Biography

Thomas Lee Osborn (born December 23, 1923 – died February 14, 2013) is an American Pentecostal evangelist and author. He married Daisy Washburn Osborn in 1942 and they worked together as evangelists in the Pentecostal Church of God denomination. In 1944 they moved to Oregon and founded Mantaville Tabernacle which they pastored until 1945 when they were sent by the Church as missionaries to India. Returning to Oregon in 1946, they attended a William Branham healing meeting and became affiliated with his organization, Voice of Healing. Between 1950 and 1964 the couple held large crusades in 40 countries, many featuring dramatic healings and largescale evangelism. In 1956 they began to publish Faith Digest which reported on many of these crusades. In the sixties the Osborns turned their attention to teaching and Daisy spoke to women worldwide. They published books, videos and audio cassettes of their teachings. Many of these were translated into a multitude of other languages. Daisy passed away in 1995. T.L. continues in the ministry and their daughter LaDonna is now CEO of Osborn Ministries International, founded in 1949.

Scope and Content

The Osborn collections consists of the 23 volume Faith Library as well as a collection of audio and video tapes recording the messages and lessons of T. L. and Daisy Osborn and their daughter LaDonna Osborn. Also included are Manuals for the Life Discovery Bible Institute Bible Study Course. The Faith Library in 23 volumes: 20th century legacy of apostolic evangelism: autobiographical anthology of T.L. Osborn is a unique compendium of thousands of pages of historical data, periodicals, books, photographs, mission reports, letters, manuscripts, poems, brochures, leaflets, newsletters and diary notes, which together document his historic ministry of mass miracle evangelism in more than 80 nations.
