We welcome to the pages of the SEMI Mrs. Phyllis Mouw, wife of our President, Dr. Richard Mouw. Trained as an Art Historian, Phyllis is mother to Dirk, a PhD student at the University of Iowa, and she is an active member of La Canada Presbyterian Church. In the following article she reflects on her role as a presidential spouse.

Not long after my husband was appointed President, we were visiting with an old friend, a former college faculty colleague whom we had not seen for several years. He was not overly impressed with the switch from an academic role to an administrative one. To demonstrate this point, he disdainfully asked, "But won't you have to do a lot of fundraising now?" My response was one that both my husband and I have reused many times since; "What committee meeting can match the satisfaction of having opportunities to talk to people about what a fascinating, vital place Fuller Theological Seminary is?"

I have been encouraged to think creatively about the role I play on and off campus, and how I can contribute to God's work in what we are doing here at FTS. A group of Trustees met with the two of us soon after my husband's selection. They strongly supported me in my sense that I was to be active in a role with the President in the important work of interpreting Fuller's life and mission. They encouraged me to travel and be with him in the many different publics he meets.

The job of interpreting FTS would be impossible if I were not intimately acquainted with the institution. I regularly spend time on campus. I am aware that there is much for me to learn about the people God has brought to FTS and the work for which they are preparing themselves. It takes ongoing involvement in many ways and on various levels (listening, thinking, reflecting, contributing, praying, planning,...) to be able to convey to outsiders the complex, compelling mission of this institution.

"We are learning new ways to be partners: respecting each other's needs and desires and respecting the opportunities that God gives each of us to serve Him."
FULLER IN ENGLAND

Taste and See that the Lord is Good

by Simon Holt, Editor

For most of us, week 1 of this spring quarter was spent negotiating last-minute room changes, scrambling for the remaining copies of required texts at the bookstore, and wondering just where spring break disappeared to so quickly! Not so for six members of our community.

On Saturday, March 27, Cathy Schaller, Spiritual Director with the Office of Christian Community, and five students from the Schools of Psychology and Theology boarded a plane bound for the United Kingdom. Their mission: To lead a 4-day spiritual renewal conference with key members of the Tilehurst Free Church in Redding, England.

Cathy explains, “The Tilehurst Church is actually made up of five congregations that meet separately on a Sunday morning in different parts of the city and then come together on a Sunday night for a common worship service. Each of these congregations is heavily committed to evangelism. In fact, the inner-city congregation has seen 40% conversion growth in the last year. Within this church is a group of intercessors who have been praying for spiritual revival for years and years. Just recently they have begun to see some amazing first-fruits. They are experiencing a lot of the same things that we have been hearing about in Toronto, and so they have witnessed a lot of conversions and signs and wonders, but this team of faithful intercessors has become really hungry. This so much reflected the heart of Jesus in ministry.”

Cathy continues, “I saw more deeply the way God accepts each one of us as we are, freeing us to be who we really are. I have come back to Fuller feeling much more settled.”

Brian Gregg, Sandra Gilbreath, Len Tang (MDiv), Laurie Sayler (MS MFT), Samantha Burg, and Gary Moran (MDiv, Burg (MDiv), and Laurie Sayler (MS MFT), were packed and ready to go. Friends Brian Gregg and Sandra Gilbreath also joined the team.

For all of the team members, being exposed to what God is doing in a different part of the world was challenging and exciting. One team member reflects, “Although cultural differences were certainly there, it didn’t separate us. We were really able to connect and minister, sensing that Christ really does transcend culture. It was relationship with Jesus that allowed us to connect.”

Results from such ministry are hard to measure, but the intercessors gave testimony to a renewing encounter with God through this time of ministry. Cathy reports, “The participants came expecting a ‘how to’ prayer seminar, another formula for breakthrough. Instead we talked about intimacy with God and resting in Him. So many reported that it was as if God came in underneath them and just lifted them up. They testified to a great joy and peace being released in their lives.”

After four days of intense ministry, teaching, and worship, all the team members agreed that what God had accomplished in their own lives was just as incredible as what He had done in the lives of the intercessors they ministered to. Gary Moran recalls, “I experienced the joy of Godthere. I feel as though God has released me to be more who He created me to be.” Medi Volpe agrees, “I saw more deeply the way God accepts each one of us as we are, freeing us to be who we really are. I have come back to Fuller feeling much more settled.”

Samantha Burg, who lived in Scotland for a year prior to coming to Fuller, testifies to the healing work God did in her life during this trip. Her first experience of this part of the world was not positive at all, and yet on this trip she was “embraced” by the people she ministered to. “It was incredible!”

Such is the enthusiasm of team members that they encourage all students to pursue such opportunities for experience and ministry. Medi comments, “We tasted God there. I don’t think there is a student at Fuller who would not benefit from tasting more of God. That’s what it’s all about. It’s why we are all here. It is our tasting of God that will be the power of our ministries.”

In reflecting back on this trip, team leader Cathy Schaller is enthusiastic in her estimation of the worth of such an experience. “I have done a lot of ministry trips over the years with a lot of different teams, but this was by far the most positive team experience I have ever had. There was no competition on the team, just a willingness to serve the people. The team was there to serve, even when they were tired, jet-lagged and hungry. This so much reflected the heart of Jesus in ministry.”

She continues, “If I had to sum up the trip in a word, it would be the word that God spoke to us while we were there, a prophetic word: Return! Return to God; return to one another. Isn’t this the longing of all our hearts? It is the desire of my heart as I return to my role in the Fuller community.”

There's No Such Thing as a Small Miracle

Every now and again, you meet someone through whom you catch a glimpse of the gentleness and graciousness of Jesus. For those of you who have shared a classroom or a lunch with James Putney, you’ll know what we mean. James is a second-year student in the MA program in the School of Theology. As Assistant Pastor at the OceanView Community Church in West Los Angeles, James is a counselor, a leader and a great supporter of lay people in ministry. As one who is daily aware of his own "disabilities," his choice of title for this article reminds us that God is never hindered by our inadequacies.

When I was asked to write an article about my experience at Fuller Seminary, I was both flattered and terrified. Immediately I was concerned that I had nothing to say that would be of any interest to the Fuller community. However, as I reflected upon this concern, I was reminded of the many fears that God has helped me face since beginning my studies at Fuller. Therefore, I believe that the writing of this article is just another example of God making it possible for me to deal with these fears that are a part of my life.

I began as a part-time student in the School of Theology in 1993. At the rate I am going, my hope is to graduate in the spring of 1996. Around the same time I began my program at Fuller, I joined a group of people attempting to plant a new church in West Los Angeles. This church, the OceanView Community Church, is where I currently serve as Assistant Pastor. The thing that excites me most about my work with OceanView is that it gives me the opportunity to be a part of designing the kind of church that I myself would enjoy attending. My studies at Fuller have given me a lot of very valuable training which I can immediately apply to my work at the church.

It is also true to say that being a part-time student at Fuller has complicated my life. It is as if I have been tossed into the deep end where I face the dilemma of juggling God, church, school and relationships. I realize that this is a common pressure at seminary. It is, in fact, one of the major concerns that almost kept me from coming here. Recently, however, I have experienced God's grace in this area of my life. God has been changing me from the kind of person who is constantly focused on the finish line to one who is learning to enjoy the process of life as it comes.

One of the most significant ways that God has encouraged me here at Fuller is by bringing a lot of wonderful people into my life. I really love the diversity represented here at the seminary. So many people have reached out to me and have shown me a lot of love and acceptance. This is particularly meaningful to me because I am a person with an obvious physical disability and at times I need all the acceptance I can get.

One of my most memorable experiences of this acceptance came through a class called Issues in Disabilities with Dr. Ray Anderson. Not only did this class bring me together with other students with disabilities, but also, through a small group, it brought me into close contact with concerned people without disabilities. I was the only one in my small group who had a disability, and through time I was able to share with this group my own perspectives and fears, and the other members of the group could in turn share with me some of their fears and anxieties in relating with and ministering to people like me. Through this class and many other classes here at Fuller, I have made many friends. It is my hope that these friendships will last long after I graduate.

The academic work load has been difficult for me at times, but I am very thankful for the many ways that my professors have helped me to see things from new and exciting perspectives. I have also appreciated the way they have challenged my theological comfort zones. My time here at Fuller has been a deeply rewarding experience that has helped to shape me in some very positive ways.

"God has been changing me from the kind of person who is constantly focused on the finish line to one who is learning to enjoy the process of life as it comes."
My wife, two daughters and I arrived at LAX at 10:00 pm with four bags to start our new life at Fuller Seminary. After a five hour delay at the airport immigration office, we boarded the shuttle for Pasadena via downtown. We were off to a rough start, but after settling down in guest housing we had a visit from Julia Banks with a potted plant as a welcoming gift. Perhaps this act of kindness to some disoriented strangers was a foreshadowing that Fuller was the right place for our family. Nearly five years later, and a lot of wonderful memories of the love of the Fuller community, we know that God brought us to this place.

Fuller is such a busy and mobile community that at times we fail to see the little acts of kindness manifested all around that are reminders of God's grace and love towards us. The people that leave encouraging messages on our voice mail or by card; the smiling faces of Tammi, Silvia and Jeanne greeting us warmly at their reception areas; the generosity of Ernie Johanson in donating his expertise to the student computer lab; the unsolicited help of Ed and Fred in storing the Catalyst furniture during the recent refurbishment; and the dedication and concern of Hugo Bouse and his overworked staff in the Admissions and Financial Aid Offices.

So many unexpected acts of kindness come our way. Here are a few more that I have observed: the community housing coordinators in their gift of hospitality - Carolyn Bingham has hosted many gracious Tennessee banquets in her apartment; Pat Singleton put on a lunch-time party in her apartment for the entire class, including the professor and teaching assistant; Santos and Susan Yao give gifts of fruit and candy; Suman Aghamkar creates delicious Indian curry and takes it to tired students working on campus; and Dr. and Mrs. Mouw, in the midst of a busy schedule, invite the All Seminary Council and their spouses to a pizza party at their home.

We are surrounded by acts of kindness. Perhaps one of the most touching I witnessed the other day at Higher Grounds. As I stood at the counter to order, I watched Grace Dyrness gently and patiently handle an awkward situation with a homeless person that had stolen some jewelry. I saw in action the lovingkindness of God through Grace to that poor woman.

Let us all be more aware of those around us day by day and look for opportunities to do random acts of kindness. With this in mind, the All Seminary Council would like to suggest to the Fuller community that week six of the spring quarter be declared Random Acts of Kindness Week to continue to strengthen the sense of care and oneness that we already have.

Warm regards in Christ,

Rob Gallagher.

Not once, not twice, but always again

But Jesus came to open my ears to another voice that says, “I am your God, I have molded you with my own hands, and I love what I have made. I love you with a love that knows no limits, because I love you as I am loved. Do not run away from me. Come back to me—not once, not twice, but always again. You are my child. How can you ever doubt that I will embrace you again, hold you against my breast, kiss you and let my hands run through your hair? I am your God—the God of mercy and compassion, the God of pardon and love, the God of tenderness and care. Please do not say that I have given up on you, that I cannot stand you anymore, that there is no way back. It is not true. I so much want you to be close to me. I know all your thoughts. I hear all your words. I see all your actions. And I love you because you are beautiful, made in my own image, an expression of my most intimate love. Do not judge yourself. Do not condemn yourself. Do not reject yourself. Let my love touch the deepest, most hidden corners of your heart and reveal to you your own beauty, a beauty that you have lost sight of, but which will become visible to you again in the light of my mercy. Come, come, let me wipe your tears, and let my mouth come close to your ear and say to you, ‘I love you, I love you, I love you.’”
