RESTRUCTURING: KEEPING THE CAMPUS IN SUSPENSE
BY NORMAN GORDON

The Provost’s Proposal for Administrative Restructuring is currently being reviewed and will be discussed further by the Joint Cabinet on March 2 with the intention of full implementation by the beginning of the 1993-94 academic year, according to Dr. Paul Pierson, Associate Provost for Academic Affairs and chief architect of the Restructuring Proposal.

Working closely with Dr. Patrick Lattore, Associate Provost for Continuing and Extended Education, Pierson has spent the last five months canvassing vice-presidents, deans, midlevel managers, and students to prepare for the new President’s first year by streamlining the network of administrative offices on campus for a more effective, yet less costly system of services for students.

Although he would not comment on the details of the proposal, Pierson says he is particularly concerned about ways in which the institution can provide better pastoral care to students. He added that he would like to see the positions of Dean of Chapel and Director of Office of Christian Community enhanced.

The Joint Cabinet (President, Provost, 2 Vice-Presidents, 3 Deans, 2 Associate Provosts, and 1 Assistant Provost) upon receiving the proposal, will submit a recommendation this Spring to the Provost and President who will make a final decision on the restructuring.

Pierson is reviewing policies, positions, and procedures to see how user-friendly they can possibly be especially with respect to subtle racism or other disrespectful ways of treating students.

Whereas the academic structures themselves are outside the boundaries of the proposal, virtually all other offices accountable to the Provost (roughly all those housed on the East side of the grassy mall area) are subject to restructuring. The proposal may also include suggestions for offices under the Office of Development and cost-saving measures for those offices under the Vice-President for Finance.

Any questions regarding the proposal should be directed to the Provost’s Office.
