The ASSOCIATED STUDENTS of FULLER THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY are greatly disturbed, appalled, and angered that there has been repeated misuse of the Library facilities at the Seminary this past Fall quarter. Offenses breaking library regulations and common sense usage have included: (1) taking reference books out of the reading room (2) Marking library materials (3) Razor blading books to remove important pages (4) Hiding reserve books within the library to keep their use to oneself (5) Stealing books and periodicals. Some are returned, however, returned or not, taking a book out of the library without checking it out is theft. High academic pressure may cause some to rationalize their breaking of regulations. Unfortunately, such conduct hinders all students and faculty who use the library. Offenses are unethical and a breach of one's Christian responsibility to the Fuller Seminary community. The ASFTS realizes that the number of offenders is probably few. These few have become a nuisance. The ASFTS calls upon the student body to police itself, to exert social pressure on known offenders, and to practice proper and responsible use of the library. DT
