Fuller Seminary has become home to quite a number of new faculty and administrators this year! Some have come to fill new positions; others are long-awaited answers to prayer filling existing but empty posts. In this issue, we’d like to introduce you to a few new administrators on campus. Later this quarter, we’ll give you a glimpse of some of our new faculty in all three schools.

Peter Harkema, Vice President for Enrollment Management and Student Services

Many of you may have stumbled upon our new Vice President for Enrollment Management and Student Services while looking for the Parking and Security office! Dr. Peter Harkema has taken up residence in that white building behind the Mail Center. He comes to us all the way from Grand Rapids, Michigan, where he was Vice President for External Relations at Calvin College. He brings most of his family with him (Jill, Peter, and Anna), although his daughter Dawn has remained back in Michigan for college.

Dr. Harkema says his “attraction to Fuller was fairly immediate and compelling,” and he finds Fuller’s multicultural character “immensely exciting.” He will be responsible for Admissions, Financial Aid, the Registrar’s Office, and the Offices of Student Services, Christian Community, Multicultural Concerns and Women’s Concerns. He is thankful for the “opportunity to have a closer working relationship with the directors of all these areas, and I look forward to finding ways of encouraging them in their work.”

Dr. Harkema brings with him valuable skills in enrollment management and administration. His Master’s degree was in Counseling and Student Personnel, and his doctoral work focused on how church-related liberal arts colleges develop African-American student enrollments. Dr. Mouw has shared how Dr. Harkema stood up to the Calvin administration regarding its treatment of African-American students; we have an advocate as well as an administrator joining us! In our interview, Dr. Harkema noted that “one of the comforting things about Here are just a few of the sights we collected from the very successful Orientation for the 95-96 entering class.

- Small group on the mall
- Part of a new Fuller family!
- Professor Mitties McDonald de Champlain and TGU president Amy Arnold
- Barnabas partner Erin Dufault-Hunter
- Trustee Ann Huffman preached during Wednesday's Orientation worship service
- Darin "Picasso" Bowser-Anderson worships through dance

the transition out here has been the friendliness of the Fuller community and the fact that people genuinely care about how we're doing..." We are glad you're here-- welcome, Dr. Harkema!

Jim Guy, Dean of SOP

Another fresh face on campus is Dr. Jim Guy, the School of Psychology's new dean. He is not exactly new to Fuller, as he received his doctorate here in Clinical Psychology in 1981. He went from here to the Northwestern Institute of Psychiatry in Chicago, and then went on to teach for Rosemead, Biola University's psychology program. He was promoted to university-wide administration in 1990, and was a Vice President at Biola from 1993 until coming to Fuller. He and his family have lived in South Pasadena for 13 years. His wife, Margaret, has a private psychotherapy practice of her own, and he has two daughters, telling us, "I love my daughters!"

Several things strike people about Jim Guy. One is his passion for Fuller and for its potential. He told the SEMI, "I don't know of a more exciting place to be! I think...its commitment to intellectual scholarship as well as a passion to be relevant to what's happening in the community and the larger society always puts Fuller right at the crossroads of every issue. I remember as a student that was VERY stimulating, and it's still true." Guy believes Fuller Seminary has a call of sorts to "wrestle with questions the church hesitates to ask but needs to ask."

Jim Guy has an exciting vision for the School of Psychology, as well. He wants, in part, to see the Clinical and Marriage and Family divisions more unified. In this he will be helped by a new administrative structure, in which he has oversight over the entire school but each division has an associate dean with immediate administrative responsibility. Thom Needham continues as associate dean for Marriage and Family, and Winston Gooden was recently promoted to being associate dean for the Clinical division. Other elements of Jim Guy's vision for the SOP are a desire to see Fuller be the "flagship of programs interested in integrating psychology and theology" (which may entail more research in areas like spiritual formation and spiritual direction) and an interest in seeing the School of Psychology "become more relevant to the mental health needs of urban areas, of inner cities...and of emerging countries." Because of these interests, Dr. Guy explains, "partnering with the School of Theology and the School of World Mission makes more sense than ever!" We think so too; welcome, Dr. Guy!

David Stoop, Director of the Psychological Center

Another new-but-not-really-new face in the School of Psychology is Dr. David Stoop, the new director of the Psychological Center. He has been an adjunct at Fuller for many years, and he and his wife presented a Couples' Retreat for the Office of Christian Community last year. As director of the Psychological Center, Dr. Stoop oversees all clinical work and the training of students. There are seventeen different settings where this clinical, hands-on training takes place; three of the main sites are CFAR, I-CAN, and FPFS (ask any Psychology student about these familiar acronyms, or see the Orientation SEMI). Each of these has an on-site director, as well.

Dr. Stoop hopes in his tenure at Fuller to expand the referral base for the Psychological Center through networking with local pastors. He has an advantage in this area, having been on staff at Pasadena Covenant Church several years ago. He also hopes to start an ethnic fathering project, working with African-American and Hispanic communities in Northwest Pasadena and other areas. Dr. Stoop teaches a unique fathering course at Fuller; he hopes to open it up to theology students as well as psychology students. When asked why there are not more 'crossover' courses he cites, in part, "a lack of determination on the part of the students to take the classes...I think if students were to say, 'I really want that class' and were to go after them," more opportunities might arise. Dr. Stoop, welcome!

Bob Freeman, Associate Provost for Continuing and Extended Education

Bob Freeman (Ed.D.[ABD]) is the last of the new administrators we interviewed. He is the Associate Provost for Continuing and Extended Education, which gives him responsibility for the Doctor of Ministry program, Continuing Education, Extended Education, and the Media Center. He is also an instructor for the School of World Mission. Dr. Freeman comes to Fuller from Gordon-Conwell, where he was Director of Programs for its continuing and distance education office, the Ockenga Institute.

Freeman's passion is for making theological education accessible "wherever and whenever people want it." His conviction in this area stems partly from his own experience; he attended seminary from two hours away. He tells us, "It's important to uphold the good quality academic standards and at the same time make it possible for people to study wherever they are, whenever they want to study." He acknowledges that many have seen those two things to be irreconcilable: "there are a lot of important things that take place in the classroom that can't be easily duplicated." However, he is also convinced that if we are very intentional about instructional design, a course taken from a distance can have similar quality to one taken on our main campus. Many extension students have told us there is actually MORE community in our extensions than there is on Fuller's Pasadena campus. In addition, the use of technology such as computer conferencing can ensure communication between the faculty member and the distant student. Dr. Freeman, welcome!

The SEMI welcomes these new administrators to Fuller; we are grateful that you will be sharing your gifts and passion with us!
THE ASC

FROM THE ASC PRESIDENT...

This year’s theme at Fuller is “RECONCILIATION”. We in the ASC are praying that God would have His way with us this year as we attempt to serve you, the student body. Please pray for us as we seek His face on how to do just that. It seems as if we are all being called to reconciliation. We also pray that God would, by His grace, teach us what that looks like.

We have each been elected or appointed to serve you with our lives this year. Please partake of our deep and genuine concern for you as students. It may appear as though one can make it through this place with little or no involvement with others who pass through these grounds, yet we encourage you to ask us for help. We have committed ourselves to serve you throughout the year. We at the ASC are your student government. We are quite different than undergraduate student governments, and the needs of the students we serve are different too. Please check us out. We do not claim to be able to meet all of your needs or even the majority of them, but you might be surprised this year at what we will do.

Academics and performance are not our top priority at the ASC: obeying God and loving you are. Please help us know how we can support your lives in Christ best, as singles, couples, and families. Our offices are in the Catalyst on the first and third floors as well as room in 115 on the first floor of the School of Psychology. We will be blessed to see you.

Our deepest love and care,
Gino Vaccaro

ASC Announcements

“How to Write an Academic Paper”

Are you nervous about writing your first academic paper? OR- Have you been at Fuller for many quarters and still need a few helpful suggestions as to how to successfully draft, write, and format the countless papers assigned to you? The Theology Graduate Union has the answer! On Thursday, October 12, from 5 - 7 pm (location TBA), Fuller’s own Dr. Nancey Murphy will be addressing specific issues such as “How To Write An Academic Paper” as found in her new book, Reasoning and Rhetoric in Religion. PIZZA WILL BE PROVIDED! Dr. Murphy’s book is available from the Fuller Bookstore as well as the TGU office on the third floor of the Catalyst. Call the TGU office at 584-5453 for a special book discount between now and October 12!

FULLER FOLLIES: THE NEXT GENERATION

Announcing the 95-96 Fuller Follies Extravaganza! February 17, 1996 the New and Improved Fuller Follies will return to Fuller Theological Seminary after a one-year absence. Start getting your acts together NOW as time for the show quickly approaches. Keep watching the SEMI for more late-breaking news, procedures and general announcements concerning the show. For more information call Jim Gibson - Fuller Follies Director (ext. 5452 or 792-3364).
FREE SOFTWARE! Now that I have your attention, let me introduce myself to the new students. I am Michael Beetley, an MA student in the SOT, and your devoted Bible software reviewer. This year, as last, I will be reviewing Bible study software for Mac and IBM computers.

Returning students, particularly Mac users, please note that I put Mac first. Last year, IBM software had a bit of a monopoly on these columns. Let me assure you, it is my hope to present a more balanced selection this year. Specifically, I am hoping to present reviews of MacBible and aCCordance software for the Mac, and Logos 2.0 for the IBM and compatibles, as well as some others along the way. Mac users in particular (IBM'ers too), if you are aware of some obscure but very useful Bible software, please drop me a note in box 290. I try to keep aware of as much as possible, but I have been known to miss things at times. (gasp!)

I'm also keeping my ear to the ground for any new developments in Bible software which you should be aware of, and I'll try and keep you abreast of important information as it comes available. For IBM and compatibles, if time permits, I may try and do a piece on new software for Windows 95 once it starts becoming available, and if I get a chance to check the compatibility of anything I reviewed last year with Win95, I'll let you know the results.

Which brings me to another note, and a change from last year's format. I'm going to try and present a line at the end of every review which gives basic system requirements for the software being reviewed. It will need to be very short, and so will be highly abbreviated. You might want to hang on to this column to help with the abbreviations. They will include: (C)omputer, which tells the minimum computer needed to run the software (i.e., 386, 486, Mac Plus, Mac IIx, etc.); (S)ystem, which tells the minimum operating system needed (i.e., System 7.0, Win3.1, DOS 5.0, etc.); (R)AM, which tells the minimum amount of memory your computer must have; (H)ard drive space, again the minimum amount of hard drive space needed for the software. Note that these will be abbreviated as much as possible, so if you see, for instance: C:MacPlus, S:6.0, R:2MB, H:4MB; this tells you that you need at least a Mac Plus with System 6.0, 2 megabytes memory, and 4 megabytes hard drive space to run this particular software item. Similarly for IBM, you might see: C:386, S:W3.1, R:4MB, H:10MB; telling you that you need a 386 computer running Windows 3.1, with 4 megabytes memory and 10 megabytes free hard drive space. These will be minimums: if your system is more powerful than what is listed, you should be fine. But if it fails to meet the listed requirements, you had better save your money.

I'm looking forward to giving you all the latest scoop on Bible software this year. If you have questions, please drop me a note in Box 290. I'll be happy to get back with you. And new students: if you are too impatient to wait for this year's reviews, try and track down some copies of the SEMI from last year. That should keep you happy for a little while. Shalom!

Fall Opportunities

- Prayer groups
Anyone heading up a prayer group this Fall, please contact us here at the OCC. We would like to keep a list of all the groups, where they meet, the main focus, and the contact person. Please call at 584-5322.

- Connections '95
This two day retreat will be a "coming home" experience as we connect with God, others, and ourselves. Workshops will be led on topics all the way from "seminary stressors" to "art and spirituality". There will also be time to fellowship and build real community. Everyone in the Fuller Community is welcome. Mark your calendar for September 29 & 30.

- Day of Prayer - DATE CHANGE
As this Spring's Day of Prayer was a rich blessing for our community, begin praying now for our Fall Day of Prayer. All offices will be closed and classes will be cancelled 10am to 1pm on Wednesday, October 25, for worship, prayer and community meal.

- Couples Garden
Marriage is like a garden. It takes a lot of care - thoughtful pruning, regular watering, careful feeding, and periodic weeding - to grow a relationship of beauty, satisfaction, and pleasure. The Couples Garden is a place where you can do that. The Fall dates will be October 7 and November 4. Brochures with more information are available at the OCC.

Future Events

- Gift of Sex Seminar
Cliff and Joyce Penner are teaching a seminar on January 12-13, and it's a great opportunity to learn the way God views sex and how we can also do the same. The chance to hear them at such a small cost may not come again, so don't miss this opportunity. Both couples and singles are welcome.

The Office of Christian Community may be reached at (518) 584-5322, or FTS Box 243, and is located on the second floor of the Catalyst building.

All-Seminary Chapel

This Wednesday, October 4, our guest speaker is Dr. William Pannell, Professor of Preaching and the Dean of Chapel. Dr. Pannell is a gifted preacher and promises a message which will challenge us in our faith. Please join us for coffee and fellowship following the worship service. The Wednesday All-Seminary Chapel meets at the First Congregational Church at the corner of Los Robles and Walnut at 10 am.

On Thursday, October 5, our guest speakers will be our ASC President Gino Vaccaro and his wife Cesli. They are both students in the School of Psychology. This will be a time to get a glimpse of the personal side of this dynamic couple. The Thursday All-Seminary Chapel meets in Travis Auditorium at 10 am.

Win bookstore certificate!

Finish this caption and WIN! "It is easier for _________ than for the Director of Student Services to fit through the eye of a needle." Send submissions to the Box OSS or, better yet, drop by during the Kreysler Hall Open House on October 3 from 10:00 until 1:00!
Free Therapy
The Division of Marriage and Family is offering 10 free counseling sessions, starting the first week of the Fall quarter, to engaged or married couples and families who wish to improve their communication and interaction patterns. For more information, call Susan Kalnay at (818) 584-5344. Space is limited; call to reserve your time. Offer not available to MFT students.

F.O.C.U.S.
A group for and by Fuller wives. Join us for friendship, support, Bible study and fun! Thursdays, 7 pm in the SOP lounge. Call Julie at 795-3428.

Conversation: Beijing and Beyond
The Office of Women’s Concerns will host a discussion about the recent U.N. Women’s Conference in Beijing. Join us on the second floor of Kressyler Hall at 5:15 on Wednesday, October 4, or at 12 noon on Thursday, October 5 to converse about the conference.

SOP Multicultural Concerns Committee Conference
Join us for a life changing experience at the fourth annual SOP-MC3 conference, Empowering Others: Counseling and Ministry in Cross-Cultural Contexts. Travis auditorium, October 7, 9:00 am to 4:30 pm. For more information, call 584-5508 for Esther or Maria.

Women’s Fall Gathering
All women students, staff, faculty, administrators and spouses are invited to a Women’s Fall Gathering on October 10 from 12 - 1 pm in Payton 101 B. Hendrika Vande Kemp from the School of Psychology will be speaking. Bring your lunch; Women’s Concerns will supply drinks and dessert.

Pray for Muslims!
Don’t just study Islam. . . pray for Muslims! Join us Sundays at 7 pm at 47 N. Craig Ave, #4, Pasadena. For info call Gail Schlosser 683-8685.

Presbyterians Unite!!
Mondays, 10 am, Travis Auditorium. Come start the week right with fellowship, prayer, worship, & teaching. Rumor has it there may even be snacks.

Incredible Summer Opportunity
YouthWorks is an exciting, young, youth missions organization - we run mission trips for high school youth groups at sites around the U.S. and in Mexico (in ’96: Pine Ridge Reservation (SD), Blackfeet Reservation (MT), Appalachia (WV), inner-city Minneapolis (MN), and Juarez (Mexico)). And we want you! Tony Jones, M.Div. ’93, will be on campus on Tuesday, October 10 to conduct interviews for Site Directors. A sign-up sheet is placed in the lobby of Carrell Hall.

The Film Festival is Coming!
Join the Fuller Community for four days of spiritually-enriching films about reconciliation. Films will include 1986’s The Mission (which is worth seeing for the soundtrack alone) and The Quarrel, winner of several film awards. Mark your calendars now for October 26-29 and watch for more details!

Creative Processes in Ministry
Kim Gosney, M.Div., will present a Ministry Enrichment Seminar on Monday, October 30, from 1:00 - 2:30 pm in Payton 101. This hands-on workshop will lead you through various art media. Art has power to speak to you as well as to all God’s people personally; the workshop will help you pray, teach, lead retreats, and worship in more expressive ways. For more information on this seminar, contact the Office of Field Education, (818)584-5377.

Call for Singers
Attention all musicians! We have a wonderful choir program here at Fuller. Rehearsals are Wednesdays, 11 am, following chapel in the First Congregational Church choir room. Choral scholarships are available. Call Choir Director Dr. Janet Harms at 909-394-9990 to sign up.

Walked on Water Lately?
Not many of us have. But then, Christ didn’t teach that our lives would be full of walking-on-water opportunities, but of life-sharing opportunities! International Student Services needs your help in the following two areas.

1. Household Items. (Limited to the following) New or used in good clean condition: Pots and pans for kitchen; sheets and pillow cases for full-sized beds.
2. Friends and Neighbors. Our newly-arrived students need friends and families to help them learn their way around our culture. They are also alone, away from their families and friends, and often lonely. You can help by being a friend to one of them or to a family. The rewards are many: cross-cultural friendships, prayer partnerships, knowledge about customs and foods, and giving a cup of water (or coffee) in God’s Name!

Please call us at 584-5396 or come by the International Student Services Office. These needs are immediate and urgent!

Summer News Coverage
Fuller has had quite an eventful summer! If you’re interested in reading about summer events affecting the Fuller community, stop by the SEMI office and check out our two summer issues.

Free Group Therapy
The Clinical Psychology Division is offering a new 10-week therapy group to help people deal with issues of shyness, shame, fear and embarrassment. It is free -- in exchange for your participation in the research aspects of the program. For more information, call The Psychological Center: 818-584-5555.

S.U.P.P.O.R.T.
All student wives are invited to the S.U.P.P.O.R.T. Bible study and fellowship meetings held every Weds., beginning October 4, 9 - 11:30 am at Pasadena Presby. Church, Senior High room (corner of Colorado and Madison). Kathleen Hart, Chaplain to Student Wives, teaches and leads this group. Free childcare provided. Contact Karen Thayer, 793-8826.
