Biography

H Newton Malony (1931 - ) is a licensed clinical psychologist and United Methodist minister who has taught within the Fuller Theological Seminary School of Psychology since 1969. He has written or edited over 35 books related to the disciplines of theology, psychology, and their integration.

Dr. Malony earned an AB from Birmingham Southern College, an MDiv from Yale Divinity School; and MA and PhD from George Peabody College. H. Newton Malony was a “Travis boy,” hired by the School of Psychology’s founding dean Lee Edward Travis. The appointment of Malony and his colleagues supplied the requisite professors needed for the School’s accreditation. For 46 years, Malony aimed to instruct students regarding theological and psychological “integration at the level of principles, of profession, and of person, the 3Ps.” Malony’s passion proved highly instrumental in the development and stability of the School of Psychology, a strong example as it continues to integrate Christian faith with clinical practice.

A prodigious scholar, Malony's most recent publications include Living with Paradox: Religious Leadership and the Genius of Double Vision (1998) and Christ in the Heart of Psychology: The Early Years of Fuller Seminary's School of Psychology (1996). Malony has also maintained professional involvement in the American Psychological Association, California Psychological Association, Society for the Scientific Study of Religion, and American College of Forensic Examiners.
