Dear Abby....

In Search of Some Good Advice

While you may not be too keen on slipping an SOS to Dear Abby or sister Ann, there is one place you can go for some sound, informed and solid advice. It just so happens that we have on staff here at Fuller Seminary a team of professional advice-givers! We call them Academic Advisors. While they may not be too willing to advise you regarding that problem spouse, or your lack thereof, these 20 trained and skilled team members are ready and willing to assist you with all things academic. They will, of course, never blow their own trumpets, but we have heard reports that Fuller Seminary has been awarded recognition by the broader academic community for its unique model of peer-counseling in student advising. Our team changes a little each year. In this issue of the SEMI we want to take you on a gallop through the world of academic advice to meet our new team. So, grab your class request card, hold onto your hat and enjoy the ride!!

School of World Mission

Change is afoot in the world of SWM advising. Previously divided between two departments, now both Master’s and Doctoral programs will be handled by one advising team located in Payton 227. Ulf Lidman heads this 'new look' team of six advisors as the Director of Advising. Ulf and his wife, Maria, hail from Sweden and have two little boys. Prior to Fuller, they served with YWAM in Africa. Presently living in West Hollywood, they are actively engaged in ministry to those suffering with AIDS. Ulf has already

completed two degrees, an M.A. in Missiology and an M.Div.. He is about to enter into the Ph.D. program in Practical Theology.

Shelley Trebesch and Rick Kim work primarily with the M.A. and Th.M. students. Shelley is originally from Idaho and has spent several years in ministry with InterVarsity, most recently in Arizona. Studying in the M.Div. program, Shelley has a vision for leadership training with an international perspective.

Rick is a Korean-American, most recently from New York. He is married to Huikyong, and the proud father of six month old Karis. He completed his M.Div. at Westminster and has just finished an M.A. in Intercultural Studies here at Fuller.

Taking care of the Doctoral students in SWM are three advisors who are each enrolled in the Ph.D. program in Intercultural Studies. Kerry McLean, an Australian who has served many years in Papua New Guinea with the Asia Pacific Christian Mission, is especially interested in ministry with the immigrant population in Australia. A gifted teacher, Kerry plans to be engaged in teaching Urban Ministry in her home country. Aivars Ozolins, and his wife, Juta, are from Latvia, where they have been instrumental in the growth of the underground Church through the translation and distribution of Christian literature. Aivars completed post-graduate studies in England before coming to Fuller to focus on the area of leadership development in his Ph.D. Hal Thomas, originally from Washington, is the third member of this team. Hal and his wife, Nancy, are both students at Fuller. They were, for 17 years, missionaries in Bolivia engaged in church planting and education. They anticipate returning to ministry in South America at the conclusion of their programs. Nancy is also an integral part of the SWM team, working with students in the finalizing of dissertations and assisting with their preparation for graduation.

Shelley Trebesch, the Advising Coordinator, speaks excitedly of the ministry that the SWM team has to students. With a vast range of people to assist, from young American students fresh out of college to seasoned missionaries and international Church leaders, Shelley told us, "We have the world in our office on a daily basis." She continues, "We are here for the students. We're here to serve, to listen, to be a part of what God is doing in their lives. Our role is to help connect the students with the resources they need to get the most out of their Fuller experience."

School of Psychology

If you wander into the reception area of the School of Psychology and peek around the partition just behind the receptionist's desk, chances are you'll catch a glimpse of Maryan Hinkel. Maryan has been a member of staff in the SOP for the last four years, but only in the last year has she been the Coordinator of Academic Affairs, responsible for academic advising for over 220 students in the Clinical Division. Married for 38 years, Maryan has four grown children and boasts of being one of those rare 'natives' of Los Angeles. When we asked her what she enjoys most about her job, she responded immediately, "The students!" "See the cards up there," she continues, as she points to the wall of her partition covered with cards and notes, "The students write me little notes and say, 'We're so glad you're in this position."

"You do such a great job! They are always so encouraging." Spending just a brief time with Maryan helps you to understand why she is so appreciated. And what does she want her students to know? "That I am here to serve them. If I can't help them with something, then I'll be sure to point them in the right direction so they can find the help that they need."

Hidden away in a corner of the third floor of the Psychology building is a little office which is home to academic advising for the Marriage and Family Division. Looking after the "140 plus" students in both Master’s and Doctoral programs are Carolina Warner and Tami Mitsumori-Miller. Tami is a newcomer to the advising office, but an old hand at Fuller. She is moving into her third year in the MS MFT program, and is married (as of August 6th this year!) to fellow MFT student Michael Miller. Congratulations, guys! Tami grew up an M.K., a Japanese citizen...

SWM INVITATION
The Consortium of Urban Leadership Development (COULD), of which Fuller is a founding member, is inviting the Fuller community to attend a lecture by the Rev. Eric Law. Rev. Law is a trainer and consultant in multi-cultural congregation relations and author of The Wolf Shall Dwell with the Lamb: A Spirituality for Leadership in a Multicultural Community (Chalice Press, 1993). He will be speaking September 17, at 7 pm, at Immanuel Presbyterian Church, 3300 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles. If you have questions, call 909-626-3521.

BRIEFLY SPEAKING!

The President’s Office recently announced the appointment of Ann McKusick as Vice President for Development. Ann has served with the World Vision organization for the last 13 years, most recently as the Senior Director of National Resource Development. She will commence her duties at Fuller in September.

The School of World Mission has extended invitations to the following adjunct faculty members to teach in the fall quarter:

Richard Clinton, “Basic Leadership Emergence Patterns.”
Stephen Hoke, “Introduction to International Community Development.”
Nancy Thomas, “Writing for Publication in the Two-Thirds World.”
Thomas Wolf, “Urban Church Planting.”

The Provost, Dr. Robert Johnston, has announced the appointment of Mr. Robert Freeman as Associate Provost of Continuing and Extended Education, commencing officially in January 1995. Mr. Freeman comes to Fuller from Gordon Conwell Theological Seminary where he has served as Director of Continuing and Distance Education Programs at the Ockenga Institute.

Joining the School of Theology faculty at our Seattle Extension in the fall quarter will be Dr. Charles J. Scalise as Associate Professor of Church History, and Dr. Pamela J. Scalise as Associate Professor of Old Testament. Both Charles and Pamela come to us from The Southern Baptist Theological Seminary.

born in India and raised in Bolivia, India, Japan and the U.S. Her parents are still serving as missionaries in Bolivia today. Carolina is in her third year of the MS MFT program, having previously studied psychology as an undergraduate at Bethel College in Minnesota. She also has a Master’s degree in theology from Bethel Seminary. As a proud mid-westerner, Carolina made the trek further west for the unique opportunity to integrate theology and psychology in therapy. When asked what was inspiring about advising students in the Marriage and Family program, Carolina responded, “It is the interaction with the students and being in touch with the policies so that we can effectively guide the students through the process. It’s easy to get lost! Knowing who the students are and connecting with them on a personal level too ... that would be the key.”

School of Theology

The new school year brings a number of changes in the SOT advising office. Gwen Garrison moves into her fourth year as the Director of Academic Advising. Gwen brings to her position unique skills and insights as Fuller’s first graduate in the Christian Higher Education program. She is enthusiastic about the role the advising staff play in the life of the seminary; “Our goal as advisors is to help students have a quality academic experience.” Kay Terrell, formerly a part-time advisor, is now a full-time member of the team, having graduated in June. Kay will take care of the Family Pastoral Care and Family Life Education concentrations. She also has a special assignment coordinating the advising department’s contribution to New Student Orientation. Garrett H. Omata, who served last year as part-time Program Assistant and SEMI Designer, will also be a full-time advisor, handling Pre-Ph.D., Old Testament and Semitic Studies concentrations. Garrett, among his many interests, is adamant that one day he will teach a course on the theology of super-hero comic books!

Joining the team this year are another five part-time staff members. David Holder is coming on board as the advisor for the Multicultural Studies concentration. David is in the third year of his M.Div. program and comes from New York. He has an interest in Ph.D. studies. He is also a member of the Fuller Gospel Choir. Brenda Holt, a second year M.A. student, will be handling the theology component for School of Psychology students. Brenda comes to us from Texas via Australia, where she married current SEMI editor Simon Holt. Brenda is an English teacher by profession, with a vision to be better equipped to impact the lives of her students.

Scott Palmbush is a third year M.Div. student who will be taking over the Christian Formation & Discipleship, Presbyterian Ministries and Youth Ministries concentrations. Scott is proud to call Montana home and is preparing for ordination with the Presbyterian Church.

Katherena Higashi, a third year SWM student, will be taking over the Cross-Cultural Studies concentration. Katherena was married in May and is involved with her husband in planting a church in the Pasadena area. A Korean-American, Katherena left an architectural career to commence studies at Fuller. Last but not least, taking over the role of Program Assistant will be Joelle Beller, who will be starting her first year as a student at Fuller this fall. Joelle will be handling Limited Enrollment Students, and will be in charge of keeping the team coordinated and organized. She comes to us from Sacramento via Colorado. While Joelle studies at Fuller her husband will continue his career with Southwest Airlines.

With over 1,000 students to care for, extension students to oversee, and the registering of another 200 newcomers in the fall, the SOT team is already hard at work.
The Discipline of Community
Katie Price Foster, Assistant Director

One day I walked into our office and Ellen had posted in bold, green letters on the wall:

"The discipline of community makes us persons, that is, people who are sounding through to each other a truth, a beauty, and a love which is greater, fuller and richer than we ourselves can grasp. In true community we are windows constantly offering each other new views on the mystery of God’s presence in our lives." (Henri Nouwen)

Is community really a spiritual discipline? Community makes us more richly human, AND community brings out the part of us that is more truly godly. No wonder the devil works against community, leaving division in his path. No wonder within me there is so much resistance to being real with others, to sharing intimately, to confession, to giving and receiving forgiveness. I’m wondering what the riches of God’s grace would bring if we as a seminary community practiced the discipline of community more regularly?

Woek: Beginning Our Journey

The Fall Orientation progran for new students is set to happen September 19-24. Our Orientation Coordinator, Deborah Payne, outlines the week and the opportunities for all of us to be involved. A full schedule also follows.

Do you remember what it was like being a new student at Fuller? All the unknowns, the adjustments, perhaps even some culture shock, all mixed in with the sense of anticipation and excitement about this new beginning. It was a new chapter in your story, an adventure of expanded perspective, growth and knowledge.

Each fall we admit 400 to 500 new students at Fuller. In addition we have over 100 newcomers in SOT and SWM join us in the winter, spring and summer quarters. As Coordinator for New Student Orientation I am often asked exactly what it is that I do to prepare for and “pull off” these orientations, particularly the ‘big event’ in the fall. I am also asked how people can be involved in this process of welcoming new students to our campus.

My half-time position in the Office of Student Services becomes full-time from July through September. In addition, I hire 6 to 8 on-call staff people who work 40 to 80 hours prior to and during the orientation week. Are you getting the sense that this is a huge undertaking? It is! There are countless planning meetings with creative and dedicated people from nearly every office on campus. With nearly 50 individual events and sessions that take place during the orientation week, there is an abundant amount of coordination, planning and strategizing to be done.

In late July we prepare invitation packets which are mailed to all students who are accepted for the fall quarter. As students arrive in September they receive another packet of information including a vast array of material which will help them in finding their ‘seminary feet!’ The preparation of this material alone is a big task.

Our theme for this year is “Beginning Our Journey.” As a Christian community, we welcome new students to journey with us during our days at Fuller. This theme will be used in a number of creative ways throughout the week.

A new event during orientation this year will be “Breakfast with the President.” On Monday, September 19, new students will have the opportunity to meet Dr. and Mrs. Mouw as their first experience at Fuller. Other highlights of the week will include orientation for international students, a lunch with faculty, an Ice-Cream Social, SOT open-house, SOP picnic, MF banquet and a SWM reception. There will be an information booth set up in the Mall during the week offering general information and campus tours. Hospitality Centers will also be located around campus and hosted by returning students and ASC officers. The week will conclude with a fantastic All-Campus Barbecue on Friday, September 24. It will be a festive atmosphere with balloons, great food and entertainment for all new and returning students and their families.

Students who entered Fuller during the last three quarters (winter, spring or summer) are invited to participate in their choice of orientation events. Just let me know in the Office of Student Services that you are planning to participate.

All other returning students, staff and faculty are welcome to join us for worship on Tuesday (8:30 am) and Wednesday (9:00 am) at the First Congregational Church. In addition, plan to attend the Ice-Cream Social in the Garth on Wednesday, and the All-Campus Barbecue on Friday. The cost for the barbecue is just $3 for all-you-can-eat. Children under 10 are free!

Would you like to be further involved?? We need people to meet and welcome new students in our Hospitality Centers and at our individual school events. We also need some helpers for our child-care program so that spouses can participate in some of the information sessions. If you are interested please call the Office of Student Services at 584-5435.

We each play an important role in welcoming new students to our campus and community! It is mutually beneficial to meet and interact with these new men and women who, like us, are responding to the call of God. Together we participate and prepare for the “manifold ministries of Christ and His Church.” #
