Biography

Duane Pederson (1938-), a key figure in the Jesus Movement, was raised in Minnesota and moved to California to pursue a career as an entertainer. He started the Hollywood Free Paper in 1969 as a Christian response to the countercultural underground newspapers. Circulation grew rapidly and the HFP became the most widely distributed Jesus paper, spreading news of the Jesus Movement from California to Europe. In an interview with a reporter, Pederson coined the term “Jesus People.” Through the Hollywood Free Paper, he became a well-known voice for the Jesus People throughout the 1970s, providing leadership and bringing cohesion to the Movement from California to Europe and Asia. Additionally, he sponsored many of the concerts at the Hollywood Palladium that drew together some of the best Christian musicians of the day. From the beginning, his ministry extended to the poor and marginalized. He worked extensively with Corrie ten Boom in ministry to prisoners, and he served as pastor of a church in Venice with an active ministry to street children. In the 1980s, Pederson became an evangelist in the Missionary Church and was later ordained as a priest in the Antiochian Orthodox Church. As of 2010, Pederson continues his ministry to prisoners and the poor.

“From 1969 through roughly 1975, the Hollywood Free Paper served as a tangible voice, gathering place, communication medium, and billboard for the Jesus Movement... At the peak of the Movement, the circulation of the HFP surpassed half a million copies. By the time he started the HFP in October 1969, founding editor Duane Pederson was already involved in street ministry on the gritty boulevards of downtown Hollywood, a shell of the once bright motion picture colony whose dark streets, then as now, were home to drug dealers, prostitutes and pimps. Every intersection was lined with newspaper racks offering lurid underground tabloids. ‘Everywhere I looked,’ Duane later recalled, ‘there were underground papers preaching revolution, sex, drugs, everything. I knew something was missing: there were no underground papers preaching the truth. Not a single one. I said, ‘Jesus, if You’ll give me the means with which to do it, I’ll put out a newspaper telling people about You.’ Three days later, ten thousand copies of the first edition of the Hollywood Free Paper rolled off the presses at a local printer, and Duane and his friends began handing them out on the streets of Los Angeles... Within two days, Box 1949 was jammed with mail from street people wanting to know more about Jesus and this new Movement. Many of the letters were scrawled in pencil and were barely legible, a few were typewritten, but all expressed the same hunger: ‘If your Jesus is really for real, man, I want to know more. I’d like to rap with you about the guy. Where can we meet? Are you gonna have another paper?’... Circulation grew rapidly, with much of the added readership coming from reprinting and distribution outside southern California in Kansas City, Minneapolis, Worcester, Detroit, and Cleveland. At the Movement’s peak the HFP was distributed in each of the 50 states and in nearly a dozen foreign countries. But ‘As far as we are able to recall,’ Duane would later write, ‘Every desperate cry for help has come from a Free Paper that they found in the gutter, or on the street, or in some dirty restroom or alley.’” —Mark Dixon, www.hollywoodfreepaper.orgportal.php?id=3
