It’s Election Time!

Don’t forget to vote—during Registration Week, all students who were enrolled at Fuller this past year are eligible to vote for the ASC president and vice president, and the president and vice president (or co-presidents) of their respective Graduate Unions. Following are the candidates’ statements. Please read them carefully and make an informed decision about who you choose to represent your interests next year!

ASC President

Trudy Dumont

If there’s one thing I’ve learned this year as vice president of the Theology Graduate Union, it’s this: we need unity. We need the unity of love in our three schools, the unity of community as brothers and sisters in Christ at Fuller, and unity of purpose as we seek to be God’s representatives in a shattered world.

I am running for ASC president because I have a vision for wholeness and unity between the ASC, faculty and students, and administrators and staff.

I believe the ASC can take an active role in bringing joy during next year’s “year of Jubilee” (the 50th year anniversary of Fuller). We can begin to achieve unity by sponsoring student mentoring programs in the Schools of Theology and World Mission, working with the Office of Christian Community to offer morning devotional prayers, and establishing links with local churches and students during the early weeks of the fall quarter.

Maria McDowell

“If...I beg you to lead a life worthy of the calling to which you have been called...bearing with one another in love, making every effort to maintain the unity of the Spirit...” Eph 4:1-3

Unity amidst our diversity and the integration of theology and faith are the foremost challenges we face. Only in mutual encouragement will we create a place where we can pursue spiritual formation. As the ASC president, I will work with the Graduate Unions encouraging interaction and relationship among students in different programs. Administratively, I plan to continue this year’s initiatives regarding structural unity between the schools.

I have experience as the ASC Administrator, and have served with administration, faculty and staff on the Spiritual Life Council and the Academic Integrity Task Force. I have also served on the Trustee Committee for Strategic Alliances, and participated in planning the Homosexuality Panel Discussion.

Thanks for your vote!

ASC Vice President

Rob Hines

As ASC vice president my goal is to build upon the positive energy generated by this year’s All Seminary Council. As the 1996-97 sports coordinator and a member of the ASC Cabinet, I was privileged to have been involved in several events and decisions that have enriched our campus.

This is an exciting time at Fuller; significant changes have begun to take shape throughout campus. As ASC vice president I will be an advocate for continued change and growth within our community as well as within the seminary as a whole. I especially desire create an environment where students can experience and benefit from the rich diversity we have here on campus. As ASC vice president I will be an instigator for building community through increased participation, so that students from all three schools can interact and develop meaningful relationships.

The “Japanese Schindler”
By Sandra Furukawa, Limited Enrollment Student, Housing Office staff member

Perhaps you have heard of Oskar Schindler, a German businessman who saved more than a thousand Jews from the Nazi gas chambers during the Holocaust. In fact, a few years ago some guy named Steven Spielberg made a long, ol’ movie filmed almost entirely in black-and-white about him and people were impressed with the movie (it may have won a few Oscars), that guy Spielberg (maybe you’ve heard of him), some of the actors, and Mr. Schindler himself.

But have you heard of a Mr. Chiune (also known as Sempo) Sugihara, the Japanese consul in Lithuania who disobeyed direct orders from his government and issued visas to more than 6,000 Jews, saving them from the Holocaust? Few people have, for after the war when he and his wife and two little sons returned to Japan, Mr. Sugihara was stripped of his diplomatic role and title. (And this was after they had been in a Soviet prison camp for 21 months.)

Well, this guy I know (nope, not Spielberg) and a bunch of his friends and their friends and their friends and so on decided that it was about time a movie was made about Mr. Sugihara so that people could learn the story of a man who, when asked why he defied his government and issued the visas, replied that it was the right thing to do and that he had to answer to a Higher Authority: God in heaven.

At a 1995 gala tribute honoring her and her late husband, Mrs. Sugihara shared that it wasn’t until some 28 years after the war that one of the survivors was successful in his quest to find and thank her husband for what he had done. This man searched out Mr. Sugihara in Japan to tell him what a noble deed he had done for the Jews in saving them from certain death. She shared with the audience that, until that time, her husband had become a pale, quiet, and unhappy man. However, after this Jewish gentleman’s visit, his color returned and he began to smile again.

Through the volunteer efforts of hundreds of people, the movie, Visas and Virtue, was made and has just recently been completed. It will be shown for just two weekends at the Laemmle Sunset 5 Theaters, and I just wanted to urge you to go if you can. I haven’t seen the movie yet myself—I’ll be going sometime that weekend, too—but I’m pretty sure you’ll be impressed.

In a January 1994 Reader’s Digest article, Igo Feldblum, a Jewish physician who had been a boy of 12 when given a Sugihara visa, reflects, “A brave man does things which are difficult to do. A hero does things which seem impossible to do. He [Sugihara] acted even though he knew he would gain nothing from it.”

Hope to see you there!
Anita Herrera

It's time to empower students to extend community to one another by creating an environment of community and fun during the hours they are already on campus. The School of Psychology needs more chairs, and tables outside, a little music or entertainment once in a while, and definitely some food!! (healthy stuff, not from a machine). Let's create some options for ourselves before, after, and in-between classes, other than walking to and from the parking lot. This is a pivotal time for the School of Psychology, as we merge the Clinical and MFT programs. As we become a single institution, let's be a unified community first.

Clinical Co-president

Growing Psychology Out Of The Cross

Jason Holdeman

The current PGU has made great strides toward improving relations between faculty, staff, and students in the School of Psychology. They have pushed for changes in the curriculum, the development of an M.A. degree in Psychology, the creation of a resource book, and the quarterly community meetings. In addition to continuing these programs, as Clinical co-president, I would like to address some other issues. I have heard several complaints about the "dryness" of spiritual life within the School of Psychology. I would like to develop a spiritual-growth program for our community, which could potentially include discipleship partners and SOP Bible studies. I would also like to create an integration group where we can discuss the implications of our faith for our practice. Some of our colleagues have proposed asking our professors to write and share their integration statements, and I would push for this to become a reality. Finally, I would like to foster student relations with local practitioners who would be willing to serve as mentors and connections outside the Fuller Community. These are some of the ideas I have for next year. However, I feel that the most important role of the PGU is that of student advocate. How can we best serve YOU?

School of World Mission Graduate Union

President

Chul (Tim) Chang

It's hard, to say the least, for seminaries to achieve all (or fully) their objectives and concerns, e.g. academic excellence, close spiritual community. At our institution, we are very fortunate to have All-Seminary Council and Graduate Unions (ASC/GU) to represent the three schools and the "voice" of the students. For this coming year, it would be an honor for me to take part in ASC and to work with the SWM GU.

If I was to be elected as president of the SWM GU, these would be some of the top goals I would pursue: (1) work closely with ASC and other GUs to speak and represent the current needs of our student body; (2) find inexpensive, fun, and spiritual ways for students in the SWM to feel closer with one another and SWM professors; and (3) provide more informal learning opportunities in regard to the Church's main task of World Evangelization.

Ed Wheeler

Goals and ideas for the ASC/PGU:

My goal is to make the next year a richer experience for my fellow students and to represent students' needs and concerns to the administration and faculty. First, we enrich our lives by enjoying community through opportunities to worship, grow, and play together. This year I organized a hike, rollerblading expeditions and beach parties for my class. With the PGU I helped set up a textbook exchange. Academic work is consuming, but we are enriched by helping each other and by fellowship. Second, this is a time of change in the SOP starting with the merging of the Clinical and MFT faculty. The administration and faculty value student input, and it should be accurate and relevant to inform their deliberations. My business and consulting experience will also add value. This year I served as MFT-PGU secretary and in Chapel Choir. I have a proven heart to serve you and Fuller.

Jean-Paul A. Heldt

In 1997-98, I endeavor to: encourage fellowship and student interaction during and between classes; facilitate spiritual growth and personal development; foster greater dialogue, interaction, integration, & interdependence among/ between schools; honor the unique and common needs of single and married students. Further goals include: to strive for excellence in SWM education through increased gender and global diversity; to translate holistic ministry and mission into all our endeavors and pursuits; to review and improve both doctoral seminars and the mentoring process.

I bring to this task 15 years of international mission/community development (Asia, Africa, Latin America); training and experience as a physician, public health and international management; and an MA in Cross-cultural Studies.

I believe in a holistic and integrated view of human nature; a balanced approach to life and work based on the biblical concept of the Sabbath; a Christ-centered life purpose and service-centered focus; a problem-solving method based on a win-win approach; last but not least a teamwork approach maximizing individual talents and God-given spiritual gifts.
Keng-Hua “Peter” Ng
My Goals and Ideas for SWM GU:
Being the SWM GU president for 1996-1997 gives me insights in understanding the role of the GU and the issues important to the SWM students. During my tenure as the SWM GU president, I discovered that the key role of the president is not to organize more activities for the already very busy students. Rather, it is to advocate for the needs and concerns of the students. There are many issues raised that need following up in the coming year. This is the main reason and purpose for my running for another year of the presidency. My main goals for the coming year are: 1) To reduce the financial burden of the students; 2) To increase interaction and integration between the faculties and students of the three schools; 3) To spend more time talking to students to understand what are their needs, concerns and how they are coming along in their studies.

SWM GU Vice President
Building each other up by reaching out to each other through...
Myoungsun Kim
I have been working as vice president of the SWM GU in 1996-97. I tried my best to be an advocate for School of World Mission students as their representative. It was a great experience. I met many SWM students and discussed life at Fuller in SWM. I also interacted with faculty, staff, and students by planning and working on ASC and SWM activities. I thank God that I could do it with passion and prayer.

I am willing to run for SWM vice president again. My vision is for all of the SWM students to build each other up by reaching out to each other through prayer, sharing and spending life together. As vice president, I am sure I can be an advocate through the experience I have had. I would like to contribute my time and energy to make the vision happen among SWM students.

Caroline Swartz
In SWM, we have tremendous diversity representing numerous cultures and experiences. As SWM-GU president, I would like to pull together more to capitalize on our diversity, and use it to build up greater community. I also feel it is crucial to consistently advocate our needs and concerns before the faculty and administration. Being a career missionary, I am concerned as well about the adjustment and success of my colleagues, both internationals and ex-patriates, coming to Fuller. I spent several years working and living in several countries, recently with International Teams in post-communist Europe. As communications coordinator for the region, my job also included working with other leadership to develop our missionaries and build up our teams. I have seen how concerted effort to come together can make great things happen! Our time here at Fuller is a blessing, and together we can make it even better.

It's a SEMI-Survey!
Since it is election time on campus, we thought we'd conduct a little poll of our own. Our publishing year is almost at a close, and we'd like to hear what you have to say about how things went this year. Please take a little bit of time right now to fill out this survey, and when you've completed it, return it to the SEMI at Box 055, or bring it in person to our office on the second floor of the Catalyst building. Thanks!

Where do you currently pick up the SEMI?
- A “Green Box” — Catalyst, Garth, Psych, Payton
- Higher Grounds
- The Library
- Other (where?)

Is there a better place for any of the “Green Boxes”?

What did you find most helpful about the SEMI this year?

What did you find the least helpful?

What do you like the most about the SEMI?

What do you like least?

Don't Forget Side 2! U
Joelle B. Beller

As an SOT Academic Advisor, I know what it means to be both an advocate for students and a representative of the Fuller faculty and administration. As TGU president I hope to use the skills and experience I have gained as an advisor to facilitate building stronger relations between the students, faculty, and administration at Fuller. I do not have a personal agenda in running for TGU president. I come only with a set of values I would maintain if I were elected. These include a commitment to keeping a high standard of theological education; a commitment to maintaining a level of integrity as a member of the Fuller community and institution; a commitment to seeking ways to build up better leaders in Christ at Fuller; and a commitment to maintaining open dialogue with students and faculty when it comes to individual and corporate concerns.

Sonhye Kim

In a seminary setting, the students are mainly equipped intellectually for their current/future ministries. And often, we automatically assume that we are also emotionally and spiritually well-grounded. Unfortunately this doesn’t reflect the reality of our situation on the Fuller campus. Students need well-balanced training for the manifold ministries of our Lord, and yet spiritual growth and emotional support seems to be lacking.

My goal is to better equip the student body by promoting unity, love in action, and servanthood on our campus. I believe that this desire is of the Lord and what He wants the Fuller community to become. Unity, love, and servanthood are invaluable qualities that we, as ministers of Christ, need to possess. I want the Fuller campus to be the training ground for development of such characteristics in specific and practical ways. The needs of the seminarians need to be met and this is plausible when we minister and build up each other.

Juhie Tikvah Shinn

My goal as the TGU president is to enable students to take advantage of the rich resources at Fuller. This will be accomplished by focusing on the current modes of communication and the need for their improvement. As president, I will be a well-informed advocate for the SOT students. I will rely upon the knowledge, experience, and positive relationships gained with the faculty and administration in my work as the ASC Women’s Concerns Committee Chair this year. If elected, I will hold regular office and coffee hours, providing opportunities for students to express their ideas and concerns. My purpose in doing so is to ensure that students needs are not only heard but also addressed.

My commitment to dialogue and passion for advocacy are evident in my work as part of the ASC. I want to dedicate that commitment and passion to you as your TGU president.

TGU vice president

No candidates as of press-time, nominations will be taken through Monday, May 12.
Movie reviewers don't normally get involved in meta-comments about the process of going to the movies, but the recent addition to my family has me in something of a bind as far as free time goes, so I decided to review the Academy Six theaters instead of any particular movie.

The Academy Six theaters, located on Colorado just east of Lake, used to be the second-run, and even third-run, discount theater in Pasadena. Once a film has made its $100 million, it might move to a smaller theater where folks pay less to see a film which has been out for a month or two. When I arrived in Pasadena, six days a week, you could trot down to the Academy and see a double feature for $2. Wednesdays, you could get in for just a buck.

Of course, the projection was bad, and the prints were broken or scratched. You could see where someone had thrown a cola at the screen, and the floor made suspicious sounds as you walked on the gray-painted concrete. The concessions were often small, of poor quality, and overpriced, to be eaten with an audience that was boisterous, talkative, or bored, on seats that were non-existent, chewing-gum booby-trapped, or simply uncomfortable. One had to be very careful about the restrooms! The Academy Six was the low-admission, low-maintenance theater. There was a reason the place was nicknamed "The Stickyfoot Theater."

Recently, the Academy closed for several months, and new carpet, neon, and lighting was installed. The broken seats were repaired, and all the seats were cleaned (though not all replaced, unfortunately). The concession stand looks very nice; they even sell ice cream treats now! The quality of the popcorn increased well beyond the packing material that they once served, and everything you can see when you walk in is clean and inviting. Further, the films seem to have moved away from the big action adventure fare and more toward the "Art House" films. I was unable to get an official at The Colorado or the Esquire to verify this claim, but since Academy films are being advertised at those two art houses as "Now Showing at the Academy Theater," I suspect that there is an arrangement, if not outright ownership, of the Academy.

While the quality of the Academy has increased, so has the price of admission. Long-gone are the days of $1 double-features. Expect to spend $5 getting in, but you will certainly find very fine independent and foreign films, along with the occasional money-maker keeping the Academy Six theater a friend of student budgets. Enjoy the show!

Alzheimer's Day Care Program to Celebrate 15th Anniversary

The Community Assistance Program for Seniors (CAPS) will celebrate its fifteenth anniversary with a special program on Friday, May 16. The event will begin at 9 a.m. at Trinity Presbyterian Church, 3740 E. Sierra Madre Boulevard.

Sponsored by the Center for Aging Resources at Fuller Seminary and the California Department of Aging, CAPS is an Alzheimer’s day care and resource center. It is the only social day care program for individuals with Alzheimer’s disease and related disorders in the San Gabriel Valley. A non-profit program, it operates Monday through Friday on the campus of Trinity Presbyterian Church.

“This event will provide us with an opportunity to hear the most current information about Alzheimer’s disease treatment and research,” says David Wu, CAPS program director. “It will also be a time for us to thank the many capable staff and generous members of the community who have supported us over the past 15 years.”

Registration begins at 9 a.m. A complimentary brunch will be provided. Participants can visit resource tables and have an opportunity to win door prizes. For information or reservations, call (818) 351-5427.

Whose Car Am I?

The owner of the gigantic, way-cool van from last week's SEMI is none other than the Office of Christian Community's Cathy Schaller!

Speaking of vans, have you seen these twins on campus?

Call for Travis Award Papers

The purpose of the Travis Award is to recognize and promote scholarly work explicitly related to the integration of psychology and theology. The award is named after the late Lee Edward Travis, first dean of Fuller's Graduate School of Psychology, and has been presented annually since its establishment by the Psychology Graduate Union in 1974.

Papers may be submitted into one of two categories: 1) theoretical concentration, and 2) application of experimental study. All persons submitting papers must be currently enrolled in Fuller Theological Seminary. Students from all three schools are encouraged to submit papers. One award of $150 will be awarded for the winning paper in each of the two categories.

All students interested in submitting papers should pick up further information from the campus kiosks, or see Aeri at the front desk of the School of Psychology, or call her at (818)584-5500. The deadline for paper submission is Friday, May 16 at 5 p.m.

CHAPEL

Come and join us this and every Wednesday at the First Congregational Church at 10 a.m. for a time of worship. This week, May 14, we will be honored to have the Moderator of the Presbyterian Church, U.S.A., John Buchanan, give a special message.

The Thursday Chapel meets in Travis Auditorium at 10 a.m. and this week will feature a message from Betty-Sue Brewster, a School of World Mission faculty member. There will also be a time of praise and worship led by the Chapel Worship Team.
This section of the SEMI is for the announcement of events or services not directly offered by a Fuller office or organization. For information about rates, contact the SEMI at (818)584-5430. Note: Each person is responsible for checking on the quality and type of service before contracting or using it. The SEMI and Office of Student Services do not personally recommend or guarantee any of the services listed.
