"If the praise of men elates me and his blame depresses me; if I cannot rest under misunderstanding without defending myself; if I love to be loved more than to love, to be served more than to serve, then I know nothing of Calvary love." Amy Carmichael

Have a racket? Will the person who, by mistake, picked up my nylon-strung tennis racket and can with 2 tennis balls from the top of the cement stove under the pavilion at the picnic, please return them to me. I have, in exchange, a gut-strung racket and a can with 3 balls which are not mine. Also, if anyone picked up my racket brace from the center court about 5:30 p.m., I would appreciate its return. F.M.F. - World News - Dr. and Mrs. Dean F. Saxton should now about this time be back in the Papago Indian Reservation at Sells, Arizona (P. O. Box 143) from the biennial meeting of Wycliffe Bible Translators in Sulphur Springs, Ark. They report translating a portion of Scripture and the writing of a Gospel message which they had opportunity to use in three Indian churches. In the future their work of Bible translation is expected to eclipse the time formerly spent in language study. How have you regarded the Master's call? Would you give the Good News to one of the more than a thousand tribes for whom no one has yet said, "Here am I, Lord, send me?" Here are Lucille Saxton's own words at the close of her cheerful letter: "Is there a tribe scattered on the mountains up some jungle river, waiting for you? And will it wait in vain until it is forever too late? Scattered sheep and helpless lambs for whom Christ died."
