Biographical Sketch

Amzi Clarence Dixon was born July 6, 1854 in Shelby, North Carolina, the son of Rev. Thomas and Amanda Elizabeth (McAfee) Dixon. In 1865, he was converted while his father was preaching and was baptized in 1866 by his father. In his youth he read the sermons of Charles Haddon Spurgeon and, through them, received an inspiration to preach the gospel. In 1869, Dixon entered Wake Forest College and, in 1874, received an A.B. and was ordained to the Baptist ministry. From 1874 – 75, he was pastor of Baptist churches in North Carolina. He continued theological studies at Southern Baptist Seminary, Greenville, S. C. from 1876 – 79 and attended the University of North Carolina while there as pastor.

Dixon married Susan Mary (Mollie) Faison in July, 1880, and the couple had five children: Howard, Mary Faison, Abner Faison, Clara, and Grace. Dixon was pastor of the Baptist church in Asheville, North Carolina from 1879 – 1882, and, from 1882 – 1890, he was pastor of Immanuel Baptist Church in Baltimore, Maryland. In 1886, he received the Doctor of Divinity from Washington and Lee University (conferred on him over his protest). He was pastor in Brooklyn, New York from 1890 to 1901 and in Boston, Massachusetts from 1901 to 1906.

For years, Dixon was closely associated with Lake Keuka Assembly in mid-western New York State and had association with men like R. A. Torrey, Len Go Broughton, Cornelius Woelfkin, Maltbie Babcock, and W. J. Erdman. In 1905, he attended the first Baptist World Congress held in London, England. From 1906 – 1911, he was pastor of Moody Church in Chicago, Illinois, and from 1911 to 1919, he was pastor at the Metropolitan Tabernacle (Spurgeon's), in London, England. From 1919 to 1922, Dixon lectured at the Los Angeles Bible Institute, Los Angeles, California, and for missionary conferences in China and Japan.

On August 6, 1922, Mrs. Dixon died in China, while attending a missionary conference with her husband. Dixon later was pastor in Baltimore, Maryland and attended the Baptist World Congress in Stockholm, Sweden. In 1924, Dixon remarried and traveled extensively in England and in the United States. He died June 14, 1925 in Baltimore, Maryland, and was buried in Druid Ridge Cemetery near that city. A. C. Dixon was a clergyman, pastor, and evangelist for more than fifty years, and his life's motto was "To me to live is Christ."

Scope and Content Note

The papers of Amzi Clarence Dixon, numbering approximately 6,100 items, are stored in 30 archival boxes and four scrapbooks. They contain an outstanding collection of sermons, sermon notes, and illustrations. The 130 sermons compose about one-half of the material. The correspondence section was used extensively for research in the writing of his biography, A. C. Dixon, a Romance of Preaching, by Helen C. A. Dixon. The manuscript of this book is also in the collection.

The correspondence is arranged chronologically within these categories: (1) family correspondence, originals and copies, (2) general, (3) letters from all over the world about Dr. Dixon's death in 1925, (4) some correspondence in the folders concerning A. C. Dixon's work in the various churches he pastored, and (5) in the folders of "Author, Lecturer and Traveler." The original family correspondence is well preserved, interesting, and important for its biographical content. There are two very old original letters: one written from La Grange, Tennessee has a canceled 2 cent stamp on the first page (envelopes were not always used at that time). The other letter is dated September 28, 1863, from a Civil War soldier, a cousin. The materials show how widely Dr. Dixon traveled to preach and speak in conferences.

The bulk of the material falls in the period 1870 – 1925. The main subject headings are biographical materials, book manuscript, booklets, church life and polity, conference work, correspondence, evangelism, Hanson Place Church, Immanuel Baptist Church, Los Angeles Bible Institute, Men and Movements, Metropolitan Tabernacle, London, England, Moody Church, Chicago, sermons, University' Baptist Church, Baltimore, and World War I.

Among Dixon's correspondents are: Annie Armstrong, Ralph Atkinson of Bible Institute of Los Angeles, Henry W. Battle, Charles A. Blanchard (President of Wheaton College), Charles T. Ball (President of Eastern Baptist Theological Seminary), Len G. Broughton, Prince and Princess Bernadotte, N. B. Broughton, George Dana Boardman, Mrs. Wilbur Chapman, John C. Calhoun (a relative of the more well-known one), J. L. Campbell of Carson Newman College, B. H. DeMent, F. H. Ford, J. M. Frost, Bishop C. D. Foss of Philadelphia, A. F. Gaylord, H. H. Hedley, R. G. (Bob) Ingersoll, J. William Jones, Edward Judson of Chicago University (son of Adoniram), F. H. Kerfoot, Melvin G. Kyle, Joseph W. Kemp, Joshua and Eugene Levering, W. C. Loundes, George O. Manning, F. B. Meyer, Charles C. McCabe, Ella W. McGill of London, Mrs. W. R. Nimmo, W. E. Needham, Louie D. Newton, French E. Oliver, Ambrose Pomeroy, Arthur T. Pierson (editor of Missionary Review of the World), J. E. Passmore, P. W. Philpott (pastor of Moody Church), T. H. Pritchard (President of Wake Forest College 1880), A. J. Rowland, Fleming H. Revell, W. B. Riley,

A. T. Robertson, Allan Sutherland (Executive secretary of Pocket Testament League), E. O. Sellers, George Stebbins, J. H. Shakespeare, Ruben Sailens of Paris, France, Thomas Spurgeon of London, England, Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Torrey, George W. Truett, T. DeWitt Talmadge, D. B. Towner, R. T. Vann, O.C.S. Wallace, John Wanamaker, George B. Wilmot, and E.Y. Woolley (Dixon's assistant in Moody Church).

A later addition to the collection includes two volumes of handwritten sermons, two scrapbooks, a book of his quotations, and some miscellaneous material. These items were given to the Historical Commission by Mrs. F. H. Richardson in August, 1963.
