Biography

Donald W. Dayton (b. 1942 – May 2, 2020) was a professor of theology and ethics at North Park Seminary, Northern Baptist Seminary, Drew University, and Azusa Pacific University. He also served as President of the Wesleyan Theological Society and the Society for Pentecostal Studies.

Dayton was the eldest child of Wilber Dayton, a Holiness New Testament scholar and educator, and Donna Fisher Dayton, a public school teacher and seminary professor. Dayton studied at Columbia University, Houghton College (B.A. 1963), Yale Divinity School (B.D. 1969), Asbury Theological Seminary, and the University of Chicago (Ph.D. 1983). His dissertation was published as Theological Roots of Pentecostalism (Studies in Evangelicalism, Scarecrow Press, 1987), and has been translated into Korean and Spanish. Dayton retired to Pasadena, California in the early months of 2020, and died in May of that year. Dr. Dayton's death did not result from the COVID-19 pandemic.

Scope and Content

The Donald W Dayton Papers, 1980-2004 document Dayton's involvement in ecumenical activities, such as participation in scholarly associations and formal dialogues with representatives from differing forms of Christianity. Material formats include Dayton's published and unpublished essays, correspondence, conference materials, and photographs.

The archival collection supplements Fuller Theological Seminary's purchased acquisition of Donald Dayton's 22,000 volume library in 1991. The book collection includes strong sub-collections in Holiness and Pentecostal studies, American Evangelicalism, Abolitionism, and Barth studies. The Dayton library was integrated into the Fuller Theological Seminary main collection is available to researchers through local interlibrary loan systems.
