccentrics (knowledge of and approach to non-Christian religions), the world church (sometimes called ecumenics), church growth, evangelism, training the ministry and the indigenous church. These are all, therefore, to be studied as proper parts of education for mission.

They should know the whole sweep of missions. The School of World Mission aims to make them competent in the field to which they have given their lives. Graduates of the School of World Mission will be qualified to serve effectively in many tasks to which missionaries and national church leaders are assigned. They will include evangelists and church planters, pastors, district superintendents, field directors, executive secretaries and faculty members in theological training schools at home and abroad.

The faculty of the School of World Mission seeks to accomplish its educational objectives by developing degree programs that combine academic integrity and professional training in the areas of Christian missions and cross-cultural ministries, and by developing models of extension education which will integrate research and field ministries. The study of mission embraces a vast body of knowledge and the educated missionary should see it in toto. In presenting this corpus of learning through courses of study and readings, two dangers are avoided: a frozen intellectual regimen removed from the fast-moving contemporary scene and a smorgasbord of "hot" transient emphases. Advanced education should be validated by advanced degrees in mission, yet the degree program must remain flexible enough to equip God's men and women to meet the rapidly changing conditions of the modern world.

- By producing a body of literature that enables those in cross-cultural ministries to understand better the mission.

The School of World Mission emphasizes research because mission faces a curious fact: knowledge of how churches grow is extremely limited. Through the discipling of nations is a chief and continuing goal of Christian mission, not much is known about how individuals and their societies are, in fact, disciplined. In most lands, some churches have broken through to great growth, but these instances are shut away in linguistic, geographic and denominational compartments. This vacuum in knowledge and training facilities handicaps the entire missionary enterprise.

To meet this need, therefore, the School of World Mission and Institute of Church Growth emphasizes research in church growth as an integral part of the education process. The approach to higher education for missionaries places much emphasis on discovering and teaching new insights concerning the spread of churches.

- By giving continuing leadership to missions and the Church Growth Movement by calling attention to the unfinished task of bringing men and women to a knowledge of Jesus Christ as Lord and Savior.

A center concerned with training leaders must itself be willing, where it can, to provide leadership by challenging the church to undertake the mission to which God has called it, and by providing mission agencies with a theology and strategy of mission. The faculty of the School of World Mission seeks to do this by advocating and conducting research, writing books, speaking at conferences and encouraging the formation of mission structures that meet the demands of the missionary movement in the world.

Admission

General standards for admission to any of the three schools of Fuller Theological Seminary may be found on page 26 of this catalog.

The School of World Mission admits students to degree programs and to special courses designed for missionary candidates, missionaries and national church and mission leaders.

Those entering the Master of Arts program (both cross-cultural studies and missiology) must normally hold an undergraduate degree (B.A. or equivalent). For the Master of Theology in missiology program, an additional degree in theology (B.D., M.Div. or equivalent) with a B standard of work is required. The Doctor of Missiology, the Doctor of Philosophy in intercultural studies and the Doctor of Philosophy in missiology programs require the M.A. or Th.M. in missiology (or their equivalent). In addition, all candidates entering a missiology degree program must give evidence of experience in significant cross-cultural communication of the Christian faith, demonstrated normally by fluency in a second language.

Those coming for only one quarter are advised to come in the fall. The summer, fall and winter quarters offer core courses which are foundational to all degree programs. If one does not qualify for a degree program or does not have time to complete one, a Certificate of Achievement may be awarded.

A limited number of students may be admitted under one of the following classifications:

- Limited Graduate Student: one who is qualified for regular admission but wants to take no more than five courses (20 units).
- Unclassified Student: one who is academically qualified for admission, wants to take an unlimited number of courses, but does not want to pursue a degree program.
- Special Student: one who does not meet the academic requirements for regular admission, unclassified or limited graduate student status.
- Transient Student: one who is currently enrolled as a student in good standing in the post-bachelor's level at another school, but wants to have transcript evidence of course work done at Fuller for transfer to another institution.

Facilities and Costs

The offices of the School of World Mission are located at Fuller Theological Seminary, 35 North Oakland Avenue, in downtown Pasadena, California. In common with the Seminary's other two schools, it uses the classrooms, bookstore, refectory and the McAlister Library with its more than 141,000 volumes on theology, psychology and missiology and related disciplines.

Dormitories at the Seminary house single men and women. In some nearby communities such as Glen- dale and Altadena, apartments available to missionaries on furlough provide suitable living quarters at reasonable cost. Furnished apartments or houses in the Pasadena area are available at commercial rates.

The Seminary refectory provides meals at reasonable cost. For those not covered by health insurance by their own churches or mission boards, accident, sickness and hospital insurance is available through the Seminary.

Further information regarding costs is given on page 27 of this catalog. Any student needing financial assistance may apply to the dean of the School of World Mission, stating his or her situation.

Research and Tuition Fellowships

Several research and tuition fellowships are available to students in the School of World Mission. It is expected that the board or church under which one serves will contribute to tuition and living expenses. Occasionally research fellowships are granted to doctoral candidates who find they must enlarge their data base by additional field research after completing their first year of study at the Seminary.

Applications for all fellowships should be made to the Office of the Dean by March 1, preceding matriculation.
Degree Programs

The School of World Mission offers degrees to pre-field missionaries in cross-cultural studies, and missiology degrees to missionaries and church and mission leaders who have had at least three years of field experience in a cross-cultural Christian ministry. This experience is generally validated by the acquisition and use of a second language in the communication of the Christian faith. National church leaders qualify through demonstrating their facility in English and evidencing an evangelistic thrust in their ministry. On occasion and subject to faculty review, transfer credit is given for graduate work done in other institutions. To be acceptable, such work must conform to the standards of the Association of Theological Schools and be related to the study of missiology.

Master of Arts in Cross-Cultural Studies

This two-year program is designed to prepare students for ministry in cross-cultural situations. It provides a foundation for involvement in mission through biblical, historical and theological studies as well as through the social and behavioral sciences which are basic to the task of mission. Combining the resources of the School of World Mission and the School of Theology, this degree program provides special preparation for future missionaries, people in a variety of professions who hope to share their faith cross-culturally, and those who anticipate ministries in the United States among ethnic groups different from their own. Admission to this degree program requires the B.A. degree from an accredited institution. The curriculum for the Master of Arts in cross-cultural studies consists of 24 courses (96 units), divided evenly between the School of World Mission and the School of Theology, as follows:

- School of World Mission: 12 courses
  - Theology of mission (2)
  - Anthropology (2)
  - Evangelism and church growth (2)
  - Language and communication (2)
  - Religions (1)
  - History of the expansion of Christianity (1)
  - Electives (2)

- School of Theology: 12 courses
  - Old Testament (2)
  - New Testament (2)
  - Church History (2)
  - Theology and Ethics (2)
  - Ministry (1)
  - Electives (3)

The student may elect to acquire a specialization within the Master of Arts in cross-cultural studies. This option requires nine theology courses, nine missiology courses and six courses in the area of specialization. Currently specializations in church planting, Asian studies, Bible translation, Islamic studies, anthropology, community development, Christian formation and discipleship, and family studies have been designed. Other specializations may be arranged according to individual needs and interests. Provision is made for field research and internships with credit.

Master of Arts in Missiology

The Master of Arts in missiology is designed to meet the need for mid-career training in missiology on the part of Western missionaries and Third World church and mission leaders. Students seeking admission to the M.A. in missiology program must have an accredited B.A. or its equivalent, have completed three years of cross-cultural ministry and have mastered a field language.

The M.A. in missiology requires 24 courses (96 quarter units) beyond the B.A., including:
- A minimum of 12 courses (48 units) in missiology, which must include the five core courses in preparation for the general examinations; the remaining seven courses (28 units) are electives in missiology designed to meet the student’s specific goals.
- A minimum of five courses (20 units) of biblical studies, theology and church history.
- A maximum of seven courses (28 units) of general electives, which may include graduate courses in fields related to either missiology or theology.

This program normally involves two years of study. A minimum of one year in residence is normally required. In addition, the candidate must pass the general examinations. Normally the M.A. in missiology is a non-thesis degree. However, a student may petition to do a thesis or project as a part of this program.

Master of Theology in Missiology

The Th.M. in missiology is designed to help field missionaries and international church leaders acquire fundamental competence in the field of missiology. Students seeking admission to the Th.M. in missiology program must have the M.Div., B.D. or equivalent degree from an accredited institution, have completed three years of cross-cultural ministry and have mastered a field language.

The Th.M. in missiology requires 10 courses (40 units) of graduate studies in missiology, and a thesis (8 units), all of which must be completed in residence. The coursework includes the five core courses in preparation for the general exams; the balance is made up of electives that should be selected to meet the specific goals of the student.

Doctor of Missiology

The Doctor of Missiology is the highest level of professional certification in the field of missiology. It is open to qualified and experienced leaders in Christian missions and international church affairs.

Applicants must be enrolled in or have completed the Th.M. or M.A. program of the School of World
Christian studies, ministry, and theological training have been designed to prepare students for service and leadership in the church. Provision is made for up to 12 units of credit.

Master of Arts in Missiology

The master of arts in missiology is designed to help students understand the role of the church in God's mission to the world. The program provides an introduction to the field of missiology and prepares students for further study in the field. The program requires 30 units of coursework in missiology and related fields. Students must complete a thesis or project, which is based on the student's area of interest. The program is offered in the fall, spring, and summer semesters. Students are encouraged to participate in campus activities and to build relationships with other students and faculty.

Paul E. Pierson, Dean
Dean S. Gilliland
J. Robert Clinton
Mission (with a 3.3 grade point average), passed the general examinations with honors, completed three years of cross-cultural ministry and mastered a field language, and demonstrated research and writing competence. Applicants are expected to have a graduate level understanding of English. The faculty reserves the right to require language proficiency examinations of any applicant.

The professional doctorate in missiology requires a minimum of 10 courses (40 units) in missiology beyond the M.A. or Th. M. in missiology and a dissertation (8 units) that makes a significant contribution to missiological practice. Candidates must complete advanced studies in three major and two minor fields of study with a minimum grade point average of 3.3, average), and pass comprehensive examinations. Students transferring credit from other institutions must complete a minimum of 64 units and the dissertation at the School of World Mission. Students admitted with an M.A. must complete the M.Div. equivalency (defined as a minimum of 64 units of graduate level theological coursework which fulfills the core requirements in biblical studies, church history and theology). Candidates for whom English is a second language are encouraged to write their dissertations in their own language. In such cases summaries in English are required.

Doctor of Philosophy in Intercultural Studies

The Ph.D. in intercultural studies represents the highest level of academic certification in the field of missiology. It is an academic degree designed to contribute to the development of missiological scholarship and to prepare experienced Christian leaders for teaching missiology on the university and graduate levels.

Applicants must have completed or be enrolled in the Th.M. or M.A. program of the School of World Mission (with a 3.5 grade point average), passed the general examinations with honors, completed three years of cross-cultural ministry and mastered a field language, and demonstrated research and writing competence. Applicants are expected to have a graduate level understanding of English. The faculty reserves the right to require language proficiency examinations of any applicant.

The academic doctorate in missiology requires 40 units in missiology and 32 units in theology beyond the Th.M. in missiology, with a 3.5 grade point average, and a dissertation (8 units) that makes a significant contribution to the field of missiology. Candidates must complete a major in the School of World Mission (consisting of five 8-unit tutorials), two minors in the School of Theology (two 8-unit seminars each), and comprehensive examinations. They must demonstrate proficiency in Greek, Hebrew, a field language and a research language, and in teaching.

Certificate of Achievement in Missiology

This certificate is available in certain cases when a field missionary or national church or mission leader does not have the academic background to enter a degree program or is not able to stay in residence the required amount of time. It indicates the number of courses successfully completed.

Certificate of Achievement in Cross-Cultural Studies

Students who are eligible for the M.A. program in cross-cultural studies but are unable to complete the two years of study may receive the Career Foundations Certificate after one year. This program is made up of 12 courses which normally are selected from both missiology and theology. If it is later possible to complete the second year of study, the M.A. in cross-cultural studies may be earned.

Special and Cooperative Programs

In the School of World Mission, a number of special institutes, programs and cooperative relationships have been developed which seek to make the resources of... misssiological education more available to field missionaries and national church or mission leaders, and to gather educational resources to focus on specific needs of churches, missions and those preparing to serve them.

Cross-Cultural Studies Program

The Cross-Cultural Studies Program is designed to prepare men and women for ministry in cross-cultural situations. This program combines the resources of the School of World Mission and the School of Theology to provide a foundation for involvement in mission through biblical, historical and theological studies as well as through the social and behavioral sciences. It provides special preparation for future missionaries, people in a variety of professions who hope to share their faith cross-culturally, and those who anticipate ministries in the United States among ethnic groups different from their own. A student may earn the Master of Arts in Cross-Cultural Studies from the School of World Mission or the Master of Divinity degree, with a concentration in cross-cultural studies, from the School of Theology.

Concentration in Bible Translation

A special concentration in Bible translation is offered within the Ph.D. program in intercultural studies. This program combines the resources of the School of World Mission, the School of Theology, and secular universities to equip students in biblical languages and exegesis, linguistics, translation theory, anthropology, missiology and communication theory.

A cooperative arrangement has been made with the University of Texas at Arlington (UTA) which allows for transfer of units between the two schools so long as they are applied to the translation emphasis and students abide by the catalog requirements of the institution which grants the degree. This arrangement may also be applied to a cooperative program between the University of Texas at Arlington and the Summer Institute of Linguistics leading to an M.A. in linguistics from UTA.

Chinese Studies and Evangelization Program

The School of World Mission offers a core curriculum in Chinese studies as an option in all its degree programs. This is designed for those who will minister in North American Chinese churches as well as those called to serve among the Chinese of the Diaspora in Asia and elsewhere. Both resident and adjunct faculty will teach courses on the interaction of the Christian faith and Chinese history and culture. Open to both Chinese and non-Chinese, the program will train pastors and missiologists and thus seek to further the evangelization of this vigorous people who constitute one-fourth of humanity.

Charles E. Fuller Institute for Evangelism and Church Growth

The Charles E. Fuller Institute for Evangelism and Church Growth is an arm of the Seminary offering services to the churches of North America in the areas of church growth diagnosis, consultation and planning. Its executive director, Carl George, has assembled a competent and growing staff which serves a number of denominations. An Hispanic department under Juan Carlos Miranda has extended these services to the Hispanic-American community as well as to several Latin American countries.

Conferences and seminars are held each year in Pasadena and other locations across the country on such topics as Church Planting and Growing and Leading a Multiple Staff Church. Academic credit is available through Fuller Theological Seminary to registered students, and continuing education units may be earned through the Institute.

In-Service Program

The School of World Mission In-Service Program (ISP) enables missionaries, national church leaders, professors of mission, and staff persons in mission organizations responsible for supervising and training peoples for cross-cultural ministries to begin graduate studies in missiology before coming to the Pasadena campus and/or to continue their studies after they leave campus. Those wishing to start a program in missiology may take the five core courses (a total of 20 units) in extension study through this program. These core courses, as listed under Core Curriculum and General Examinations, are required in each degree program. Admission requirements for the In-Service Program are the same as for the regular degree-programs. Students lacking the academic qualifications but who have at least three years of significant cross-cultural experience may take courses as special students.

Tuition payment must be submitted at the time of registration. A course syllabus (outline and assignments) and textbooks are sent to students upon receipt of the tuition payment. Class lectures (recorded on compact cassette tapes or in duplicated notes) are also provided. Completed assignments are returned to the director of the In-Service Program for evaluation by a professor. Upon the completion of the ISP course, a grade is recorded on the student’s transcript. A course registration is valid for one year (i.e. the assignments must be completed within one year from the time of registration).

Institute of Language and Culture Learning

The Institute of Language and Culture Learning is designed for those already committed to cross-cultural ministries. Lasting four weeks, it will give training in specific skills needed to learn a new language and culture.

Summer Institute of World Mission

The Summer Institute of World Mission is a series of 10 day courses offered on the Pasadena campus. Normally two courses are offered in each of five sessions. These intensive courses are designed to compact 100 hours of study into each two-week session. Students may take only one course per session.

Curriculum

In a wider sense, the SWM curriculum consists of a combination of course work, reading and directed research tailored to fit an individual's problems and opportunities. In a narrower sense, it consists of courses of study which develop a part of one of the following branches of learning which together make up the discipline of missiology:

- Theory and theology of mission (MT)
- The Christian mission vis-a-vis non-Christian religions (MR)
- Anthropology, language learning, communication and sociology (MB)
- History of missions and church expansion (MH)
- Church growth foundations and case studies (MC)
- Leadership selection and training (ML)
- Scripture translation (MS)

Great emphasis is placed on reading in all programs. Students at the graduate level are expected to glean the essence of many contributions to mission through books and other library and archival materials. The function of the professor is to guide, stimulate and provide supplementary summaries of knowledge particularly germane to the situation in one's field of service. SWM students come from such varied segments of the world's vast population that only through wide reading in their field can they become truly educated.

Core Curriculum and General Examinations

Most degree programs of the School of World Mission are based on training in the central theories and methods of five major fields of missiology: theology of mission, historical development of Christian mission, church growth, anthropology, and phenomenology and institutions of folk religions. Students will normally meet these requirements by completing the School of World Mission core courses:

- MB 520 Anthropology
- MC 520 Foundations of Church Growth
- MH 520 The Historical Development of the Christian Movement
- MR 520 Phenomenology and Institutions of Folk Religions
- MT 520 Biblical Theology of Mission

These core courses are required of students in the M.A. and Th.M. in missiology programs. They are offered regularly in each of the four quarters. Students may complete the five core courses through the In-Service Program. Such courses count toward the minimum residence requirements of SWM degrees.

The general examinations are designed to measure the student's mastery in each of the above fields of missiology. Those who fail one or more of the examinations may petition the Academic Affairs Committee to permit them to retake parts or all of the examinations, or to complete work necessary to upgrade the examinations.

Courses of Study

In any given quarter, courses will be offered from among the following, depending on the availability of faculty and the composition of the student body. Course offerings and course descriptions are subject to change through normal academic processes. The courses are numbered according to the following guidelines:

- MB Behavioral Sciences
- MC Church Growth
- MH Mission History
- ML Leadership Training
- MR Religions
- MS Scripture Translation
- MT Mission Theology

The 500-level courses are for students in the masters programs, and are open to students in any program, with the exception of the 520's (core courses) which may be limited by the professor to those in the M.A in Missiology program. Courses listed at the 500 level may be taken at the 600 or 700 level with the approval of the professor. Students in the Th.M. in Missiology program register for courses at the 600 level. The 700-level courses are for students in the Doctor of Missiology, Ph.D. in Missiology or Ph.D. in Intercultural Studies programs. The 800-level courses are for Ph.D. students only.

MT 531 Latin American Theology. An examination of the theologies of the various wings of the church in Latin America, including traditional Roman Catholic, Protestant and Pentecostal. Special attention will be given to theologies of liberation. Pierson

MT 532 Ecumenics and Mission. Theological exploration of modern movements of church fellowship and union with particular attention on the development of the World Council of Churches and its influence on the missionary movement. Glasser
MT 533 Theology of Religious Encounter. Investigation of the relation between revelation and Christianity in the context of elenctic missionary encounters with people of other faiths, or no religious allegiance. Glasser

MT 534 Theological Issues in Asia. A study of a select number of contemporary theological issues and concerns vital to the life and witness of the church in Asia. Athyal

MT 535 Third World Perspectives on Mission. Examined against the background of traditional Western approaches to mission. Both evangelical and radical approaches will be considered, including liberation theology. Pierson

MT 550 Christian Ethnotheology. Anthropological approach to Christian theologizing. Development of a cross-cultural perspective on theological topics such as revelation, communication, sin, the church, translation and transformation. Prerequisite: MB500 or MB520. Kraft

MT 561 The Gospel in Chinese. Critical examination of efforts to present the gospel message in terms of the Chinese environment since the Nestorian period and application of insights to the contemporary challenge of evangelizing the Chinese. Covell, Tan

MT 590 Project/Thesis (M.A.). Guidance provided to those involved in projects/theses. Special attention paid to problems assigned by church or mission.

MT 591 Independent Study (M.A.). Reading, reporting and discussing on mission theology at the M.A level under faculty supervision.

MT 595 Topics in Mission Theology.

MT 690 Thesis (Th.M.). Guidance provided to those involved in writing theses. Special attention paid to problems assigned by church or mission.

MT 691 Independent Study (Th.M.). Reading, reporting and discussion on mission theology at the Th.M level under faculty supervision.

MT 700 Advanced Seminar in Theology of Mission. Doctoral level discussions of topics pertinent to the interests of students with cross-cultural field experience. Prerequisite: MT520.

MT 720 Crucial Themes in Transcultural Theology. An analysis of crucial themes on the international theological scene in the light of biblical teaching. Attention is given to problems of syncretism and contextualization of these themes in cultures in which tribal or non-Christian high religions are dominant. Hiebert

MT 751 Conversion. Cross-cultural approach to conversion. Focus on distinguishing cultural from supracultural elements so that conversion may be truly Christian, yet culturally appropriate. Kraft

MT 752 Indigenity. Explores the expression of church structures in culture. A model of indigenity is developed and churches are evaluated in terms of their approximation to the ideal. Kraft

MT 780 Methods in Mission Theology. An exploration into the contemporary effort to make hermeneutics the focus of theological discussion and its relation to the reconceptualization of the theology of mission. Glasser

MT 790 Dissertation (D.Miss.). Guidance provided to Doctor of Missiology students engaged in writing dissertations.

MT 791 Independent Study. Reading, reporting and discussion at the Doctor of Missiology level under supervision on theology of mission.

MT 800 Tutorial in Mission Theology. Investigation under supervision of topics related to the program and/or dissertation of Ph.D. candidates.

CLINICAL FACILITIES FOR FIELD TRAINING
Character and Purpose

The Fuller Graduate School of Psychology is a unique venture in higher education. Its purpose is to prepare a distinctive kind of clinical psychologist: men and women whose understandings and actions are deeply informed by both psychology and the Christian faith. It is based on the conviction that the coupling of Christian understanding of men and women with refined clinical and research skills will produce Christian clinical psychologists with a special ability to help persons on their journeys to wholeness and salvation.

Toward this goal, an attempt is made to avoid reducing human beings to the descriptive data of psychology, and theology to a set of propositions about God. Instead, both disciplines are accorded mutual respect in an effort to impart to the student a genuine appreciation for the contributions of each. This model of training has been termed the Professional/Scientist/Christian model. This reflects the School’s commitment to clinical training grounded in scientific psychology and Christian theology.

At its simplest, theology may be defined as conceptualizing God and his relationship with humankind in ways that are relevant to this day. In a sense, everyone is a theologian, holding views about God. But not everyone is a good and profitable theologian. For this higher purpose a serious study of theology is imperative.

The data of theology consist primarily of the self-revealing acts and words of God contained in the prophetic and apostolic Scriptures. Yet it is not enough simply to quote what Scripture itself contains. Theology must encounter and speak to each new age and situation. Its task is to state the message of the Bible, making clear the relevance of this message to every person’s current need.

On the other hand, psychology may be defined as the study of human behavior. It emphasizes the scientific approach, but it does not rule out the several other ways by which we have come to an understanding of human nature. Some of these impressions have come through self-reflective consciousness, creative and artistic expression, religious experience and philosophical thought.

The distinctiveness of the School of Psychology lies in its attempt to integrate these fields in theory, research and practice. Through a series of didactic, experiential and reflective endeavors, theology and psychology are related. Students are encouraged to reflect on their own appropriation of faith (intrapersonal integration) and to determine how the data of both disciplines can be combined (conceptual integration). Further, support is given to research efforts to assess the interconnections of faith and behavior (experimental integration) and to the mutual sharing of insights with others in related vocations such as the ministry (interprofessional integration). Most importantly, students are trained in the melding of psychology and theology in clinical practice (professional integration).

Faculty members hold the view that integration at any level is a profitable endeavor. They communicate a view of persons that has an abiding concern for their relationship to Jesus Christ. They convey the conviction that resources exist which transcend their own. They attempt to model in teaching and living the unique combination of sincere faith and clinical excellence which the school espouses.

The needs of contemporary society are creating new and challenging roles for clinical psychologists. There is an increasing demand for and the responsibility of the church and society to be involved in this training. Graduates of this program are qualified to serve in both the church and the wider community. As clinical psychologists they serve on hospital staffs, in private practice, in church-sponsored counseling centers, and as faculty members in higher education.

Accreditation

The Graduate School grants the Ph.D. degree in clinical psychology. Its doctoral program is approved (professionally accredited) by the American Psychological Association.

Admission

General standards for admission to any of the three schools of Fuller Theological Seminary are described on page 26 of this catalog.

Admission to the School of Psychology requires that a student have earned the B.A. degree from an academically accredited institution. Admission to the program is very competitive. The entering student in the fall of 1984 had a median grade point average of 3.46. The median score on the verbal section of the Graduate Record Examination was 575 and the median score on the quantitative section was 610.

The undergraduate major must be in the social and behavioral sciences. Equally important for admission to the program are commitment to the historic Christian faith and life, personal qualities of high integrity, strong motivation for service, empathy for others, ability in relationships, spiritual sensitivity and an abiding love for scholarship. These qualities will be evaluated through letters of recommendation from those who know the candidate well.

The completed application form and the $25 application fee should be received by January 1 preceding enrollment. In addition, the applicant must submit three recent passport-type photographs and have the following materials sent to the Office of Admissions: 1) transcripts from all colleges and graduate schools attended,
Financial Assistance

Financial assistance for this program is extremely limited. Students are strongly encouraged to finance their education through parental and other private support, personal savings, veterans or state disability benefits, outside scholarships, church care, etc.

For students who are not able to support their education in one of the above ways, limited tuition scholarships are available. It should be stressed that this assistance is minimal, and students are required to provide for the greater portion of their own living expenses and educational costs. Financial aid application forms may be obtained from the Office of the Dean following admission.

For all students, loans through government sources currently ranging from $1,500 to $5,000 per year, may be applied for through the Seminary's Financial Aid Office. Applicants are encouraged to explore opportunities for financial aid available in their states of residence prior to matriculation.

Admissions by February 1. An application request is included in the back of this catalog. Application forms can be obtained either by returning the application request or by writing to the Office of Admissions.

The Graduate School of Psychology uses an individualized admissions procedure. All applicants are reviewed by an admissions committee consisting of faculty members and graduate students. The admissions committee selects semi-finalists who are highly qualified to do doctoral work in clinical psychology, and a personal interview is required of these persons. Interviews are held in Pasadena and in major metropolitan areas in the United States. No interview fee is charged, but personal transportation costs are borne by the applicant. In instances of financial hardships, a telephone interview may be substituted for a personal interview. The admissions committee then selects a group of finalists. The names of these persons are submitted to the assembled faculty. Each faculty member normally admits one or two students a year. The individual professor makes his or her selections based on common areas of research and clinical interest.

The professor/student relationship is viewed as a mutual commitment. The professor makes a commitment to train each student to the doctoral level and expects a reciprocal commitment from the student to work hard and long enough to reach what is considered to be doctoral quality.

Each year some students are admitted by the school at large. Such students do not receive an academic advisor until they arrive on campus. Any student may choose to change advisors or major professors with the approval of the Dean's Office, but one of the intentions of the individualized admission policy is to allow a student and the major professor to work together continuously throughout the student's doctoral studies in the program. Formal and informal reviews are made of each student not less than annually.

Financial Assistance

Financial assistance for this program is extremely limited. Students are strongly encouraged to finance their education through parental and other private support, personal savings, veterans or state disability benefits, outside scholarships, church care, etc.

For students who are not able to support their education in one of the above ways, limited tuition scholarships are available. It should be stressed that this assistance is minimal, and students are required to
Student Life

Close bonds develop between students as they progress through the program. Informal gatherings are opportunities for developing relationships and for taking advantage of the many recreational and cultural opportunities to be found in Pasadena and the greater Los Angeles area. Small fellowship groups are formed each fall for incoming students who wish to participate. Students represent a diversity of geographical, denominational, ethnic and educational backgrounds. Opportunities are provided for spouses to participate in many of the activities of their partner’s graduate education. This may include small groups, lectures and social activities.

Psychology program student-faculty meetings occur once or twice each quarter. These community meetings serve as a forum for the communication of important concerns and as a time for socializing. In addition, special interest groups along with various social affairs help to bring students and faculty together on an informal basis.

Each month, students and faculty of the School of Psychology meet together for an hour of worship, informal fellowship, and sharing of community concerns. Responsibility for organization of these “community building days” is shared by faculty and student groups.

Students are strongly encouraged (but not required) to take advantage of opportunities for personal psychological and spiritual growth while progressing through the program. A subsidy program is available for students who participate in individual and/or group psychotherapy during the first three years in the program.

Psychology Graduate Union

Students in the School of Psychology have an opportunity to become actively involved in decision-making and administrative processes. All students enrolled in the program are members of the Psychology Graduate Union. The purpose of this organization is to represent members in all matters affecting student life, and to afford members the experience of serving their peers and the school in the area of academic and professional concerns.

Responsible for all affairs related to the Graduate Union is an executive cabinet composed of a president, vice president, secretary-treasurer, professional concerns chairperson, social chairperson and two student representatives to the faculty, as well as a representative from each year in the program. The cabinet serves as a forum for the communication of important concerns and as a time for socializing. In addition, women faculty and students meet together regularly.

In 1980, the School of Psychology faculty and the Psychology Graduate Union Cabinet appointed a Women’s Issues Advisory Committee to provide leadership in the area of women’s issues and clinical psychology. A faculty member is appointed Women’s Issues Resource Coordinator, and a student is selected to serve as the faculty’s sensitivity to issues related to women, ethnic minorities and religious dimensions.

Women

Women students in the program have joined together in Network, an informal organization which provides support and education so their development as female professionals will be as full and deep as possible. Outside speakers address the group on a quarterly basis, with social gatherings occurring more frequently. In addition, women faculty and students meet together regularly.

The active participation of the Psychology Graduate Union in the decision-making processes of the program means that students are deeply involved in the recruitment, evaluation, retention and release of faculty. Students fill out extensive course evaluation of the professor’s sensitivity to issues related to women, ethnic minorities and religious dimensions.

Ethnic Minorities

The Graduate School of Psychology has made a concerted effort to recruit ethnic minorities into its training program and to minister to their unique needs once they have matriculated, with the result that there is a growing number of Black, Asian, and Hispanic students.

There are several avenues through which minority group concerns are presently being expressed within the program. One minority student is appointed to serve on the admissions committee each year. The academic curriculum is impacted by a policy which encourages faculty to provide some perspective on minority issues pertinent to their course topics. Special tuition assistance is available to selected minority students. This is arranged on an individual basis at the time admission offers are made.

In 1980, the School of Psychology faculty and the Psychology Graduate Union Cabinet established a Minority Issues Advisory Committee. This committee is mandated to provide leadership in the area of minority issues and clinical psychology. A faculty member is appointed Minority Issues Resource Coordinator, and a student is selected to occupy the stipend position of Minority Issues Fellow. The responsibilities of these persons include sensitizing students, faculty and staff of the psychology program and the Fuller community as a whole about issues relating to minorities.

To these ends, and to provide national leadership in this area, the Schools of Psychology and Theology sponsored a conference in 1982 and 1983 entitled "Ethnic Mental Health in the '80s: Its Psychological and Theological Dimensions." The School of Psychology is committed to sponsoring this conference bi-annually.

Community Resources

Because of Fuller's fortunate location in a major metropolitan area, students have continuous access to a variety of opportunities. Symposia and workshops presented by nationally and internationally renowned figures in the field of psychology. Extensive library holdings and major research and clinical facilities in the area provide resources which supplement those provided in the School of Psychology. Distinguished psychologists and other leaders in the mental health professions speak on an occasional basis to students and faculty. In addition, students are encouraged to join professional organizations and attend their conventions.

Integration Lectures

Throughout the academic year prominent psychologists, theologians and other leaders in the field of integration are invited to address students, faculty, community professionals and the interested lay public. In these noon lectures a variety of topics pertaining to theoretical research and professional issues related to the relationship of psychology and the Christian faith are addressed.

The following individuals are among those who have participated in the integration lecture series:

- C. Ray Akin, Ph.D., Director, Interchurch Counseling Service, Whittier, CA, "Pastoral Counseling: A personal testimony"
- Allen E. Bergin, Ph.D., Professor of Psychology, Institute of Values and Human Behavior, Brigham Young University, "Religious Variables in Psychotherapy"
- Gordon Brown, Ph.D., Professor of Psychology, Pasadena City College, "Philosophical Orientations to the Nature of Reality and Behavior"
- John D. Carter, Ph.D., Professor of Psychology, Rosemead Graduate School of Professional Psychology, "Sin and Psychopathology"
- Keith J. Edwards, Ph.D., Professor and Director of Research, Rosemead Graduate School of Professional Psychology, "Psychological Research and the Christian Faith"
- J. Harold Ellens, Ph.D., Executive Director, Christian Association for Psychological Studies, "Biblical Themes, Psychological Theory and Practice"
- John G. Finch, Ph.D., Clinical Psychologist and Visiting Professor of Psychology, Fuller Theological Seminary, "Nishkarmakarma"
- Vernon C. Grounds, President Emeritus, Denver Conservative Baptist Seminary, "Unselfing the Self"
- Len Holdstock, Ph.D., Professor of Psychology, University of Witwatersrand, Johannesburg, South Africa, "Indigenous Healing in South Africa"
- Louis E. Jenkins, Ph.D., Director of Clinical Psychology, Department of Mental Health, Southeast Mental Health Region, County of Los Angeles, "Being a Christian in Community Psychology"
- Charles H. Kraft, Ph.D., Professor of Anthropology and African Studies, Fuller Theological Seminary, "Understanding Ethnology"
- Thomas J. Malcolm, Ph.D., Professor of Psychology, Azusa Pacific College, "The Therapeutic Challenge: Estrangement from Depravity"
- Avery C. Manchester, M.Div., Psychoanalyst, Executive Secretary, Missionary Personnel, United Methodist Church, "The Analyst's Couch and the Pilgrimage of Faith"
- Donald E. Miller, Ph.D., Assistant Professor of the Sociology of Religion of Southern California, "How a Sociologist Does Theology"
- David O. Moberg, Ph.D., Professor of Sociology, Marquette University, "Research on Spiritual Well-Being"
- Clyde Narrmore, Ph.D., Director of the Narrmore Christian Foundation, Rosemead, CA, "My Perspectives on Changes in Psychology and Christianity in the Los Angeles Area"
- S. Bruce Narrmore, Ph.D., Dean and Professor of Psychology, Rosemead Graduate School of Professional Psychology, "Guilt: Theological and Psychological"
- Charles O. Noller, Ph.D., Director, Life Line Counseling Center, Queensland, Australia, "Christian Counseling Centers"
- Rex L. Rock, M.D., Director of Christian Therapy Unit, Charter Oak Psychiatric Hospital, Covina, CA, "How a Sociologist Does Theology"
- Sherry L. Skidmore, Ph.D., Psychologist, Riverside, CA, "Value Issues in Forensic Psychology"
- William Sneek, S.J., Ph.D., Associate Professor of Psychology, Georgetown University, "Psychodynamics and Catholic Neo-Pentecostalism" school of psychology student handbook

in addition to the information contained in the seminary student handbook, certain policies, procedures and information concerning students in the program are contained in the school of psychology student handbook. of particular importance are documents drawn up by faculty-student committees which outline guidelines for personal and professional behavior, policy and procedures for processing grievances regarding students and faculty. it is an implied contract that all students in the program will comply with regulations in both handbooks while they are students under the jurisdiction of the seminary.

the school of psychology has adopted the professional-scientist model as most appropriate to its purpose. this ideal is reflected in the curriculum. students may select up to an equivalent of four full-time courses during each of the three quarters (fall, winter, spring) of scheduled psychology classes, and may take part in directed reading projects. theology courses are available during the summer quarter. two-hour courses are considered to be only half of a full-time course. the graduate course of study is a sequence that normally spans a six-year period and should be thoroughly understood in terms of requirements and progression. the curriculum is divided into four parts: general psychology, clinical psychology, theology-integration, and research (including research courses, master’s project and doctoral dissertation).

part i: general psychology and foundational courses. the core curriculum of general psychology provides the student with a solid base of psychological data. these specific courses are numbered ps500-549 and ps590-599. each student will complete a minimum of 60 quarter hours of general psychology and foundational courses, to include the following required first-year courses:

- ps 500 history and systems of psychology (4)
- ps 544 psychopathology (4)
- ps 550 clinical foundations i (2)
- ps 551 clinical foundations ii (2)
- ps 552 clinical foundations iii (2)
- ps 590 statistics (4)
- ps 591 introduction to experimental design (4)
- ps 592 advanced experimental design (4)
- ps 593 psychological tests & measurements (4)

the remaining 30 quarter hours may be selected from general psychology electives falling within the range of course numbers indicated above.

each student must demonstrate competence in the areas of biological bases of behavior, the cognitive-affective bases of behavior, the social bases of behavior, and individual behavior by earning at least 4 units of credit in each of these areas. these units may be earned by taking clinical seminars (ps570-575) specifically designated at the time of registration to fall into one of these areas, or by taking general psychology courses which fall into one of these areas as follows:

- biological bases of behavior: ps510-519
- cognitive-affective bases of behavior: ps520-529
- social bases of behavior: ps530-539
- individual behavior: ps540-549

each student is responsible to ensure his or her compliance with this requirement.

each student must pass the comprehensive examination. after passing it, students may substitute clinical psychology seminars (ps570-575) for general psychology electives. only clinical seminars taken after the comprehensive examination has been passed may be substituted.

part ii: clinical psychology. the clinical psychology curriculum introduces each student to a broad sweep of target populations and clinical course work, practicum placements and supervised field training in various approved settings. each student will complete a minimum of 126 quarter hours in clinical psychology, to include the following courses:

- ps 553 legal and ethical issues (2)
- ps 554 diagnostic & assessment practicum i (2)
- ps 555 diagnostic & assessment practicum ii (2)
- ps 560 clinical psychology a - adult (4)
- ps 561 clinical psychology b - gerontology (4)
- ps 562 clinical psychology c - consultation/community (4)
- ps 563 clinical psychology d - child (4)
- ps 564 clinical psychology e - adolescent (4)
- ps 565 clinical psychology f - family (4)
- ps 566 practicum i (2)
- ps 567 practicum ii (2)
- ps 568 pre-internship (5-5-5-5)
- ps 610 internship i (32)
- ps 611 internship ii (32)

the remaining quarter hours must be selected from elective clinical seminars (course numbers ps570-575). each student must demonstrate clinical competency by sustaining a series of four clinical evaluations. these focus on knowledge and abilities concerning psychological assessment, professional issues, and clinical interventions.

part iii: theology-integration. an exploration into the relationships between psychology and theology constitutes the essential uniqueness of the program. each student will complete a minimum of 96 quarter hours in theology and integration. the follow-
Each student earns 32 quarter hours of dissertation units (PS600) in completing the dissertation. Dissertations are prepared in accordance with the dissertation guidelines adopted by the faculty and contained in the School of Psychology Student Handbook.

Comprehensive Examination

One of the assumptions underlying Fuller’s program is that a person earning a doctoral degree in clinical psychology should have a broadly based foundation in the concepts, data, methods and theories of general psychology. Students are expected to reach a superior level of mastery. “Superior level” has been defined by the faculty as a score in the 90th percentile of the Advanced Test in Psychology of the Graduate Record Examination (GRE). Students should arrange to take the GRE in Psychology at the earliest possible date.

All students must score 650 or higher on the Advanced Test in Psychology in order to pass the comprehensive examination. This requirement must be met before a student may apply for an internship placement.

This examination will be given on campus during September of each year. Students who take the Graduate Record Examination prior to admission to the program may submit their previous scores of 650 or higher as meeting the comprehensive examination requirement. Transcripts of such scores must be sent directly from the Educational Testing Service to the Dean, Graduate School of Psychology, Fuller Theological Seminary.

In recognition of the fact that the field of psychology changes rapidly, the validity of a 650 score on the Advanced Test will only be extended seven years beyond the beginning of the clerkship period. Students who have not graduated by that point must again obtain a score of 650 or higher on the Advanced Test in Psychology.

A student may take the examination at any of the on-campus administrations or at a national testing center designated by the Educational Testing Service. The number of times a student may retake the examination is not limited, although the school pays for only the first administration. The student or advisor or major professor jointly determine when the student will take the Graduate Record Examination. Although the number of times which the examination may be taken is not fixed, any failing performance will be reviewed by the faculty. Repeated failures may lead to a faculty recommendation that the student terminate studies in the program.

Clinical Psychology Sequence (PS560-PS565)

A problem-solving approach is used in teaching the student the basic orientation and skills of the contemporary clinical psychologist. Each quarter, students taking the clinical psychology sequence courses focus on a different target population with which the practicing clinical psychologist must often deal. Emphasis is placed upon the continuity between psychological assessment and psychological intervention, the faculty... believing that those two processes are not separable in the practice of clinical psychology. Each student will see faculty members demonstrate a wide range of assessment tools and techniques. Each student will also observe faculty members model a wide range of interventions, e.g., psychoanalytic therapy, Rogerian psychotherapy, behavior therapy, crisis intervention, conjoint family therapy, teaching parents to be therapists of their own children and consultation to churches and other community institutions. Usually faculty demonstrations will be followed by student participation in carrying out similar types of assessment and intervention.

A different professor teaches the course each quarter. The professor and the students meet in class four hours each week. In addition, students have practicum assignments in the facilities of The Psychological Center in which they deal with cases and receive clinical supervision from Psychological Center staff members. A functional approach is used with all case material. Students are presented with a wide range of problems and are then asked to search the clinical literature in order to find the most effective ways of assessing and solving these problems.

All students, regardless of their background, are required to take the six courses in the clinical psychology sequence. These particular courses are to be taken in the order listed with the final quarter to be completed before the student begins a clerkship.

Field Training

Clinical facilities in the Los Angeles area and throughout the country provide clinical experience and training to students during the final three years of the program. Field training usually begins in the fourth year of the program and follows the sequence outlined below (84 credits):

- First Year (12 months—pre-internship) taken at 12 hours per week (600 hours for the year) 20 credits.
- Second Year (12 months—internship) taken at a minimum of 20 hours per week (at least 10,000 hours for the year) 32 credits.
- Third Year (12 months—internship) taken at a minimum of 20 hours per week at least 1,000 hours for the year) 32 credits.

Before beginning the first year of field training, students must have completed 72 quarter hours of psychology at the graduate level and must have completed the clinical sequence with no holds or incompletes.

Before being allowed to apply for the first internship, a student must have obtained a score of 650 or higher on the Advanced Test in Psychology of the Graduate Record Examination. Before commencing the first internship, a student must have successfully completed his or her clerkship.

A student must complete 1,500 hours (48 credits) of field work training in multidisciplinary settings in a period of not more than 24 consecutive months. This 1,500 hour requirement must be completed before the Ph.D. is granted. A student may select either a full-time, three-quarter-time or half-time internship.

Students are responsible to see that their field training experiences meet the requirements of the licens-ing law of the state in which they wish to be licensed.

The Clinical Evaluation

The evaluation of a student's clinical competency is a continuing process which extends to the end of the sixth year in the program. The purposes of this program are to ensure that the student is thoroughly prepared: 1) to practice as a skilled clinical psychologist and 2) to pass important post-doctoral examinations such as those required for state licensure. Facility in the integration of psychology and theology and awareness of gender, ethnic and socio-cultural issues are to be evaluated in all four phases of this clinical evaluation. These four phases are described below; further details may be found in the Psychology Graduate Student Handbook.

Phase I: Assessment Evaluation. This phase involves a standarized contract which includes 1) demonstration of competency in administration and interpretation of a list of psychological tests; 2) demonstration of ability to conduct in-depth clinical assessment interview; and 3) submission of written reports which give evidence of the student's ability to delineate the client's clinically relevant history and level of current functioning, to integrate clinical interview and psychiatric data to the end that clinically sound assessment conclusions are reached, to formulate diagnostic impressions on the five axes of DSM-III, and to develop an efficacious plan for any necessary interventions. This phase is completed by the third year of the program.

Phase II: Professional Issues Evaluation. This phase includes a standardized contract which will demonstrate that the student is knowledgeable in the professional concerns of 1) ethics, 2) law, 3) professional literature, and 4) current professional problems and issues. Competency will be determined by an objective test. This phase takes place during and will be completed by the end of the fourth year of the program (beginning the first year).

Phase III: Clinical Intervention Evaluation. In this phase, the student will demonstrate ability in 1) understanding presenting problems; gathering information regarding personal history, interpersonal relationships, and present functioning; 3) summarizing and synthesizing psychodiagnostic data; 4) stating diagnostic impressions; 5) formulating treatment goals; 6) applying relevant research to both treatment planning and actual therapy; 7) engaging in effective therapeutic intervention; and 8) evaluating the progress made in therapy. This phase will take place during and be completed by the end of the fifth year of the program (beginning the second internship.) The purpose of this phase is to ascertain and prescribe whatever remediation is necessary before the final phase.

Phase IV: Final Clinical Examination. In this phase, the student will demonstrate final clinical competency as the last step before the faculty certifies the student's readiness to practice as a professional clinical psychologist. Competency will be assessed in an oral examination, part of which will include an actual observation or videotape of the student in a therapy session. This phase will take place during the last six months of the sixth year in the program.

Integration Seminars

The curriculum in the integration of theology and the social/behavioral sciences is built on the conviction that while it is an endeavor which ultimately must engage each individual personally, integration is also a cognitive activity which involves the examination of basic presuppositions and includes intense conceptual reflection. Therefore, the curriculum plan is directed toward the enhancement and enrichment of this cognitive examination and conceptual reflection. The intention is that the dialogue which these seminars provoke will stimulate that personal and individual integration of faith and profession which is the goal of all training in the program. A minimum of four seminars is required to earn the M.A. degree in theology. Others may be taken as electives for that degree or in the general psychology requirements for the Ph.D. degree.

Three types of structured educational experiences comprise the curriculum model of integration. They are Introductory, Basic and Topical Seminars.

Introduction to Integration (PS580). This introductory seminar attempts to provide the student with essential understandings of presuppositions, tools, paradigms and approaches to the integration of the social/behavioral sciences and the Christian faith. It is a foundation for other study, and must be taken prior to enrolling in any other integration seminar.

Basic Seminars (PS581). These seminars deal with seminal and perennial questions in integration. Such matters as the nature of conversion, the meaning of psychopathology and sin, the use of psychology in understanding Scripture, the essence of personhood and the process of development and sanctification are considered. Ten such seminars are offered on a one-quarter, three-year cycle:

- Psychological and Theological Perspectives on Social Issues
- The Nature of Persons
- The Use of Psychology in Understanding Scripture
- Scriptural and Psychological Development
- Process of Change: Conversion, Healing, Salvation
- Healthy and Psychopathological Religion
- Biblical and Psychological Perspectives on Jesus Life Goals, Health and Sanctification
- Christian Community and Reconciliation
- Sin and Psychopathology

Topical Seminars. These seminars address topics of special interest in the integration enterprise on an occasional basis. They are offered as interest arises on a periodic basis. The annual Finch Symposium, in which an outstanding integrator presents lectures to which theology and missions faculty respond, is one such Topical Seminar, offered each winter quarter.

Research

Underlying the program's commitment to the scientist/professional model is the conviction that every clinical psychologist graduating from Fuller should possess expertise in research/evaluation skills and that knowledge derived from empirical methodologies should undergird all of his or her activities as a professional. Students are therefore trained to immerse themselves in the relevant psychological literature as they take general psychology courses, as they choose and evaluate psychological assessment approaches and methods of intervention, as they participate in the theology integration portion of the curriculum, and as they complete the required formal research projects. It is the general expectation that the master's project, the doctoral dissertation, or both will be empirical in nature.

Training in empirical methodology takes place in the context of the community of scholarship. Several professors have ongoing research groups in which their advisees and other interested students participate. Students are encouraged and trained to make presentations at the conventions of professional organizations and to publish their findings in appropriate professional journals.

Typical Progress

Students granted advanced standing because of previous graduate work in psychology generally complete first year requirements and begin the clinical psychology sequence during the first year in the program, thereby reducing by one year the length of time required for them to complete the program. Students who have completed programs of graduate study in theology are not considered for advanced standing, and do not begin the clinical sequence until their second year in the program.

The following table lists program requirements, the number of required units each year, units available each year to be used at the student's discretion, and a recommended schedule for use of discretionary units. Considerable variation within this outline is possible. Individual courses required each year are identified in the course descriptions.

First Year
- Required Units (40)

Transfer of Credit

Students who have completed graduate work in psychology at other institutions and desire a reduction in the number of psychology credit hours which they must earn at Fuller to fulfill degree requirements should contact the Office of the Dean after admission. Approval of the student’s advisor and the dean is required. Transfer of credit does not necessarily mean that a particular course requirement will be waived, and waiver of a particular course requirement does not necessarily mean that graduate credits are being transferred. Waiver of a particular course requirement is a separate matter which necessitates a separate petition, also available from the Office of the Dean.

Students who have completed graduate work in theology and desire a reduction in the number of theology credit hours which must be earned at Fuller to fulfill degree requirements should contact the Office of the Director of Student Services.

Terminal Master’s Degree

A Master of Arts degree in psychology is granted only when a student has formally terminated from the program, and when the following requirements are satisfied:

- Completion of 48 hours of psychology courses, including the sequence on statistics and research methods, with a minimum grade point average of 3.0.
- Completion of a master’s level research project under the direction of a faculty advisor, or the passing of the Comprehensive Examination (which is currently a score of 650 on the Advanced Test in Psychology of the Graduate Record Examination).
- A residence requirement of three quarters.

Advancement to Candidacy Status

A student shall formally be considered a doctoral candidate when the following criteria have been met:

- Passing the comprehensive examination.
- Satisfactory completion of the clinical sequence.
- Satisfactory acceptance of the master’s project
- Formal faculty approval.

The transcripts of students who have met these criteria will include a notation that they have achieved candidacy status. A letter will be sent to students informing them of their candidacy.

Graduation and Commencement

A student may graduate at the end of any quarter after all requirements have been met. However, in order to participate in the June Commencement exercises, a student must have 1) completed all coursework, 2) completed the clinical evaluation and dissertation final oral by the date specified, and 3) contracted to complete the second internship by no later than September 30 following the June commencement exercises. An updated schedule of deadlines for each requirement leading to graduation is included in the Psychology Student Handbook.

Clinical Training

The Clinical Training Program stresses a functional approach to case management. In such an approach, the emphasis is placed on psychological assessment which is aimed at decision-making and psychological interventions which are aimed at producing specified therapeutic changes. The primary commitment is to help people solve their problems and to prevent them from the development of new ones. Although the various faculty members represent many theoretical orientations, the traditional “schools of psychotherapy” are de-emphasized. Students are expected to become familiar with the major assessment and therapeutic tools which have been scientifically validated.

Several assumptions underlie the clinical training:

- Clinical psychology is a field that is rapidly growing and changing;
- A flexible training program which encourages questioning, research and innovation provides the greatest benefits to the future demands of psychology and society;
- A sound knowledge of general psychology is important to the practice of clinical psychology regardless of the direction that the latter may take;
- Since clinical psychology deals mainly with interpersonal relationships, the clinical psychologist must learn to be sensitive to the major variables which affect the way one person responds to another;
- Quality and breadth of experience are more important than the number of experiences;
- No department of psychology has adequate staff or facilities to expose its students to an ideal range of clinical populations and procedures; therefore, each clinical psychology training program must seek the cooperation of the major mental health facilities in its locale to assist in the clinical training of its students.

Training and Research Facilities

The Psychological Center

Directed by Dr. Paul W. Clement, this Center is a novel complex, the purpose of which is to support the work of the faculty. The primary tasks of the psychology faculty are 1) to teach and train Christian persons as future clinical psychologists, 2) to conduct and supervise research on finding more effective ways to alleviate human suffering, and 3) to model the best of contemporary practice of clinical psychology.

The Psychological Center will eventually provide training for approximately 125 doctoral students a year. Too often the various health professions have engaged in competition rather than cooperation. An institute has been needed which explicitly promotes cooperation between disciplines. When fully developed, The Psychological Center will be such an institute.

Psychology is a relatively young science and profession, but it is one of the most frequently chosen academic majors in colleges and universities throughout the country. Psychology has produced a large body of knowledge and techniques which have great relevance for solving human problems and for promoting optimal functioning. Facilities are needed which encourage our future psychologists to apply the knowledge and techniques of their discipline to the solution of significant problems. Research conducted by creative clinical investigators is badly needed. The Psychological Center sponsors such research.

The Center has an unequalled opportunity to serve as a bridge between the secularly sponsored and religiously sponsored human service institutions of the Los Angeles area. In doing so, the faculty hopes to provide a model worthy of imitation throughout the country.

The Graduate School of Psychology began the expansion of The Psychological Center in 1976. This initial phase of expansion was made possible by a grant from the James Irvine Foundation. Since 1976 several other funding sources have assisted in the development of new facilities and programs. These sources include the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, the Jameson Foundation, the Pasadena Foundation, the California State Department of Health, the Pasadena Child Health Foundation, the United States Department of Health and Human Services and many individual donors.

The faculty developed the basic plan for The Psychological Center many years ago, but the plan was not implemented until the doctoral program has achieved full academic and professional accreditation. The master plan for The Psychological Center includes over 20 clinics, day treatment programs, residential treatment facilities and havens for respite care. These components of The Psychological Center will serve people across the life span, from the cradle to the grave.

Students who are in the Graduate School of Psychology during the next 10 years will have an opportunity to share in the excitement and challenge of developing the services, facilities, programs and projects which constitute the model for The Psychological Center. During their doctoral studies, most students will spend several years of field training in The Psychological Center.

The director of training for The Psychological Center participates in the selection of predoctoral interns for The Psychological Center facilities, and coordinates supervision and training events for both clinical trainees and interns. For the 1984-85 academic year, 15 Fuller students and 30 doctoral level students from other clinical psychology programs applied for internship placements at The Psychological Center.

The Psychological center consists of the following programs:

Child Development Clinic. This clinic was established in 1968 to provide professional services to the community, and clinical and research training for students. Many studies on child psychotherapy have been conducted at the Clinic. Some of these have been funded by grants from the National Institute of Mental Health. In addition to direct services to children, adolescents and their parents, the Clinic’s staff provides psychological consultation to teachers and other child care workers in the community. The building housing this clinic contains offices, group therapy rooms, observation rooms, a children’s therapy room and testing interviewing rooms. Video recorders and other electronic devices are used to improve the quality of care provided at the Clinic.

Covenant House. Covenant House, a therapeutic community-based residential program for developmentally disabled children who manifest severe behavior problems, has been in operation since 1979. The staff of faculty and students provide day to day care in conjunction with behaviorally-based therapeutic services, which are structured into the children's activities. Students typically make a one-year commitment to work at Covenant House, for which they receive a training stipend. Interest in this program should be indicated when applying for admission to the psychology program.

Pasadena Community Counseling Clinic. This clinic is staffed by faculty and students who serve the community in assessing and treating a wide variety of adult clients. It was established in 1964 to provide the school with its first clinical training facility. The clinic's facility contains offices and rooms for assessment and psychotherapy, and for conducting conferences and seminars. It also houses clinical biofeedback instruments.

Stop Abusive Family Environments (SAFE). This is a domestic violence program which focuses on spousal abuse. The program began in 1981. Based on an advocacy model, it utilizes community resources which are available to battered spouses and provides counseling services as well.

Inter-Community Alternatives Network. I-CAN is a research and training facility developed by The Psychological Center in 1980. It is a day treatment program for chronically mentally ill adults. I-CAN offers an alternative to hospitalization. A support system for participants is developed, and skills essential for independent living are taught by students, staff and volunteers. The program includes several therapeutic components, including individual psychotherapy, client, government, social skills training and vocational rehabilitation.

Heritage House for Gerontology Services. In 1979 all outpatient services for older adults were consolidated under one roof: a spacious residence, the vintage architecture of which reflects Pasadena's rich cultural heritage. The director coordinates several programs for older individuals, as well as outpatient counseling for any older person or family member. The Crime Resistance Involvement Council (CRIC) has been in operation since 1976. The staff includes senior volunteers, clinic staff and student interns. The team is dedicated to helping older victims of crime with financial, social and emotional assistance, and educating older persons in methods of crime prevention.

Community Assistance Program for Seniors (CAPS) In-Home Services and Day Treatment. The CAPS programs are designed to avoid premature institutionalization of older, frail or handicapped persons by using resources presently available in the community. The CAPS In-Home/Day Treatment programs began operation in 1981. Program staff members use a case management model as they coordinate in-home care for the elderly and handicapped. The program includes a day care center for older adults. This multidisciplinary program focuses on the social, spiritual and occupational needs of seniors.

Project IV Family Outreach. Project IV Family Outreach is a novel program involving cooperation between The Psychological Center, the Pasadena Mental Health Center, Foothill Family Service and Pasadena Guidance Clinics. These four agencies provide staff for a common project, established in 1981, which is housed in the central offices of the Pasadena Unified School District. The primary purpose of the program is to identify and evaluate persons who are at high risk for educational, psychological and social problems, but who tend to underutilize traditional forms of mental health services. The staff works to link clients with the most appropriate services in the community.

Church-Based Human Services Network. The purposes of the Network are to evaluate community and congregational needs, to conduct long-range planning for services, to promote meaningful ministries through individual congregations, to inform parishioners and the general public about the human services of the local churches, to develop a model which will have value to other communities, and to promote stewardship of available resources. The Network was established in 1980 as an outgrowth of a long-term commitment by the School of Psychology to find ways of helping local churches to minister more effectively to the needs of the members of their congregations and the surrounding community. The Network involves a very large number of cooperating local churches.

Psychophysiological Laboratory

This laboratory is equipped with the modern electronic instruments used in the study of psychophysiological phenomena. The action of the central and autonomic nervous systems is studied in relationship to such psychological factors as beliefs, attitudes and commitments. The equipment available for research includes a modern physiological polygraph and electroencephalograph, a multichannel instrumentation recorder and a computer and signal averager with realtime features. Lab equipment has been updated by a grant from the C.D.W. Corporation.

Computer Facilities

The School of Psychology has its own PDP 11 computer terminal which includes a line printer and a visual screen. The computer is programmed with the most up-to-date research statistics packages available. This system is made available to students for research purposes at no charge. A growing number of microcomputers is available on campus for computer searches and data analysis. Students are encouraged to develop skills in computer use.
Major Components

Training in clinical psychology includes experiences and supervision in research, psychological assessment (interviewing, observing, testing, etc.), psychological intervention (behavior modification, community consultation, crisis intervention, psychotherapy, etc.), personal growth and integration and communication of information.

Experience in Research

The developing pattern of research training at Fuller involves three overlapping learning processes. These include classroom instruction, apprenticeship and faculty modeling. First, a thorough program of classroom instruction is viewed as a necessary base for each student. In this connection, the student is involved during the first year in the basic sequence of statistics and experimental psychology. This introduction culminates in the planning and execution of a master’s level research project. This project is completed under the close supervision of a faculty member and is considered as a research experience introductory to doctoral research.

Secondly, a basic notion of the training design requires the student to be involved continuously in research on an apprenticeship basis throughout the program. From as early in the program as possible the student works under the immediate supervision of a faculty member. During the first two years, the student becomes involved in the faculty member’s own ongoing research program. Early in the third year, the student begins independent research—identifying a problem and performing various research operations. During the fourth year, a student is expected to complete a proposal for dissertation research, and the final three years are spent in the completion of this project.

Thirdly, the student is expected to benefit from faculty models while moving toward a career of inquiry. Each faculty member is engaged in an ongoing program of research and strives through the association with their colleagues while moving toward a career of inquiry. This introduction culminates in the planning and execution of a master’s level research project. This project is completed under the close supervision of a faculty member and is considered as a research experience introductory to doctoral research.

Experiences in Psychological Assessment

Upon graduation each student will have had exposure to several target groups. The student will have observed children, adolescents, adults, and the aged. Cutting across these age groups, the student will have had assessment experiences with normals, psychiatric inpatients and outpatients, the physically handicapped, the developmentally disabled, the economically and socially deprived, minority groups and other client populations. In addition to acquiring experiences with a large number of different target populations, the student will have been introduced to the major assessment techniques. These include observation and description of behavior, interviewing, individual and group testing, special techniques of assessment such as psychophysiological measures of autonomic activity and other techniques which show promise of usefulness in psychological assessment. Meaningful assessment is oriented toward clinical decision-making.

Experiences in Psychological Intervention

The target groups for experience in intervention are essentially those listed for experiences in assessment. Each student is exposed to several systems of individual and group treatment. In addition to formal treatment techniques, the student has the opportunity to provide psychological consultation to such persons as teachers, parents, ministers and probation officers.

Experience Designed to Facilitate Personal Growth

In order to maximize the sensitivity of the future clinical psychologist, three formal programs are offered as part of the training:
- Professional/Personal Growth and Development seminars and workshops are offered throughout the year, focusing on various professional and ethical issues related to clinical psychology and personal growth. These are required for first-year students.
- There is intensive clinical supervision of all work with a focus placed on the student’s own personality as well as on the personality of the client.
- Students are encouraged to participate in two years of individual and/or group psychotherapy. The cost is partially subsidized by the school, and students are provided with a list of therapists willing to see students at a reduced fee. Students are free to decide whether they will enter therapy; however, psychotherapy may be recommended by the student evaluation committee. This committee, composed of three School of Psychology faculty members, convenes annually for the review of students referred to the committee by the full faculty.

Courses of Study

For any course title including the word “seminar” either student or faculty may suggest areas for study. The particular topic covered is indicated on the student’s transcript. A seminar may be repeated for credit as new areas of study are included. The unit credit for any course offering is listed at the end of the course description.

In determining the number of credits to assign to a variable credit course such as PS505, PS596, or PS600,
1.6 credits are given for each half-day (four hours) per week spent on the course for the full-quarter. Partial credit is rounded off to the nearest whole credit. For example, PS568 (Pre-Internship) occupies three half-days a week, producing 4.8 credits per quarter which are rounded off to 5 credits per quarter.

School of Psychology Faculty

- Lee Edward Travis, Distinguished Professor of Psychology
- Warren S. Brown, Jr., Professor of Psychology
- Paul W. Clement, Professor of Psychology
- Richard L. Gorsuch, Professor of Psychology
- Archibald Daniel Hart, Professor of Psychology
- Henry Newton Malony, Professor of Psychology
- Hendrika Vande Kemp, Associate Professor of Psychology
- Winston Earl Gooden, Assistant Professor of Psychology
- Linda L. Mans-Wagener, Assistant Professor of Psychology
- Charles R. Ridley, Assistant Professor of Psychology

COURSE DESCRIPTIONS

NOTE: Designations such as "First year" indicates that the course is required during that year of the program sequence.

PS 500 History and Systems of Psychology. Traces the emergence of psychology as an independent discipline from its roots in philosophy and the natural sciences. (First year) (4)

PS 501 History of Psychology Seminar. Intensive treatment of specific topics in the history of psychology. (Offered on demand) (4)

PS 502 Philosophy of Science. An exploration of epistemological and metaphysical issues, types of inference and reasoning processes and freedom and determinism. (4)

PS 503 Philosophy of Science Seminar. Intensive treatment of specific topics in the philosophy of science. (2)

PS 504 Philosophical Psychology. An overview of the philosophy of psychology. (4)

PS 505 Philosophical Psychology Seminar. Intensive treatment of specific topics in philosophical psychology. (2)

PS 506 Independent Readings. Special or advanced reading in areas not covered by other courses in the curriculum. The topic(s) covered is indicated in student's transcript. May be repeated for credit if a new topic is chosen. Prerequisite: Permission of sponsoring professor. (Variable credit)

PS 507 Practicum in the Teaching of Psychology. These seminars are designed to provide the student with background and experience in college and university teaching. Occasional seminars will be offered by the faculty to cover basic teaching skills and professional issues in teaching careers. The Seminar may also be taken as an independent study. (2)

PS 510 Physiological Psychology. An overview of the major theories, issues, data and research methodologies of physiological psychology. (4)

PS 511 Physiological Psychology Seminar. Intensive treatment of specific topics in physiological psychology. (2)

PS 512 Human Neuropsychology. An overview of the behavioral and psychological manifestations of brain damage and disease in human beings. (4)

PS 513 Human Neuropsychology Seminar. Intensive treatment of specific topics in human neuropsychology. (2)

PS 514 Comparative Psychology. An overview of the major theories, concepts, issues, data and research methodologies of comparative psychology. (4)

PS 515 Comparative Psychology Seminar. Intensive treatment of specific topics in comparative psychology. (2)

PS 520 Psychology of Cognition. An overview of the major theories, issues, data and research methodologies of cognitive psychology. (4)

PS 521 Psychology of Cognition Seminar. Intensive treatment of specific topics in the psychology of cognition. (2)

PS 522 Psychology of Motivation. An overview of the major theories, concepts, issues, data and research methodologies of the psychology of motivation. (4)

PS 523 Psychology of Motivation Seminar. Intensive treatment of specific topics in the psychology of motivation. (2)

PS 524 Psychology of Learning. An overview of the major theories, concepts, issues, data and research methodologies of psychology and learning. (4)

PS 525 Psychology of Learning Seminar. Intensive treatment of specific topics in the psychology of learning. (2)

PS 526 Psychology of Perception. An overview of the major theories, concepts, issues, data and research methodologies of the psychology of perception. (4)

PS 527 Psychology of Perception Seminar. Intensive treatment of specific topics in the psychology of perception. (2)

PS 530 Social Psychology. An overview of the major theories, issues, data and research methodologies of social psychology. (4)

PS 531 Social Psychology Seminar. Intensive treatment of the specific topics in social psychology. (2)

PS 532 Psychology of the Family. A theoretical overview of family development and the eight dimensions of healthy family functioning. These concepts are applied to the student's family of origin. (4)

PS 533 Psychology of the Family Seminar. Intensive treatment of the basic family themes and dimensions of family functioning and therapy. (2)

PS 534 Psychology of Religion. An overview. Includes beliefs concerning existence and the character of divine events, worship and rituals, conversion experiences, theological knowledge. (4)

PS 535 Psychology of Religion Seminar. Intensive treatment of specific topics in psychology of religion. (2)

PS 536 Ethnic Issues in Clinical Psychology. An overview of the major psychological and sociological theories, issues, and research pertaining to three ethnic groups: Asian, Black and Hispanic Americans. Special emphasis on the impact of the therapist's values and theoretical orientation to the ethnic client. (2)

PS 537 Group Processes. An overview of the major theories, concepts, issues, data and research methodologies of the psychology of small groups. (4)

Clinical Faculty Members

The following is a list of professionals employed by the centers at which School of Psychology students receive their field training who provided supervision to students during 1983-84.

Clinical Professors of Psychology

Armand A. Alkire, Ph.D., Veterans Administration Medical Center, Sepulveda, CA
Lawrence Allman, Ph.D., Veterans Administration Medical Center, Sepulveda, CA
Irving Borstein, Ph.D., Veterans Administration Medical Center, Sepulveda, CA
Gordon A. Braatz, Ph.D., Veterans Administration Medical Center, Sepulveda, CA

They are taught by faculty teams from the joint faculty who offer specialized courses. The courses on a one-time basis.

Identify current issues of interest to them. These are usually addressed on an occasional basis.

PS 582 Topical Integration Seminar. These seminars address selected topics in integration on an occasional basis. They are taught by faculty teams from the joint faculty who identify current issues of interest to them. These are usually offered on a one-time basis. (4)

PS 583 Special Projects in Integration. Special projects in conceptual-theoretical integration of psychology and theology, research in religious behavior and professional integration. May not count as one of the four required integration courses. May be used for elective credit. By permission of professor. (Variable credit)

PS 590 Statistics. Concepts and techniques of analyzing and interpreting research data. Fall (First year) (4)

PS 591 Introduction to Experimental Design. Fundamentals of the application of the experimental method in the study of behavior. Prerequisite: PS590. Winter (First year) (4)

PS 592 Advanced Experimental Design. Emphasis is placed on the discovery of a problem, individual work in planning, execution and reporting of an experimental investigation. Prerequisite: PS591. Spring (First year) (4)

PS 593 Psychological Tests and Measurements. An overview of the methodologies and concepts involved in the selection and use of assessment instruments. (First year) (4)

PS 594 Seminar in Statistics. Intensive treatment of specific topics in statistics. (2)

PS 595 Research Seminar. Intensive study of research methodologies. (2 or 4)

PS 596 Individual Research Projects. Experimental field observations or survey research on a specific problem. Includes master’s-level projects (but not doctoral dissertation research). May be repeated for credit. Prerequisites: PS590-592 and permission of the sponsoring professor. (Variable credit)

The Institutes

Fuller Theological Seminary is committed to meeting the needs of churches, Christian organizations, and the people who are serving or preparing to serve in them. The Seminary's primary means of carrying out this mandate is through the degree programs of the Graduate Schools of Theology, Psychology and World Mission, preparing men and women for the many and various ministries of the church, and providing advanced training for those already engaged in ministry.

In order to make the resources of the three Schools more available to those engaged in work and ministry, and to gather educational resources to focus on specific needs of churches, specialized ministries and Christian organizations, Fuller Theological Seminary has developed the following Institutes. These special programs

- Employ alternate systems for the delivery of education, such as convocations, seminars, symposiums and workshops;
- Join theology, psychology and missiology with other disciplines to address specific areas of ministry and need, such as youth ministries and marriage and family ministries, church growth, and the management of Christian organizations;
- Utilize the professional expertise of para-church ministries, such as Young Life and the Fuller Evangelistic Association;
- Make non-degree study and continuing education available to those involved in ministry.

The histories, philosophies, aims and general curricula of these programs are described below. Specific information on degrees or concentrations offered through these programs may be found under the respective degree program sections of the three schools.

Continuing Education Units. Many of the events (seminars, conferences, workshops) sponsored by the Institutes, as well as many courses offered by the three Schools of the Seminary, may earn Continuing Education Units (non-credit units). One Continuing Education Unit (CEU) is defined as ten contact hours of satisfactory participation in an approved course or seminar. The CEU system provides a uniform method of measuring and recording of non-credit post-secondary level study. Professionals in a variety of fields, such as pastors, Christian school teachers, nurses, denominational executives and leaders of parachurch organizations, can use the CEU records to verify an educational experience that has helped them maintain or improve their skills. Fuller's Council on Continuing Education can grant CEU recognition to any Seminary-sponsored event which meets CEU guidelines.

Participants in an approved Seminary-sponsored event may apply for CEU's only if they are not taking the course or seminar in question for academic credit (that is, they must be course auditors or participants in a non-credit special event). A one-time fee will be charged to set up a Continuing Education Unit file in the Registrar's Office. Under no circumstances will CEU's be transferred as academic credit.

LOWELL W. BERRY INSTITUTE FOR CONTINUING EDUCATION IN MINISTRY

The purpose of the Lowell W. Berry Institute is to provide a system of continuing education events to church professionals and lay leaders. These events provide a unique resource to the church and the community in specialized areas of theology and ministry.

The Institute participates each year as a sponsor of one major multi-session national conference. The National Convocation of Christian Leaders, an ecumenical, evangelical gathering of Christian leaders, both lay and professional, with a focus on seeking, finding and sharing more effective means of ministry, is scheduled on a bi-annual basis as a part of this commitment. The theme of the most recent Convocation, held in San Diego, California in August, 1988, was "The Lordship of Jesus Christ and the Local Church." Other national conferences are planned for the alternate years. A recent example is the National Conference on Family and Marriage held in St. Paul, Minnesota in August, 1984, with the theme "Building the Church Through Strengthening Its Families."

The Institute also sponsors regional conferences, such as the annual Oak Brook Conference on Ministry held in Oak Brook, Illinois, and co-sponsored by Christ Church of Oak Brook. The Conference on Biblical Exposition is scheduled on the Seminary's Pasadena campus during the spring of 1989.

In addition, the Institute plans local workshops on specialized topics. A consultation on alcoholism—"Alcoholism: Your Church Can Help!"—is presented each spring. Two seminars with Dr. Clifford Penner and Joyce Penner on "The Gift of Sex" are scheduled each spring. Two seminars with Dr. David Clinton on "Serving the Sick" are scheduled each fall. The Institute also sponsors five or six seminars each year. The Theme for the 1985 Institute was "The Gospel: Its Impact on Your Church". The Institute also coordinates the annual Korean Pastors' Seminar, which allows working pastors associated with the Asian Center for Theological Studies and Mission in Seoul, Korea, to interact with Fuller Faculty members and to visit growing churches in Southern California.

Continuing Education Units (CEU's) are available for events sponsored by The Lowell W. Berry Institute.

INSTITUTE FOR CHRISTIAN ORGANIZATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

The Institute for Christian Organizational Development was established in 1981 to address the need for management training designed specifically for the Christian leader. The Institute offers graduate-level training seminars and short-term workshop experiences in various management areas. Week-long intensive seminars are scheduled on the Pasadena campus. One and two-day workshops are offered at a variety of locations around the country.

Participants on the Institute training events must be already engaged in a leadership role in ministry. Executives of Christian organizations, pastors, denominational and religious executives and leaders of parachurch organizations, can use the CEU records to verify an educational experience that has helped them maintain or improve their skills. Fuller's Council on Continuing Education can grant CEU recognition to any Seminary-sponsored event which meets CEU guidelines.

Participants in an approved Seminary-sponsored event may apply for CEU's only if they are not taking the course or seminar in question for academic credit (that is, they must be course auditors or participants in a non-credit special event). tional and mission executives, and Christian men and women carrying executive responsibilities in the corporate world form the primary constituency of the Institute. Special workshops and courses are developed for seminary students preparing for their leadership role in the Church and its varied ministries. These courses are offered on campus and through the School of Theology Extended Education Program.

The basic Institute curriculum is offered on two tracks, one for pastors leading to a concentration in Church Management within the Doctor of Ministry program, and one for executives, leading to a concentration in Christian Organizational Development in the M.A. or D.Min. programs of the School of Theology.

Regularly scheduled seminars in the Church Management concentration include:
- Church Management: Building People
- Leadership Development
- Church Planning
- Communicating the Local Church Ministry
- Church Business Administration

The concentration in Christian Organizational Development includes the following seminars:
- Leadership Development
- Strategic Planning
- Human Resource Management
- Communication Strategies
- Fund Raising
- Financial Management

Workshops and other short-term events are developed in response to identified needs in the church and para-church organizations. Workshops planned for 1984-86 include:
- Care and Motivation of Volunteers
- Direct Mail Fund Raising
- Public Relations
- Developing Leadership
- Participative Leadership

The faculty for the Institute are drawn from the ranks of faculty and administration of the Seminary as well as from the ranks of Christian leaders in ministry and para-church organizations. Workshops and seminars are offered on campus and through the School of Theology Extended Education Program.

with North Park Theological Seminary, and future seminars in this vital area are planned. Another example of the conferences sponsored by the Institute is “Growing and Leading A Multiple Staff Church,” scheduled for October, 1984 in Pasadena.

Academic credit is available to registered students for many of the Institute events through Fuller Theological Seminary. Continuing Education Units may be earned in place of academic credit.

Other services of the Charles E. Fuller Institute include personalized analysis and consultation for churches, custom-designed church growth training modules, and publication and distribution of church growth publications.

INSTITUTE OF YOUTH MINISTRIES

The Institute of Youth Ministries was established in 1977 to combine the theological resources of the School of Theology with the youth ministries and field training expertise of Young Life Campaign, a leading national evangelical Christian outreach to high school youth. The purposes of the Institute are:

- To provide an educational program in evangelistic youth ministries that integrates classroom study with extensive field training;
- To conduct ongoing training programs for those in evangelistic youth ministries, with particular attention to preparation for ministry on the staff of Young Life; and
- To encourage research in the field of evangelistic youth ministries.

The Institute of Youth Ministries offers a program of theological education leading to the professional Master of Arts degree or the Master of Divinity degree with a concentration in youth ministries. The program of study integrates a foundation of biblical and theological studies with a prescribed concentration in evangelistic youth ministries, designed in cooperation with the Ministry Resources Department of Young Life.

Although the Institute is designed primarily for persons preparing to serve on the staff of Young Life, other persons preparing for ministry with youth may pursue this concentration. Institute personnel and theology advisors will help design a curriculum to meet individual needs for preparation in this area of ministry.

Courses leading to a degree with a concentration in youth ministries may be taken at the Pasadena campus or at the extension sites of the Institute of Youth Ministries. Field education courses in the Los Angeles area are arranged by resident IYM staff. Biblical-theological courses and youth ministries courses are offered in Pasadena and on the summer campus of the IYM in Holland, Michigan. These courses are open to all Fuller students as space is available. In addition, students on the staff of IYM may complete the field education courses in the immediate context of their staff assignments. A two-year concentration in ministry to troubled youth is offered in Colorado Springs and Pasadena.

Statement on Sexual Standards and Marriage and Divorce

Preamble

We recognize that the power which Jesus Christ has imparted to his Church has among its purposes the redemption of our lives, including the formation and maintenance of the moral integrity of the community. Such power is an utter necessity in a world that challenges Christian integrity in every area, especially the areas of sexuality and marriage.

We know also that such integrity entails the struggle to understand what is required of us as Christians and the resolve to put that understanding into practice. Therefore, in matters of Christian conduct, mutual instruction and encouragement as well as open dialogue are desirable, as a Christian community seeks to help its members mature in their own lives and to prepare them to serve others who long for maturity.

This maturity ought to include the practice of loving confrontation when any member of a Christian community feels that another member is living in violation of what the Bible teaches about Christian conduct.
The Seminary, therefore, encourages individuals to follow, where feasible, the steps of confrontation and dialogue described in Matthew 18:15-22. Where these steps either discover that no wrongful conduct has taken place or they prompt repentance and change of conduct on the part of the one who has violated the biblical standards, the matter may be dropped.

Whenever circumstances warrant, however, the Seminary itself will assume responsibility for investigation and subsequent procedure of discipline as described below.

The use of the policies here stated should always be viewed as a last resort. In no way do they exempt the Seminary from making every possible effort to encourage stable family life and wholesome approaches to sexuality, to provide education and counseling to those in need, to extend Christian charity to all parties involved in marital conflict or the struggle for sexual identity, and to demonstrate the personal forgiveness available through Christ for all human failure.

STATEMENT ON SEXUAL STANDARDS

Men and women of God are suited for Christian service by moral character as well as by academic achievement and spiritual gifts. They are qualified by compassion for individual persons, by sensitivity to the needs of the communities of which they are a part, by a burden that the whole of God’s will be obeyed on earth, by personal integrity, and by readiness to accept correction and a desire for moral growth. Candidates for a degree from Fuller are expected to exhibit these moral characteristics.

The ethical standards of Fuller Theological Seminary are guided by our understanding of Scripture and our commitment to its authority regarding all matters of Christian faith and living. The Seminary community also desires to honor and respect the moral traditions of the churches for whose students we seek to provide training. These moral standards encompass every area of life, but the confusion about this specific topic demands that the community speak clearly regarding sexual ethics.

Our understanding of a Christian sexual ethic reserves heterosexual union for marriage and insists on continence for the unmarried. We believe premarital, extra­martial, and homosexual forms of explicit sexual conduct to be inconsistent with the teaching of Scripture.

Consequently, we expect all members of the Seminary community—trustees, faculty members, students, administrators, and classified staff members—to abstain from what we hold to be un biblical sexual practices.

If any member of the administration, faculty, trustees, classified staff, or student body is charged with failure to abide by this Statement of Sexual Standards, the Seminary will invoke the procedures for investigation and, where necessary, discipline outlined in the Faculty, Staff, or Student Handbooks.

STATEMENT ON MARRIAGE AND DIVORCE

The Seminary’s biblical convictions and churchly responsibilities call us to make clear our commitment to Scripture’s teachings on the nature of marriage as a covenant. These teachings view marriage as a witness to the permanent relationship between Christ and his Church, and do not condone divorce as an acceptable way of solving marital problems.

Our concern for the sanctity of marriage must show itself in attitudes and programs that foster marital harmony and in support and compassion for those who struggle to keep their marriages stable, under the almost relentless pressures of our society. At the same time, our spiritual commitment requires fidelity within marriage and sexual continence outside of it for participation in the official life of the Seminary, whether as trustee, faculty member, student, administrator, or staff member whose position is classified as central to the religious goals and activities of Fuller (hereafter called “classified”).

The Seminary’s role in serving a multi-denominational constituency and in encouraging Christian ethical conduct among the leadership of the churches requires that the members of the Seminary community be exemplary in these and all other ethical matters.

We take with full seriousness the apostolic pattern that sets up special qualifications in character and conduct for Christian leaders (e.g. 1 Tim. 3:1-13), including stability of marriage and family life. These qualifications are carefully considered in the selection of trustees, faculty members, administrators, and specially classified staff members. No divorced person will be called to any of these offices without a thorough review of the circumstances of the divorce by the Trustee Affairs Committee in the case of trustees, the Faculty Senate in the case of faculty members or academic administrators, and the Administrative Cabinet in the case of other administrators. Where the recommendation of the appropriate committee is to proceed with the appointment, the recommendation concerning trustees and non-academic administrators shall be submitted to the Board for final approval; recommendations concerning faculty members and academic administrators shall be reviewed by the Joint Faculty before submitting them to the Board for the final approval.

Where divorce occurs in the life of any trustee, faculty member, administrator, or classified staff member, while officially related to the Seminary, the person is to notify the President of the divorce proceedings by the time of the interlocutory judgment of dissolution and simultaneously submit a letter explaining the circumstances. The President will review the circumstances of the divorce in the light of biblical norms with the appropriate committee (Trustee Affairs Committee in the case of trustees, Faculty Senate in the case of faculty members or academic administrators; Administrative Cabinet in the case of other administrators) and will inform the person of the committee’s recommendation as to whether or not his/her status in the Seminary can be continued. The committee's recommendation will be reviewed by the Executive Comnittee of the Board who will have the final authority to decide whether the Committee's recommendation will be accepted.

Where a student undergoes the tragedy of divorce while in any program of the Seminary, that student shall, by the time of the interlocutory judgment, report the matter to the Provost, who will determine whether any further investigation is necessary. If such further investigation is necessary, the process shall be carried out in accordance with the procedures for investigation and discipline defined in the Student Handbook.

In any of these cases, failure to report the divorce within thirty days after the interlocutory judgment shall be grounds for discipline.

"Because this position involves work central to the religious goals and activities of Fuller and the representation and espousal of such goals and activities, it is necessary to the normal operation of the Seminary and it is, therefore, required that the person to occupy this position subscribe to and execute a statement of faith."

Glossary of Terms

t to understand for students coming to Fuller from other educational systems. This difficulty is experienced by students from European educational systems as well as Third World students.

- Comprehensives: an examination or series of examinations to be taken as required parts of a degree program or for admittance to a higher degree program.
These may be based on knowledge gathered from all the course offerings, or from a specific set of cor courses, in which case they should be scheduled shortly after the completion of the core courses.

- Core Courses: basic required courses which form a necessary foundation for all other coursework in a specific degree program and, if possible, should be taken at the beginning of the program.

- Course: a specific field of study undertaken with a professor for a set period of time and for a specific number of units.

- Credit: acknowledgement that a specific course has been satisfactorily completed and is registered on the student's official record. Credit is received for any passing grade. Another meaning of "credit" is that of a measure of credit, for example, "four credits" or "four units of credit" for a course. Normally a minimum of 25-30 hours of class time, research and study is required for each unit of credit that is earned for a class.

- Credit/No Credit: In certain programs, a student may choose not to receive a letter grade for a course completed. A student's work is then recorded as "credit" for pass and "no credit" for fail. All coursework is required and graded as it would be for a course which would receive a letter grade. This option is limited to certain degree programs, and in each program there is a limit as to how many courses a student may take in this manner.

- Cumulative Grade Point Average: a single decimal grade which is a numerical score representing the average of all letter grades received by a student for all courses completed. The cumulative grade point average is recorded on the grade card which reports the results of each quarter's work. See also "grade point average."

- Dissertation: the final written work submitted by a student as part of the higher degree requirements of a doctoral program.

- Elective: a non-required course, which may be chosen by the student for inclusion in his or her degree program alongside those courses required by the program. A number of elective courses must be taken to complete the total number of units in most degree programs.

- General Exams: a series of examinations required in School of World Mission degree programs, covering the five major fields of missiology. These are described more fully in the School of World Mission section of this catalog.

- Grade Point Average: the grade point average (GPA) designates the estimated merit of a student's work in the form of a decimal which represents a specific letter grade. Letter grades and their numerical values are listed on page 36 of this catalog. The GPA for a single quarter will be the grade point which results from the averaging of letter grades received in all courses for that quarter. See also "cumulative grade point average" above.

- Intensive Course: a course offered over a two-week period of time within a quarter, instead of the entire ten weeks of the quarter. Such a course is scheduled to meet every weekday of the two week period, for three to four hours each day, so that the class meets the same number of hours as it would if it were scheduled for the ten week period. Courses are offered on this basis every quarter, and especially in the summer.

- Matriculation: the beginning of a course of studies. A "matriculation fee," which is applied against tuition, is required of students before they begin a course of studies. The date of matriculation is the time at which you register for your first classes. Deadlines for completion of degree requirements in some programs are measured from the date of matriculation.

- Priority Number: a number assigned to each student prior to registration for the next quarter which determines at what time the student may register. This allows students who are closer to graduation, and need particular courses to complete their requirements, to register first.

- Quarter: an academic term comprising a period of ten weeks. It is followed by one week for exams. Three quarters—fall, winter and spring—compose the academ-year. Courses are also offered during the summer quarter. Most courses last for one quarter.

- Thesis: a written work generally shorter in length than the dissertation, which may be required of certain master's programs.
Academic Calendar

More detailed calendars are published each year in the various student handbooks. This calendar is for general reference only, and may be superseded by other calendars published and distributed from time to time and by announced changes of the dates of various events listed here.

GIFT OPPORTUNITIES

The expenses at Fuller Theological Seminary are comparable to those of similar institutions and are kept so by the regular giving of interested Christian people. No students pay the complete cost of their education. Substantial sums are sought annually by the Seminary to make up the difference between what the seminarian pays and the actual cost of education.

There are many ways in which one can give to Fuller Theological Seminary. Appreciated securities or property, as well as life insurance, may be given to the Seminary with a considerable tax savings to the donor. Contributions may also be made with a retained life income through trusts or annuity agreements. Wise estate planning may also provide opportunities for conservation of wealth, as well as income and estate tax savings to the donor.

Investments in the lives of men and women who are training for Christian service at Fuller Theological Seminary may also be made by leaving funds for this purpose in one’s will. The legal form of bequest for Fuller Theological Seminary should read as follows:

I give, devise and bequeath to Fuller Theological Seminary, a California non-profit corporation, located at Pasadena, California, the sum of $__________
(or property herein described) to be used by its Board of Trustees as it may deem advisable for the benefit of the students of Fuller Theological Seminary.
